A university student was thrown from a shuttle at Howard University. The incident occurred when the door of the bus accidentally opened while the bus was in motion, and the student fell into a ditch nearby. Despite the nature of the incident, which provided the daily bus service, it was easy to see how Howard won three meter events. Kevin Holmes rose hours of overcrowding of the shuttle and said that he has experienced similar reactions from students. Cropper set a new Black National and fellow team mate Courtney Miller.

The weather is not bad, if it is, it's fine but every day isn't nice. I think they should at least ensure that the buses are running on time. However, Coleman has noted that the university’s assistant for Special Projects, Kris Kelly, who did not sign the petition, has been named to the Dean’s List ever since he was at Howard. The recipient of the event that a bus becomes too busy, Abraham Manear 400 yard freestyle and William Sherill, Cropper. While Heyliger declined to say for homework, the class-the teacher said that he felt his campaign went well. He acknowledged some students have praised him for his professionalism in the incident, but denied tampering. Heyliger said that some students who complained about his attitude should have had a laissez faire attitude toward the poor economically. Heyliger was the only instructor who remained scoreless. Rowland said that he felt the elections went well. Heyliger told Libenl that for the U.S. to hold its role in world commerce, the U.S. needed to “new thinking, initiative and economic and social statistics to illustrate the point.”

Byrd mailed questionnaires to the School of Business Judiciary Committee for finance majors and certain other students. Cropper, along with Wilson and Caesar team as they walked off with what might be called a lopsided victory. The pro-protesters had the good fortune of being pushed to the floor.

Students speak on Jesse’s comments

By BERNADETTE ODDIAH
Hilltop Staff Writer

Several students have varied opinions about the statement former AIUP exten- sion assistant Johnie Conerly made about Jesse Jackson. After Conerly said that "Jesse doesn’t necessarily mean they do or do not discriminate," some students say they were surprised by his comments.

"Many times other politicians have put down Bernard Harris without being published," says a student majoring in broadcast journalism. "He didn’t necessarily mean they do or do not discriminate." Some students say they were surprised by his comments.

"I have seen the statement made by Jesse is to decide how he will be perceived," says a sophomore student. "I think the statement made by Jesse is to decide how he will be perceived." Some students say they were surprised by his comments.

REVIEW & OUTLOOK

Despite the premises of Lindy's Johnson's administration, the black student body on Georgia Tech has been here for a long time. The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) defines black students as any student who is 1/2 black or more and who is either black, American Indian, Hawaiian, or other Native American. In 1981-82, Walter Wood and Aziz Mohammed of the National Center for Education Statistics defined black students as any student who is 1/2 black or more and who is either black, American Indian, Hawaiian, or other Native American. Q1. Do you feel that the students of Howard University should have to pay for the university's estimated deficit of $6–8 million through increased tuition and housing cost?

Name: Paula Johnson
Major: Psychology
Hometown: Long Island
Classification: Junior

Q1. I do not believe that Howard University students should be accounted for any deficit without knowing why we have a deficit and whom it came from. I believe that the university administrators could investigate other avenues to decrease the deficit without relying totally on tuition increases.

Q2. The whole incident should be further investigated, before any assumptions or rumors are taken for fact. However, I do believe that prorated tuition is not a justification for using school money from the students for any reason. Assuming the charges are true and that Moore is not qualified for a scholarship, then impeachment charges should be brought up.

Name: Jason Wrenn
Major: Film
Hometown: Virginia Beach, Va.
Classification: Junior

Q1. I don’t feel that the burden should fall on the students in the form of increased tuition. There should be an alternative means of raising the money. If Howard is in fact currently facing a dilemma, fund raising could be an example without involving students with out of pocket cost.

Q2. I feel that Dan Jackson should be given the opportunity to reply before impeachment proceedings are brought forth. More information is needed.

Name: Delgretta Dobbs
Major: Broadcast Production
Hometown: Detroit, Mich.
Classification: Junior

Q1. Tuition and housing cost inevitable would have risen without Daniel Jackson's actions. Howard University has been slow to react and it is possible that the university could have received a penalty for not following the rules.

Q2. As a student of Howard’s, I feel that we should be allowed to support the university, rather than a special interest group. I do believe that the student body should have to pay for the University's deficit. However, I also feel that the deficit should be decreased by cutting unnecessary expenses and increasing efficiencies.

Name: Kenneth Tucker
Major: Computer Science
Hometown: Chicago, Ill.
Classification: Freshman

Q1. No, definitely not. On any given day, one could find any number of students that could (at the top of their heads) state 20 things wrong with Howard and its staff. Many parts of Howard are unorganized. Many areas are not well managed. If you take a look at the staff and see the amount of money that comes from our student dollars, you can start to see why.

Q2. This is a rather peculiar situation. It’s a bit immature considering that this is just the start of what is to come. Howard University has had its problems in the past, but I don’t feel that this is a reason to impeach the university's leaders. However, the thought of impeachment is a bit immature considering the way things have been handled so far and the verbal validity from other UOSA office holders is more than enough to make one question the legitimacy of these actions.

Name: Andrea Anderson
Major: Accounting
Hometown: Indianapolis, Indiana
Classification: Sophomore

Q1. This will be unfortunate for students who have to pay for the University’s deficit because prices are expensive now. In order for Howard to function it takes money, so the administration more than likely will raise tuition and housing cost. I feel the administration owes all the students and parents an explanation of what went wrong plus showing us that they have used other methods of dealing with the deficit.

Q2. Dan Jackson should clear up how Reggie Moore was allowed to be the UGSA Board chairman while he was not officially enrolled. Then a decision should be made on whether Dan Jackson should be impeached.

Russian foreign policy to stay the same

By KELLY MITCHELL-CLARK International Editor

The Soviet Union's new leadership will not dramatically affect its foreign policy toward the Third World nations, according to the opinions of two university faculty members.

Konstantin Chernenko, who served as the Communist Party's Secretary General for five years before assuming the leadership, was called to replace Leonid Brezhnev, who died last month.

Nikolai Stavros, a professor of political science and international relations at Howard University, said Chernenko's ascension to the post of head of state will not result in any significant changes to the Soviet policy toward the Third World nations.

"Chernenko comes from the same group of other leaders. He is more in line with the Brezhnev era," Stavros said. "It will be in line with the same policy that has been pursued throughout the years." But the criteria is how much we want to help our own people and our own enemies. The Soviet Union's foreign policy will not change significantly.

"The Soviet Union has been involved in many conflicts in the Middle East by virtue of the Camp David Accords," Stavros said. "But the same principles that have been followed in the past will continue to be followed.

The Egyptian Prime Minister, which has been an ally of the Soviet Union, will continue to be one. But the criteria is how much we want to help our own people and our own enemies. The Soviet Union's foreign policy will not change significantly.

Three Howard University football players were suspended from the team and had their scholarships revoked last week after a gate-crashing incident earlier this month at the annual Theta Phi Beta Sigma fraternity football coach suspends three, takes scholarships.

According to one member of the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity with­ sisriation. The part­

Jefferies felt bad about the whole situation and said he was just trying to have fun with his friends.

"We expect the players to carry themselves well so we can get support from the fans," said Jeffries.

According to Jeffries, two of the players went back to his asking him to intervene before the suspension deadline, but he could not help because he was not on the team and could not do anything about it. "I really wanted to help them," said Jeffries. "But if they are not going to play, then they are not going to play."

Jeffries said he was left out of the game plan and was not sure if he would be able to play in any games this season. "I don't know what's going to happen next," said Jeffries. "I just want to keep working hard and see what happens."
