Alumni Honor Graduates At Annual Assn. Banquet

Fred Howard University graduates will be honored for the first time since 1942 by the Alumni Association of the university's General Alumni Association during Alumni weekend at a banquet Thursday, June 6th, at 9 p.m. The banquet will be held in the Theodore H. Bell Auditorium in the Hall of Commerce, 1442 North Broadway.

The banquet is sponsored by the General Alumni Association of the university. It is held at the University of Southern California, 1450 South Alameda, Los Angeles, California.

Dr. K. B. Clark New Trustee

Howard University officials recently announced the appointment of Dr. K. B. Clark, New Trustee, to the Board of Trustees. Dr. Clark, who holds an M.A. degree from Howard University, is the former President of the North Carolina Child Development Program and a graduate of the University of Chicago.

The position of New Trustee was created by Howard University to provide representation on the Board of Trustees for alumni who are not members of the Board of Trustees.

Dean James Joiner, the faculty advisor to the alumni association, said that the appointment of Dr. Clark to the Board of Trustees is in keeping with the university's tradition of involving alumni in the governance of the institution.

Prof. Receives SEATO Award

Howard University professor, Dr. James Joiner, has been awarded the SEATO Award for his contributions to the study of regional problems in the South East Asia.

The award was presented to Dr. Joiner by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, an intergovernmental organization established to promote peace and stability in the region.

The SEATO Award is given annually to recognize outstanding contributions to the study of regional problems in the South East Asia.

The Passing Parade

As we come to the end of school year 1959-1960 it seems appropriate to sum up some of the important developments that have occurred during its term.

Earlier this year we spoke of and hailed a Howard Renaissance. A number of changes made in the past couple of years has made the Howard campus more attractive and inviting to the students who have been attending here.

In the areas of student life we have seen a number of good shows presented by the Theatre Department and the Opera Society. The campus committees and fraternities have displayed increased awareness of their campus responsibilities to the NAACP, the Baptist Church, the Little Shop, and the Student Christian Movement. These groups have had experiences and encouragement, but encouraging students of interest.

In the area of students we have seen the growth of good public spirit. Howard students are showing that they can be good citizens and make a contribution to society. This is an encouraging sign of the future.

What Do You Want For Nothing?

As a final thought, we would like to remind all students that the college is currently offering a number of free workshops and seminars. These are open to all students and are designed to help them develop important skills.

College Students Too Often Resemble Homeless Schools, Sociologist Says

Washington Post and Times

By George Knell

Too many American students are living on the fringe, sociologists say, and the problem is getting worse. Today's school is not only a place of learning but also a place of social interaction and personal growth. The problem is that many students are not taking advantage of the opportunities available to them.

The students need to be encouraged to use the resources available to them. The college should provide more opportunities for students to become involved in campus life.

To Give A Helping Hand

By Roy P. McElyea

Aid to students is needed in order to help them achieve their goals. Many students are in need of financial assistance, and the college should provide more scholarships and grants.

The college should also provide more opportunities for students to get involved in the community. This will help them develop leadership skills and social awareness.

In his final issue, Dr. Livingstone, the Editor-in-Chief of The Hilltop, addresses the University community about the importance of participation in student activities. He emphasizes that such activities not only provide entertainment but also contribute to mental development. Dr. Livingstone encourages students to take advantage of the diverse offerings available on campus, including sports and clubs, to foster a sense of community and personal growth.

Dr. Livingstone also mentions the new staff for 1959-60, including Leroy Stone as Editor-in-Chief and Robert L. Smith as Contact Robel. Howard Players "Simply Heavenly" Causes Minor Sensation On Campus

By Bob Wang

TUESDAY, March 20, 19-88

U. of I. campus buzzed with excitement yesterday when the Howard Players presented their production of " simplemente alegre " in the gymnasium. The play, a Spanish farce, was well received by the audience who packed the gymnasium to capacity. The Howard Players have been practicing for weeks and their hard work paid off. The play was a great success and the audience was thrilled with the performance.

Howard Players Stress Balance Of Imagery, Creativity In Symbolism, And Rhythmic Structural Work

by Peter Johnson

The Howard Players stress the importance of balance in their productions. They believe that imagery, creativity, and rhythm are all essential elements in good theater. They strive to create a seamless blend of these elements in their work. The Howard Players are known for their ability to create visually striking productions that are also intellectually stimulating. They believe that art should be both pleasurable and thought-provoking.

Sponsorship

Alpha Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta, Sigma Lambda Gamma, and the Howard University Student Senate are sponsoring the Howard Players. This is the first time that the Howard Players have been able to produce a full-length play, and they are grateful to their sponsors for their support.

Howard Players Upcoming Productions

The Howard Players have several upcoming productions scheduled for this year. They are planning a production of "The Importance of Being Earnest," a comedy by Oscar Wilde, later this month. They are also planning a production of "A Streetcar Named Desire," a drama by Tennessee Williams, for the fall.

Howard Players Seek New Members

The Howard Players are always looking for new members. They are seeking individuals who are passionate about theater and willing to work hard to create quality productions. If you are interested in joining, please contact the Howard Players at their website or on social media.

Howard Players on Their Mission

The Howard Players believe that their mission is to bring high-quality theater to the Howard University community. They strive to create productions that are accessible to all and that reflect the diversity of the community. They believe that theater is a powerful tool for bringing people together and for promoting understanding and acceptance.

Howard Players on Their Challenges

The Howard Players face many challenges in their work. They must juggle the demands of their academic lives with the demands of their theatrical pursuits. They must also fundraise to support their productions and to keep their productions affordable for everyone.

Howard Players on Their Future

The Howard Players are excited about their future. They are planning for the next generation of theater artists and are committed to passing on their passion for theater. They believe that theater has the power to change lives and to make the world a better place.
Cricket Team Has Winning Season; Rose, Phillips, Outstanding; Alleyne Top Bowler

Howard University's Cricket Team wins up another victorious season with a tour of Maryland and Delaware State teams. This is a triumph for Howard in that the cricketers played with a new spirit of camaraderie and determination. Last year the team was not so strong, but this year Howard and Yale were able to field strong teams on the field. Yale beat Howard by one wicket at the Yale Library. The seniors and juniors played a great game and won 32 runs and 8.4 overs. Both teams played with skill and an eye to winning the game. At Howard, Inc., the match was a victory for Howard with a score of 99 for 7, and Yale beat Howard with a score of 99 for 7.
