the development of the three is more helpful than that of any two. The Association undoubtedly has at last realized its failure of living up to its triangular mission, for it no longer lays stress only upon the development of the spirit and the mind, but it has begun to lay stress also upon the development of the body. The Association has taken charge of the students' tennis courts. They are to be taken care of and furnished with everything necessary for the game except balls and rackets. A pool table also has been placed in the Y. M. C. A. rooms of the hall for the use of the members. These steps have already begun to prove themselves useful, for the young men are entering fully into the life of the organization.

The recent progress made by the Association is so marked and unprecedented that it seems to be blooming with spring. The HERALD, on peeping at the Association and observing this progress, commends it for its good work, and wishes for it continued success and prosperity.

THE PYERIAN LITERARY SOCIETY.

This Society, organized by the Academy and Commercial College young ladies of Miner Hall, is doing excellent work in developing the literary and musical qualities of its members. Twice each month these young ladies gather, and under the direction of the preceptress render very interesting programmes. The officers are:

President, Miss Maud S. Wilson.
 Vice-President, Miss Ethel Cuff.
 Secretary, Miss Nellie C. Hargraves.
 Assistant Secretary, Miss Harriet Heard.
 Treasurer, Mrs. Ada Sanders.
 Critic, Miss Marie Purvis.
 Chaplain, Miss Marjorie Jones.
