MANUSCRIPT DIVISION

Scope Note

C. Glenn Carrington (1904-1975) was an avid collector of culture. For over fifty years he nurtured his rather wide-ranging collection encompassing the arts and history. He possessed a special interest in collecting Black Americana and developed an extensive collection of books, record albums, prints, posters, programs, photographs and manuscripts that he subsequently donated to the Moorland-Spingarn Research Center.

A catalog of the books, music and manuscript materials entitled The Glenn Carrington Collection was prepared by the Center staff in 1977 as part of a program commemorating the donation of this gift.

While the collection of books (over 2,200 volumes in fifteen languages) has been integrated into the holdings of the MSRC Library Division, the music collection and the personal papers comprised of correspondence, tapes, photographs, programs and news articles are part of the Manuscript Division's holdings.

The C. Glenn Carrington Papers span the period 1861-1977 and total 36 linear feet. The earliest dated materials are correspondence between Hamilton Carter, a great uncle and his mother, Pollie Carter, discussing family matters.

Mr. Carrington's enthusiasm for art, books and music developed during his student days at Howard University in the 1920's. It was here that Glenn Carrington's consciousness developed under the influence of his philosophy professor and friend, Dr. Alain Locke.

The Carrington Papers include a series on Dr. Locke, with numerous writings by and about Dr. Locke and correspondence between the two men, from Carrington's matriculation at Howard University to Locke's death in 1954.

While serving in various capacities in the field of social work, including the first Black parole officer for New York State, Carrington vigorously pursued his avocation as a collector. He traveled extensively, visiting Europe, Japan, Greece and the Caribbean Islands; and attended readings, plays, concerts, art and photographic exhibits. Such activities afforded him the opportunity to collect books, programs, art objects and photographs, many of which are autographed. Mr. Carrington's collecting led to the development of relationships with some of the leading figures in the arts community; among them Harold Jackman, Amiri Baraka, Langston Hughes and Carl Van Vechten. Their contributions are documented in the papers through correspondence, programs, articles and photographs.

The largest series in the Carrington Papers, totaling 21 boxes, is titled "Subject Files." This unique collection of ephemera is composed of news articles, programs (many autographed) and announcements. Individuals and/or events associated with art, dance, music, stage and literature can be found in this series. There are files on Ethel Waters, Sammy Davis Jr., Paul Robeson, Aretha Franklin, Katherine Dunham, Richard Wright and Paule Marshall.

There are also files on African and Caribbean cultures, politics, religion, and folklore; individuals such as Franz Fanon, Kenneth Clark, Father Divine; and a 1934 copy of J.A. Rogers' 100 Amazing Facts About the Negro.

Complementing the subject files is the Photographs, Photo Albums and Slides Series. This collection contains photographs of Mr. Carrington's family and friends dating back to the 1800's, entertainers, and the places and people he encountered on his travels to Greece, Japan, Europe and around the United States. The collection includes photographs taken by Mr. Carrington, Langston Hughes, Carl Van Vechten and James Mitchell.

Additional materials collected by Mr. Carrington have been transferred to the Moorland-Spingarn Research Center's Prints and Photographs Department. These materials include broadsides and posters; among them sketches by Charles White, Tom Feelings and Elton Fax.
