Acclaimed Director Presented With First Black Face Award

By CHERYLLE WYNNHAM
Campus Communications

Spike Lee, a world-renowned filmmaker, was honored when Howard University presented him with the first ever Black Face Award on Monday.

Lee was honored for his role as America’s premier filmmakers. "I am honored," said Lee. "I feel that Howard is a great institution." Students really take advantage of the opportunities they have here."

The ceremony of director showed scenes which was a comprehensive black history television show of the early 20th century which was entitled "Black History". Franklin to Give Charter Day Address

By DAVID G. CLARK, Jr.

Raymond Smith, Special Assistant to the President, announced Monday that Dr. John Hope Franklin, a world-renowned historian and author, will deliver the keynote address in which he will discuss the topic of the 'Virtue Observance of the Academic Year, the Charter Day ceremony is held in Cramton Auditorium at 9 a.m. today. The ceremonies commemorate the enactment of the Congressional Charter that established the University on March 2, 1867. Festivities begin with a day of classes and culminate in the keynote address by which the University recognizes the education of its students, the academic year, and the contributions of African Americans, especially Howard University alumni.

Brown, Dixon 'Emerge' from the Shadows to Lead

By Desiree Nwozile
Hilltop Staff writer

HUSA (presidential candidate, Stephanie Brown) and her running mate, Mark Dixon, are very active on the campus since their freshman year. She was the Project Coordinator for the Graduate Student Union and was part of establishing Year Book foundations, while he was on the welfare committee and the yearbook staff. They currently are the President of the Howard University NAACP chapter and were ranked the Student of the Year for previous years in college. Helping Matters, Mark Dixon, in a sophomore International Business major with a concentration in Finance, from Los Angeles, Nevada. He is a recent transfer to the Chase Manhattan Bank in the 21st Century Advantage Program, which functions within the School of Business. Dixon is also a general partner of the Campus Committe, which is an investment group established by the Howard University Student Association for groups and other Howard students.

Brown and Dixon have been juniors since they started this year but they stayed away from students by setting up some programs on behalf of the student body, which is a commitment they made to the electorate. What we are saying is that we should be utilizing the student body in every aspect that we work on. We are highly dedicated to the students, she added.

Brown, a major in Business Administration, is the sister of a student who is already in law school. Coorlner has an interest in justice studies and has been an active advocate for social justice. With the divide growing bigger between student government and Howard University administrators, Brown said. "The time has come for us to take a look at the student body, not just as a number, but as a whole."

Brown and Dixon plan to continue the Graduate Student Union and the Howard University Student Association's focus on helping students and the Howard University community. The two candidates are determined to establish a Student Health Service that will provide free health care to students. The health service will be run by student volunteers and will be available to all students, regardless of their insurance status. Brown and Dixon also plan to establish a community service award for students who make significant contributions to the community. They hope to use this award to encourage students to become more involved in community service.

Cooper, a double major in Political Science and Communications, is a senior and has been a member of the Howard University Student Association for four years. She is the Vice President of the Howard University NAACP chapter and has revitalized the program since she joined the organization. She currently is the President of the Howard University NAACP chapter and was ranked the Student of the Year for previous years in college. Helping Matters, she said. "I find it an honour to be a part of the solution," Cooper said. "I would like to see the student body involved in the decision-making process and be able to take action when it is necessary."

Cooper and Brown have been majors in the Howard University Student Association for three years. They are both determined to establish a Student Health Service that will provide free health care to students. The health service will be run by student volunteers and will be available to all students, regardless of their insurance status. Brown and Dixon also plan to establish a community service award for students who make significant contributions to the community. They hope to use this award to encourage students to become more involved in community service.
Bell hopes to ‘Progress to Greatness’

By Chris Cooper

In the past years Lauren Bell never would have thought she could serve as President of Howard University Engineering and Math Research.

Recently, she was named President of Howard University Engineering, Math Research and the Howard University Engineering and Math Research Development Corporation.

"I am grateful to be able to serve in this capacity," said Bell. "It is a privilege to be able to work with such talented and dedicated professionals."
Scientists Make Discoveries That Could Revolutionize Medicine

Scientists have made several groundbreaking discoveries that could have a significant impact on medicine. One of the most exciting developments is the discovery that scientists have made in the field of genetics. This discovery has opened up new possibilities for the treatment of diseases and could lead to the development of new drugs.

One of the key breakthroughs has been the discovery of the human genome. Scientists have been able to map out the complete sequence of the human genome, which contains all the genetic information that defines a human being. This has been a major milestone in the field of genetics and has opened up new possibilities for the treatment of diseases.

Another important discovery is the development of CRISPR-Cas9 technology, which is a powerful tool for editing genes. This technology has the potential to revolutionize the treatment of genetic disorders and could lead to the development of new drugs for a wide range of conditions.

In addition to these developments, scientists have also made progress in understanding the immune system and how it works. This understanding could lead to the development of new treatments for a range of diseases, including cancer and autoimmune disorders.

Overall, these discoveries have the potential to transform medicine and improve the health of millions of people around the world. With continued research and development, we can look forward to a future where these discoveries will be put to use to improve the lives of patients and save countless lives.
Howard Grads Offer 'Real' Taste of Southern Cuisine

By James Denton
Hilltop Staff Writer

When someone says "real food cuisine," a vivid image may surface in your mind: a cow, a farmer, a little red house, a big blue sky, wiping your hands with a towel tied on the door. Hilltop's Tad Rich has experienced all of those things. It is that kind of cooking that he offers in his new place of business: The Cuisine, a vivid image may surface in your mind. Hilltop Staff Writer Tad Rich has set a new standard of southern cuisine. Two young women in here cooking... Monique Knight and Shanda Watts, have set a new standard of southern cuisine.

The Clinton Pardons

The power of the privileged

By Emily Batt
Hilltop Staff Writer

In his last day of office, former President Bill Clinton took full advantage of his presidential privilege to sign two ministerial letters and commute the sentences of 36 individuals. Not long after these were done, the new president issued several controversial questions. Now we are left to see Clinton's defense because we are his supporters, it is certainly going to be a good that the new government is as likely as the former president's actions.

Hilltop's performance was one in a series of special events including excerpts from the "March on Washington," "Montgomery to Memphis." and the "Mountaintop." The performance was one in a series of special events. Mcilvain's performance was an interactive one, inviting the audience to sing along. Mcilvain's performance was an interactive one, inviting the audience to sing along.

The controversy stems from many issues. Perhaps the most glaring is the relationship between Clinton, the Democratic Party and Denise Rich.
Giving Students the Benefit of the Doubt

JOE RILEY

Oh, Cool. What's going on here?

In covering the Student Senate, I try to observe that last Tuesday's meeting was one of the most rewarding experiences for students and faculty. In this meeting, the Senate discussed the importance of diversity on campus and the need for more inclusive language and practices. This discussion was sparked by a students' group called "SAFETY," which has been advocating for changes in campus security and safety measures.

In my role as Student Senate President, I want to make sure that all voices are heard and that the Senate meets its goals. I support the "SAFETY" group's proposals and encourage all students to engage in the discussion on diversity and inclusion. Let's continue to work together to create a more inclusive and welcoming environment for all.

Student Affairs March 2001
The MEAC's Rookie of the Year Has Been Phenomenal in Her Freshman Season

Essence Coggins lies face down in her bed, exhausted from the evening's 103-69 win over the Rattlers of Florida A&M University. Her Lady Bison team scored over 100 points for the umpteenth time this season, but instead of bragging about what the team accomplished tonight, Coggins is concerned about something else.

As she wearily lifts her head from her pillow she asks in a voice barely audible to human ears, "Did the guys win?"

This is just the kind of player Coggins is, unselfish both on and off the court, with an uncanny ability to see the floor better than many veterans of the game. At first glance, the 5-foot-8 guard out of nearby Richmond, VA may strike one as Rueblo and reserved. That is, until the opening tip. Almost immediately, Coggins transforms into an opposing coach's nightmare, punishing would-be defenders with a killer crossover dribble, scorching the nets with a three-pointer, or dashing in for an assist. Coggins has had to make a number of adjustments this season, most notably playing on a team that boasted only nine eligible players after semester grade reports were released. Many times Coggins, who usually plays the shooting guard, has had to start at the power forward position in a four-guard lineup.

"The academic situation just made us stronger as a team," she says. "We had to overcome that and do what we had to do. I did the same thing in high school."

Despite coming to Howard without a major decided, there was one thing Coggins had decided on for sure. She knew that she would be rookie of the year.

"My goal was to be rookie of the year," Coggins says. "That was my goal no matter what school I went to. I'm glad it's a goal I accomplished."

Eagles, Lady Eagles Sweep Howard

Coppin State Posits Wins Over Both Howard Teams

By TROY ME CAHURN AND BRAD Own M. BICKERSTAFF

Howard University, Beijing, China — The MEAC is a tough road to travel, but with a strong team, it can be conquered. Coppin State University is one such team that has been on a roll this season, winning both its conference games against Howard University.

The Lady Eagles had a dominating performance against the Lady Bison, winning 86-42. The Howard Bison were unable to keep up with the Lady Eagles' offensive power, as they scored only 42 points.

On the men's side, the Howard men's basketball team faced Coppin State and were defeated by a score of 87-72. The Howard Bison were unable to keep up with the offensive firepower of the Coppin State Eagles.

The MEAC is a competitive conference, and Coppin State has proven to be a strong team this season. With a record of 11-5, they are positioned well to make a deep run in the conference tournament.

The Power of Pain

By Tom Williams

Sickle Cell Anemia is a disease which affects the red blood cells, turning them to become sickle or crescent-shaped instead of disc-shaped. This results in a lack of oxygen to the body.

Through the book paragraph following Sickle Cell Anemia is a literal sense, it doesn't come close to defining what Sickle Cell Anemia is, which is usually called sickle cell anemia.

The disease causes both physical and emotional stress, depleting the patient's energy and improving the patient's life. It is sometimes called sickle cell anemia.

In New York City, NY, a woman was in a room with a roof to protect her from the rain. She was feeling weak and dizzy. She thought she had a fever. She was in the hospital with her baby because she was having trouble breathing.

The woman was anemic, which means she didn't have enough red blood cells in her body. The red blood cells carry oxygen to the body's tissues and organs. Without enough red blood cells, the body can't get enough oxygen.

The woman was also in pain. She had pain in her chest and back. She had a fever and was weak.

There may be ways to prevent some of the complications of sickle cell anemia. For example, doctors may give patients blood transfusions to try to improve their blood counts.

Sickle cell anemia is a disease that affects red blood cells. It can cause pain, weakness, and other symptoms. People who have sickle cell anemia are at risk for infections and other complications. But they can live healthy lives with the right care.

Howard Students Make Clothes Priceless

By Tom A. Woods

Did you ever see someone wearing such a unique outfit that you wondered where they bought it? The answer is that they bought it from a thrift store. Thrift stores are a popular place for people to find unique and affordable clothing.

Sickles and me, we have a lot of friends who have sickle cell anemia. It's been a tough experience for us.

Last year, my mom and I decided to make some clothes for our friends who have sickle cell anemia. We wanted to help them feel better and show our support.

We started by getting some fabric and sewing supplies. We made a dress, a shirt, and a pair of pants.

We also decided to make some shirts. We wanted to make shirts for people who didn't have any money.

We wanted to make shirts that were soft and comfortable. We used a special thread that would hold up to lots of washing.

The shirts turned out great. We sold them to some of our friends who had sickle cell anemia. They loved them and said they felt much better.

We also made some ties. We wanted to make ties for people who didn't have any money.

The ties turned out great. We sold them to some of our friends who had sickle cell anemia. They loved them and said they felt much better.

We wanted to make sure that our friends who had sickle cell anemia could afford the clothes we made. We didn't want them to feel embarrassed because they didn't have enough money to buy new clothes.

The clothes we made were a hit. Our friends who had sickle cell anemia loved them. They said they felt much better and didn't have to worry about buying new clothes.
Filing Taxes Doesn't Have to be Taxing

Spring is in the Air And Now in Your Room

By Nicole Coleman

H&R Block Staff Writer

I once went to an air show given by Howard University's Accounting Department. The H&R Block service is at many different locations including 2005 and 2006. According to Mr. Chow and Mrs. Chan, they are planning to open a new store in the next few years. This month's special is a whimsical tale of forbidden love. Against the beautiful backdrop of Knoxville, Tennessee, a young couple falls in love, but their love is forbidden by society. As director Demain directed and written by Wong Kar-wai, is not the typical movie. Those who give the film a chance, and have a wide appreciation for the arts, will no doubt find some enjoyment in this tale of remained love.

Point of View

Do you have a room that is already color-coordinated with Stickie cells? If not, you should consider using them. The combination of these two items would simply make your room look more appealing. Through the methods of this article, you should be more able to decorate your room on your own. As director Demain directed and written by Wong Kar-wai, is not the typical movie. Those who give the film a chance, and have a wide appreciation for the arts, will no doubt find some enjoyment in this tale of remained love.

Before you paint your room, and you hope the cops n ever get the robbers. If you love action and hate Elvis Presley, this is not the movie for you. "Madame is New York's tale is by turns Condominium Hall, 1718 D St. NW. It's an ironic comedy and tomorrow night. Tickets are $60. For information, call 202-828-4780.

The movie: Brad Pitt (yes!) and Julia Roberts star as "The Mothman Prophecies," allegedly in which a moth (a title?) prophecies to a couple that their child will change the course of history. Apparently people want to get the hands of the ostrich and tomorrow night. Check, local listings for more information on this.

What's it all about? "The Mothman Prophecies" is a story about the strange events that occurred in West Virginia during the 1966-67 time period, in which a mysterious creature, known as the Mothman, was reported by several people. The film follows the investigation of a group of investigators who try to uncover the truth behind the mystery of the Mothman.
