CIVIL RIGHTS DOCUMENTATION PROJECT
VERTICAL FILE COLLECTION

Prepared by
Avril J. Madison, Oral History Librarian
September 30, 1992

MANUSCRIPT DIVISION

Scope Note

The Civil Rights Documentation Project (CRDP) vertical file collection was accumulated by Project personnel between 1967 and 1973, the life of the Project. This was part of a two-pronged effort by the CRDP to record oral history interviews with individuals "significantly involved in civil rights activities" and to systematically gather materials such as, handbills, posters, correspondence, memoranda, minutes of meetings, newsletters, photographs, reports, conference materials, flyers, broadsides, newspaper clippings and journal articles.

In 1974 the Project's administrative records, oral history interviews and collection of vertical file materials were donated to the Moorland-Spingarn Research Center of Howard University. These materials were separated from the oral history interviews and administrative files to comprise the Civil Rights Documentation Project Vertical File Collection. A few items were also acquired and added to this collection since Moorland-Spingarn's administration. Spanning the period 1952 to 1992, the materials primarily focus on the years 1960 to 1973, and total eight and one half linear feet. The collection is arranged alphabetically according to subject, organization or individual. Of particular interest are the organizational papers of the Poor People's Campaign and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, as well as the numerous Black and Afro-American educational, political and cultural conferences that took place between 1967 and 1972.

Scope Note continued

The Civil Rights Documentation Project was established by the Fund for the Advancement of Education to acquire primary source materials on the "...civil rights struggle not already represented adequately in existing collections...." Using 1960--the year the student sit-in movement gained national attention--as a beginning point, the Project aggressively chronicled the civil rights era.

More than 700 interviews were recorded and transcribed during the course of the Project. After their donation to Moorland-Spingarn, the amassed interviews were renamed the Ralph J. Bunche Oral History Collection in honor of the late United Nations Undersecretary who envisioned the original Project and remained closely associated with it until his death in 1971. The Collection has been available since the late 1970s for scholarly research and is described and partially annotated in the Bibliography of Holdings of the Civil Rights Documentation Project, published in 1974.

Series Description

Series A
Box 128-1
to Box 159-17

Vertical File

This series is arranged in alphabetical order according to subject, organization or individual. It contains primarily printed material including handbills, flyers, newsletters, posters, reports, conference materials, news clippings and journal articles. Also included are unpublished matter and photographs. Some newspaper clippings and other printed material concerning a few of the oral authors who participated in the Project's oral history program were added by Moorland-Spingarn Research Center staff. Several oversized items, too large for the regular document boxes, were photocopied in a reduced size and are included. The original oversized items are contained in Series B.

Series B
Box 159-18

Oversized

This series contains 29 oversized items. Included are reprints of newspaper articles, broadsides, posters, newsletters and invitations. Photocopies of these items in reduction are foldered in Series A.
