Death of Herbert I. Scott

Herbert Irving Scott, a member of the Senior College Class, died at Freedman's Hospital Dec. 1, 1907.

The immediate cause of his death was blood poisoning arising from a slight wound on the head received in the Lincoln-Howard game Nov. 16, at Lincoln University, Pa. After returning from the game Mr. Scott had his wound dressed at the hospital every day for a week. A week before his death the wound showed symptoms of infection, at which time he was assigned to a ward in the hospital. On Thursday, the case was diagnosed as erysipelas and permission to visit him was denied to all. Sunday evening he developed danger symptoms and his immediate friends were sent for. Quite a number, two at a time, saw him in his unconscious, delirious condition, and shortly after leaving him, he passed away, at 10:25 p.m.

In the death of Mr. Scott the student body loses one of its most active and brilliant members. Almost four years ago Mr. Scott entered the Freshman class, and from that time until his death he was prominently connected with all the different organizations in college. Always faithful and energetic in his work, he made an excellent record as an officer in the Alpha Phi Literary Society and in the Athletic Association. Mr. Scott helped found the Tennis Club, and mainly through his efforts were the courts constructed and equipped. For the past two years he was a member of the foot ball squad, always playing a good consistent game.

The University Journal suffers by his death as he was Business Manager of the Journal Company of 1907-1908. It was one of his greatest hopes to keep The Journal on a sound financial basis, and he gave every promise of being successful.

Mr. Scott's death comes as a severe shock to his host of friends. By his open and generous disposition he won a place in the hearts of his fellow students, in fact, none was more popular than he, being familiarly known as "Baltimore."

He will always be remembered as a jolly freehearted boy, apparently forgetful of himself; living for others—a model student in the broad sense of the term. If his death is so sad and painful to his school friends, how much more keenly must the parents feel the loss of a son from whom so much was expected, a son into whom the best they had had been poured, in order that he might be of service to a race that so much needs strong men. But our loved do not die. The weary body returns to dust, but the immortal soul lives on unencumbered by toil and care.

"It is not death to die,
To leave the weary road
And, 'mid the brotherhood on high,
To be at home with God."

"It is not death to fling
Aside this sinful dust,
And rise, on strong exulting wing,
To live among the just."

"Jesus, Thou Prince of Life!
Thy chosen cannot die;
Like Thee, they conquer in the strife
To reign with Thee on high."

The students of the University presented the beautiful casket in which Mr. Scott's body was laid away, as a token of their appreciation of his life.

Howard Graduate Makes Highest Average

(From the Charleston, W. Va. Advocate)

That the Negro wants only a fair field and no favors in any contest of brain or brawn has been again demonstrated. On the 9th of October the State Board of Pharmacy held an examination in this city of those desiring to practice that profession in the State. There were sixteen candidates, three of whom were colored. Of these, six passed, four white and two colored, the highest average by far being made by B. P. Brownley, in charge of Gem Pharmacy of this city, whose average was 93 1/2. The other successful applicant of color was W. B. Gray, who also registered from Charleston.

In speaking of the papers submitted to them for grading, Dr. Walter C. Price, the local member of the board, who made out the examination, spoke in the very highest terms to an Advocate reporter of Mr. Brownley's work.

His papers, he said, were neat, well written and showed a mastery of the theory and practice of his profession possessed by but few of those who have had many more years of experience. One day was devoted to the examination; beginning at nine in the morning and ending about five in the afternoon with a short intermission for lunch. Before each recess Dr. Brownley was the first to hand in his papers and this haste was perhaps responsible for his not having made an even higher average.

The successes of Drs. Brownley and Gray adds additional luster to Howard University, Washington, D. C., from the pharmaceutical department of which they graduated in the class of 1907, and each is being heartily congratulated by his friends and acquaintances for having made such a good showing for himself and race.
Literary Societies of Howard

In any school or college, the literary societies play an important part. In its borders are developed famous debaters and orators. Most of the universities, therefore, place great stress upon this important branch of college life. If one steps into the halls of the society of some of our schools he will feel the great import of this feature of academic life and training. The Senate of the United States could scarcely surpass the magnificence of these assemblies. As he hears the young men thunder out in their debates and orations, he will wonder whence comes this inspiration, this bates and orations, he will wonder!

This first of all requires some comparison reveals a vast difference between two such organizations. If the organization to be successful, it must compare its work with the more careful consideration of the liberty of our students and players to attend out of town games, as well as the leadership and membership of the football team.

An official statement was received from the Athletic Association, announcing the election to the Council for the year, of Mr. Wilkins, undergraduate representative of the Law School, succeeding Mr. J. E. Floyd, and Mr. J. H. Brown, undergraduate representative of the Academy, succeeding Mr. Curl Young.

The Athletic Council voted to request the University authorities to take the same care of the track as is taken of the campus.

It was deemed wise by the Council that, hereafter, the selection of captains of the various teams be subject to its ratification.

The election by the Athletic Association of Messrs. A. P. Cook and Curl Young, as manager and captain respectively of the baseball for the current was ratified by the Council.

It was unanimously voted to request the President of the university to investigate the injury to and the death of the late Herbert I. Scott.

The next regular meeting of the Council will take place on the first Monday in February, 1908, at 3 o'clock p.m., in the main building.

SOCIAL

The social given by the Christian Endeavor on Thanksgiving night in Miner Hall was a very successful affair. The Union foot ball team stayed over for the night and was present with quite a number of the students. A short musical program consisting of a solo by Miss Virginia Williams and a selection by the Miner Hall Double Quartet was rendered in the assembly hall in the annex. Following this, everyone went down stairs where sandwiches, potato salad, cocoa, ice cream and cake were served to all. The socials in Miner Hall are always enjoyable affairs and this was no exception to the rule; in fact, it was one of the best and much credit is due to the Social Committee for the excellent time enjoyed by all.

Union lost the best chance she ever had for defeating Howard.

Tyson, great full back, he.

J. B. Brown made a nice run around Union's right end for 25 yds. J. B. is conspicuously present every time he goes in to play quarter.

It was thought for a while that Barco would not be able to get into the game on account of a severe sore throat.

Howard made several yards by pulling the left tackle, Byunin, out of the line and sending him just outside tackle. Lincoln used this play this season very successfully.

As a ground gainer the forward pass has not been very successful at Howard this year. At times good distances have been made, but, on the whole, it has not been a play that could be depended on.

Fleming, who took Makanya's place at right end in the second half, answered back when Whit Bruce told him not to let the Union end get down the field on a punt, "I ain't!" This remark caused no little amusement on the side lines. Fleming made good his word for the Union end didn't get down the field that time.

Mr. M. W. Bullock, brother to our coach, was on the side lines watching the game. He has just come from coaching the Mars State College which recently finished a successful season.

A picked team from Howard and M St. High School went to Norfolk Thanksgiving day and defeated the Columbia Athletic team by a score of 5-0. Dan Munro, an old Howard full back, played full-back for the picked team.

Shaw University must have had a case of "Frigoribus Pedibus" this year, for under no conditions could we get a game with them. Usually the Thanksgiving day game here is with Shaw but this year they declined to meet us.

The Installation

From the Boston Congregationalist, Nov. 23

"November 14 and 15 were gala days at Howard University: it is doubtful if any other institution of learning in the country has had, during any two days of its history, addresses by so many distinguished men.

"Throughout the entire celebration the Alumni of the University stood on 'equal footing' with the other speakers in oratory; while the vested choir of the University and the orchestra were right up to concert pitch in their renditions. "Sometimes in the course of a long and toilsome journey, from a hilltop where the sun is shining, the traveler catches sight of a broad and fruitful landscape that he is about to enter. As he breathes the air of the uplands, he thanks God and takes courage. I think the president and faculties of Howard University must have felt this way last Friday."

Mr. Charles Manns, Law '07 and Col.'04, died this week in Colorado where he has been living for the last few months.
The Foot Ball Season

Howard has just finished a successful football season in every way. The schedule was not so long, only four games in all, of which we won three and lost one. Lincoln University defeated us this year on her own grounds by a score of 5-0. Three years ago they defeated us on their own grounds by a small score. The two teams must be nearly equal in playing strength as the score plainly shows, thus making the advantage of playing on home grounds an important factor in deciding the game. Since Lincoln cannot play away from home, Howard always labors under a disadvantage in playing her.

The other three teams: Tuskegee, Union and Annapolis were decisively beaten.

These results were obtained with material admittedly weaker than in several years. Some men entirely new at the game, others of light weight and still others playing in new positions, and yet so thorough was the coaching that the season was almost as successful as any other in the history of the school. Many lessons have been drilled into the men; the importance of training, consistent practice and the value of nerve and pluck in this greatest of college games. These lessons will be of value in the making of the future teams.

And again the season has been successful in a financial way. All expenses have been paid and a neat little balance remains in the hands of the treasurer. This is due to the efficient work of the manager, Mr. Graves, this making the second season that he has ended with the association free from debt.

A word about our coach here would not be out of place. The students decided this year that it was necessary that the team should have a paid coach. Accordingly Mr. Bullock of Dartmouth College was engaged. He began work on the 15th of October and rapidly organized the men into a playing machine. Many discouraging aspects presented themselves but with a firm hand he overcame them all. The men this year played as a team not as individuals. Undoubtedly, we owe this state of affairs to the efficient work of the manager, Mr. Graves, this making the second season that he has ended with the association free from debt.

Howard Ends Season with a Victory

Union University Outclassed

Howard defeated Union here Thanksgiving day by a score of 11-0, thereby crushing the brightest hopes that Union ever had of defeating the blue and white. Union had played Hampton to a tie, and having lost to Shaw by a very small margin had expected at last to triumph over Howard, but she went back disappointed.

The usual Thanksgiving crowd was out to the game; the "pene" medical class with a big bus loaded down with doctors-to-be, blowing horns and cheering for Howard; people from the city who are always present at the Thanksgiving game, and the whole student body crowded along the ropes to see Howard end the season victoriously.

The weather was perfect for football except during the last few minutes of play it seemed as if there might be a little rain. But altogether the day was great, neither too warm for the players nor too cold for the spectators.

The excitement and interest that usually runs high before the game, was not present because Union was not looked upon as dangerous although stronger this year than ever before, and it was no more than the expected when the final result stood in favor of Howard.

Throughout the first half the playing was near the center of the field, neither side's goal being very much in danger but in the second half Howard came back and rushed the ball down to Union's goal and over for a touchdown. The weather was perfect for game, and rushing the ball down to Union's goal and over for a touchdown. The weather was perfect for game, and rushing the ball down to Union's goal and over for a touchdown.

Howard scored again after J. B. Brown, who went in at quarter, had gone around Union's right end for 13 yards. Bruce makes seven yards, Hunt 7 more, and Bruce carries it over for a touchdown, kicking a pretty goal. Score 11-0, in favor of Howard.

Howard starts the second half off with a rush running back the kickoff 20 yds, then punting to Union's 35 yds line, Union punts to Barco who had gone in at quarter, and he runs the punt back 25 yds to Union's 40 yd line. A few more line plunges and Howard has Union's goal in danger, but loses ball on the 9 yd line. A quarter back run which gains 13 yds puts Howard in striking distance, but a trial at goal from placement goes wild. But Howard is not to be deceived, for Whit runs back 20 yds to Unions 17 yd line on receiving the kick-out. "Buck" Hunt here circles Union's left end for 16 yds, bringing the ball down to Union's 1 ft line, where Bruce carries it over at the extreme right edge of the field. Norwood makes a fair catch of the punt out but missed goal. Score, Howard 5, Union 0.

Andrew Carnegie Gives Howard a $50,000 Library.

Tremendous applause shook the chapel when Pres. Thirkield announced, on Wednesday, that Andrew Carnegie, the great philanthropist, had given Howard University a $50,000 library building. After many unsuccessful attempts at an interview Pres. Thirkield was finally successful in meeting Mr. Carnegie personally with the above result.

It will be remembered that Mr. Carnegie was present at the Installation of President Thirkield and made a short inspiring address. It is hard to express the feeling of gratitude that exists in the hearts of the students towards this generous and noble benefactor with a library building already given and a science building practically assured, Howard University will take its place as one of the leading universities in the country.

The Annual Eureka Banquet.

On the evening of Nov. 27, in Miner Hall the Eureka Literary Society gave its first annual banquet. Preceding the banquet an interesting program was rendered. Thirkield and Dean Cummings addressed those present on the importance and place in school life of the Literary Society. The presidents of the Academy classes made short speeches.

Mr. A. M. Willis '11 made his remarks short and interesting.

Mr. Quarles '10 spoke on "The Eureka, Its Aims and Hopes." His remarks were deep and striking throughout.

The remarks of Mr. Jerry Luck '09 inspired the members to be loyal to their society.

Mr. C. B. Washington '08 in a remarkable interesting address pointed out the relationship of the classes of the Academy united in the Eureka, all striving for a noble common end.

Miss Agnes Adams' rendition of "Dreaming" was great and everyone enjoyed Miss Florence Payne's solo, "Just How Much I Love You."

Mr. Robt G. Dogget, the baritone soloist, favored the company with Julian Edward's "Sweet Thoughts of Home." This was enthusiastically received on all sides. Mr. C. Y. Harris in a masterly way rendered Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capricioso," which held the attentive listeners spellbound.

Miss A. R. Barker was present during the later part of the program and in a short talk encouraged the members to higher efforts.

When the program was ended an elaborate banquet was served to all and it was quite late in the evening when all had departed.

Y. M. C. A. Convention.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Howard University can well say with the other Associations of the city, that they enjoyed a rich treat from the International Convention of Y. M. C. A., which convened in this city Nov. 22-26.

The convention proved the Y. M. C. A. to be, beyond all doubt, the greatest organization of young men in the world. The great representation by some of the leaders of the nation, men of national distinction, was evidence of the fact that the work which is essentially the development of spirit, mind and body is destined to do much in establishing throughout our nation and the rest of the world a Christian brotherhood and a clean and high standard of everyday life.

Volumes could be written upon the good things that were proclaimed by the speakers, but the things that seemed to be great encouragement to us were in the strong address by our international secretary, Mr. W. A. Hunton, who spoke of the great improvement in the work of the Colored Men's Department.

The Young Men's Christian Association should take on new life, not only on account of the general impression made upon us by the successful work of other student and city associations, but in behalf of our large student body, many of whom are not connected with our association as yet. The opportunity offered to us now for development in this particular work can not be over estimated. It is worth while to note that the key note to the great Convention was that the young man who failed to take Christ into his life can not hope to make a success of anything in this Christian nation of ours. A great responsibility rests upon every student of this University. For the time has come when the man who faces life with some learning and less moral character is of no use to society or to himself.

Our association meets every Sunday afternoon at 3 P. M. in the assembly hall. Every other meeting is open to discussion of a topic by each member present. We are planning to fit out our basement rooms with gymnasium equipments for the fellows when the winter weather prevents outdoor exercise. Let every man become a member of our Y. M. C. A. thereby helping himself.
