Hi Mr. Daniels

Are you still there smiling, happy and healthy as ever? I trust that you are. I also hope that the Classes had very successful mid-term examinations. (all A's) (smile) My only regret being that I could not be there with you all.

Since I have written to you last Uncle Sam has brought me away across the Pacific Ocean to a deserted little island. I can imagine chances of opening a Law School here are more than promising. (smile) You'll find an abundance of rain fall, (every day) an extreme plenty of coconuts, and last but not least huge, ferocious mosquitoes. Only my hope to return to Law School could make me endure such conditions. May the date soon arrive when evils shall cease.

Mr. Daniels, I shall appreciate hearing from you and the school at any time. In fact, I know of nothing that I could appreciate any more. Please give my regards to other faculty members.

write soon.

Sincerely,

J. Calhoun
