Lawnson Talks On Student Council Day
Says Students Face Five Problems That Must Be Solved

Emphasizing the difficulties concerning the present day student, Mr. E. R. Lane, manager of the Art Department of the National Union of Art Schools, delivered an address before the Student Assembly at the Student Council's annual meeting on Tuesday.

Science, art, education, politics and modern ideals were discussed by Mr. Lane, whose address was warmly received by the students.

"The student of to-day is compared to that of yesterday as the Gandhi of his race is to the Mohammed.

"The ideals of the present day student are as different as those of the past, and the problems that face him are as different as those that faced his fellow students.

Scribblings

When the Day is Done

In loll to sit in some corner

Bravely love or sky

Some lonely rose

Or one person

Foolish ways to worship

Envoy

As things go on, life is but a fast

Roof-a-perpetual whirlwind

Dawn drains in each company

Though the work is completed

A single word, A single act

Supplementation

Oh, never to be a need or all the need

Let us not forget all the questions and pains

Let us try to create some and make some

And that God, our God and not the Lord

Therefore I shall be, I shall be a god again

Star Magic

By lucky stars will shine tonight

From moon-shaded boughs, field and street

I shall then be born

I shall then be born, I shall then be born

The hilltop

A musical musing of hope for the bosh beards, field and street

I shall then be born

JAMES GIVES BREAKFAST TO HOWARD FOOTBALL

Mr. Charles C. James, proprietor of the James Hotel, used to give a complimentary breakfast to the Howard University football team the morning before an important game. It was his custom to give it to the team of a college he did not wish to have beat them. Howard, for instance, was always a choice. The President of the Hotel used the James Hotel to give the breakfast before the game. It was a popular custom in the old days, but as the football season approaches, the tradition seems to be dying out.
