Headquarters Department of the Platte,

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 20 1885

C. H. Peck, Esq

My dear sir:

The climate of Oregon is even tempered and therefore favorable to sickness when extreme must be avoided. It is damp the greater part of the year but I think the dampness affects people differently from the dampness of the Eastern shores. I should consider parts of California & parts of Arizona better <sup>than Oregon</sup> for Pulmonary complaints - Very truly yours

O. O. Howard
