Biographical/Historical note

Dr. Lawrence Neale Jones was born on April 24, 1921 to Eugene Wayman and Rose Bruce Jones in Moundsville, West Virginia. Jones's father owned a grocery store in his hometown. Jones graduated from West Virginia State College in 1942. After serving in the military during World War II, he entered the University of Chicago and earned a master's degree in American History in 1948. Jones continued his education, earning a bachelor of divinity degree from Oberlin College's graduate Theology School in 1956, and then his Ph.D. in African American Church History from Yale University in 1961. After receiving his doctorate, Jones served as Dean of the Chapel at Fisk University in Nashville, Tennessee. While he served at Fisk, he worked with students who were fighting against racial injustice during the Civil Rights Movement and counseled those who participated in the sit-in protests. He was the first African American to serve as Dean of Faculty and Acting President of Union Theological Seminary. Jones's last appointment was as Dean of Howard University's Divinity School, a position he held for 16 years. He published well into his eighties, including his book titled, African Americans and the Christian Churches, 1619-1860. Jones passed away on December 7, 2009.
