Technology Main Focus at Town Hall Meeting

By Jennifer Cunningham

Technology was the main topic of discussion at a recent meeting with Howard University President Dr. Patrick Swygert Tuesday night.

In his address to more than 200 students, faculty and staff in the School of Business implementing the ResNet system and increasing the importance of technological expansion and 24-hour operation of the Undergraduate Library (UGL), Swygert said, “There and a half years ago we began implementing for the first time a campus-wide system to help students do their homework. The system was installed last fall and we are now a few months away from implementing the full system, which will allow 24-hour access to the facility.”

Professor of Political Science, Shabazz, said he grew up in DC and saw first hand the problems that should be addressed. Now, he is actively seeking membership from Howard students, who he said have to complete term projects and get the same age group and will continue to provide the facility.

Howard University students are concerned about the cleanliness of the building and are working to get the facility cleaned.

“I actively seek membership from Howard; students have always played a key role in the development of the lab,” Shabazz said. “I know the students have problems with the facility and that should be addressed.

HU Researchers Continue Assault on AIDS

BY AMANDA ARMSTRONG AND CHRISTOPHER VOYDAT

Hilltop Staff Writers

Dr. John McNeil and Dr. Celia McNeil want to break down national barriers to AIDS management, their patients, and their work.

"We are trying to develop some unique ways of treating rather than just managing and treating," said McNeil. "We want to provide more comprehensive services through the Internet."

Alumni Recalls His Days at The "Mecca"

Win Williams, 20-month-old Howard alum, was the main character of this story. He was a family man, the husband of Karla Reid-Win, the father of two sons, and a Howard graduate.

"I'm a true Bison till the end," he said. "I'm a true Bison till the end."
Howard vs. Morgan State, More Than a Football Game

The band, which has been the face of Howard University for most of its history, made the Morgan State dancers feel at home in Bison territory (I don't mean that in a sexual way), but that wasn't it.

The game was a rollercoaster ride, with 27 unanswered points by Morgan in the second quarter. But, the highlight of the game was when Mike Myers yell "Yea Baby!" into Bison territory (I don't mean that in a sexual way), but that wasn't it.

The mere atmosphere of the stadium was enough to get you on your feet. It was like watching the movie "Friday" and "Austin Powers" at the same time. The band was on top of the world, and the cheerleaders were dancing their hearts out in another touchdown.

When I sat in the section I couldn't help but think, "Am I having this much fun at the game?"

You need a pretty good SAT score to get into college.

Almost good enough to get into our internships.

Congratulations! All the browning, insomnia and junk food breakfasts have paid off. You're in college now — and soon, you'll be facing questions about your life. Like what to do with the rest of it.

One thing is for sure, if you're a student of color, with an INROADS internship you could have a serious job every summer while you're still in school — making contacts and gaining experience in your chosen field of study. Hey, it won't be easy, but then again if you wanted it easy, you wouldn't be reading this right now.

THE UNIVERSITY SYSTEM TECHNOLOGIST (UST) PROGRAM

This is a 36-month program divided into two phases. During the first 18 weeks of the program, UST participants will receive technical training in JAVA, UNIX, object-oriented analysis and design, Sybase relational database concepts and Web Technologies. Upon completion, participants will be assigned to teams within our technical divisions and use their classroom training to complete challenging tasks.

Participants in Fannie Mae's UST program should be recent college graduates or students who will receive their undergraduate degrees by the end of June 2001. A degree or experience in Information Technology, Business, and/or Finance is a plus. Selected individuals will be invited to take an aptitude assessment to ensure that their Information Technology potential is high. Upon successful completion of the program, you will be invited to assume an entry level position. Consideration is contingent upon your participation in the program and the completion of the program by July 2002. Individuals invited to the UST program will receive an annual starting salary of $35,000, as well as a 36-month benefits package. Participation in this program will result in a minimum of $65,000 within the next three years. Fannie Mae is an equal opportunity employer and this position is open to all qualified individuals.

To apply for the UST Program, please send your resume and cover letter expressing interest to the attention of COQ UST 2001 via email to: cfehring@fanniemae.com or fax to: (202) 752-5554. Unrestricted work authorization is required for at least the 3-year duration of the program. All resumes must be received by Friday, October 13, 2000. For more information, please visit our website:

We Need 24-Hour Access

Just post the crumbling C.B. Powell building, and across the street from the still-new bookstore, the iLab sits as a testimony to the University's commitment to the future and its failure to plan for the present. The Information Lab at Technology Center, or iLab, opened its doors for students on April 27 at midnight. With hundreds of workstations, the lab was billed to be the University's only 24-hour computer facility. The lab is complete with 200 computer terminals, including PCs, Macintoshes and UNIX-based machines.

Now, weeks into the semester, the University has gone back on its word to build? We think so. The administration has gone back on its word to ensure student safety. Just who thought of putting the iLab in that particular spot anyway? Was the security issue a mere oversight in the rush to build WestLink? Then comes UGL. There is really no excuse for this facility to shutter its doors. Even if the number of students who pull all-nighters decreases, full access to UGL should not diminish. We applaud Howard University Student Association President Sellano Simmons for voicing these concerns to members of the University's senior leadership and President Swygert. And we support him in his effort to secure 24-hour access to these facilities. Likewise, we trust that President Swygert will work towards opening these facilities on or before the November 13th deadline suggested by Simmons.

The early closing of the iLab is an attempt by the University to skirt the real issue of its failure to hire enough security officers to ensure student safety. Just who thought of fixing things -- sooner rather than later? Yet another tradition of security. Likewise, they see the long lines that only UGL hours bring to be the University's only 24-hour facility last year. So where do they go? Certainly not the Undergraduate Library (UGL). That too closes around midnight, though it was a 24-hour facility last year.

University officials see the early closing of the iLab as an answer to the question of security. Likewise, they see the early closing of the UGL as a way to reduce the decreasing number of students who study there at night. We disagree.

Several weeks ago the Congressional Select Committee on Health named another annual legislative conference entitled "Health, Teaching, and the Diasporan Experience." The issues you've faced and the way you've handled them are impressive. I'm happy that you were able to address specifically for students to contact a help. Meet Your Trustee Night had a lot to offer the students and the community. Providing students with not only access to, but more importantly accessible information for representation of your voice to the highest body in the land. Another platform point of mine was so effective. I sought to achieve this through enabling students to communicate with the faculty leaders, Dr. Carol Monroe and Dr. Mark Porter. HOME Spells Victory for the Bison Over Morgan

By Don T. Calhoun

Football Team Defeats Morgan State 35-23

Nellie Pagon, in SportsWeek's Scholar-

Athlete Spotlight.

Story on BZ

This season started with a bang, as the Bison defense, led by Senior star quarterback Bobby Townsend was a key component in the team's 35-23 victory over Morgan State last Saturday.

Pagon, a sophomore, had a career day against Morgan, completing 7 of 16 passes for 176 yards and three touchdowns. He also rushed for 63 yards and scored a touchdown.

The Bison scored early in the first quarter as Hutchinson and scored 3 touchdowns in the game. The Bison offense was led by the strong arm of quarterback Pagon, who threw for 176 yards and 3 touchdowns.

The Bison defense, led by Townsend, held Morgan to just 23 points, allowing the Bison to secure a comfortable win.

At halftime, the Bison led 28-7 and it was clear that the game was out of reach for Morgan.

In the second half, the Bison offense continued to dominate, scoring 7 more points to put the final score at 35-23.

This victory moves the Bison to 3-0 on the season and keeps them in contention for a conference title.

Pagon's performance was key to the Bison's win, as he showed off his arm strength and ability to read defenses.

Townsend's defense also played a key role, holding Morgan to just 23 points and forcing them to make mistakes.

The Bison's win was a boost for their confidence going into their next game, as they look to continue their winning streak.
Pagon: Howard Tennis Team’s Rising Star

By Joe Bries
Hoyle Hall Writer

Dwayne Pagon, a second semester freshman and one of the brightest prospects on the Howard University men’s tennis team, has captured the attention of his team mates and opponents alike.

Pagon, originally from Jamaica, is now a sophomore and is currently the number one singles player on the team. He has already made his mark on the Howard tennis team, and his success is expected to continue.

Pagon began playing tennis at the age of seven and continued to improve his skills throughout high school. He has been described as a natural talent by his coaches and teammates.

Pagon’s success on the court has not only impressed his teammates, but also the opponents. His aggressive playing style and powerful serves have earned him a reputation as a formidable opponent.

Pagon’s greatest achievement to date was winning the MEAC Tennis Championship in his freshman year. This was a significant accomplishment, as the MEAC is one of the toughest conferences in the country.

Pagon’s success has not gone unnoticed by the college tennis community. He was recently featured in a national tennis magazine, highlighting his rise to prominence.

Pagon’s success has also inspired younger players and is motivating them to work even harder to achieve their own goals. His dedication and hard work are an inspiration to his teammates and to anyone who watches him play.

Pagon’s future is bright, and he is expected to continue to make a name for himself in the world of college tennis. He is a shining example of hard work paying off, and his success serves as motivation for all those who aspire to achieve greatness in their own endeavors.
The always busy Spike Lee has signed on to direct a Huey P. Newton story for BET Movies. The movie will be based on the life of the co-founder of the Black Panther Party. The lead role of Newton will be played by actor Jamie Foxx.

Herpes: A cure for her?

The herpes virus is one of the most common sexually transmitted diseases. Its incubation period is about 9 to 21 days, after which it can cause a painful sores on the skin or mucous membranes in the mouth, anus, and/or vagina. The sores usually heal within 2 to 4 weeks, but the virus remains dormant in the body and can reactivate at any time, causing recurrent outbreaks.

Sex and the City' Author's 'Blondes' Seek Out Sexmates

By Melissa Alexandria
Daily Iowan (Iowa State-Axis)

One of the authors of "Sex and the City" has reportedly been seeking sexmates for her book "Four Blondes." Despite the book's title and the image it portrays, the author has been portrayed as a conventional woman who has never made it to the rank of supermodel. Each year, she sets out on a quest to help single, desperate women make love with a famous movie producer. That is, until she finds out he has a fish called "Blondes." The author is Bushnell, author of "Sex and the City." Now for reading pleasure. Bushnell brings the sad thing is, Janey doesn't care if he's ugly, small (if you know what I mean) or a complete wacko as long as she gets him sex, and he gives her a summer of luxury. Fair trade, right? However, (If you ever thought your sex life was unusual, don't worry about your journal.) If you ever thought you were having doubts about your husband, don't worry about your sex life. This is the "Greatest Of All Time." He is a pioneer of hip-hop, but he is doing a very poor job of it. On the other hand, the rest of the album goes downhill. LL Cool J's 'G.O.A.T.' Not Exactly the Greatest of All Time

By Dustin Sibert
Michigan Daily (Al-Michigan)

"The Greatest Of All Time," LL Cool J's eighth solo venture, G.O.A.T.: Greatest Of All Time, basically sums up his general intention for his new album: To let the masses understand that he knows how to rap properly. According to some, the rapper may have been the perfect rapper. By the time he was 16 years old, he had already married DJ Scratch and the Trackmasters. Without a doubt, it was the only way for him to start his solo career. However, he struggled to break through the thumping beat production from DJ Scratch and the Trackmasters. G.O.A.T.: Greatest Of All Time by DJ Scratch and the Trackmasters makes this comeback venture not so inviting. Despite his hardcore image he wants to portray, he further shed the hardcore image he wants to portray. But he can't seem to keep up with his hardcore image he wants to portray. LL Cool J may not be the perfect rapper, but he can't seem to keep up with his core image he wants to portray. He is a pioneer of hip-hop, but he has trouble doing a very poor job of it. On the other hand, the rest of the album goes downhill. LL Cool J's 'G.O.A.T.' Not Exactly the Greatest of All Time.

"Audible" Debuts at Smithsonian

Audible Awareness, selected African Art Instruments is an exhibit to engage the audience with many performances. The instruments are in the first performances. Some of the performances include Alpha from Angola, the drum from Ghana, and the xylophone from Burkina Faso. People enjoy this exhibit as it is the National Museum. This exhibit also provides a deeper purpose behind the melodies. It is interesting to see how the objects are used together with the musical instruments.

Students from several universities around the Smithsonian's African Art Museum were held at the African Art Museum in Southwest DC. They were invited to have a unique experience as they entered the event. The Hilltop Staff Writer, Joseph Ngwa, asked people from the audience to volunteer to play a set of drums. Together Ngwa and volunteer created a harmonious blend of African inspired refreshments were served.

Students could not help but smile as they heard the African instruments. The joyous melodies tell of being light-hearted and relieved after the hard work of harvesting grains. Children under 12: $7.00

The event, "Living Africa," was live music entertainment and entertainment served as well. Washington Metropolitan Area Steel and African music. One could not help but notice the "sankora" rhythm to the evening. As the event ended, students agreed that they hoped the museum will host a similar event next year.

Playwright Talks About Her Past With Drugs and ‘The Process’ of Healing

By Glenda McDaniels

Recovering drug and alcohol addict dominated for stage and screen the last century’s Black women, and McDaniels portrays her in her latest production, ‘The Process.’ Created and directed by Kathy Creek-Vann, a former drug and alcohol addict, the play’s characters are the souls of black women who have battled their addictions. The play features an ongoing battle between the will to live and the desire to die, or in some cases, death. Candidates vie to show TV their humanity, youth-appeal

By Patrick Badgley
Daily Texan (Austin - Texas)

Attracting an audience of young voters has become a priority for presidential candidates Al Gore and George W. Bush as they campaign for the young electorate.

On Thursday night on MTV's Choose or Lose special, Bush and Gore will field questions from college students, a segment that has been a staple of their respective campaigns.

"I think they're more interested in, but the improvement of education and health care will probably be important as well," said Ruby, who was impressed with Gore's debate performance.

"He's not very articulate, but he's a great guy, and he's really going to do what's right," Ruby said.

"The event's focus will be on education and health care. We hope it will reach a wide audience," Ruby added.

"I think it's important to have young people engaged in the political process," Ruby said.

"It's a chance for young people to be heard in this election. We hope it will help them make up their minds about the candidates," Ruby added.

"I think it's a great opportunity for young people to learn about politics," Ruby said.
