Low Numbers at Speak Outs Pose Problem for Elections

By JOHN F. V.

Low attendance at recent Student Speak Outs has prompted concern among General Elections officials. In the past three Speak Outs held in Deauville, Founders Quadrangle and in the Bell tower, student support has been sparse. Program Director of General Elections Ronald Hysten said that the low turnout in the past two of these Speak Outs was due to other competing events. "People just don't care anymore, that's evident just by the number of people that have shown up," said Hysten, administrator assistant of the General Elections Office. "But, through our efforts, we have asked about 30 different people to present their campaigns, so there have been Speak Outs."

Students Turnout For College of Engineering Job Fair

Students turned out to support a job fair for engineering students at Howard University. The career fair catered to all majors and was sponsored and well promoted by the Office of Career Services. "Students from a variety of departments, from engineering to psychology, were welcome to attend," said Bernadea Manuel, assistant chair of the physical therapy department.

Professor Lectures On How to Survive Corporate Racism

Tips for surviving in the workplace, internships:

1. Do not be afraid to call out racism when you see it. "It can be as simple as saying something to your manager or co-workers about the behavior you find offensive." (But your call should not be as simple as this."
2. "Work effectively, not against." "Work respectfully, not against."
3. "Be mindful of your personal style in the workplace."
4. "Be mindful of the way you dress and act in the workplace."
5. "Be mindful of the way you speak and act in the workplace.
6. "Be mindful of the way you dress and act in the workplace."
7. "Be mindful of the way you dress and act in the workplace.
8. "Be mindful of the way you dress and act in the workplace.
9. "Be mindful of the way you dress and act in the workplace.
10. "Be mindful of the way you dress and act in the workplace.

Clinkscales pointed out that it is important to know your rights as a student and as an employee. She added that students and employees should be aware of the harassment policies within their institutions.

"I have been told by our Office of Career Services that the students are not the only ones who are affected by corporate racism. The students and the faculty and the staff are all affected by corporate racism."

Physical Therapy Accreditation Almost Off Probation. Department Officials Say

The Department of Physical Therapy has received a letter from the American Physical Therapy Association (APTA) that it is no longer on probation as of March 1, 2001. The letter states that the department has met all the criteria set by the Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education (CAPTE) and is now eligible for re-accreditation.

Chairman of the department, Dr. J. Harold Jones, said, "We are very pleased with the news. This is a major milestone for the department and for the university." Jones added that the department had been working hard to meet all the criteria set by CAPTE, including increasing faculty numbers and improving student retention rates.

The re-accreditation is the result of the department's efforts to improve its programs and meet all the criteria set by CAPTE. The department has been working on these efforts for several years and has made significant progress in recent years.

"We are very pleased with the news," said Chairman of the department, Dr. J. Harold Jones. "This is a major milestone for the department and for the university."

The student group has swiftly become one of the top promoters in the DC area. "I like seeing people enjoying themselves," Compas said. "I want people to be happy.

The group also promotes a party a week. The parties attract students from almost all DC universities. Schools like Georgetown, American and George Washington are just a few of the many institutions that organize the parties.

"We bring a lot of positivity to the student organizations," said Washington. "We're about the students."

Ashcroft and Norton Assume Cabinet Roles

By Mark Gormley

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - Former Arkansas Attorney General John Ashcroft was sworn in on Friday by Chief Justice William Rehnquist as the new attorney general of the United States, replacing former FBI Director Kenneth T. Starr, who was named to head the independent counsel's office to investigate President Bill Clinton.

Ashcroft, a conservative Republican, had been named to the post by President Clinton earlier in the week and was confirmed by the Senate on Thursday.

The announcement was made in a ceremony at the White House.

"I'm honored to be chosen for this important position," Ashcroft said.

"I will work hard to ensure that the Department of Justice is run in a fair and impartial manner, and that it serves the interests of all Americans," he added.

Ashcroft, 57, was appointed by Clinton after the FBI director's resignation was announced in the wake of the Whitewater investigation.

He replaces Starr, who had served as independent counsel since 1994.

Starr's appointment was made after the Whitewater issue led to the House of Representatives' impeachment of Clinton in 1998.

Ashcroft will oversee the Justice Department, which has primary responsibility for enforcing federal laws and regulations and providing leadership and direction on matters of crime, safety and security.

He inherits a department that has been under intense scrutiny in recent years over its handling of the Whitewater case and other matters.

The Justice Department also oversees the FBI, which has been embroiled in controversy over its role in the Whitewater investigation and its handling of other matters.

Ashcroft said he would work to ensure that the department is run in a fair and impartial manner and that it serves the interests of all Americans.

Clinton Heads For Harlem

William Jefferson Clinton is headed for Harlem. The President's office, in Harlem. The President's office, in Harlem, will use the taxpayers more money than all of the preceding previous Presidential offices combined. Actually this is causing turmoil. Republicans, who name Reagan's tightness as a lead-up to the 1982 election, have predicted that the President's office is poorly managed and that the President should move it to lower expenses. The Republicans believe that the President's office will become an issue for the 1982 election. The Republicans believe that the President's office should be moved to a lower expenses location.

It's not easy to get your students to talk about politics. But at Hilltop, we try to make sure that all students are engaged in political discussions. The Hilltop is a place where students can voice their opinions and share their thoughts on current events. The Hilltop is a place where students can learn about politics and become more informed citizens. The Hilltop is a place where students can be heard. The Hilltop is a place where students can be part of the political conversation. The Hilltop is a place where students can be heard.

Letter to the Editor

I am writing to express my concern about the current political climate. I believe that we need to work together to address the many issues facing our country. I urge you to consider the following:

- Increase funding for education
- Reform our healthcare system
- Address climate change
- Address police brutality

I believe that these are important issues that need to be addressed. I hope that you will consider these proposals and take action.

Keysha Tiller’s Clutch Free Throws Help Bury the Lady Bison

By Yvonna McCaskey

Hilltop Bison

Tiller hit two critical free throws in the final seconds of the game, sending the Lady Bison to their first MEAC victory of the season.

The Bison opened the second half on a 9-2 run led by Howard’s Jurrell Davis, who scored all of his 10 points in the second half.

Delaware State opened with a three-point basket by Denzel Walker with 11 seconds left in the game, giving Delaware State its 13th win of the season.

The Lady Bison hit a season-high 44 percent from the field and a season-high 50 percent from beyond the arc, while the Lady Hornets hit just 33 percent from the field and 31 percent from beyond the arc.

Will Tanning of the Terrans Mean Berating the Bison?

From SPOCK 우but I am sure there are plenty of students who would be upset about having to live in such a way. I believe that the Terrans have a role to play in the future of the universe. Perhaps we should work together to find a solution to this problem.

MEAC Academic Team Announced

MEAC Commissioner Charles S. Harris announced today the 2001-2002 MEAC Academic All-Student-Athlete Teams. Student-athletes (244 total) who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or better on all sports will be honored and are listed below.

The large number of student-athletes being honored here is proof that our member institutions have a high standard of excellence in our academic programs, said Harris. I would like to take this opportunity to applaud the efforts of the coaches, student-athletes and administrators for these exceptional accomplishments.

Howard University had the most athletes honored with 4.

They included:

- Larry Alston (M-Basketball, 3.89), Tyrone Bowman (W-Lacrosse, 3.00), D. J. McCollum (M-Basketball, 3.41), Mark Johnson (W-Basketball, 3.00), Dennis McPherson (M-Basketball, 3.76), Levern Merritt (M-Track, 3.77), Frederick Robin (M-Basketball, 3.23), Michael Zegar (M-Basketball, 3.78)

Tommaso, Keene Play their Role

From ATHLETICS

I recognize the importance of the Terrans in the Terran Empire. However, I do not believe that the Terrans have a role to play in the future of the universe. Perhaps we should continue to focus on our own planet and its needs.
