Scope Note

The Jeannette Carter Collection was donated to Howard University by Mrs. R.T. Ward in 1965. The collection totals « linear foot and spans the period 1927-1964. The collection is a sampling of items documenting the activities of Jeannette Carter. Miss Carter resided in Washington, D.C. most of her career. She was very active in politics, particularly in relation to the Republican party. She was founder and President of the National Political Study Club; and served as first editor and manager of the Women's Voice, a national women's magazine published in the interest of the Republican policies. Miss Carter was also active in women's rights, campaigning avidly for women's suffrage. In 1918 she served as President of the Woman's Wage Earner's Association.

Miss Carter's brother, William Justin was also very active in politics and labor. Attorney Carter, of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania was one of the organizers of the Niagara Movement; and was chairman of the Commission to Rewrite the State Workmen's Compensation Act in Pennsylvania. The collection contains a few items of biographical materials related to him. The collection also includes a speech by William Justin Carter, Jr.; a few photographs, and some general printed materials on politics and religion.
