THE GREAT WORK OF THE AGE!

SOUTHERN INSTITUTES,

OR AN INQUIRY INTO THE ORIGIN AND EARLY PREVALENCE OF

SLAVERY AND THE SLAVE TRADE;

With an Analysis of the Laws and Government of the Institution in the principal Nations, Ancient and Modern, from the earliest ages down to the present time, with Notes and Comments in defence of the Institutions of the South.

By G. S. SAWYER, of the Bar of Louisiana.

The above is the title of a work now offered to the public. It consists of ten distinct essays, each complete in itself, yet so arranged as to complete the final design of the work as a whole.

The following is the opinion of the lamented Gen. J. A. QUITMAN, of Aug. 29th, 1857:

"No Southern man should fail to read this book, who desires to understand thoroughly the history of this institution; its true attitude in the nation, and the moral, political and judicial tenure by which he holds his property. From its deep research, its sound philosophy, and its pure and elegant style, it will be a valuable addition to any gentleman's library. And at this particular time, when the institutions of the South are so fiercely assailed, I especially commend it to the Southern public; as I deem it a most triumphant vindication of both Church and State, in sanctioning the institution."

Editor of the Natchez Courier, Col. G. M. Hillyer, says in substance, as follows:

After having carefully examined Southern Institutes, by G. S. Sawyer, I hesitate not to say, that it is a work of great literary merit, and that it evinces great research and profound learning, and for the purity and elegance of style, it is unsurpassed. I hail its publication with joy, and hope that thousands of my fellow citizens will procure it, and receive the same pleasure and satisfaction in its perusal that I myself have done. The author treats the subject in an entirely different manner from others who have written upon the same subject, so that having read any or all the authors who have written upon this subject, will not in the least interfere with the perusal of the above work.

The Madison Journal says:

"Mr. Sawyer has in a great degree avoided the errors into which others writing upon this subject have fallen, and has presented to the public a volume as remarkable for the cogency and perspicuity of its reasoning, as it is captivating from the beauty and variety of its imagery, and we cordially recommend it to our readers of all classes, to consult the treatise itself."

The following is from the Boston Post:

"This is an able and elaborate defence of Southern institutions, by one who was born in New England, educated in one of her oldest Colleges, and for the last seventeen years has been a resident of Mississippi and Louisiana. This work contains a valuable mass of historical facts and statistics in relation to Slavery, and as such eminently worthy the attention of inquirers."

The above are only a few of the many commendations of the work above set forth, and we have no doubt of a liberal patronage from an enlightened and generous public. The work is an octavo volume beautifully bound in muslin, of about four hundred pages.
