I
How dreary the winds shriek and whine:
The trembling shadows grow chill.
O Soul of my soul, wert thou mine!

II
Oh where are the stars that did shine,
The moonlight that tinselled the hill?
How dreary the winds shriek and whine!

III
Despair round my heart doth entwine,
Far soundeth my cry, weird and shrill:
O Soul of my soul, wert thou mine!

IV
I've quaffed to the dregs the mad wine
Of passion. But under my sill,
How dreary the winds shriek and whine!

V
'Tis thine, is the charm so divine
That doth this mad yearning instill—
O Soul of my soul, wert thou mine!

VI
'Tis mine, here to crave and to pine
For what thou wilt never fulfill.
How dreary the winds shriek and whine!
O Soul of my soul, wert thou mine!

Professor Lindsay Lectures

Professor Lindsay, Professor of Social Legislation at Columbia University gave us on Tuesday night last a very interesting lecture on "The Value of Social Service." The doctor pointed out the marked change for the last twenty-five years in the development of our Social consciousness. He showed that opportunities are now given not only for the proper study of this once neglected branch of knowledge, but fields are now open for actual service. "We cannot develop," he remarked "any science without the application of the services to the actual problems of life and for the advancement of the common good." The key-note of his address was the social betterment the masses.

Track

The big cross-country run took place on Wednesday afternoon. A large number of track enthusiasts were out to witness the exciting event; and there were fourteen entries (in the run). T. S. Langston A and S '14, captured the first prize, a silver medal, J. W. Love A and S '16, the second, a bronze medal, and G. C. Grant third and M. Sealy fourth, ribbons.

Base Ball

The game between Varsity and the Lebanon Valley College of Annville, Pa., was not played on Tuesday because of the breaking of the contract by Lebanon who wrote that a game with Howard would render her Southern trip an impossibility because of circumstances in our community.

Basket Ball

The game between the Saint Christophers and Howard in New York City resulted in a score of 22 to 17 in favor of the Saint Christophers.

Professor R. R. Wright Lectures

The last of the series of Sociological Lectures was delivered on Wednesday night by Dr. R. R. Wright, Editor of the Christian Recorder. Dr. Wright after graduating from the State College of Savannah, Ga. took special work in the University of Chicago and Germany, then his Doctor of Philosophy in social subjects in the University of Pennsylvania.

The lectures took the form of a review of current literature bearing upon the Negro race. Dr. Wright revealed many truths concerning the Reconstruction Period and the attributes of the Negro in general that are of permanent value to every member of the race. The speaker showed marked familiarity with the historic progress of the race, and a keen analytical mind, supported by years of study, and practical experience.

Alumni, friends, students and all, the time for the Atlanta Conference is near and only a very few responses to the call for aid in sending delegates have been received. Your support is certainly needed.

In The Woods

I came into the sunlit woods today,
The heart within me burdened down with care
And aching restlessness, but something there
Came breathing peace and soothed the pain away.
And what it was I know not nor can say;
But ah! the day was wonderfully fair,
Sweet promises of Spring were in the air—
Of Spring with sunny days and flowers gay.

Perhaps it was the stillness of the place
That brought me peace; for there no sound I heard
Save now and then the blithe call of a bird;
Perhaps the warm wind breathing on my face,—
I cannot tell; but seeking rest from care
I went into the woods and found it there.

A Note

The members and visitors of the Carolina Club were given a rare treat on Monday, April 20, by the essay of Prof. Ernest E. Pollard of South Carolina. He treated "Poetry and its Relation to Life". In his treatment he showed the influence of poetry from the time of the writing of "Beowulf" to the time of poetry of Tennyson. In his conclusion he expressed the hope that the Carolina Club would stand as a literary as well as a social organization.

The Journal Election Begins

The subscribers to the University Journal met on Wednesday afternoon and initiated the new method of making out the ballot. Heretofore, the method has been productive of uncalled-for rivalry which has endangered merit and efficiency; however, this method, while not perfect, goes far toward remedying this evil of the former method. In the new method, one party cannot rightly claim that it is more representative of the students when the two parties are equally representative of the students. Therefore, the subscribers, through the suggestion and supervision of the method by the Staff, have offered the Official Ballot. It is very evident that the subscribers used praise-worthy discretion in making out the ballot, since each of the candidates is worthy. It is hoped that subscribers will continue to use discretion.

At the polls on May 2, one Editor, four Associate Editors, and one man for each of the other places are to be selected.

Physical Culture Versus Athletics

AGES twenty-eight and twenty-nine of the catalogue for the year 1914-15 show an added fee of two dollars ($2.00) for physical culture, optional only to professional schools, meanwhile, the same one dollar ($1.00) goes to athletics as before.

The facts about the matter are these. Physical culture has been added just as any other course in the University curriculum; it has no direct relation to athletics, and is not connected in any way with the athletic directorate; it is simply an added course for the benefit of the students. It has nothing whatever to do with the gymnasium which every student dreams of; if such a building is gotten it will not grow out of this temporary gym, but will be altogether a separate movement. The fee of two dollars ($2.00) which every student must pay, except in the professional schools, goes to the upkeep of the building and its equipment, and the salary of the trainer.

Under this new system the student will be required to pay three dollars ($3.00) at the beginning of the year for athletics and physical culture, and perhaps two dollars ($2.00) as admission fees to the games played during the year. If he wishes to take a friend to some of the games, his expenditure will be beyond five dollars ($5.00). On the other hand, athletics will receive only the same one dollar ($1.00), which amount preceding years prove insufficient; and appeals will have to be made to the students from time to time, as formerly, for ten, fifteen, or twenty-five cents, for something the Council is unable to pay for; and when the year is completed the students will have paid perhaps six dollars ($6.00) for both these interests, and athletics will not even then be on any firmer basis or receiving any more money than its dollar.

In view of the above facts, the student ought to feel disappointed at this new system. If physical culture is a University course then why does not the University provide for it and pay its Director? The building has been equipped without cost to the University, and now the students must pay for its upkeep, while the University prints in its catalogue a physical culture course it is conducting. Besides, the Athletic Association was requested to accept the temporary gym with the understanding that out of it would come a suitable building; now, we are informed that it has nothing to do with a new gym. Those in authority declared that if the students would pay a monthly fee for the rest of the year, provision would be made for them another year; the "provision" is that we must pay for it in a lump rather than monthly. True enough, the amount is reduced from 50 cents ($0.50) per month to two dollars ($2.00) for the year, but we are paying for it just the same, and still we are told that it is a University Course.

The authorities seem not to have considered students' welfare at all in this matter, nor have they left anything at all to be done for athletics. The students expressed a willingness to pay a tax of three dollars ($3.00) for athletics with a thirty thousand dollar ($30,000) gymnasium, and seemingly upon this willingness they have levied a tax of three dollars ($3.00) which will not get a gymnasium nor improve athletics. This is paying too dearly for a little physical culture which many students will never take, even when it is given free of charge and it practically disregards all that the students have been working for, besides causing them to pay a sum which is unreasonable, to say the least. — "Roman."

A Word from Bishop W. P. Thirkield to the Debating Team

April 14, 1914.
Messieurs Pollard and Long,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Messieurs Pollard and Long:

Accept my hearty congratulations on the honor that you have won for Howard. I want you to know that it sets a star of something of the old-time Howard spirit and enthusiasm that I have felt in the days of my closer fellowship with the University. It is a glorious victory, which adds new laurels to the University. Truly, "It is the way they have kept old Howard."

Most cordially,

W. P. Thirkield

Howard's Gymnasium
Situation

As there seems to be some misunderstanding with regard to Howard's prospects of having a big gymnasium, we feel that a few words should be given, merely, for the sake of setting forth the truth.

For a number of years, the Alumni Association has striven faithfully for the honor of raising $10,000 to which $15,000 was to be added by the University in order to put up a gymnasium building. The Association, undoubtedly, did not accomplish the results which it desired, since less than one third of the pledged amount was collected. Upon this, the Association turned over to the University the money collected that it might draw interest and leave the University to collect the balance of the pledged amount through the provision of a paid secretary.

In the meantime, Mr. C. B. Curley, College '11 and Law '14, succeeded in getting the students and the Athletic Council interested in a plan, as the students naturally were not pleased with the progress already made toward securing the gymnasium. This plan was that each student hereafter be taxed $3.00, $1.00 to go to athletics and $2.00 to go toward raising $30,000 for a gymnasium building. This plan of Mr. Curley and the students was not accepted by the Board of Trustees. At any rate, the plan was not found to be feasible; for the University would necessarily be responsible for the $30,000 loan at a time when it is in no favorable position as to finances; and, too, even if the loan had been stood for or made by the University, from where would the money come for equipment and maintenance until the loan was paid off? Therefore, this plan, although good in that it revealed the intense eagerness of the students for a gymnasium and physical culture and thus helped to bring about the present situation, could not very well be taken up.

Nevertheless, the University has wisely come to the rescue of the gymnasium situation, and is combining all efforts in behalf of a gymnasium building and facilities commensurate with the standing of the institution. While it is putting forth efforts of which many are not appraised, it is also providing a temporary gymnasium; for Spaulding Hall has been set aside and, from University funds equipped and training in physical culture begun. The students, who take the training, pay 50 cents per month for it. For next year, however, it is planned that considerable additions be made, making room for practice of basket ball and other gymnasium conveniences; and the students will be required to take the physical culture just as they are required to take a subject and will be required to pay $2.00 just as they are required to pay for tuition, laboratory or any other benefit received in the institution. The University then is without a doubt, acting wisely; it is not only making possible a big new gymnasium by the surest means and in the quickest time, but is providing extremely creditable temporary facilities.

Mr. J. A. Wright, a graduate of the College of Arts and Sciences 1911 and a student of the Senior class at Andover Theological Seminary, spent a few days in the city. Mr. Wright in a brief address at the Chapel exercises, attributed his success at Andover to the training he received at Howard, and advised a close application to daily routine duties as a necessary adjunct to success in all branches of activities.

On April the seventeenth, the Junior Class of the Teachers' College very fittingly honored the Seniors with a most enjoyable banquet. Mr. Howard H. Long served, with dignity and wit, as Toastmaster; and besides many lively and pertinent impromptu speeches, President Clayborne George, Messrs. Earl Crampton, J. E. Jones, Guy S. Ruffin, and Misses Olive M. Wells, and Edessa Toles, appeared on the program. Miss Frances Gunner presented the poem, "To the Seniors". The occasion was, indeed, and exceptional one.

Three factors may be said to determine the geographical distribution of students: (1) the distance of the state from the District of Columbia, (2) the provision for higher education in the state, and (3) the local provision for secondary education.

With the District of Columbia which furnishes 25%, the three states massed around the District,—Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia—provide 41 or 74 per cent of the whole number of students.

Fifty-five or 18 per cent of the 292 students are young women. Again the District leads, furnishing 32 or 58 per cent. Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania with the District produce 41 or 74 per cent of the young women. South America and the West Indies supply the large number of 20, all whom are men.
