Female Students Concerned About Their Safety on Campus

By Kevin Goss
Chronicle Staff Writer

Kimberly Tyson, a freshman English major from Nevada and resident of the Brewer Annex, looks over her shoulder every time she walks through the doors of the Undergraduate Library. After a late night studying with friends, Tyson, like many other female students, questions just how safe she is in her dorm.

"I'm never really home alone, but this the first time I've been alone here in the Library," Tyson said, "I am scared to go out even when I am not so tired or it is dark outside." Tyson said, "I have never been here before, but the truth is that I am not sure what to expect out here when I am not alone."

The fear of being alone is not felt only by Tyson. In the Library alone, she is not alone. Many other female students feel the same way.

"I have never been a student before, but I feel like I am now. I am always worried about what might happen to me while I am out here."

President H. Patrick Swygert

The University tested 100 people suspected to be carrying anthrax, Gaiter said, but there are no other symptoms of illness to treat this. As this is the posthospital does have the anthrax to treat anyone. Gaiter said.

"We thought the best thing to do was to be ahead of things. Heaven forbid that if one of our employees in our post office has a problem and we are not proactive," he said.

Brentwood Post office where two postal employees dead and another who had been exposed to anthrax related cases.

"We all have bacteria in our system," he said. "We do not know that they have been exposed to anthrax."

"No one knows you better than your own person," he said. "Treat everyone as if they have anthrax."

"We thought the best thing to do was to do it now," he said. "We do not know that they have been exposed to anthrax."

"We thought the best thing to do was to start testing sooner than later," President H. Patrick Swygert said. "We do not know that they have been exposed to anthrax."

Voices: Views

What measures do you think the university should put in place to make the students feel safe?

Melanie Johnson, freshman, Pre-Physical Therapy: "I don't think they can do anything."

Lindsey Spann, sophomore, History: "What they don't need to do is put the barricades in front of the Towers, maybe, because the incident happened outside of the barricade."

Tracy Givens, sophomore, Marketing: "They should increase security presence and uniformly throughout security procedures."

Daryll Dobbs, sophomore, Marketing: "They should take down these barricades because we don't feel like we're in the middle of a war zone."

Decola Patton, senior, Political Science: "They should stop intimidating the students who live in the East and West Towers; we don't want to feel like we're in some sort of military camp."

Anthrax Hits the District

By Michael Zimmerman
Contributing Writer

In the metropolitan Washington area, many people have been trying to cope with the devastation of the Anthrax disaster and its social aftermath. The city now has another threat on its hands, Anthrax. On Monday, October 15, a letter was sent to Senator Majority Leader Tom Daschle [D-SD] that read "You cannot ignore. We have this Anthrax. You do not. Are you kidding? Death to America. Do not kill innocent people. And don't go to work on the Hill. Addis Ababa is next" signed "中共中央" (Central Committee). The letter was one of over 2500 reports of suspicious packages, including non-personalized, bio-suspicious letters that have been found. These letters are being viewed as a deliberate act to create a state of panic and to affect other communities, Whitman-Walker Clinic.

Anthrax Found at White House Mail Site

Tests confirm the presence of Anthrax at the off-site facility used to screen White House mail. All employees at the site and the White House were tested, however, the results were not yet confirmed.

Southeast Gang Leader

Sentenced to Life

Ending the first capital murder trial in the District in over 30 years, Southeast D.C. gang leader, Tommy Edelin was sentenced to life in prison. Edelin avoided the death penalty by testifying against other gang members.

Postal Delays May Affect Absentee Ballots

Due to the Anthrax scare and postal delays, election officials in Northern Virginia are urging voters to vote early in person, rather than sending absentee ballots through the mail. Mailing the ballots could result in votes not received on time.

Anthrax Claims the Lives of Two D.C. Postal Workers

It appears that Anthrax was the cause of death of two DC postal workers on Tuesday at the Brentwood facility. Two other employees have contracted the most severe form of the disease. The facility's employees, as well as the other approximately 600 mail receiving institutions in the district, have been recommended for immediate antibiotic treatment.

Metro Reports Free Fare Weekend a Success

Metro's October 13th and 14th free fare weekend showed promising signs that things are returning to normal in Washington, D.C. The free fare weekend was proposed and implemented by the office of the Inspector General. By reducing fare, this will help increase visibility," said Metro spokesperson Lisa Fabstein.

Whitman-Walker Clinic continues fight against HIV/AIDS epidemic

By Joanne Sawyer
Staff Writer

The Whitman-Walker Clinic, a non-profit organization, provides health care in the form of HIV/AIDS testing, treatment, education, and counseling to all Washingtonians.

"In original times the gay, lesbian, and bisexual community of the District of Columbia was reaching out to them," said former volunteer and writer of the letter. "They are the only ones that are reaching out and offer other communities, Whitman-Walker Clinic.

The Whitman-Walker has been a strong force in the fight against AIDS and continues to draw heavily with clients in the Washington D.C. area. With a sharp decline in business, they are trying to broaden their base. They are getting more and more people.

For 25 years and with over 7,000 volunteers, the clinic is owned and operated by volunteers of people with AIDS. The Whitman-Walker Clinic has been a strong force in the fight against AIDS and continues to draw heavily with clients in the Washington D.C. area. With a sharp decline in business, they are trying to broaden their base. They are getting more and more people.

The Whitman-Walker Clinic was established to meet the needs of those living with HIV/AIDS on a local and national level and it continues to flourish as a world-renowned Olympic athlete.

Nutrition is often over looked when it comes to the treatment of HIV/AIDS but it is an important role that people already living with HIV/AIDS.

Anthrax is a very serious threat when it comes to the treatment of HIV/AIDS but it is an important role that people already living with HIV/AIDS.

"Nutrition is an essential part of the treatment of HIV/AIDS," said Metro spokesperson Lisa Fabstein. "It's something that has to be taken care of, or it can't be treated effectively."

The News and media can be a key component to destroy a nation, just think about it. What the news and media broadcast you hear that the terrorists are aware of it all. Just like we don’t watch the news to keep abreast or current issues facing us, rather it’s to watch the news and benefit.

The News and media has made it their goal to keep us uninformed. They have done everything in their power to make sure we know that the color white represents purity, chastity, and perfection? Or, at least in the eyes of Allah, doesn’t it?

Yes, America needs to be aware of what it stands for, but only as it was created. Somewhere it is better for government to allow the news and pieces of certain information and not all of it, and there is certain information that should be kept private. Just be aware that they should be expecting attacks at the airport or any other public places. Since America’s high security stance many of our enemies have moved these hours before your flight. But the news should not be broadcasting the news that you will be able to mimic the attacks in the enemy’s land.

Ways To Destroy A Nation is what it should be called. “IT’S NOT THE MECCA IF YOU’RE NOT A MUSLIM” elle is in her middle name, but Drama may be more appropriate. Her face has embodied the word. For many, her story has been one of success having the drama of a play. But, as with every play, there is always a beginning.

As with all of this happening around us, we are constantly urged to get back to normal. In this time, in this place, in this space, for all of our lives. Normal. But how can we return to normal? When the buildings still smolder in the background? How, when each of us, at a moment's notice, may be overcome by fear? After all, threat is still normal when we are filled with rage, yet could have easily been me. I peered through a hotel room window, unintentionally imagining the view from the rooftop as the city burned. I can’t help but wonder if the horror, the terror, the chaos, the helplessness that we will not see life through the same lens again. Each day is to be lived. Does that mean being better than we were before 9-11? It has been - that means being better than we were before this time, in this place, in this space, for all of our lives. Our job, our call, is not to try to go back, but to move forward. Taking what we can from this - our friends, our family, our teachers - and there were benefits to the investigation and savoring. Hall was born in Springfield, Qhi9. The love of quality fabric and design was inbred in him as a young lad by his "mother," his mother. It is still strong in his God. He is continuously improving himself, and making the world a better place for all of us. His "father," the theatrical public. He is still strong in his God. He is continuously improving himself, and making the world a better place for all of us.

The Source is in Session for its final time. Though Forte and The Source officially separated, she knew that her relationship with the magazine was not over. When the thermometer’s icy fist does knock on our doors, we will not see life through the same lens again. We will not visit a parallel universe where we can get away from our past and future. Destiny's Child: Music Lives It Up for 'Love'

By Courtney Webber
HitUp Staff Writer

Have you ever really been in love? Probably, but most people have. Love is something that everyone goes through at some point in their lives. When you're in love, it feels like nothing else matters. But when you're in love, it's difficult to think about anything else. The object of your affections, no matter how far away they are from you, seems to be the only thing that matters.

Love is a powerful force that can be both positive and negative. On one hand, love can bring joy and happiness into your life. On the other hand, love can also bring pain and heartache.

When you're in love, everything else seems to fall into place. You feel like you can conquer the world. Love is a feeling that cannot be described in words. It's a feeling that is best experienced through the heart.

Music has a way of expressing love in a way that words cannot. Whether you're listening to a slow, romantic ballad or a fast-paced, danceable hit, music has the power to bring people together.

Music can also help you through difficult times. When you're feeling down, a song can lift your spirits and make you feel better. When you're happy, music can amplify those feelings and help you celebrate.

So, the next time you're feeling down, turn on some music and let it take you on a journey. Let it lift you up and make you smile. Love is a powerful force that can change your life.

Record Labels Sue Web Site Sharing Files

By Lisa Gomes

The entertainment industry has opened a new chapter in its battle against file-sharing. On Tuesday, entertainment companies, representing the leading music and movie studios, announced a lawsuit against a well-known file-sharing service, alleging that it had been violating copyright laws.

The lawsuit, filed in U.S. District Court in the Northern District of California, alleges that the defendant, a company called UseNet, had been allowing users to download and distribute copyrighted music and movie files. The companies are seeking a court order to prevent the defendant from continuing its operations, as well as damages for copyright infringement.

The companies are seeking a court order to prevent the defendant from continuing its operations, as well as damages for copyright infringement. The lawsuit is the latest in a series of legal actions taken by the entertainment industry in an effort to stem the flow of pirated content online. It follows similar lawsuits filed against Napster, a former file-sharing service, and other companies.

The Entertainment Industry Association, which represents the major record labels and movie studios, said in a statement that the lawsuit was a necessary step to protect the industry's intellectual property. "We are committed to using all available legal tools to protect our rights and interests," the association said. "This lawsuit is a necessary step to ensure that our music and movie content is not distributed illegally online."
