DR. CHARLES RICHARD DREW

Dedication

☞ Once in a great number of years there appears on the stage of human affairs a man who has been touched by the finger of God. This man moves with dignity and simplicity among his fellows, who are warmed by his sincerity and charmed by his boundless love and compassion. His lifework and dreams yet unfinished, he leaves us breathless with admiration and powerless to express all our feelings.

Such a man was our beloved Charles Drew, to whom we, the members of the Class of 1951, warmly dedicate this BISON.

Our President

We, the Class of 1951, proudly salute our President, Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson. The first Negro to head Howard University, Dr. Johnson has completed twenty-five years of brilliant, imaginative administration.

Our lives and our dreams will be in eternal debt to his inspired, prophetic utterances.

In Memoriam

WITH RUE MY HEART IS LADEN

A. E. Housman

With rue my heart is laden
For golden friends I had,
For many a rose-lipt maiden
And many a light-foot lad.

By brooks too broad for leaping
The light-foot boys are laid;
The rose-lipt girls are sleeping
In fields where roses fade.

CLASS HISTORY

The lovely housewife glanced through the mail that the postman had left. Suddenly, her eyes fell upon a familiar address, and she ran to her husband waving the letter in the air.

"Oh, darling," she cried as she snuggled beside him on the sofa by the fireplace, "our tickets for the Class of 1951 Reunion have finally come! Do you realize that ten years have passed since we left Howard University for the last time?"

As they gazed upon the little tickets before them, their minds went back across the years to the happy, carefree days of college life. The wife was first to break the spell.

"Remember our first year at Howard?" she said. "It was 1947, and the Class of '51 has just sprouted its wings. After winning the Freshmen-Sophomore Rush and Illumination Night, our upper-classmates realized that we meant business. We even tried having a float in the Homecoming parade, but the wind was against us. Under the leadership of our first President, Herbert Davis, we sponsored a Freshmen Prom and a picnic at Rock Creek Park."

"Yes, sweet," said the husband, "I'll never forget the Freshmen Prom. It took me all year to get up nerve enough to ask you for a date. Paula Hughes may have been Cinderella of the ball, but you were Cinderella of my heart."

"I thought that you weren't ever going to ask me," she said lovingly. "I was afraid Freshman restrictions would keep you away forever."

"Nineteen forty-eight was my hardest year," he said smiling. "Fraternities and sororities became dominant in so many of our lives that year. Ouch! I ache to think of it. Our President was Morris Ellis, who had a hard time keeping us from drifting too far into other campus activities. The only successful projects that year were a Homecoming float and a Sophomore Prom."

"Wife," he continued, "I'll never forget the rendition of 'My Hero' that clinched the decision at your second Illumination Night. I was moved right out of my seat when you girls sang the last measures and made the rafters ring."

"Don't forget the Freshmen-Sophomore Rush," she cried, pulling his ear. "We won that, too, you know,"

"You know, darling," he said, still reminiscing, "I think our Junior year was exciting, too."

"Yes. That was the year everyone got engaged," she replied smiling. "Lorenzo Walker was President. Remember, we gave a dance called 'Spring Fever'; and I know you haven't forgotten that fabulous Junior-Senior party at Banneker Community Center. That was the night you gave me your fraternity pin."

"Yes, I guess you're right," he said, "but the most important phase of our stay at Howard was just beginning. It was 1951 and we were Seniors at last. Both of us came back as Campus Pals that year, didn't we?"

"Yes," she laughed, "and you cut so many heads of hair that the Barbers' Union threatened to sue you for practising without a license."

"That's all right, honey," he said. "You did your share of hazing, too. What I'll never forget about our Senior year was the Sadie Hawkin's Dance and that silly corsage you made for me. I'm still one-sided from having all those grapes and radishes hanging on me."

"Stop teasing," she replied. "You know you enjoyed eating them. Remember Jerry Shelton's wrist corsage? It won first prize."

"Burnett Peters was our President that last year," she continued. "He had quite a job getting us to realize that the success of our Class depended upon the effort each member put forth. However, after the BISON pictures were taken, we started planning diligently."

"Yes, wife, we did work hard, and our Senior activities were some of the most outstanding ever given at Howard."

"That's one week I'll never forget," she said, rising from the sofa. "I think the reason for the outstanding activities was that most of our fellows faced induction after graduation and we all wanted our last fling to be the best."

"We certainly were a great Class. I'm anxious to see all the old gang again."

"Darling, let's spend an entire week in Washington."

"Fine, dearest," he said as he gently pulled her back beside him. "We can combine the reunion with our wedding anniversary."

Content and happy, filled with thoughts of days to come, they settled back arm in arm before the fire.

UNIVERSITY-WIDE COMMUNITY COUNCIL ON STUDENT LIFE

As a result of the unanimous recommendation of the Committee on Student Participation in University-wide Government, the University Council approved the establishment of the University-wide Community Council on Student Life, on which body the representation is equal to that of the Faculty and the Administration. This step represents a tremendous forward step in formulating a procedure that will help make the campus a social unit and that will be conducive to the most congenial student-Faculty-Administration interpersonal relationships.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

The function of the Student Council is to develop in the student body a wise and intelligent self-control; to preserve and regulate beneficial customs and traditions of the University; and to establish such ones as promise to be for the welfare of the students; to represent the students as a whole in all their relations with officials, Faculty, Trustees, Alumni, and similar bodies, and to have charge of such extra-curricular activities as may be decided upon by the Faculty and Administrative Officers of the University. Officers of the Student Council are as follows: President, Charles H. Epps; Vice President, Alonzo Smith; Corresponding Secretary, Ann Howell; Recording Secretary, Doris Heggans; Treasurer, Joseph Stevenson. After having discussed the problem at length, a committee was formed to discover, investigate, and present these problems before the student body and the administration.

SENIOR MENTORS

The Mentor system at Howard University is about 28 years old. It was organized by the late Dean Slowe around 1921.

As the name implies, it is a guidance system where the older and wiser lead the younger and less mature. The idea is based on the Greek story of Telamachus and Mentor, in which Mentor leads Telamachus on to truth, strength, and great victory.

The girls who have Senior standing, honorable character, good scholarship, and aggressive interest in people, and who are good examples of superior college womanhood are eligible as Mentors.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

A Φ Ω

In December, 1925, Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity, was founded at Lafayette College, Easton, Pennsylvania, with the expressed purpose of "assembling college men in the fellowship of the Scout Oath and Law; to develop Friendship; and to promote Service to Humanity." Alpha Phi Omega men are indoctrinated with the spirit of Leadership, Friendship, and Service. The program embodies four fields of activity: Service to the student body and Faculty; Service to youth and community; Service to members of the Fraternity; Service to the Nation as participating citizens.

Since receiving its Charter, on May 29, 1948, Zeta Phi Chapter has participated in the following service projects: student elections; Community Chest and March of Dimes drive; counsel for the Boy Scouts and Boy's Clubs; student tutoring. Many of the projects have been conducted in conjunction with the chapters at American University, Catholic University, George Washington University, and the University of Maryland. As a result of the Chapter's work, both on the local and national scene, a citation of achievement was presented December 28, 1950, at the National Convention in Des Moines, Iowa.

DELTA SIGMA THETA

Founded at Howard University in 1913, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority sought to reflect the maturity and dignity of a sisterhood of college women. Today the organization boasts of more than 190 chapters whose thousands of members have pledged themselves toward the building of a better world by meeting her requirements in character, scholarship, and citizenship responsibility.

She instigated activities at the National Training Schools for Girls. Through numerous other civic and social welfare projects, the Sorority is relating itself to the community life of which it is a part. Its charitable contributions have been more than a gesture in sharing the burdens of economic depressions. THE STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council of the School of Music was organized three years ago as an experimental organization and in no way affected the relationship between the College of Liberal Arts and the School of Music.

On January 16, 1951, the student body of the School of Music voted to withdraw from the Student Council of the College of Liberal Arts, thereby making the first step toward becoming an independent School.

CLASS HISTORY

The time has come when we, the Class of 1951 of the School of Music, Howard University, must take leave of our classmates and the environment which have become an integral part of our everyday lives. This Class of 1951, numbering about forty, is the largest group ever to graduate in the history of the School of Music. Needless to say, many significant events have taken place during this time.

Because of the relentless efforts of the Dean and the members of the Faculty, the academic standards have been constantly raised to new heights. Yet it is because of these high standards that the School of Music was the first Negro institution admitted to the National Association of the Schools of Music, of which Dean Warner Lawson is now Vice President. This was indeed a great honor. To continue this list of "firsts," it should also be said that this is the first year that we have had a Senior Trumpet Recital. Also, for the first time, a student of the Senior Class of the School of Music has taken part in the Composer's Symposium in the District of Columbia. For the first time in the history of the School of Music a Symposium was held with a fellow-member of the National Association of the Schools of Music, Juilliard School of Music in New York City. The purpose of the Symposium is to acquaint students primarily with the types of training which can be had in Piano, Composition, Theory, Voice, and Orchestral Techniques. Workshops were held chiefly in piano instruction and concerts, in order to ease the formality existing in a first meeting. It was such a great success that both schools decided to make this an annual affair.

The Howard University Choir, under the direction of Dean Warner Lawson and his assistant, Evelyn D.

White, has undertaken the exacting rôle of goodwill ambassador in the District of Columbia and throughout the United States. It has received commendation from the leading music critics throughout the country and is held in high esteem by top-ranking Government officials. The Choir is University-wide in its membership and has its own governing body. In 1948, the Howard University Student Council presented the Esprit de Corps Award to the Choir for the fine spirit within the group and for its outstanding achievements. It has held this award for two successive years. During the past years, the Choir has been one of the outstanding organizations of the University.

Three years ago, the School of Music organized a temporary "Student Council" to govern informally the affairs of the School and to note its effects, pro and con, upon the students. John Coppack was elected as its first President and was able to stimulate class consciousness and to provide students opportunities for expression. This body has sponsored a Young Artist Series, student social functions, and a duo-piano program by Margery Andrews and Attrus Fleming, members of the Faculty. On January 16, 1951, the students voted to withdraw from the Student Council of the College of Liberal Arts.

In spite of the many hours put into tedious studies and practice, we have grown to love and respect our Faculty, fellow classmates, and the halls of study. When we shall have left this place of many and beautiful memories, we shall often return in retrospect to the days spent in our Music School. We will strive always to uphold the principles and standards of our Alma Mater, the School of Music, Howard University.

CLASS HISTORY

Out of the chaos of World War II stepped many veterans in 1947 to join hands with high school graduates from 34 different states and 12 foreign countries to form the E. & A. Class of 1951. These students immediately found themselves besieged with overcrowded conditions. Long hours were spent over drawing boards in poorly-lighted, congested rooms; and many claim that the "Battle of the Bulge" was a picnic compared to some of their struggles in the registration and book lines.

Nevertheless, we somehow managed to struggle through that first year, and the next one found the bulk of us back—a bit wiser, and a little less cocky. We found that the University Administration had unsnarled some of the kinks in registration and book acquisition. The Sophomore courses, however, took on ominous aspects as stories increased of the mortalities in "Death Valley" and the ruggedness of the Calculus courses.

We remember that the departments of engineering were visited in October, 1948, by ECPD, the nationally recognized Accrediting Agency for Engineering Schools, and were given full accreditation. This assured full recognition of our work by other engineering schools, by American industry, and by all organizations and societies requiring this standard for acceptance.

This was the year that representatives from General Electric Corporation, Radio Corporation of America, and General Cable Corporation first came to interview Seniors. As a result of these interviews, seven men received jobs with these firms. This evidence of new employment possibilities was a stimulant to all of us.

We also remember that year as the one in which a Student Chapter of the National Technical Association was established at Howard University and the School of Architecture inaugurated its Five-Year Program.

The 1949-50 school year, our Junior year, marked the Fortieth Anniversary of the School of Engineering and Architecture. Although there were no formal ceremonies held to celebrate this milestone, the year does record many significant achievements. Some of us considered the greatest to be our successful encounters with Statistics, Strength, Kinetics, and the dreaded Junior Structures.

The Department of Architecture was visited in February, 1950, by a committee of the National Architectural Accrediting Board. As a result, our Architecture School became one of the 38 accredited schools in the United States.

For the first time representatives of Westinghouse and other corporations visited our School, while General Electric and Radio Corporation of America made return visits. Some of these visits were made during the holding of the first major all-University Career Conference on our campus in February, 1950. Among the many tangible results of this conference was the placing of five Juniors in Mechanical Engineering by the Foundry Educational Foundation Association in special summer work assignments with top-ranking foundry industries in the United States.

This year also witnessed the inception of a Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. We were active not only in academic pursuits. Four of our students took time to win C.I.A.A. championships in boxing and others served on the Varsity baseball, basketball, football, and track teams.

October 2, 1950, found most of us registering again. Heads were held a little higher and chests stuck out a little farther, for now we were the cream of our School, its Seniors. The entire curriculum had been rough, but our annual social functions—the Smoker, the E. & A. Ball, and the E. & A. Picnic—had served to relieve the tension and strain.

We will forever hold as symbolic of our Senior year the progress of the new $2,120,000 E. & A. building that was begun in the spring of 1950. This progress is depicted in a photo-montage on page 83. This building will bring to successful fruition the vigorous efforts of the Administration of Howard University over the past twenty years.

To some of us this year proved to be one of leisure, but the majority of us had to struggle hard right down to the wire. All of us, however, can look back upon our years here at Howard, generously flavored with laughter, sweat, and tears, as some of the most important in our lives. For here we received the foundation—the rudiments of our professions.

And as we stand on the threshold of graduation, ready to pass through the portals of our Alma Mater for the last time, we realize that the history of the Class of 1951 is not and cannot be written on this single page. For graduation is not an ending to our story but, rather, the commencement of a new phase. Our history will be blazed for the next half-century in all far-flung aspects of industry. Our miniature Class of today will become the giants of industry of tomorrow.

CLASS HISTORY

Destiny unfurled her proudest banner of consecrated service as we entered those charmless halls of the Medical School on that fateful September morning in 1947. Our seventy-five eager and ambition-ridden faces bespoke the now dubious fact that we were the "cream of 1365." Hysteria crept into our desire-warped, protoplasmic masses as we were sucked immediately into the whirlpool of knowledge. The pressure of our work, which at first seemed so easy, soon removed the pedestal of greatness from our dreams, and replaced them with a stream of confused associations.

Nostalgia now engulfs us as we pause to reminisce. Who can forget Joe Colson beginning the fertility parade with Joe Jr. on our very first day? After a period of confusion, we began to identify classmates, and even though in an embryonic state of development, we selected Class officers, who welded us into an efficient fighting unit. The motorized trend began with the appearance of "Comrade" Somerville's car(?) of unknown vintage. We were almost overwhelmed by Dr. Wilkerson's machine gun style of lecturing and "snows," harassed by Dr. McKinney's fine-point quizzes, and awed by Dr. Cobb's versatility. After a short period, we were introduced to the cadavers and began to demonstrate the fine Italian hand of the old masters, demolishing nerves when seeking fasciae, and blood vessels when seeking muscles. Even impending examinations could not interfere with a budding romance, which terminated in the Georges-Price merger. After vacation, our hysterical state subsided with the appearance of those little yellow slips on the bulletin board. Dr. Moore's 7:59 A.M., asepsis, practicals, and listings were too much for us, and we suffered accordingly. With Dr. Young, we traced the fiber, found the cell, and created the Bell Telephone. Time was of the essence to us, but not to our instructors. Dr. Moore accompanied us on field trips. Dr. Cobb took us on a Cook Tour of the Zoo, and Neuroanatomy just overwhelmed us. In spite of chronic fatigue, we still beat the Dean and others to the wire.

The tension of our atomic age and the increasing desire to see the grass grow green in 1951 led to paranoid delusions of persecution, manifested by our battle cry, "Let's vote!" Our family became closely knit as the bachelor ranks were markedly decreased. We learned the difference between an Ascaris egg and a blob of fat; a basketball team was organized, and the lounge became our lunch-time rendezvous. What a joy to experiment with something alive! The dogs in Physiology and rats in Pharmacology all died, and we approximated their state each time the examination bell tolled. Midst the tribulations of these hours, we still made history with our radical Smoker and championship softball team. In addition, our brains produced the Annual Student Council Banquet, at which the late Dr. Charles R. Drew and Dr. Robert S. Jason were saluted for their fine qualities as teachers and men. We acquired a foundation for the years to come, and we knew that we could set the world afire. We learned to detect cloudy swelling, spleens, prostates, and anything suitable for permanent section. We soon learned not to expect Pharmacology examinations on time, nor any mercy from the Physiology department. We added scalps of our clinical instructors and more courses to our already-long string. By blood, sweat, and tears, we survived to become Juniors.

Ego soared sky high as we donned short white coats and invaded the wards. We tortured patients and got case histories from the charts. It was our turn to ask the questions, but we sometimes got distortions of the truth. We learned not to sleep, and studied all night. And yet they "whipped" our heads. One hundred and fifty personalities proved too much with which to cope, as we attempted to study thirteen courses in one quarter. Kappa Pi placed laurels of merit upon seven proud heads. At the second Annual Student Council Banquet, we paid our respects to Dr. Paul Cornely and Dr. K. Albert Harden.

The untimely death of Dr. Charles R. Drew deprived humanity of an outstanding leader, scholar, physician, and teacher.

Our championship softball team manifested again its athletic prowess. We rejuvenated the social standing of the Med-Dent Dance at the Colonnade under the capable leadership of Vernon Baker. The year ended and we began to worry about externships and, of course, internships.

As the Senior year appeared on the horizon, the academic storm clouds cleared. We began to realize more and more our individual inadequacies as potential practitioners of the art of Medicine. We approached our remaining didactic hurdles, however, in a fleet of automobiles and on waves of enthusiasm. We bore the title of Senior with dignity and some degree of quiet humility. We looked for new worlds to conquer and flooded the Dean's office with internship applications.

We will not forget our struggle. We will reaffirm our devotion to duty. We will attempt to follow in the footsteps of one who always tried to help us, the late Charles R. Drew.

CLASS HISTORY

The Dental Class of 1951—famous, infamous, or somewhere in-between—stands ready to take its place in a society which is characterized by confusion and chaos. In this latter respect we and society have something in common. And yet it could scarcely be otherwise in so far as the tempo and temperament of the world is but a reflection of its inhabitants.

Let us glance at a few individual members of the Class. The fate of three of the Class is temporarily certain in an uncertain sort of way. We refer to Lts. M. Miller, Byas, and Edwards who, at the beginning of their Senior year, joined up with Uncle Sam. These gentlemen are destined to have a number of companions. This select group (shot-gun-wedding variety) will probably render a revised version of the "Amalgam War" which will make the original seem like an old maid's chess game.

Taxi cabs provided lunch money to a number of the boys of our group (to say nothing of breakfast, dinner, and rent). It is said that one driver almost contributed toward a new capitol building; but we don't believe a word of it, do you, Bob Smith? Bob thinks he is a "tough" customer; actually, he fits the rôle as well as Wasser does that of Mr. Esquire.

We must cast an envious eye toward Charles "Jelly" Moore because of the tranquility with which he meets the problems of the day. However, if he were a patron of benzedrine he probably would be just as garrulous as Herbert McMahon. We shall always remember Lord Cecil Rhodes; don't be surprised if by 1961 he will have proved conclusively that the chicken came before the egg, or vice versa. One can but respect the extent of his energy.

There are some members who are noted for their modesty. There are the people who go about their work doing a splendid job, but who dare say nothing about it. One person is particularly deserving of this mention—Clarence L. Shoffner. It might here be added that the contents of this dubious document are not entirely authentic.

Goodwill is a necessary component of any well-integrated society. Among the Class of '51 are members whose talents are directed toward achieving this end. To name everyone in this group would probably necessitate listing the whole Class. Hence, those members whose names are to follow should not feel themselves singularly honored, to wit, Carlock, Byas, Davis, Smith,

Smith, Smith, Cundiff, Haddon, and many others. Some people regard the achieving of goodwill as a form of "tomming"; but rest assured that in these instances such is not the case.

Then there are the men from the Republic of Florida. Through word, deed, and attire these gentlemen see to it that Florida will long be remembered among our group. Thank you, Messrs. Boone, Hewitt, MacMahon, and Primus.

The apartment of Davis, McDaniel, and F. Miller around on 8th Street was a popular gathering place for the expression of extra-curricular activities. Matrimony, however, intervened and the "party boys" were obliged to change their way of living, leaving Logan, Nealy, Cundiff, and Davis wondering where to go from there.

One hectic quarter during our Sophomore year, after the completion of a certain course, found the Class in worse shape than Schmeling after his second date with Louis. This showed that the course of true love is anything but smooth. But all's well that ends well.

Let us remember the ladies—diligently pursuing the title of D.D.S. which sooner or later takes a secondary position to the title of MRS. Violet London, Maria Silberweit, and Merle Green Gopaul can argue this with Bertha Martin and Clifton Jackson, and I think Rosa Sheik might be able (and interested) to explain it to "Tank" Edwards (if he will listen).

Memory will preserve the "Beaver News," a creation of J. Primus, which cleverly brought attention and humor to the varied activities of our student group. He had considered including Dr. F.— of C & B in one edition but decided to postpone said edition until after he makes his final march.

Let us not overlook the members of our group who educationally made a name for themselves. Scholastically, the finger points to Arnold Welch; clinically, it points to Geraldo King. Our gratitude to our President, Bruce Shropshire, for his leadership.

It is indeed regrettable that space does not allow the individual mention of each member, but rest assured that each has left his footprints. As our paths diverge, let us take with us, in addition to our training, goodwill and good humor (as will the Texans, Winters and Hamilton). Let us hope that we have learned that cooperation is a keystone in the building of success. May we, wherever we go, favorably represent ourselves and our profession.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council of the College of Pharmacy has as its main purpose the project of promoting closer relationships among the individual classes of the College, as well as between Faculty and students. It also serves to integrate student activities, both social and academic. In addition to sponsoring dances and parties, it selects and presents reputable speakers of the various phases of pharmaceutical pursuit and sponsors trips to various pharmaceutical houses.

Officers and members of the organization pictured above are, seated from left to right: W. Brown, Vice President; P. Campbell, Corresponding Secretary; W. Huff, Recording Secretary. Standing: B. Gomillion, M. Scott, R. Thomas, B. Coleman, H. Oliver, P. Ferguson, Public Relations; K. Brown and J. Busch. Absent from the picture is J. Harris, President.

As we look back through time to the year 1947, our Freshman year, many of the dimly-remembered episodes of those nostalgic days are once again focused in our mind's eye as we relive the dangers and pitfalls of those now seemingly simple courses: Organic Chemistry, Trigonometry and Pharmaceutical Chemistry.

Remember when we first heard the expression "stay to see the grass turn green"? This we took as our personal motto as we struggled through those first hectic weeks. Of course, there were brighter days too during that first year—we helped sponsor Pharmacy's float in the Homecoming Game; we were fêted by the Student Council at a fabulous get-acquainted party, which culminated in the founding of new and lasting friendships; and, above all, we successfully passed the June finals.

Remember the grand feeling that we experienced upon proclaiming to others when summer came that we were now Sophomores? Where? Why, in the College of Pharmacy at Howard University.

With the advent of the fall of 1948, we returned to the ivy-covered buildings that we regarded affectionately as our new home. We were now a group of older and wiser seekers-of-knowledge with the experiences of our Freshman year behind us.

The great confidence placed in us by our instructors, augmented by the fact that our group had the highest entrance qualifications than had any previous class, launched us with renewed vigor into the mysteries of the laboratory, the formidable realm of Pharmacognosy, and the seemingly inaccessible practices and techniques involved in pharmaceutical manufacturing.

Our skills and qualities were put to their severest tests during those ensuing weeks, but little by little we found ourselves laboriously acquiring a minute portion of the vast storehouses of knowledge embodied within the realm of our profession.

We climaxed this difficult year by participating in the Med-Dent-Pharmacy Dance and by spending a nostalgic day in Rock-Creek Park at a picnic sponsored by the Student Council, with the student nurses of Freedmen's Hospital as our guests.

Completion of the June finals marked the passing of another milepost along the difficult road to our desired goal, a goal which slowly began to loom on the horizon before us as we passed the halfway point on that long, hard, and much-travelled road to Bachelordom in Pharmacy.

Fall 1949 we entered our "Golden Year." This was our year of leisure; this was the year that we felt that we had really become a part of the University community. There was time now to attend the continuous rounds of social events that we had sorely missed in the previous years—the football and basketball games, the productions of the Howard Players, the Jabberwock, the Nursing School frolics, the Mardi Gras, and ROTC Balls. All of these events and the spirit embodied in them served to endear and entrench the memories of those college days in our hearts and minds forever.

There was, however, some sadness as we viewed our depleted ranks and thought of those we had left behind. Then, too, we viewed the aspect of Organic Chemistry and its high mortality rate with some misgivings.

Our worldly knowledge increased along with our academic knowledge. For example, our Class had the reputation for being closely-knit and very coöperative, but just who was it who had those old final exams and didn't pass them around?

In our more serious moments, we became prospective pharmacists by joining the A. Ph. A. and participated in the reorganization of the venerable Mortar and Pestle Club. Participation in these organizations not only stimulated our interest in trade journals, but also impressed us with our responsibilities as public servants to help safeguard the health of our fellow men.

As the year came to a close, we had the honor of entertaining the Senior Class of '50 with a Junior-Senior Prom which was truly an unforgettable affair. It was with some envy that we watched the departing Seniors as they condescendingly wished us luck; but we said to ourselves, "Just wait until next year."

The long-awaited year had finally arrived! We were Seniors at last! Remember how we looked around searchingly for all of those old familiar faces on the first day? Remember how we had planned to make that last year our "best" year? Happily we began that "last mile" with a renewed determination to stay and see the "grass grow green" for the final time.

To each event in which we participated we gave more zealously of our time and energies for we realized that these were our last times to be associated with the undergraduate school.

With the inexorable passage of time the tension began to mount. The constant problem of titrating and standardizing solutions in chemistry and the incompatibilities to be resolved in dispensing were enough to occupy all of our time, and the need to prepare for the redoubtable comprehensive accentuated the load we had to bear during those final and fateful weeks.

Remember our dreadful anticipation of those few days of the comprehensive that would seal our fates, and that inexpressible feeling as we waited for the marks to be posted? Then the blissful relaxation and relief we felt when we found that we had "made it."

Those last few days spent on the campus were the best-remembered and most pleasant during our long sojourn there.

The Junior-Senior Prom, at which we said goodbye to our classmates, will be treasured in our hearts forever. And with our last little "farewell party" we rededicated ourselves and remembered our fond associations for the last time. We had completed our work at the College of Pharmacy, and both the College and Howard University will forever remain in our hearts.

CLASS HISTORY

We, the Class of '51, will ever soberly recall the October day in 1948 when we came to the School of Religion seeking what we felt to be a responsible level of training for Christian leadership. Our Class included a number of G.I.'s and older students, whose mature experiences made our approach more serious and more demanding. With zestful anticipation we set about the pursuit of the Bachelor of Divinity degree. But had we been privy to the endless number of book reports, term papers, entailing the quest of a seemingly infinite array of theological, philosophical, and historical details, our unqualified optimism might have been hedged about by more realistic reservations.

During our stay, we have been richly nurtured and urgently challenged to continue to grow in educational leadership and to contribute, with increasing creativity, within a comprehensive range of services. Among us are persons who envision careers as pastors, teachers, chaplains, missionaries, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. workers, and denominational staff specialists.

Our Class has profited greatly from the varied experiences of the Faculty. We have bicycled through England with Dr. Banner; we have carved our initials on the cedars of Lebanon with Dr. Keene; we have helped to stir the melting pot of Hawaii with Dr. Dorey; we have traveled to Canada with Dr. Tyms; we have gained insights into the parish ministry with Dr. Hill; we have brought the Bible up to date with Dr. Wright; and the Dean, always a grand fellow, took time out to become a grandfather.

The activities of the Class members have encompassed many phases of Christian work. Rossie Patterson and Eugene Tillman spent their summers working with migrants in New York and New Jersey; Nathaniel Linsey and Lyndsai Pitts, during their residence, carried full responsibility for a rural and urban church, respectively; Reuben Reynolds served as religious director for the Litchman's Boys' Camp in Virginia; John Cooper conducted the special service for deaf mutes at Shiloh Baptist Church; Albert Redd, after extensive experience in the Y. M. C. A., shifted to the Bachelor of Divinity program, having conceived a growing preference for the pastoral ministry; Robert Simmons attended a series of sessions at Union Theological Seminary in New York; Oliver Willis filled pulpits in a number of churches from New Jersey to Virginia.

And yet our stay here has not been wholly on the serious side. We have had unforgettable moments of fun and banter together. How could we forget our annual picnics, during which the students and Faculty tangled on the baseball diamond? Here the students bats proved consistently more mighty than the proverbial "pen." Then there were quarterly parties, with square dancing and games with Faculty and student wives and girl friends; Christmas parties, with appropriate bric-bracs for all concerned. And certainly no one could deny that, when it came to intra-mural basketball, the theologs were a perennial power.

Yes, our life together at the School of Religion has been a balanced and a happy one. Each experience has served to enrich and broaden our vision for the job ahead. Thus, as we prepare to be graduated, we leave with the determination to do our share in helping the ethics of Christianity come to life in all areas of contemporary living. We pray that through us the Word may in fact "become flesh and dwell among us."

CLASS HISTORY

Hi Joe:

Final exams are over and the first year has now become history. Sorry I didn't write yesterday, but passing in all subjects called for a celebration. This year has passed so rapidly that I always feel a little frightened when I look back.

I will always remember registration day—new faces, strange language, and the endless snarl of forms. Another standout was the first day of class . . . will I ever forget! There we were—fifty-six of us—very formal, sitting up-right in our chairs, and the room all heavy with quiet and forboding. A door quietly opened and in walked a smiling, confident person who said, "I am the Dean." His voice boomed and somehow butterflies settled in the collective class stomach. As if to make sure the butterflies remained agitated, he said, "Look to your left and look to your right; some of you will not be present for graduation." I felt deathly ill. Then, after a few encouraging words, he introduced our first Prof.; shot us a parting "Good luck!" and we were on our way—for better, for worse.

Our first assignment of 150 pages convinced two students in our Class to drop out. I wanted to leave also but somehow lacked courage.

It's nice to remember our first Class election. Dick Bancroft was chosen our Class President. Dick and the other Class officers did an excellent job. Then there was the "get-acquainted party" at Carver Hall. It was swell to meet the Faculty informally (they are really regular fellows outside of classroom).

Then came our first exams and THAT comprehensive. The grades were astoundingly low! For the next few months the library buzzed with activity and became the most important place in the world. Well, June has finally rolled around and it looks as though I will be able to come back next year. Just can't say what the next year will bring, but for now I must look for a job.

Yours truly—

Dear Joe:

Another year has passed. Time marches on. Finals are over and again I look back over the precious months. It was disheartening to see so many empty seats last September, but we were informed that this second year would be even more difficult, and the observation proved disgustingly sound.

Trial practice was loads of work but also loads of fun. We really learned how little we knew. Just about forgot to tell you that the ebullient Congressman Powell surprised us with a visit. He discussed the problems involved in F.E.P.C. legislation. Interesting! We were "blessed" with another congressional personality, Senator Holland of Florida, who presented his side of the States Rights vs. Federal Enforcement of the Civil Rights schism. What a battle!

Joe McCormick was chosen our Class Delegate to the American Association of Law Students, meeting in Philly. Joe brought back a stimulating report. I'll never forget our Class meetings with Charley Wilson as proxy and with future lawyers parading their parliamentary law and declamatory abilities—"little congress" in session. Robert's Rules suffered multiple fractures and the healing process is painstakingly slow. Our intimate, informal party on Columbia Road was great fun. The "juke box" was ideal, the girls were lovely, and the refreshments tops. Thanks to our Entertainment Committee, everyone had a wonderful time. Those members of the Faculty who accepted our invitation were impressed.

The Faculty sponsored a lecture series covering various aspects of our legal work not covered by classroom instruction. The information was greatly appreciated. Everyone has been worked to death this year and the saying "law is a jealous mistress" is certainly a truism. I'm certainly thankful this second year is over. Never again do I want to take such a "head whipping." The grapevine whispers that the third year isn't quite so bad, but this remains to be seen, and I suspect the suggestion is without merit.

It's a beautiful day outside, so I think I'm going to stroll around outside and try to relax. Write soon.

Sincerely—

Well, Joe:

Formal opening of our third year got off with a bang. President Johnson spoke in the Chapel, daring us to maintain our ideals in the pragmatic, functional arena of law offices and court rooms. Julia Cooper took over as Chief Justice of the Court of Peers. Dorsey Lane, an alumnus of our Law School, was added to the Faculty to replace Mrs. Jane Lucas, who resigned. More empty seats! We are now upper-classmen. Do we feel wonderful! I look at the Freshmen with sympathy and concern—if they only knew. We had another fine "get-acquainted" party for the incoming Freshmen. Prof. Nabrit lectured on the Constitution and vanishing civil liberties, exhorting us to employ the sword of our legal training to cut down the ogres of discrimination and segregation which assault the castle of civil rights. Prof. Washington participated in a panel discussion on the constitutionality of the McCarran Act.

And, of course, the mid-term exams rolled around and I was still slightly nervous—looks as though I'll never learn how to relax. Only two more hurdles left, the finals and the bar exam. Monroe, our Senior Class President, is steering the ship well. The photographer took pictures of our Law School organizations and also individual members of the Senior Class—the last round-up. We half-seriously and half-jokingly attempted to interpret this activity as an omen of successful achievement.

Everyone has worked hard toward making a success of our fare-thee-well formal, the "Barristers Ball." I wish it had been possible for you to attend. We had a "name band" and everything was real "foxy."

"The weariest of rivers winds itself safely down to sea."

"LIBRARY WORKSHOP"

Messrs. J. Daughtery, W. Coombs and J. E. McIver present typical examples of the long hours consumed in the Law Library by students who pursue the legal profession.

POINT IN QUESTION

Professor Nabrit listens intently as a group of students continue the classroom discussion on a point of law. Student Kennedy appears to be proving his position by reference to text authority.
