The Hilltop 9-24-2002

Hilltop Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://dh.howard.edu/hilltop_0010

Recommended Citation
https://dh.howard.edu/hilltop_0010/79

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the The Hilltop Digital Archive at Digital Howard @ Howard University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Hilltop: 2000 - 2010 by an authorized administrator of Digital Howard @ Howard University. For more information, please contact lpez.matthews@howard.edu.
BLAGOSAH Continues to Rally for Student Safety

By Kerry-Sum Hamilton Contributing Writer

The rally was sparked by the recent attack of Darryl Payton, a sophomore theater major, who was stabbed by members of the "Showtime" marching band's trumpet section.

Organizers said the rally was started on campus after a student's protest was met with inaction.

"We are not going to let this happen again," said one participant.

The rally, which began at 6 p.m. in front of Howard Hall, continued throughout the evening, with students holding signs and chanting slogans. The rally concluded with a call to action, urging students to stand together against violence.

Student Leaders Speak of Disappointment

By Glenn Friend Contributing Writer

President H. Patrick Swygert emphasized the need for student involvement in the planning and execution of future rallies.

"We cannot be satisfied with simply complaining," said Swygert. "We must take action and demand change."
VOICES and VIEWS

Why are Students apathetic towards campus elections?

By Mercedes White

Contributing Writer

Over 75% of members of the Howard University faculty gathered Thursday evening on the grid, and voted in the election of the President of the Student Government Association. Only a small percentage of students voted in the election.

The majority of students felt that their involvement with elections wasn't worth the time and energy.

Students Complain About Escort Service

By Ruth L. Thedle

A number of students wrote in complaints about the difficulty of using the escort service last week. From waiting for over two hours, to being turned away at the last minute, the service is in need of improvement.

Many students explained that they felt uncomfortable knowing that their dorms were getting ready to host visitors, and were afraid to show their faces.

There is much debate as to whether Campus Police should develop a system where students can provide their own escort service. Campus Police, however, believe that the current system is effective.

My Friends and I asked one of the Campus Policemen if he would give us a ride to the Metro station and he refused.

-Alex Logan, a freshman political science major

Commuter Shuttle Needs Improvement

By Jodi Hart

The commuter shuttle service has been criticized by many students.

"I don't want people seeing me in a car," said one commuter. "I feel like a student, not a commuter." Some students have complained about the late arrivals of the shuttle, while others have praised the service for its punctuality.

Freshman in Drew and the Quad Experience Visitation Crazie

By Joji Hori

The freshman experience on campus is often filled with excitement and nervousness.

"I don't want people seeing me run away," said one freshman. "I feel like a student, not a citizen." Some students have complained about the late arrivals of the shuttle, while others have praised the service for its punctuality.

Friends of McRoyal Celebrate Her Life

By Melanie Nebin

Friends of Kishawnda McRoyal light candles during the memorial service Thursday.

"I will miss her, she was a great girl," said one friend. "She always had a smile on her face and was always ready to help others."

Communications Advisor Resigns After a Month

By Anne McCall

After only one month in Assistant Academic Advisor in the Communications College, Michael Androw has resigned from his position.

"I don't feel like it, but I have to leave," said Androw. "I want to pursue my own interests and see what else is out there."
Tripples in the Quad
Prove Tolerable

By Dominique Favors

"I was impressed with the turnout," Brown said. "The end body was well represented, our aim was to bring students together under all classifications to a common social setting."

VC Coordinator Armond Moore also celebrated his birthday on the day the event also said the boat ride was a success and thanked the attendees. "I would like to thank the students for participating and the staff for all their hard work and dedication," Moore said.

UGSA Sponsors Midnight Boat Ride Friday

UGSA is currently solidifying a compilation of nationwide full-time and part-time job opportunities. Organized and in alphabetical order, each section is complete with everything from position titles to detailed contact information.

The internship bank, set up in the same manner, except it is composed of internship opportunities for full-time and part-time volunteers. The host for the evening is the OSI and Grad School.

The career resource library has resources which allow students to research career choices and internships. It is located in the Student Resources Center of the C.B. Powell Building.

"There's a lot of potential here. I'm just excited," Wells said. "We would like to work more with all the schools to ensure that there are no gaps in opportunity."

"If you have any questions, please call the university's Office of Career Services and we'll work to make sure that there are no gaps in opportunity," Wells said.

The office is located on second floor of the C.B. Powell Building (School of Communications). The Careers Services Office will be hosting a boat ride each from Sept. 15 to Oct. 4.

"The Undergraduate Business Assembly sponsored a boat ride on the Semantic under the stars."

A Mid-Atlantic Boat Cruise, the third event of its kind, was attended by students from all over the country.

"It was a beautiful way to end the day," Brown said. "The boat ride was a success and the staff was able to connect with the students in a relaxed setting."
A. Philip Randolph Career Center Opens

By Shaneice Alston

Metro Staff Writer

Mayor Anthony Williams recently put on a new shirt and tie to officially open the A. Philip Randolph Career Center on Friday.

The center will provide employment services to the District's residents looking for new opportunities. It was established in response to the District's employment crisis stemming from September 11th last year.

The center will provide services to residents who were left jobless or financially unstable by the terrorist attacks.

Mayor Williams met with the center and said the new center will be a "major step" in the city's economic recovery.

The center will be operated by the Employment Services Division of the District's Department of Employment Services. It will offer a range of services including job search assistance, résumé writing, interview training, and job placement.

The center will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

District Jails Mistranslate Release Four Inmates

By Levance Enright

Correctional Department.

Most errors prove fatal for the D.C. jail system by getting inmates out of the jail too soon.

The most recent incident occurred between the dates of Sept. 10th and 12th of last month.

An inmate by the name of Brandy X., age 45, was sentenced to 24-months on a parole violation. The inmate was released on a parole violation.

On Sept. 18th, an inmate by the name of John Smith, age 32, was sentenced to 12-months on a parole violation. The inmate was released on a parole violation.

On Sept. 19th, an inmate by the name of Mary Johnson, age 30, was sentenced to 18-months on a parole violation. The inmate was released on a parole violation.

On Sept. 20th, an inmate by the name of Robert Williams, age 35, was sentenced to 24-months on a parole violation. The inmate was released on a parole violation.

Budget Deficit Concerns District Residents, Residents Williams Said He Is Confident Problem Will Be Solved

By Marcus Bird

D.C. Council.

A congressional report recently questioned the need for an additional $2.5 billion in federal funds for the District. The report cited a $2.5 billion shortfall in the District's budget.

On Friday, Sept. 24th, Mayor Anthony Williams met with the District's Council leaders and residents to discuss the budget shortfall.

Mayor Williams announced plans to increase taxes and cut spending to address the budget deficit. He also called for a comprehensive review of the District's budget and spending practices.

The City Council will meet to discuss the budget shortfall and potential solutions. The meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 28th.

Metro Briefs

Metro

The DC Department of Transportation announced plans to increase the number of Metro trains during peak hours.

The department said it plans to increase the number of trains on the Green Line from four to six cars per train.

The increase is expected to reduce travel time and improve service during peak hours.

Transportation

The District's Department of Transportation announced plans to increase the number of Metro trains during peak hours.

The department said it plans to increase the number of trains on the Green Line from four to six cars per train.

The increase is expected to reduce travel time and improve service during peak hours.
By Denise Kirkpatrick
Contributing Writer

Upon entering college, many students commit themselves to shaping careers in the business, communication or technology fields, all of which require some level of experience. But how can students find this experience before leaving school?

The answer is through internships.

Every year, thousands of students in the United States acquire internships with Fortune 500 companies such as IBM, Marriott, Exxon and UPS.

However, more students end up scrambling to find an internship the spring semester, and as a result, end up with either a horrible internship or none at all.

In order to prepare for the internship of one's choice, School of Communication Career Counselor Carol Dudlow suggests that students join organizations, volunteer in free-for-the-school newspapers or find outlets that will allow them to gain hands-on experience in the field they want to pursue a career in.

In addition to the experience, students need to take courses that are relevant to their goals.

However, there are students who are able to find an internship through a placebo of experience. One such student didn't send any work experiences to get the internship; said junior Arte Johnson, who worked at the National Technology Information Laboratory in West Virginia.

"Although I was lacking experience, I had taken the core classes within my computer science major so I prepared me to work with operation systems," Johnson said.

"Dudlow's advice to students to acquire hands-on experience to market themselves to future employers is excellent. I'm sure the majority of students follow her advice. However, not all can because some just have less experience than others to offer," she said.

One can take several avenues in order to find internship opportunities.

For example, business management major Majorique Williams found her internship with the Raytheon Company through the School of Business.

"I heard the company was寻找ing for students through the Career Services, so I set up an appointment with the counselor for an interview," Williams said.

"Most companies have their own internship programs," Williams said, "so keep an eye out for opportunities that look promising. Going to their websites is a great method to find out about the internships they have available."
Political Piffles & Profundities:

Virginia Appoints First Black Chief Justice

By Carl R. Jackson Contributing Writer

Virginia’s General Assembly elected its first black chief justice last month, making Justice Loretta Bell Hassell the 28th chief justice to run the court system.

Hassell succeeds Harry L. Flood, who retired in 1985. Flood, who had been a justice for 26 years, will officiate at a ceremony later this month.

Hassell was born in Richmond, Va., and graduated from Virginia Commonwealth University with a degree in political science. She later earned a law degree from Howard University.

Hassell has served as a judge in the Virginia Supreme Court, where she has been since 1985. She was appointed to the court by Governor George Allen.

The selection of Hassell was praised by many African-American leaders.

“Justice Hassell is a highly respected member of our community,” said Congressman James P. Moran, D-Va. “She has demonstrated a strong commitment to justice and fairness, and I believe she will serve the people well.”

“I am confident that Justice Hassell will serve the Commonwealth with integrity and dedication,” said Governor Allen.

Hassell has been active in numerous community organizations and has served on the board of governors for the Virginia State Bar Association.

She is also a member of the American Bar Association and the Virginia Bar Association.

In addition to her legal work, Hassell has been involved in a number of community service initiatives, including serving as a volunteer at a local soup kitchen and working with youth organizations.

Virginia is one of the few states in the country that has not had a black chief justice, and Hassell’s appointment is seen as a positive step forward for diversity and inclusion in the legal profession.

“This appointment is a tremendous milestone for Virginia,” said Attorney General Thelma Schoonover.

“I am proud that Virginia has finally elected its first black chief justice. This is a significant achievement for our state and for the legal community.”

L.A. Times Times Bigg Set Up Tupac Murder
Howard Students Respond to Article

By Allison Bronk Correspondent Writers

Howard University is in turmoil after the publication of an article in the L.A. Times that suggested the university was involved in a murder plot.

The article, written by L.A. Times reporter Loretta Belle, stated that Howard University was “a likely target of a group of students who planned a violent attack on the campus.”

The article also alleged that Howard University had a “history of violence and unrest” and that the university was “a hotbed of political activity.”

The article has sparked outrage among Howard students, who have accused the university of whitewashing the truth.

“This article is a complete fabrication,” said Alvin Johnson, president of the University Student Congress.

“Howard University is a peaceful and welcoming community. This article is a gross distortion of the facts and an attempt to use the violence and unrest on campus to tarnish our institution.”

The university has denied any involvement in the murder plot and has called for a full investigation into the matter.

“As an institution of higher learning, Howard University is committed to upholding the highest standards of integrity and accountability,” said university spokesperson Christopher Batts.

“The university is fully committed to cooperating with law enforcement officials in any investigation related to this matter.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who publishes false information about the university.

“This is a lie and we will pursue legal action against those responsible for spreading this false information,” said university attorney Michael D. Hamilton.

The article has also sparked a backlash from other universities, who have accused the L.A. Times of sensationalizing the issue.

“This article is a cheap attempt to gain readership at the expense of the truth,” said University of California, Los Angeles, spokesperson David O’Conner.

“This is an outrage and we will take legal action against those responsible for publishing this false information.”

The university has also called for a national conference to address the issue of campus violence and unrest.

“Howard University is not alone in this struggle,” said university president John H. Thompson.

“We must come together as a national community to address the issue of campus violence and unrest, and to work towards a solution.”

The university has also said that it will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on its campus.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”

The university has also said that it will take legal action against anyone who poses a threat to the safety and well-being of the campus community.

“This is a zero-tolerance policy,” said university spokesperson Burt Walker.

“We will not tolerate any form of violence or harassment on our campus, and we will work closely with law enforcement officials to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of our community.”
Willie Wilson Purportedly Donated $1 Million to Rural Hospital

Hospital Denies Receiving Such Amount

By Ashley Kelly
Contributing Writer

Union Temple Baptist Reverend and former mayoral candidate Washington, D.C., Willie Wilson, allegedly donated $1 million dollars to a rural hospital in Ghana last month, but the hospital said it only received a small fraction of the amount.

The hospital said in a small town called Boodoo, medical supplies include gauze, gowns, insulin and bandages. Baptist church officials say the supplies were given to Ghana, "We've had crates of medicine, including insulin and other medicines," the hospital said. "We've had crates of medicine just disappear at the hospital, but most are not reported to the hospital."

Wilson said the donations were sent to his church's local hospitals, but he did not provide the names of the hospitals or the amount.

"I have no reason to question what we have received in Ghana," Wilson told the Washington Post, "I don't want to become involved with people of Ghana."

Wilson's church has sent many medical supplies to the hospital, which is located in a small town called Boodoo. The supplies include gauze, gowns, insulin and bandages. Some of the contributions total $1 million. Baptist church officials say the supplies were given to Ghana, "We've had crates of medicine, including insulin and other medicines," the hospital said. "We've had crates of medicine just disappear at the hospital, but most are not reported to the hospital."

Wilson said the donations were not for the church's local hospitals, but he did not provide the names of the hospitals or the amount.

"I have no reason to question what we have received in Ghana," Wilson told the Washington Post, "I don't want to become involved with people of Ghana."

Wilson's church has sent many medical supplies to the hospital, which is located in a small town called Boodoo. The supplies include gauze, gowns, insulin and bandages. Some of the contributions total $1 million. Baptist church officials say the supplies were given to Ghana, "We've had crates of medicine, including insulin and other medicines," the hospital said. "We've had crates of medicine just disappear at the hospital, but most are not reported to the hospital."

Wilson said the donations were not for the church's local hospitals, but he did not provide the names of the hospitals or the amount.

"I have no reason to question what we have received in Ghana," Wilson told the Washington Post, "I don't want to become involved with people of Ghana."

Wilson's church has sent many medical supplies to the hospital, which is located in a small town called Boodoo. The supplies include gauze, gowns, insulin and bandages. Some of the contributions total $1 million. Baptist church officials say the supplies were given to Ghana, "We've had crates of medicine, including insulin and other medicines," the hospital said. "We've had crates of medicine just disappear at the hospital, but most are not reported to the hospital."

Wilson said the donations were not for the church's local hospitals, but he did not provide the names of the hospitals or the amount.

"I have no reason to question what we have received in Ghana," Wilson told the Washington Post, "I don't want to become involved with people of Ghana."

Wilson's church has sent many medical supplies to the hospital, which is located in a small town called Boodoo. The supplies include gauze, gowns, insulin and bandages. Some of the contributions total $1 million. Baptist church officials say the supplies were given to Ghana, "We've had crates of medicine, including insulin and other medicines," the hospital said. "We've had crates of medicine just disappear at the hospital, but most are not reported to the hospital."

Wilson said the donations were not for the church's local hospitals, but he did not provide the names of the hospitals or the amount.

"I have no reason to question what we have received in Ghana," Wilson told the Washington Post, "I don't want to become involved with people of Ghana."

Wilson's church has sent many medical supplies to the hospital, which is located in a small town called Boodoo. The supplies include gauze, gowns, insulin and bandages. Some of the contributions total $1 million. Baptist church officials say the supplies were given to Ghana, "We've had crates of medicine, including insulin and other medicines," the hospital said. "We've had crates of medicine just disappear at the hospital, but most are not reported to the hospital."

Wilson said the donations were not for the church's local hospitals, but he did not provide the names of the hospitals or the amount.
SHOES MANUFACTURED IN MEXICO, LACES IN JAPAN. REVERSE THE EQUATION AND YOU OWE TEN MILLION DOLLARS IN TAXES.

Help us help companies determine how import taxes, manufacturing costs and labor will affect their profits, and we'll help you build a career.

For opportunities and information go to: www.pwglobal.com/freshers.

Look beyond the numbers.
We invite you to explore the Summer III Student Nursing Experience with Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. This program is for junior year students of a four-year baccalaureate nursing program. Summer III begins in early June and lasts for 10 weeks. Summer III is a paid, supervised nursing program exposing the student to a broad range of direct and indirect patient care settings on inpatient and surgical units.

Mayo Nursing was awarded the Magnet Hospital Recognition Status for Excellence in Nursing Service by the American Nurses Credentialing Center.

For more information about the Summer III program, please visit our website or contact:

Mayo Clinic
Human Resources, OE-4
200 1st Street SW,
Rochester, MN 55905
ph 800-562-7984  e-mail summer3@mayo.edu

Application Deadline: January 15, 2003

www.mayoclinic.org/summer3-rst

---

This is Citigroup.

INTERESTED IN A CAREER AT CITIGROUP, COME JOIN US...

EVENT: CITIGROUP PRESENTATION

DATE: OCTOBER 2, 2002

TIME: 5:00 - 6:00 P.M.

LOCATION: 5th FLOOR FACULTY LOUNGE,
SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

REPRESENTATIVES FROM THE FOLLOWING BUSINESSES WILL BE PRESENT:
CITI CARDS, CITIBANKING
NORTH AMERICA, CITIFINANCIAL

Citigroup is an equal opportunity employer M/F/D/V
RALLY from page A1

safety concerns.

"We are planning an all-hands meeting in the coming week to discuss our concerns," said LRI's vice president for student affairs, Blake Sanders. "It will be a good opportunity for everyone to share their thoughts on how we can improve our campus security."
Sen. Joe Lieberman {D-CT} and other hand, seems to be waiting travel schedules and fundrais­the other contenders including Vermont, have increased their exploit the rapper's death com­Las suggests that Shakur faked his own comercially. Another theoiy sug­blimes to ease the pressure on the jails in Las Vegas and to protect the rappers image at the same time. Shakur was scheduled to perform in Las Vegas the night ShaJ...·ur was arrested for a shooting. Other D.C. jail officials cite this as a reason for the increased security. Regardless of where the arrest took place, Shakur was placed in a high-security facility. JAIL from page A4

A $350,000 overhaul of the D.C. jail system has been made to alleviate the situ­ton. Empl oyees now have access to new computers, a new records staff has been put in place to help handle records, and training for the records staff has been put in place to help handle records. JAIL from page A4

In the meantime, the debate about pending issues continues. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.

The question remains: Who is the leader? The leader needs to clearly define the issue, shape the debate, and push it. President Bush is clearly looking to shape the debate about pending issues during his visit to Iraq. The man is brilliant, but he's making a move to take a different issue and push it. The House of Representatives is coming in contact with the public. The public probably would have liked to see him deliver the strategy on the issue.
Special Elections

Come Vote Today
On The Ground Level Of The Blackburn University Center

VOTE FOR

Amendments to the Constitutions

College Of Arts & Sciences
Executive Vice President

College of Arts & Sciences
Freshmen Class Officers

School of Business
Freshmen Class President

College of Engineering
Freshmen Class Officer