MANUSCRIPT DIVISION

Scope Note

The Thomas Montgomery Gregory Collection is a cumulative collection from the libraries of Thomas M. Gregory, his father, James Monroe Gregory, and his brother, Eugene Monroe Gregory. The personal papers of Thomas M. Gregory are also included. The collection which spans 8 « linear feet was donated by Thomas M. Gregory in 1967. The collection consists of books, pamphlets, narratives, periodicals, manuscripts, documents, posters, photographs, scrapbooks, and clippings. The subject areas of these materials cover the spectrum of Black history.

Seven boxes of the historical items are grouped under the Pamphlet series. Most of the items in this series are unique and have Thomas M. Gregory's personal notes which precede each item. The materials date from the early 18th century to the 20th century, a bibliography of the Gregory library precedes the Pamphlet series to indicate the scope and size of the Gregory collection. Only a small percentage of the materials were retained in the Manuscript Division. Most of the books were transferred to the Library Division of the Moorland -Spingarn Research Center.

Included in the personal papers of Thomas M. Gregory are materials relating to his military activities during and after World War 1. There are records and correspondence citing the history of the campaign to secure a training camp for Negro officers. The entire project for a special camp to train Negro officers was conceived and directed at Howard University. This project for the camp was under the leadership of T.M. Gregory who served as chairman of the Central Committee of Negro College Men. A sub-series on this organization and the Fort Des Moines Officers Training Camp for Negro Officers are further described in the series description.

Thomas M. Gregory's dedication and commitment to Negro drama and theatre are quite evident in Series B to H. In the above groups of materials, there are programs, photographs, tickets, invitations, press releases, articles, manuscripts, clippings and correspondence reflecting Gregory's work and interest in drama. Of special note are materials relating to his work in the Howard University Drama Department. The correspondents throughout this group represent some of the most distinguished names in American theatre, such as Charles S. Gilpin and Eugene O'Neill .

The series on Howard University focuses on the debating club and several Howard University publications. Many of these publications contain literary contributions from Thomas Gregory. A sub-series of historical items on Howard University is quite interesting. Highlights of this series include an autograph album of Howard notables and information on Ira Aldridge. Two large scrapbooks cover Thomas Gregory's academic pursuits. The first scrapbook covers his tenure at Williston, a New England preparatory school, from 1902 to 1906. The second scrapbook covers his tenure at Harvard University from 1906 to 1910. Of special significance are two cassette tapes by Thomas M. Gregory, dated 1971, on his personal reminiscences of Howard University.

Significant historical items in the collection include an unpublished poem by Phillis Wheatley and original manuscripts of speeches for a Frederick Douglass Testimonial Banquet held January 1, 1883. A newspaper clipping from the New York Herald dated April 15, 1865 on the assassination of President Lincoln is quite interesting. Additional materials on Thomas M. Gregory, James Monroe Gregory and other members of the Gregory family were acquired in 1978, from Thomas M. Gregory, Jr. Most of the materials are xerox copies. The original materials were retained by the Gregory family. The materials on Thomas M. Gregory include additional correspondence, certificates and photographs on his military activities. Materials concerning the Howard Players and correspondence dealing with his position as Consultant to the U.S. State Department (1961-1962) are present. Literary correspondence includes letters from Jesse Fauset, James Weldon Johnson, Alice Dunbar Nelson, Jean Toomer and others. General correspondence includes letters from Joel E. Spingarn, Alain Locke and Theodore Roosevelt. Correspondence dealing with his tenure at Howard University is quite interesting. The highlight of this series deals with information gathered for an article in the Reader's Digest on the Gregory family. In this group biographical information on James Monroe Gregory, Mrs. Fannie E. Gregory, James Francis Gregory, Thomas M. Gregory and an article on the Gregory family are present. Correspondence between Thomas M. Gregory and Paul Friggens, the researcher for the article, indicates that the article was never published.

The series on James Monroe Gregory includes biographical data, an obituary, correspondence, legal and printed materials. Original printed material and commencement programs date 1898-1914 from Ironsides, a training school in Bordentown, N.J. where James Gregory served as principal are included. Original printed material on the American Association of Educators of colored Youth where James M. Gregory served as President is present. Correspondence from various organizations which James Gregory was associated with and events that he participated in is arranged in alphabetical order. Information and correspondence on Howard University is included. The highlight of the J.M. Gregory series is a group of original family photographs.

Materials on Eugene Monroe Gregory and a clipping on the military activities of Maj. Frederick D. Gregory dated 1978, conclude this series on items added. A genealogical chart has been prepared to aid in the research of this collection. Information about the training school in Bordentown, N.J. where James Gregory served as principal are included. Original printed material on the American Association of Educators of Colored Youth where James M. Gregory served as President is present. Correspondence from various organizations which James Gregory was associated with, and events that he participated in, is arranged in alphabetical order. Information and correspondence on Howard University is included. The highlight of the J.M. Gregory series is a group of original family photographs.

Materials on Eugene Monroe Gregory and a clipping on the military activities of Maj. Frederick D. Gregory dated 1978, conclude this series on items added. A genealogical chart has been prepared to aid in the research of this collection.
