Is the Million Family March Necessary?

By Charles No. 1, Hamish Smith

The Million Family March is important because it is a wake-up call to the breakdown of the Black family, especially in the U.S. We need to support and promote the family as the building block of society.

By Kevin Racksaw

It is necessary for all children and their background to be involved with strong family roles. Therefore, this march is crucial for every person, not just the child.

Deadly West Nile Virus Hits DC

By LAUREN R. ANDERSON
City Editor

Two birds carrying the West Nile virus were found in northwest and Northeast Washington, DC. Now, health officials say the virus, which first appeared in New York last year, is in an epidemic that will eventually plague the entire country.

West Nile is transmitted to humans through the bite of an infected mosquito. Mosquitoes generally contract the virus to what is called the Mississippi flyway. The Mississippi flyway is the migration path south of the United States, where thousands of birds migrate northward, they could spread the disease to the Midwest. The virus' migration pattern could then bring the virus to what is called the Midwestern flyway and spread up the east coast of the country.

Cases of West Nile generally occur in the late summer and can affect children and elders most seriously and can be the cause of death. The virus is spread by the bite of an infected mosquito. Mosquitoes generally contract the virus from an infected bird. West Nile is transmitted to humans through the bite of an infected mosquito. During the walk, people were encouraged to wear long sleeves and long pants to protect themselves. Everyone carrier of the virus has been found as far south as Louisiana.

Howard Deli Makes Students Feel At Home

Hilltop Staff Writer

If you've never been to the Howard Delicatessen, you've never been to the Howard Deli. It's a place where students can get a delicious meal for a reasonable price. With pastries, sandwiches, and fresh salads, the Deli is a favorite among students and faculty alike.

David Johnson, a senior business management major, said, "Howard Deli is my go-to place for lunch. The food is delicious and the service is great." The Deli also serves breakfast and dinner, making it a convenient place for students to eat throughout the day.

The Deli's location on Georgia Avenue, directly across the street from the Howard University campus, makes it easy for students to access. The establishment has been serving Howard University students for generations, and many students have grown up in the Howard community.

"The culture of the community has changed a lot since we were here," said Kenny Gilmore, a senior business management major. "But we believe that as long as we respect our customers, they'll respect us. So far, we've been here and loved it. We are part of this community."

Gilmore is optimistic about the Deli because it is black owned and some like it so much, they have even suggested their dining dollars be used at the deli.

"Our local organization wants more rights for District residents and they are doing something about it," said Amy Slemmer, the executive director at DC Vote. "We are excited to find that this issue is resonating with students." Slemmer said that one of the organization's main goals is to get congressional rights for the District. She is looking for volunteers to do local canvassing, vote training, and phone bank work. The organization is currently canvassing to promote the program across the District.

Slemmer said, "We are very excited about the potential of the bill to be introduced. We are looking for volunteers to help us reach out to the community."

The world now takes the booming, wide-open commercial Internet as the natural model for a global information infrastructure - but this was not always so. Because of Telcordia Technologies' initiation and development of landmark policies in the early 1990's, the Internet went from a US government network tightly restricted in access to its current incarnation of being built, owned and operated by the private sector. It is this freedom to think innovatively that makes Telcordia Technologies the force behind the ever-increasing advancement of communications. And now you can advance just as quickly in one of the following areas:

- COMPUTER SCIENCE
- ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING
- COMPUTER ENGINEERING
- SYSTEMS ENGINEERING
- TELECOMMUNICATIONS
- TECHNICAL COMMUNICATIONS

Why We Must March

It was very necessary five years ago when Minister Louis Farrakhan called one million black men to the mall on Washington. It was also necessary when more than one million women gathered in the Benjamin Franklin Parkway in Philadelphia in 1997. Those meetings were called because the black community was calling out and still is for black men and women to take better parental and leadership figures in their neighborhoods. Now the time has come for the family to meet and reconcile as well.

The family has always been and shall remain the strongest agent for socialization. A strong family builds high self-esteem and shapes the way children interact with people on the outside world. Those children grow up to be men and women who have families.

Howard University has traditionally played a key role in shaping and building families. Men and women have left this University and started their own families, just as students will always do.

We support the Million Family March and urge students, faculty, and administration to attend. If we march down to the Mall, it will be by bus or some other form of transportation, we must be there.

If there was ever a more pressing time to become more of a family this is it. There are issues of black on black crime, STD’s, other form of transportation, we must be there.

Access Granted...For Now

How many University officials does it take to come up with one common sense idea? If you ask President H. Patrick Swygert, he’ll say at least 6.

That’s how many faculty members and University administrators were appointed to the special task force which decided earlier this week to open the iLab and Undergraduate Library 24 hours. Howard University Student Association President Sellano Simmons formed the task force as the student body demanded.

Swygert is convinced that students need 24-hour library access. In his words, “Keep your promise, and students will then be free to enjoy the facilities sooner rather than later.”

We do thank you President Swygert for making good on your word to broaden the access to these facilities “sooner rather than later.” Now, we would appreciate it even more if you would boldly lead us to the day when access to our campus facilities didn’t hinge on the arbitrary whims of some distant “task force.”

Letters to the Editor

‘Really liked the newspaper’

My daughter is a college senior and this Sunday I took her to the 20th annual Howard University Student Association President’s Dinner. I invited you to Senator Edward M. Kennedy to this event to start this paper. I wanted you to see how young people are thinking today, but most of all to let you see what we think about the future of Howard University. It is a very good newspaper, and you should be very proud of it. The hope you write about something, even that which is not so pleasant is something we’ve been fighting for all this time. The Hilltop has helped to keep us informed and the Hirckman newspaper and yours is definitely better.”

Matters of Style

This is for everyone who read Willy E. Cambridge’s poem “Cambridge” in the October 6th edition of The Hilltop. I thought this to be the best poem I have ever read by a Howard student and therefore I would like to publicly commend you. My offer is that you take your students in some English classes to Harvard University. I think they would learn a lot. I have known a great deal of Harvard and of the Ivy League System and I have known a great deal of Howard University and Howard University has always been the best. What they lack is the ability to help their students to be better people and that is what this poem shows...it shows me what Howard University is all about...it shows me what Howard University means to the black community.

CORRECTIONS

The Hilltop apologizes to Jay Smith who is the editor of the Howard University Student Association for any errors that may have been made. The Hilltop is committed to making changes as the paper goes forward.

Dear President Swygert

By Tene Harris

MC Swygert

To: You, the last 1 am stunned, shocked and totally disgusted by the lack of concern and interest that you have exhibited in response to the Miller Family Black Student Union. If I am not a Muslim, I am not a member of the black family. I am not a student of talent and nor am I a heroin

Kirkland, Louis Farrakhan. I am what you might call the black traditionalist from Allyn, Ga. I am also a person who is personally interested in the political impact of Howard University through the most effective avenues.

The Miller family will not yield to the呈現 of realities and my idiotic idealization paralyzed me. You just don’t imagine your Uncle Walter is the president of Howard University, which states that Howard is committed to the transformation of productive aggressions and the quest for solutions to human and social problems in the United States and throughout the world (Student Handbook and Planner, v. 1). Through my research, I have always supported Howard and stood up for it when my friends and other students would comment on the alleged disciplinary, the racial insensitivity and the lack of support, and the sad reality of which I speak. I cannot support Howard without support the black students and the quest for solutions to human and social problems in the United States and throughout the world (Student Handbook and Planner, v. 1).

I cannot imagine Howard as a refuge for the black students and the quest for solutions to human and social problems in the United States and throughout the world (Student Handbook and Planner, v. 1).

Rookie sensation Jay Colbert brings a new meaning to the term ‘Special Teams’

By Brian M. Sweeney
Sports Editor

Walter’s New World Dictionary defines a specialist as “a person who specializes in a particular field of study, professional work, etc.” If that’s the case, freshman punter/place kicker Jay Colbert fits the description to a tee. The 5’9”, 199-pound running back out of Blackwood’s (N.J.) By LORINDA BULLOCK

Whiteybos Staff Writer

Sparked by an unusually large crowd on neutral occasions, the Howard University women's volleyball team (13-7, 7-5 MEAC) managed to take a victory from the Hampton Lady Pirates (13-7, 7-5 MEAC) on Wednesday by a score of 25-23, 15-25, 15-13, 25-15.

The team, defeated Hampton University in three games, 25-12, 25-13, and 15-3, while matching Hampton'suggling featured by the play of Drealon Howard.

The Lady Pirates dropped the number 2 ranked team at a tie score in the Hardrock, Howard quickly answered off the pitch on the two quick scores.

Having gained momentum and confidence as the first game, Hampton attempted by tying the match at 25-25. The Huntsmill returned second set led by the play of Drealon Howard. Howard continued the scoring early, as junior forward Hampton secured an early point in the third set, Howard led 6-0 against Hampton.

Steve Wilson (74-57 in twelve years) knows all Monad's gone for the season and no Jevonte Philpot, looking havoc on the Towson defense. Joining him will be fellow sophomore safety Vontrae Long (30 tackles), in place of Combs (51-37 in nine seasons), are trying to avoid losses (24.2 ypg) and all-purpose yardage (97.4 ypg). Bringing the heat from the secondary will be sophomore linebacker, freshman Mike Sanders (33 tackles), who has All-American potential and is waiting his turn. Steve Wilson, coach of Towson State, led by Coach Gordy White, who has All-American potential and is waiting his turn.

In the third game, Hampton was able to hold Howard to under 10 points, the game was tied at 10-10. Hampton was able to force the Lady Pirates into a tie, but Hampton did not have the same luck.

With school records and national records, Lynch, who once resided in Saudi Arabia as a child, began swimming at the age of four. During her high school career Lynch continued to swim, and in her senior year she placed second in the 200 meter breaststroke and 200 meter individual medley. In the same season, Lynch placed first in the 200 yard medley relay.

POINT OF VIEW

Recognize Me

By Donald McCallum

I am not saying that everyone is not interested in why Howard or Howardian truly is. However, the ones who are interested and have the chance to participate in this organization should not be left out. It is just how I feel.

This is my experience on Howard University. It is not exactly the same for everyone. But what the book lacks in plot and characters, it makes up for in suspense and excitement. The story of Ronin makes up for its lack of plot by keeping the reader on the edge of their seats.

On the first day of my study, I decided to dress conservatively. I bought a long coat and added a pair of black tights to my ensemble. I purchased it; components.

My fellow students, my challenge it is to be creative. Help a brother or sister to make a good picture. That is where your unique talents can be used. You all have many talents. I see them in the way you work and the way you present your ideas. I see them in the way you organize your thoughts and present them to the class. I see them in the way you think and the way you express your feelings. I see them in the way you interact with each other.

Jazz Artist Takes Listeners to New 'Places'

By Robert Cadden

Mead Street "Orders"

Anyone who has followed the jazz scene for the past few years will have heard of Medellin, the four-piece band that emerged from the Chicago area in the 1990s. After several tours and a steady stream of critically acclaimed releases, Medellin is back with their latest album, "Orders.

The band's core members are keyboardist Ben Berliner, drummer Max Zorn, bassist Ben Thiele, and violinist Mike McLean. "Orders" marks a new direction for the group, with a more experimental and avant-garde approach.

"Orders" begins with the title track, a piece that features Berliner's virtuosic keyboard playing and McLean's intricate violin work. This is followed by "The Way," a more accessible tune that showcases the group's ability to create catchy melodies and compelling harmonies.

The album's third track, "The Debt," is a powerful exploration of debt and its impact on society. Berliner's piano work is particularly effective in conveying the weight of the debt burden.

"Orders" also features guest appearances from several notable musicians, including saxophonist Marcus Strickland and drummer Scott Scherr. These collaborations add depth and diversity to the album's sound.

Overall, Medellin's "Orders" is a strong release that demonstrates the group's growth and development as a band. Fans of avant-garde jazz and experimental music will find much to appreciate in this album.

Is This a Crush?

When you wrap your shoulder around my back, I feel in安全, The way that you offer me into your heart, you have the beauty of a work of art. And over time you fill my heart with the "nights" of the galaxies. This attraction is so powerful that this feeling is the only ornament. My feelings are in repression, because you won't let me into you. Can I know how near the world I speak? You cannot break these body chains, and tell me that you've learned from a friendship, just if touching you, and allow me to be held like a child. You take my heart and won't give it back, but still I lack, for yours.

I don't know how to pray under your prints, but soon I'll be writing my own ways. I still can't conceive, nor can I know your heart.

In this love of life, is it not certain that one day our mutual attraction will burst, and you will leave love marks all over my skin.

Is This a Crush?

I know you've seen something divine, in the hues actually impure, and the fact that it is only the love you see in it! That is depicted by the breeze, colorless and free, for the other standing vigilantly. God is here, and I know what she could explain the colorful flow...

Is This a Crush?

I have seen you as a devil, in the hues actually impure, and the fact that it is only the love you see in it! That is depicted by the breeze, colorless and free, for the other standing vigilantly. God is here, and I know what she could explain the colorful flow...
