Roosevelt Winner in Campus Straw Vote; Community Garner Sixty-Two Votes; Lemke 6

President Franklin D. Roosevelt’s sweeping victory in the student election was suddenly foreclosed by a contest among the student body of Howard University. In a special campus straw election conducted jointly by the Hilltop and the Liberal Club, Roosevelt was “recounted” by a majority of more than 5 to 1 in favor of seating Alfred Landis who, at a later hour, was selected unanimously to run against Roosevelt. Mrs. Bruce gave a very interesting and convincing address to the students in the auditorium of the chapel.

A similar poll was conducted in 1911. Bruce at that time running for reelection, received 114 votes to 116 for Roosevelt. Thursday, November 8, 1936.

WHAT IS THE TROUBLE WITH FOOTBALL AT HOWARD UNIVERSITY?

With questions of this nature pouring in from alumni and Howard sympathizers from all sections of the country we feel some space should be devoted to the discussion of some of our most unfortunate and humiliating situations.

In the past five years Howard has dropped from the championship position of a first-rate football team. It is a fact that Howard’s athletic department, which is in charge of J. T. Collin, has been running for the past few years. President of Howard University, who is also the acting athletic director, has been called to the presiding officer’s chair. The president of Howard University, who is also the acting athletic director, has been called. Thursday, November 8, 1936.

The Board of Trustees of Howard University, which this year was honored with the inaugural of its newly formed Graduate School, has used the occasion to inaugurate a degree program in journalism. The degree, which is being offered in addition to the existing undergraduate degree in journalism, is designed to provide students with the skills and knowledge necessary to pursue careers in print, broadcast, and online journalism.

During the ceremony, the university's president, Dr. Daniel L. Ivan, announced that the graduate program would begin immediately and that the first cohort of students would be admitted for the fall semester. He also noted that the program would be housed within the university's School of Communications, which has a strong reputation for excellence in media education.

"We are thrilled to announce the launch of our new graduate program in journalism," Ivan said. "This is a significant milestone for Howard University, as it continues to expand its offerings in the fields of communications and media."

The new degree program will offer students a comprehensive curriculum that covers all aspects of journalism, including reporting, writing, editing, and producing. Students will also have the opportunity to specialize in areas such as digital media, investigative journalism, and sports media.

The program will be led by a faculty of experienced professionals with a wealth of knowledge and experience in the field of journalism. Students will have the opportunity to work closely with these faculty members, who will provide guidance and support as they develop their skills and pursue their career goals.

In addition to the core curriculum, students will have the opportunity to complete a thesis or a project-based capstone experience. This will allow them to apply the knowledge and skills they have learned to a real-world issue or problem.

The Board of Trustees of Howard University strongly believes that this new graduate program will be a valuable addition to the university's offerings, and it looks forward to seeing the talented students who will be admitted to the program.

"Howard University is committed to providing our students with the best possible education in all areas of study," Ivan said. "This new graduate program in journalism is just one example of our commitment to excellence in education and to preparing our students for success in their future careers."

Displaying a baffling assortment of teams, the University of Morgan's gridiron machine made its third appearance before 2,600 spectators in the afternoon's game.

The defeat was the worst suffered by the Blue and Gold since their defeat by the Georgia Tech team early in the year. The Blue and Gold are to be congratulated on their fine showing.

The first half was a thrill for Morgan fans as the team scored 10 points in the first quarter. The second half was a disappointment as the team was held to three points in the second quarter.

The Morgan touchdowns resulted from a 15-yard penalty early in the second period. The second touchdown was scored by the Blue and Gold on a touchdown pass from Morgan to Brown early in the fourth quarter.
