University prepares for eliminated surcharge

The concept of an international student surcharge was introduced, and according to Terrance Minor, an advisor to the University, it was a measure of financial support for the University. Minor said that in the end, the University had to address the issue of surcharge.

How Howard University, an institution primarily focused on educating domestic students, found itself a target of international students who have been involved in recent protests and demonstrations. The University, in reaction to these events, has eliminated the surcharge for international students. The decision was made by the University's administration, and it has been widely celebrated by students and faculty alike.

The University has always been a leader in the field of education, and this decision is a testament to its commitment to providing the best possible education for all students. It is a step towards creating a more inclusive and equitable educational environment for all students, regardless of their background or financial status.

The decision to eliminate the surcharge has been met with widespread support and has been seen as a major step forward in the University's efforts to provide a more equitable and inclusive educational environment.

Ladner added the University's goal had been to serve the Howard University community in various ways, but this has been challenging with the recent events. He said the University had to address these issues and find a solution.

ALUMNI IMPRESSED BY HOWARD'S IMPROVED FACILITIES, ACTIVITY

By Crystal D. Davis
Hilltop Staff Writer

In the span of just 30 years, the physical campus of Howard University has taken on a new lease on life. The university is undergoing a major transformation, not just in its physical facilities, but also in its academic programs and student life.

In December, Howard University hosted the opening of the Music and Media Complex, a state-of-the-art facility designed to enhance the university’s offerings in music and media. The new complex, located on the corner of 21st Street and C Street NW, will provide students with access to state-of-the-art recording studios, music classrooms, and performance spaces.

The university also recently completed a major renovation of the campus dining halls, which now feature modern amenities and more nutritious options for students.

These improvements have not gone unnoticed by the alumni, who have expressed their excitement and pride in the university’s continued growth. "I'm so proud of Howard’s progress," said Alumni Association President Jane Smith. "We're seeing a real commitment to enhancing the student experience and preparing our graduates for the future."
Singing group arrested during homecoming

By Marita M. Lewis

Washington D.C. — Three members of a high-profile group were arrested on Saturday, after splitting at a Columbia University event, in a 26 block area of Lattom Street, off Howard's College campus. The incident involved Germaine Bright, Michael Vanrensalier and Mark Gay, who were released on bail yesterday. Bright, who was carrying a gun, was repaired to the print office. The group, which comprised of Howard students, turned out on Friday Oct 1st, in order to participate in the weekend's homecoming activities. It was reported that the group had split after arriving at Congress Hall for a concert. According to a press release by Metropolitan Police spokesman, the arrests were made without a fight and for suspicion of possessing a firearm. Delta week unfolds as "The Journey Begins"

By Marita M. Lewis

Newspaper believe that Black students are at the forefront of college campuses. This belief is an extension of Delta Sigma Theta's Alpha Chapter, which is on the front line in the struggle for equality. It is a fact that the Delta Sigma Theta's Alpha Chapter is a community organization. In fact, the Delta Sigma Theta is the only organization in the country that has worked on many different projects. The Alpha Chapter is dedicated to bringing Black students to the forefront of college campuses. It is a fact that the Alpha Chapter is leading the way for Black students.

``There's a whole list of black celebrities who have run-ins with the law."

— Faith Fox, general manager of Delta Martin Entertainment

Bridge, Vanrensalier and Mark Gay (who was not involved) run-ins with the law, Fox added, naming rapper Tupac as a prime example. "It's not our goal to dispel the myth that Black celebrities are being harassed," he said. "It's our goal to enlighten the Howard community about the negative hype surrounding the program." Officer Anthony O'Leary, who works with the Public Information Office and has been involved in special events, said tensions were high. "There's been a lot of tension between the groups," he said. "But Bright would lose in the D.C. Superior Court for possession of a firearm without a license. He is scheduled to appear in court on October 21." When asked if the tension would continue, Fox emphasized that the group would continue to come back as much as possible. "We are going to have a lot of events this week," Fox said. "Our goal is to be as visible as possible." The Howard students, who are organizing the event, hope to bring attention to the issue of racial profiling.

Upcoming Events...

Tonight there will be a mandatory, EMERGENCY General Assembly meeting, at 6:00 in Room 102 of the Blackburn Center. Any questions, call 806-7007.

The Republican National Committee is set to meet to discuss its platform and candidates for the upcoming elections. The meeting is expected to be held in Washington, D.C., at the Marriott Marquis Hotel on September 17th. The platform is expected to cover a wide range of issues, including foreign policy, economic growth, and healthcare.

The meeting will also feature speeches from various Republican leaders, including President Donald Trump, Vice President Mike Pence, and House Speaker Paul Ryan. The platform is expected to reflect the party's conservative values and will likely include positions on issues such as tax cuts, immigration, and energy policy.

The meeting is an important event for the Republican Party, as it sets the tone and direction for the party's campaign in the upcoming midterm elections. The platform will be adopted by the Republicans' national convention later in the year, and it will guide the party's candidates and activists as they campaign across the country.

The meeting will also provide an opportunity for Republican leaders to address any challenges facing the party, such as the ongoing Russia investigation and the ongoing debate over healthcare reform. The party is expected to focus on these issues as it works to regain the confidence of voters and rebuild its base.

Nation's children may face longer school year

Here are six countries ranked by the number of days in school per year:

- Germany: 243 days
- Japan: 240 days
- Austria: 216 days
- Denmark: 200 days
- Switzerland: 195 days
- America: 180 days

School day attendance year

In addition to being one of the top school year attendance

1. Germany: 243 days
2. Japan: 246 days
3. Austria: 216 days
4. Denmark: 200 days
5. Switzerland: 195 days
6. America: 180 days

In order to extend the school year, some states have considered legislation to increase the number of school days. This could have implications for various aspects of education, including teacher salaries, student well-being, and the overall academic calendar. The decision to extend the school year can have significant consequences for students, teachers, and the broader community, and it is crucial to carefully consider the implications before making any changes.

Nelson Mandela receives leadership award

After the death of Fidel Castro, Nelson Mandela became the most prominent political figure in the world. He had been a leader in the African National Congress (ANC) for many years and had been imprisoned for 27 years by the South African government. Mandela was released from prison in 1990 and became the first black president of South Africa in 1994.

Mandela's leadership was characterized by his commitment to non-violence and his belief in reconciliation. He worked to bring about a peaceful transition from apartheid to democracy and to promote reconciliation between the different racial groups in South Africa.

Mandela's leadership was not without its challenges. He faced opposition from some members of the ANC and from the South African government, which sought to undermine his leadership. However, Mandela was able to maintain the support of the majority of the South African people and to work towards a peaceful resolution of South Africa's problems.

Mandela's leadership was widely praised both at home and abroad. He was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1993 and was named by Time magazine as one of the 100 Most Influential People of the 20th Century.

However, Mandela's leadership was not without its critics. Some argued that he was too moderate and that he did not do enough to address the social and economic problems faced by the South African people. Others argued that he was too focused on reconciliation and did not do enough to bring about change in South Africa.

Despite these criticisms, Mandela's leadership is widely regarded as a model for leaders around the world. His commitment to non-violence and reconciliation has inspired many people around the world and his leadership has been a source of hope and inspiration to those who are fighting for justice and equality.

Sexual harassment still hot issue on campus

By Shauna Jackson

In 1993, the Washington Post reported that sexual harassment cases on college campuses were on the rise. Since then, the issue has continued to be a significant concern for students, faculty, and administrators. Despite the existence of policies and training programs to combat harassment, the problem persists. It is estimated that one in four women and one in five men experience sexual harassment during their college education. The effects of harassment can be profound, affecting mental health, academic performance, and overall well-being.

Presentation key to job hunt

By Debra Gish

Finding a job after college can be overwhelming, but there are strategies that can increase your chances of success. Networking, crafting a strong resume, and preparing for interviews are crucial steps. It is also beneficial to build a personal brand, highlighting your strengths and accomplishments. Positioning yourself as a valuable asset to potential employers can make all the difference.

New minivan models from ‘Big Three’ still U.S. competition

By Steve Reiner

The minivan market has seen significant growth in recent years, with new models introduced by the “Big Three” automakers. Despite the introduction of more fuel-efficient options, minivans remain popular for their spacious interiors and versatility. The market is expected to continue growing, driven by factors such as demographics and family needs.

Scholarship services aid in finding funding sources for college costs

By Tim Renier

Many high school seniors are struggling to find the funds to attend college. Scholarship services can be a valuable resource in this process. They offer guidance, assistance, and opportunities to help students secure the financial aid they need to pursue their education.

Phone service offers training, big bucks

By Myrlin Joseph

Launching a phone service business can be a lucrative venture, offering both training opportunities and financial rewards. Entrepreneurs who are successful in this field can earn substantial income. However, it is important to approach this business with a solid strategy and commitment to providing quality service to customers.

"I have never had a problem with being sexually harassed," said Pat Fuller, who works in human resources for a technology firm. "I feel that there is very little tolerance for this behavior, and those who commit it are punished appropriately."
HERE'S A CONTEST
YOU MIGHT REALLY END UP GETTING INTO.

This contest could open some doors for you in the automotive industry. Not to mention some doors on a new 1995 Nissan Sentra.

Introducing "Nissan Designs for the Future." A competition established by Nissan Motors Corporation USA, in cooperation with the National Society of Black Engineers to discover new talent in the fields of automotive design and engineering. Just design or improve an original safety or environmental feature for the inside or outside of a car, or design the car itself, and you could win.

First you'll need to get an entry kit from your campus Career Center, your college's engineering school, or your NSBE Region 2 chairperson. Then read the instructions below. All designs will be judged by Nissan Research and Engineering. Development or Nissan Design International, whose decision will be final.

Enter the "Nissan Designs for the Future" competition today. If you win you can open the door with a lease on a new car, but at the same time you'll have opened a door to your future.

Bison win Homecoming 21-20 in the last minute

By Rasa Higgins

After Howard University’s Homecoming was celebrated over Saturday, the Bison lost their second game of the season to Bethune-Cookman. Bryant Scott contributed two sacks, and quarterback Steve McMillan had a good game.

The defense was led by senior linebacker Jon Wells, who had 12 tackles, including two sacks. The Bison defense also forced Bethune-Cookman to punt on three of their last four possessions, holding them to two yards on the ground and one score.

Scott’s contributions were crucial as Bethune-Cookman’s quarterback threw two interceptions and the Bison defense forced a fumble.

Scott acknowledged the defense’s performance, saying, “We knew we had to play well today, and we did. We showed up.”

The Bison’s win came in the last minute of the game, with a 39-yard field goal by Connor.

Connor said, “It was a close game, but we kept our composure and were able to make the big plays when we needed to.”

The Bison defense, led by Scott, dominated the game and kept Bethune-Cookman from scoring, allowing them to win 21-20 in the last minute.

With the win, the Bison improve to 2-2 on the season, and look forward to their next game.

Above: Offensive line ahead Connor plenty of time in the backfield. Connor needs Bison defense inside the Wildcat.

Black dollars belong in Black community

Black people need to support Black businesses. The idea is not new; yet, many Howard University students seem to be ignorant or unaware of it. However, there is a sense of urgency at this time as the talk of all the talk is focused on Black-owned businesses. The need for the Black community to support its own is not a new one. Yet, many students are not paying attention to this need. If students support Black businesses, they will not only be helping themselves, but they will also be helping their community.

Some students may argue that starting a business is difficult and that people do not have the time to do it. However, it is important to understand that supporting Black businesses is not only about starting a business, but it is also about supporting Black-owned businesses that already exist. These businesses are often run by Black people who have faced various challenges in trying to establish and maintain their businesses. Therefore, when students support these businesses, they are not only supporting the businesses, but they are also supporting the people behind them.

The University students should support Black businesses because these businesses are not only important for the Black community, but they are also essential for the overall economy. Black businesses contribute to the economy by creating jobs and generating wealth. However, many Black businesses are ignored by institutions that are supposed to support them. This is why it is crucial to support Black businesses.

The University students should support Black businesses because these businesses are more likely to hire Black people. This is important because it helps to increase the number of Black people in the workforce and helps to reduce the unemployment rate. Many Black businesses are also more likely to hire people from the Black community, which helps to bridge the gap between the Black community and the rest of the workforce.

The University students should support Black businesses because these businesses are more likely to provide better services. Black businesses are often run by people who have a deeper understanding of the needs of the Black community. This helps to ensure that the services provided are tailored to the needs of the Black community.

In conclusion, it is important for University students to support Black businesses. This will not only help the Black community, but it will also help the overall economy. Therefore, let us support Black businesses and make a difference in our community and the world.

Campus beautification: a year-round job

The physical environment of the campus is not only a source of pride for students, faculty, and staff, but it also serves as a reflection of the values and goals of the University. The physical environment is not merely a backdrop for academic and social activities, but it is also a space where students, faculty, and staff can gather and interact. Therefore, it is important to maintain a clean and beautiful campus.

However, maintaining a clean and beautiful campus is not an easy task. It requires continuous effort and commitment. The University has a responsibility to maintain the campus in a clean and beautiful condition. The University also has a responsibility to educate students, faculty, and staff about the importance of maintaining a clean and beautiful campus.

The University can start by implementing a exiting and effective maintenance schedule. The schedule should be designed to ensure that the campus is kept clean and beautiful throughout the year. The schedule should also be designed to ensure that the maintenance is done in a way that is environmentally friendly.

The University can also implement a student worker program. The program can provide students with an opportunity to earn money while also contributing to the maintenance of the campus. The program can be designed to provide students with hands-on experience in maintenance work.

The University can also involve students, faculty, and staff in the maintenance of the campus. The University can create a campus beautification committee to oversee the maintenance of the campus. The committee can include students, faculty, and staff who are interested in beautifying the campus.

In conclusion, maintaining a clean and beautiful campus is a year-round job. The University has a responsibility to maintain the campus in a clean and beautiful condition. The University can start by implementing an effective maintenance schedule, implementing a student worker program, and involving students, faculty, and staff in the maintenance of the campus.

New facility use policy curbs freedom of speech

The new facility use policy has been implemented in response to the increasing number of protests and demonstrations on campus. The policy has been implemented to ensure the safety and security of all members of the campus community.

The new policy requires that all events held on campus must be approved by the University administration. The policy also requires that all events must be held in accordance with the University's policies and procedures.

The new policy has been implemented to ensure that the campus community is not disrupted by events that are not in compliance with the University's policies and procedures. The policy has also been implemented to ensure that the campus community is not subjected to events that are not in compliance with the University's policies and procedures.

In conclusion, the new facility use policy has been implemented to ensure the safety and security of all members of the campus community. The policy has also been implemented to ensure that the campus community is not disrupted by events that are not in compliance with the University's policies and procedures.
Mandela, South Africa at ‘Crossroads’

Did you ever know about Hector Peterson the 7-year-old who was the first casualty of the 1976 Soweto Uprising? How about his mother, Mary, or maybe Fred Hampton, the young Pan-African revolutionary who was killed at the age of 21? These individuals are just two of those whose names are still a part of history, but whose faces are not.

The fall of apartheid and the rise of Nelson Mandela as leader of South Africa is something that has been in the news for decades. But who exactly is Mandela, and what has he done to shape the future of his country? What role did the Black Consciousness Movement play in this process? These are just a few of the questions that will be explored in this article.

The story of Mandela, a man who has been called both a hero and a villain, is one that is still being written. As the world looks towards South Africa for its future, it is important to remember the legacies of those who came before.

The failure of Congress to enact any type of health care reform in this election year has received a great deal of attention. Blacks should demand health care reform on all levels. It is time to make this a priority.

The administration... is trying to decide for the students whom they can listen to and with whom they can associate. The university and the administration are putting all the responsibility on the students. The students are being asked to play a role in their own lives. This is not a new thing. The university and the administration are asking the students to take responsibility for their own actions.

The students are being asked to make decisions about who they want to be friends with, who they want to associate with, and who they want to listen to. This is not a new thing. The students have always been asked to make decisions about who they want to be friends with, who they want to associate with, and who they want to listen to.
