

Little Man

Man's ingenuity is so everlasting that we fail often to realize his dependency. Each hour brings a new revelation; the mystery of today becomes the history of to-morrow. And all the while we are deceiving ourselves and assuming blindly that we are doing a great thing, when we are only stumbling upon the secrets of nature.

A few days ago President Wilson touched an electric button in his office. Four minutes later, according to official calculation, the last barrier in "the big ditch" which prevented the union of the waters of the two oceans, was blown away. Were it not an actual fact, no one would believe that these two happenings—four thousand miles apart—had the slightest relation. Even admitting it is true, the fact is almost too wonderful for the average mind to grasp.

Such demonstrations of the infinite though scarcely appreciated resources of the earth we are permitted to dwell upon, strike us so dumb with wonder and amazement, that we are left hopelessly unable even to think. But its effect is only momentary; we rise and pursue the unknown, floating over our "sovereignty" and forgetting that:

"We are no other than a moving row
Of Magic Shadow-shapes that come and go.
'Round with the Sun-illumined Lantern held,
In Midnight by the Master of

Mr. Hunton Speaks at the Y. M. C. A.

On Sunday afternoon, October twelfth, the Y. M. C. A. met in the usual place for its third regular gathering of the college year. At this meeting Mr. Hunton, Secretary of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations, highly entertained the body with a very interesting address.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Hunton briefly reviewed the work of both the city and the student organizations for the past year, and showed that much progress had been made and that the outcome was very encouraging. He said that one of the prominent features of the Y. M. C. A. was the Conference of the World's Student Confederation which convened last June at Lake Mohonk in the vicinity of the beautiful Catskill Mountains of New York. Of this conference Mr. Hunton gave such an explicit account that those who heard him could not help but feel that it was a decided success, and a great awakening in the whole Y. M. C. A. world.

The address was indeed a rare treat to all who were present.
His remarks served as an inspiration, and an incentive to awaken in the members of the Howard association a deeper concern about the work of the Y. M. C. A.

Students of Howard Send Expression of Sympathy to United States Commissioner of Education

At a recent mass meeting, the students of Howard gave expression of their sympathy caused by the death of the son of Hon. Philander Claxton. Also, the following letter was the outcome of the meeting:

Hon. Philander C. Claxton,
U. S. Commissioner of Education, City.

Dear Sir:
We have recently heard the sad news of the death of your beloved son, Robert Edward. In view of that fact, we are taking this means of expressing our sorrow at your loss.

The occasion of death is always a sad one, particularly in the case of a promising youth.

The Y. W. C. A. Enjoy Echoes From The World’s Student Federation Held At Lake Mohonk, N. Y.

A very interesting program was rendered by the Y. W. C. A. Sunday evening, Oct. 12, 1913. Miss Sarah N. Meriwether, the advisory member of the Howard Y. W. C. A., graphically outlined the Lake Mohonk Conference which she attended in behalf of the University. The most interesting feature, however, of Miss Meriwether’s presentation was the fact that she supplemented her talk with appropriate illustrations in the form of booklets and views.

As a part of the program, also, music, which was sung at the Lake Mohonk Conference, was rendered by the members of the association; and Miss Eulalia Lane fittingly gave the synopsis of a paper, read before the Lake Mohonk Conference, by Miss Conde, senior student Secretary at the Training School for Secretaries in New York City. The entire program was enjoyed by all.

College of Arts and Sciences Holds Thrilling Meeting

(Heard Over From Last Issue)

Never before in the history of Howard, has there been called together in the name of the College of Arts and Sciences an assembly of students more numerous in attendance, more lively in spirit and more significant to the educational world than the one called together by Dean K. Miller, after Chapel on October the second. On looking out upon the mass of spry and brilliant collegians, the Dean said, "The group is inspiring." Seniors and Juniors, who had been in Howard from preparatory days, said to one another, "The greatest meeting of my Howard life," and indeed, all present, intuitively felt and understood the meaning of the meeting.

This was the first gathering of College for the year, Dean K. Miller used it as an informal meeting of welcome. On beginning, the Dean said, "I bring words of greeting, and extend to you all welcome." To this, shower of applause filled the Chapel after which, the Dean, seemingly-stimulated, spoke in terse terms upon the esprit de corps of Arts and Sciences and counselled the upper classes to be considerate with the lower classes. Here, enthusiasm reigned again; for the Sophomores exclaimed that they would be considerate with the Freshmen and the Freshmen retaliated that the Sophomores would only try.

After the Sophomore-Freshman philippic bout, Dean Miller spoke several minutes longer and concluded his short but memorable welcoming speech by saying, "Young men have the strength of giants, but use it like gentlemen. Young women, have the strength of the Amazons, but use it like ladies." Filled with the new spirit of Arts and Sciences and set on making this a preeminently successful school year, the bulk of sturdy, forward collegians withdrew gayly from chapel.

Receives Message of Death of Mrs. S. M. Newman

Just as the JOURNAL is about to leave the press, we receive message from the President's Residence making known the death of Mrs. S. M. Newman, the wife of President Newman. The Printing Office, therefore, along with the other departments of the university, closes its doors from this Thursday afternoon until Monday morning which necessitates the late appearance of the JOURNAL of this week. Notwithstanding this last moment on the press, the JOURNAL sends out expression of regret and sympathy occasioned by the death of Mrs. Newman. A formal expression will appear in the next issue.

How to Get Your Money's Worth

Editorial

"Get your money's worth" by subscribing for the Journal now; do not wait until election time at the end of school.

The Journal wishes it clearly understood that the students of the University are cordially invited to contribute to its columns. Out of fourteen hundred students, there should come Journal material in abundance. At present, however, only a very few students take part in the work. Remember, students, that the Journal, with its splendid opportunity for training in journalism, welcomes your work.

Unquestionably, the celebrations of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation held throughout the country, are bringing about intrinsic good to the American Nation. Through these celebrations, invaluable facts concerning the Negro are inevitably revealed through which the Negro may know himself better and thus be enabled to make better progress and also may furnish convincing evidence to the people of the country at large that he is unmistakably a worthy and commendable party of the nation.

The Golden Jubilee Emancipation Celebration, just closed at Atlantic City, New Jersey, has certainly done its share of good to the Negro and to the nation. Above every thing else, this celebration brought about a revelation of the exceptional ability of the Negro in composing and interpreting music.

The "Grid-iron" men are now in full practice; and each man of the squad is putting himself at stake for the white and blue. Rain or sunshine, the men faithfully show up for the early morning practice and go through the rigorous workout judiciously and gently, delt them by the Coach. These men are steeped in love for Howard; they gladly endure scars and injuries for their Alma Mater; and they mean to preserve the tradition and prestige of the Howard banner.

Now then, on thinking of the loyalty of these foot-ball players and of their unyielding efforts "to bring home the bacon," the question inevitably comes up; are these men given every incentive and every means of support that can possibly be given them by the student body. "Get your thinking caps on", students, and give immediate and serious consideration to this vital question; for Howard's victory depends largely upon the answer to this question.

The yell-masters are working effectively on the spirit and enthusiasm, and the students readily join in with the yell-masters. But this does not answer the question fully—certainly not according to Howard's method of doing things. What about the training table? At present, this is the only lacking element in our scheme for success. Nevertheless, arrangements for a training table for the foot-ball team will soon be undertaken. Every person, then, who wishes for the usual Howard victory, will certainly rally to the cause of the training table.

Prof. Gregory—"Mr. A. L. Taylor, does literature differ with regard to section?"

Taylor—"Yes sir, the literature of a mountainous region differs from that of the lowlands."

Prof. G.—"How? Is it rocky?"

T.—"No sir, but I think it's more lofty."

Received a good drenching from The Tempest.
They entered a house, hung their coats on a nail,
And while there they related a sad Winter's Tale.
They stayed until the Twelfth Night—the storm had ceased its terrors.
They made Much Ado About Nothing which proved A Comedy of Errors.
Anthony and Cleopatra then drew near,
While a courier shouted out: Julius Caesar.
Next came Othello and his friend Inago too,
Which reminded me of the Taming of the Shrew.
The Merry Wives of Windsor were seen to appear
Escorted by King John, King Henry and King Lear.
Richard III cried, "My soul's in arms. I'm eager for the fray; A horse a horse, my kingdom for a horse", I heard him say.
Next came Shylock the wily Jew, who demanded a pound of flesh for his treasure,
But Macbeth cried: "You shall have Measure for Measure."
I jumped from my bed with a start and a scream,
And found it was only a Midsummer Night's Dream."

Progress On The Gridiron

Some of the most excellent team work is now being done by our men in their early morning try-outs. The colder the days become the more spirit do they manifest in their practice. The scrimmages have begun to seem like real games. The large number of candidates insure an opportunity for selecting the most formidable squad imaginable.

Most of the "Old Reliable" are back, and are getting into fine form. Among them we are glad to mention "Dr. Beamon" whose worth as a center is well known; Frank Forbes, the "Speed Fiend"; Captain McClelland, Carter, and Dowdell, noted linemen; and Slaughter and Gilmore, ends. Merchant, the star in last year's Shaw game, as left halfback will soon be upon the field and is expected to be in better form than ever. Brannon, Brown, Stratton, Grinnage, Lafayette, George, Brice, Young and Davis promise to be better than ever. Brannon, Brown, Stratton, Grinnage, Lafayette, George, Brice, Young and Davis promise to be better than ever.

It has been our good fortune to find, among the new candidates, some bright prospects. It is indeed gratifying to see stalwart reinforcements come upon the gridiron. Our present favorites must finally leave us, and new "pets" must take their places. Avery, Smith, Gould, Cunningham, Gordon, Penderhue and Sangford are expected to develop into gridiron artists of the higher type.

The enthusiasm which all these men show in their work means much toward our success this season. This spirit shall become augmented for evidently these lovers of Alma Mater and her honor seem to smell the embers of a smoking volcano which will emit its next eruption when Howard and Shaw contest for gridiron supremacy on our campus, November 8th.

Sophomores Give Freshmen Warning

A Few Mild Mentionings for the Pesky, Puny Paenes

1. O you dizzy Freshy-isses, You shall feel like feminine Misses,
When the Sophomores whirl you round,
And wallow you upon the ground.
A groveling swine does not compare
With you, poor Dunces, if you dare
To rush the Sophomores just until,
They do run you off the hill.
2. Now you intruding, indiscrict, uncivilized, unconfoming horde of late September insignificant, always humble yourselves before your everlasting superiors—the Sophomores.

Arts and Science Seniors Elect Officers

At a recent meeting, the Seniors of Arts and Sciences elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

C. M. D. Harlee, President; Winnie Cargyle, Vice President; N. A. Cabell, Secretary; W. S. Hanna, Assistant Secretary; W. H. Harper, Treasurer; L. D. Turner, Critic; M. E. Rivers, Journalist; H. A. Merchant, Chaplain; H. M. Hall, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Kappa Sigma Installs Officers

On Saturday evening, October eleventh, the Kappa Sigma Debating Club met in Library Hall for the installation of its officers. The installation exercises were conducted by Professor Gregory. Before installing the officers, Professor Gregory delivered a short address in which he emphasized the importance and the significance of a debating club.

First, he showed by concrete examples that a debating club was of supreme importance to the college man in that it enabled him to acquire the power to express himself before audiences on the many and perplexing questions of everyday life. Next, he reviewed the past history of Howard and remarked that through the efforts of Kappa Sigma, the university had made a brilliant record in the field of debating. Finally, he urged the officers and members to uphold the club, to put more enthusiasm into the work, to strive to make this the banner year in debating. After the address, the following officers were installed: President, W. E. Ricks; Vice-President, H. H. Long; Secretary, L. S. Curtis; Assistant Secretary, F. C. Jenkins; Treasurer, Guy. S. Ruffin; Parliamenterian, H. W. Brown; Critic, L. D. Turner; Reporter, H. H. Donald. The Kappa Sigma hopes for a record-breaking year. It plans to have interesting programs every Saturday evening throughout the college year with the aim of getting more young men than ever before interested in debating. The club is desirous of more support from the student body, and it extends a most cordial invitation to all.

Prof. Tunnel—"Ruffin, what is the form of the British Coat of Arms?"

Ruffin—"Why Prof., it has two little animals on it."

Same Prof. (in thunder tones)—"Allen, my son, in what part of Asia is Venice, Southern or Northern?"

Allen—"Ah-ah, I think it is in the Eastern part, Professor."

Prof. Schuh was endeavoring to explain the epidermis of a flower. "Now," he said, "this little air chamber opens and closes according as the weather is moist or dry." Just here Fitzpatrick had a question, as usual.

"Prof.," he queried, "suppose on a cold day, when there is a good deal of heat"—These were Fitz's last mortal words. Someone accidentally dropped a piece of lead pipe on his cocoa just where the vegetation is somewhat devestated and the sentence was never finished.

The following is reported in Miner Hall: Special to the Personal Column. Miss Voda Beatrice, a recent candidate for the choir, alarmed our building in the early part of midnight with the following:

"I'm dying for someone to love me, I want him to call me his bird, His ducky, his own precious darling, And all the sweet names ever heard."

Chorus:
I'm dying, I'm sighing, Mere friendship I ever shall spurn. I'm dying, I'm sighing, To love and be loved in return. There's Herman, Phil and Benny, There's Helm, Clarence, Nutt, and Joe, Who can't talk love worth a button; In fact, they're awfully slow." More Chorus.
