THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

This department is intended to furnish additional educational advantages to those who are already ministers of the gospel, to supply the urgent demand for educated ministers in our Southern States, and to raise up qualified missionaries for Africa. It aims to impart a thorough knowledge of the Word of God (in the original Hebrew and Greek, in the case of those prepared to pursue those studies, otherwise in the English) with careful instruction in Systematic Theology, Homiletics and Pastoral Theology. The course requires three years.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.—Biblical Introduction, including Natural Theology, Evidences of Christianity, Mental and Moral Science, Canon of Scripture, Biblical Geography and Archaeology. Old Testament Interpretation, including analysis and summary of its history in relation to its theology and the plan of redemption, and

(with some) the study of the Hebrew language and exegesis of various books. New Testament Interpretation, including Harmony of Gospels, and the exegesis of them and of the Pauline Epistles, and (with some) the Greek Testament. Systematic Theology, including the Doctrines of Scripture in their Biblical and Systematic Forms, and the exposure of errors. Pastoral Theology, including lectures on Call to the Ministry, Pastoral Duties, Church Government, and Methods of Christian Work. Homiletics, including composition, criticism and delivery of sermons, and the conduct of public worship. Church History, in its various periods, with special reference to the history of doctrines. Rhetorical Exercises, including vocal culture, English composition, reading of Scriptures and hymns, and weekly discussions. Special Lectures on Missions, Health and other topics. Studies in other Departments of the University are open, without charge, to qualified theological students, with permission of the respective faculties.

ADMISSION.—This department is open to students of all Christian denominations, who present testimonials of Christian character, and have at least the qualifications needed for admission to the Normal School, proper, as specified on page 18. Special attention is called to these qualifications, that applicants may not be rejected.

EXPENSES.—No charges will be made for instruction, nor for rent of rooms; but each student will pay $5 per year for incidental expenses, and $3 for care of halls. Board can be had for $8 per month.

AID.—It is believed that with the opportunities of self-support which Washington affords, and with the aid of benevolent persons, churches, &c., which the Faculty will seek, any young man of promise can here enter upon and complete a course of theological studies. No one of good abilities, of earnest piety, and who is persuaded that God has called him to preach the gospel, need hesitate in seeking a preparation to enter upon the great work of the Ministry.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

SESSION OF 1880-'81.

The Annual Session of the school will commence the third of October, and will continue twenty weeks. This department commands all the means and advantages in use at the present day for giving a complete and thorough course of medical instruction. A gratuitous Spring course of lectures begins in April, and is open to all.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION.—Arrangements have been made for the admission of the students of medicine, under proper restrictions, to the Freedmen's General Hospital and Asylum, situated within the grounds of the Institution, for the purpose of studying diseases at the bedside. Surgical, medical, and obstetrical cases will be seen by the class, under the supervision of the professors, and operations will be performed in their presence in the amphitheatre. Clinical instructions occur twice a week.

HOSPITAL FACILITIES AND RESIDENT STUDENTS.—The hospital contains several hundred patients, and presents unusual facilities for the study of practical medicine and surgery. Resident students are selected every quarter from the graduating class to serve in the wards of the hospital. They will write prescriptions, under the directions of the Professors, and keep histories of all the interesting cases, and assist at clinics.

MATRICULATION.—1. The department is open to all, without distinction of race or sex, and on terms nearly gratuitous.

2. The applicant must furnish evidence of good moral character.

3. He must possess a thorough English Education, and a sufficient acquaintance with the Latin language to understand and write prescriptions, and to comprehend medical terms in common use.

GRADUATION.—1. The candidate must furnish evidence to the Dean of having studied medicine three years, under the supervision of a regular practitioner of medicine, during which time he must have attended two full courses of lectures at some regular medical college, the last of which must have been in this institution.

2. He must have dissected, at least two terms, and attended the clinical lectures.

3. He must present to the Faculty an acceptable thesis, original and in his own hand writing, upon some medical subject.

4. He must be twenty-one years of age, and pass a satisfactory examination in all branches of the course.

For information as to terms and other particulars, write to C. B. Purvis, M. D., Secretary, 1118 Thirteenth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.—Applicants for admission are expected to be well grounded in the common English branches, in Rhetoric and in Elementary Natural Science. The department is open to all, without distinction of race or sex, who are over 18 years of age, and possess the proper qualifications. Each student must make satisfactory arrangements with the Treasurer for the payment of all dues to the University, before attending the exercises of the Law Department.

COURSE OF STUDY.—FIRST YEAR.—The Science of Law, Amos; Elementary Law, Robinson; Introduction to American Law, Walker; Commentaries on the Laws of England. Blackstone; Commentaries on American Law, Kent. Lectures.—Criminal Law.—The Common Law.

SECOND YEAR.—Evidence, Greenleaf; Real Property, Williams; Contracts, Parson; Pleading, Stephens; Torts, Bigelow; Equity, Adams; Laws of Business, Parsons. Lectures.—Nomology, including Legal Art and Science; The Law of Bailments; The Roman or Civil Law.

THIRD YEAR.—Post-Graduate Course—Nomology, including Legal Hygiene and Medicine; Constitutional Law, Constitutional Limitations, and International Law; Law of Shipping and Admiralty, Wills and Administration, Domestic Relations.

The exercises are held at 509 Seventh street, N. W., 2d story, room 27, at hours convenient for those who may be employed during the day. Forensic exercises, debates and essays on legal subjects are held under the supervision of the Law Faculty. Practice in copying and drafting legal forms are continued throughout the course. The Moot Court meets each Thursday evening. The Library connected with the Law Department is open to the students.

SPECIAL ADVANTAGES.—Our Law Department is believed to be the only one south of New York City, open alike to all. Washington, from its location as the Capital of the Nation, furnishes peculiar facilities for students-at-law, in attending the sessions of the Congress, the deliberations of the Supreme Court, the Court of Claims, the Courts of the District of Columbia, in the operations of the various Departments of the National Government, and in the ready access to the Library of Congress, and the Law Libraries of the United States.

GRADUATION DEGREES AND EXPENSES.—The degree of Bachelor of Laws, LL. B., will only be conferred upon students who have pursued the prescribed course, passed satisfactory examinations, attended regularly upon all the exercises, and complied with all regulations of the University and the Law Faculty. By a rule of the Courts of this District, no student can be admitted to practice who has not studied three years at a regular law school, in a lawyer's office, or partly in each. Our Post-Graduate year is designed to comply with this requirement of time, while the instruction embraced in the two-year course will enable students to be admitted in the other States. Admission to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia is granted to students on examination. This, by courtesy, admits to the bar in a majority of the States. Tuition is $40 a year, when paid wholly in advance; otherwise, $20, payable in advance on entrance in September; $15 in January, and $15 in April. No deductions are made for absence or fractional parts of a term. Students may enter at any period of the course, provided they pass a thorough examination on the previous studies, and pay tuition up to the time of entrance. Letters of inquiry may be directed to Warren C. Stone, Esq., Dean of Law Department, No. 472 Louisiana Avenue, northwest, Washington, D. C.

SPECIAL STATEMENT.

ADMISSION.—The Institution offers the full advantages of each department to all, without regard to creed, race or sex.

CAUTION.—Applicants are often rejected, in all the departments of the Institution, because they have not pursued the studies previously necessary. To prevent disappointment, therefore, they must examine the conditions of admission stated in connection with each department.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.—There are two weekly prayer-meetings—one on Thursday evening, conducted by the officers of the Institution; the other on Saturday evening, conducted by students. There is also a preaching service in the afternoon of the Lord's Day, usually conducted by the President, and a daily religious exercise in the Chapel.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.—Literary Societies are formed in each of the Departments, fostered and encouraged by the several Faculties, for improvement in elocution, extemporaneous speaking, written discussions, and general culture.

EXAMINATIONS.—There will be examinations in all the Departments at the close of each term, oral or written, at the option of each Faculty. The examination at the close of the year will be before a committee appointed by the Faculty. At all these examinations members of the Board of Trustees are, ex officio, an examining committee.

LIBRARIES AND CABINETS.—The general library contains about 7,000 volumes, many of them choice and select works. The Professional Departments have each a separate library. The mineral cabinet contains over 4,000 specimens, including fossils, minerals, etc., etc. The museum contains various articles illustrative of foreign and American history, a collection of coins, medals, and curious notes, specimens of valuable woods, Indian relics, portraits of distinguished men and women, views of the late war, engravings and photographic views of classic ruins in Rome. The Trustees are desirous of enlarging the collections in these departments, and solicit contributions from all friends of the Institution.

AID TO INDIGENT STUDENTS.—Continued and successful efforts are made by officers and teachers to obtain help for those who deserve it.

UNIVERSITY SITE AND BUILDINGS.—The Institution occupies an elevated and beautiful site, just outside of the city of Washington, on the north, at the head of Seventh street, facing the University Park. Two lines of street-cars lead to it. Its University edifice is four stories in height, containing recitation and lecture rooms, chapel, library, philosophical rooms, museum, and offices. The Medical Building is on the south of the Park.

Miner Hall, set apart for ladies, will accommodate one hundred and forty students, together with rooms for matron and teachers. The rooms are arranged in suites of two, with two closets, each suite to be occupied by two persons. The basement of this building is arranged and furnished as the University boarding hall.

Clark Hall, for young men, will accommodate two hundred students, and its rooms are furnished like those in Miner Hall.

ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The preceding Catalogue shows a steady growth in the attendance upon the departments. The students are coming, each year, with a better preparation from the common schools of the District of Columbia and of the various States. The two hundred and sixty-five students, reported this year, come from the following States and Territories of the Union: Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Tennessee, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Kansas and Colorado—twenty-seven states and territories—and two from foreign lands. This shows the national relations of Howard University, which aims to supply, at the Capital of the country, a first-class institution of learning, to which students of every race, but especially of the colored race, in all parts of the land may resort, to fit themselves to be men of business, teachers, physicians, lawyers, preachers, editors, and statesmen. One such institution, at least, should be thus centrally located and largely endowed in the name of the American people. Congress, therefore, wisely decided—irrespective of party lines, and by a large majority—at the late session, after a full discussion in the House, to continue the recent annual appropriation towards the support of Howard University; and it is hoped that this will hereafter be such as to make the Institution the pride of the patriot and philanthropist, and ere long to enable it to omit the nominal charge for tuition. The gift, during the year, of $25,000 towards the endowment of a professorship in the Theological Department (which is wholly supported by special donations apart from the general treasury) by Mrs. Valeria G. Stone, of Malden, Mass., is gratefully acknowledged. As it was made subject to the condition that $15,000 be added to it, by other benefactors, earnest appeal is made to the benevolent to contribute to this object, and to the endowment of other professorships, and especially of scholarships. The finances are cared for with such rigid economy, as with the aid of the benevolent, to keep the treasury out of debt, and the property free from incumbrance. The receipt of several small legacies is an indication of a coming remembrance in a large degree in testamentary bequests. Numerous attestations from all parts of the land give evidence that a growing interest is felt in the education of the colored race, and in Howard University as one of the principal agencies for securing that important result. The report of the Treasurer for the last complete financial year of the Institution is appended.
