NOTES FROM

Howard University, located in the Nation's Capital, was conceived in a prayer meeting. The idea which gave birth to Howard University grew out of the Monthly Concert of Prayer for Missions, which was held in the First Congregational Church of Washington, D.C., on November 19, 1866. On the following evening, ten persons assembled and decided unanimously to establish an educational institution, "in view of the pressing demand of the southern field," according to the words of the resolution which was passed.

Action was taken at the meeting giving the school the designation of the Howard Theological Seminary, after General Oliver Otis Howard, who had been active in the organization of the project. At a meeting on January 8, 1867, the name of the school was changed to Howard University. During February of 1867, the organization of the University was carried forward rapidly, and plans were made for the application for a charter from the Congress of the United States. The act to incorporate Howard University declared that "there be established and is hereby established in the District of Columbia, a university for the education of vouth in the liberal arts and sciences under the name, style, and title of The Howard University.' Shortly after the opening of the school, the incorporators negotiated the purchase of 150 acres of land, which included the present site of the University, for $150,000. The greater portion of the money for this purchase was obtained through the judicious sale of building lots and through funds of the Federal Government, under the authorization of General Howard.

The first Catalogue of 1867 described the new undertaking from its physical appearances as follows: "Upon the crowning summit of the heights overlooking the city and surrounding country, in plain view of the Washington public buildings, the University buildings are being creeted, which, when finished, will be an ornament to the Capital." While the principal difficulty of the University in this early period was a financial one, yet the University's annual report of 1868-1869 stated that the financial conditions of the University were satisfactory and that the buildings and grounds were free of debt.

Instruction in the Theological Department was begun on January 6, 1868. The Collegiate Department began its work on September 21, 1868. On April 12, 1868, the organization of the Medical Department was authorized. The Department was to consist of a medical school, a pharmaceutical school, and a general hospital. The Law Department was organized on October 12, 1868, and was formally opened on January 6, 1869. Six students were in the first law class. The University thus made its beginning in several schools of its proposed work. Within five years after the first students were admitted to the academic classes, Howard University was composed of the following schools which were in actual operation: Normal and Preparatory, Musical, Theological, Military, Industrial, Commercial, College, Law, and Medicine. The development of the University was furthered in the establishment of the Dental School in 1882. It was during this administration that the University was confronted by serious financial problems. The effects of the panic of 1873 and the consequent policy of retrenchment throughout the country necessitated a program of economy for the University. In order to meet the emergency, several departments were temporarily discontinued. By 1877, however, the University had paid its debts and its normal progress was assured. After several years of reorganization, the Pedagogical Department was designated as the Teachers College and took rank with the College of Arts and Sciences.

By 1910, the School of Manual Arts and Applied Sciences was established; in 1919 it was reorganized as the College of Applied Sciences. In 1934 it became the School of Engineering and Architecture.

Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson was the first Negro to be elected president. Howard University, under his administration, experienced growth and development, both physical and scholastical. Every school and college was completely reorganized and placed in the command of eminent scholars. During this period, there was a substantial increase in scholarly publications, including books, monographs, articles, papers, and other creative contributions, such as poetry and paintings by the faculty.

Three of the most influential journals in American education were founded and are published regularly by Howard University. They are the Journal of Negro Education, the Journal of Religious Thought, and the Howard Law Review. On March 3, 1879, the Congress made an appropriation of $10,000 for the support of the University. Since that time, the Congress has made continuous and increasing appropriations to the University, year by year, being more and more confirmed in the conviction that it was thereby rendering a greatly-needed service to the colored people in ways not otherwise provided for. From 1879 to 1928, the annual appropriations from the Congress to Howard University rose from $10,000 to $218,000. Howard University, almost from the worked in cooperation with the Freedmen's Hos-

From this early beginning of basic training for recently-freed persons, the University has expanded to the place where its faculty of approximately 700 teachers offers training to more than 7,000 students of many races, creeds, and nationalities. Each of its 10 schools and colleges is accredited by the highest rating association in America. During the 1960-61 school year, Howard students came from 46 states, the District of Columbia, 2 territories of the United States, and 57 foreign countries. They are enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts, College of Pharmacy, College of Medicine, School of Religion, School of Law, College of Dentistry, School of Engineering and Architecture, College of Fine Arts, the Graduate School, and the School of Social Work.

Since its establishment in 1867, the Howard University has graduated 22,433 persons. The large majority of these graduates have been Negroes.

In every population center in the United States, they constitute the largest and most diversified group of trained negroes related to any single institution in the world. The largest number of graduates have entered the field of teaching, primarily in the southern states.

1961-62 Federal appropriation $7,000,000. The physical facilities now consist of 42 buildings, most of which are among the most beautiful and most functional in the country. Scholastically, Howard University has been able to attract many top scholars to its facilities. In addition, through a program which stresses academic growth, many of its teachers have made outstanding contributions in their fields since joining the faculties. In the College of Liberal Arts, for example, 47.4 per cent of the entire faculty (full and part-time hold a doctorate. Through its nation-wide program of counseling and recruitment, Howard has been able to attract a higher caliber student body, and the quality of its students' work is known throughout the world. Evidence of this is seen in the fact that 23 national honor societies have established chapters at Howard University.

In April of 1961, Dr. James Madison Nabrit, Jr. was inaugurated as the fourteenth president of the University. In his first address to students and faculty, he called for a comprehensive program of self-examination. "Our goal," according to Dr. Nabrit, "is to make Howard University a really outstanding university on the basis of recognized value standards and educational criteria."

One of the most cosmopolitan institutions of higher learning in the United States, the University includes among its trustees, administrators, faculties, and student body, persons of nearly every major race, religion, and nationality. It has always been open to all races and both sexes. Started originally as a local institution designed to meet a critical need of the newly-freed Negro people, Howard University is today both national and international in the scope of its work, its student body, and its influence.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Graduation marks an important milestone in the shaping of your lives. A part of your formal training has now been completed, but your opportunity for learning goes on. I hope that you will never cease to be engaged in the pursuit of knowledge and in the expansion of your intellectual horizons.

We live in a truly remarkable age. The tempo of change in so many aspects of our lives has increased to revolutionary proportions. Many of the old problems of society have been resolved, only to be replaced by some which are even more complex and more challenging to the human mind and spirit. As you leave the campus and follow your individual paths throughout the world, I hope that you will dedicate yourselves to support those just causes which seek the betterment of mankind. You will thereby make the most noble and worthy use of all that which you have gained from your years of study and learning.

Wherever you may go, be assured that you carry with you the best wishes of your Alma Mater for your happiness and success.

Dr. James Madison Nabrit, Jr.

In the years to come, as you read this record of your years at Howard University and see yourself assimilating those skills needed for life, may your emotions be those of happiness because you have succeeded rather than sadness because you have failed.

The 1962 BISON was prepared to preserve for the future a picture of your stay at Howard. For us, it is a mosaic in whose complex and many-sided pattern we have discovered the source and secret of the true "Howard Spirit." We hope that this annual will serve to recall old friends and pleasurable incidents of our school years. But we are certain that it will also bring a deeper awareness of the moulding influences of the many activities herein recorded.

During our years at dear ole' Howard, we have not only enjoyed some of the happiest days of our lives, but we have also suffered some hardships and disappointments. However, we have, at last, by constant perseverance, reached the goal toward which we strove.

To the persons who have given freely of themselves that we might grow, with deepest humility and reverence, we express our deep esteem and sincere thanks.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY WASHINGTON 1, D. C.

THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

To the Class of 1962:

It is a pleasure on behalf of the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts to congratulate and extend best wishes to the Class of 1962 on completing an important step in education. Although there is much perhaps that should be said on such an occasion as this, a self-imposed limitation is obviously necessary. It has become customary, therefore, in these messages for us to remind ourselves briefly of a major responsibility of educated men and women.

"Our society needs specialists — but it is desperate for men and women. The splendid splinter must be replaced by the splendid man." These recent words of a professor of literature emphasize the heavy but encouraging responsibility which rests upon us outside our specialties. There is one area in which a college graduate, no matter what his specialty, can do much to support the Nation's efforts in achieving quality at all levels of education and in meeting our manpower needs. In fact, without the assistance and contribution of those who have received a stake in the accumulated experience of mankind, our task is especially difficult. In the attainment of quality in education and in our search for potential ability there are many problems. To the consideration of one of these problems, however, you will be able to contribute much as a result of your experience and of opportunities which will become available to you. A very rich yield in our search for potential ability is to be found among groups that have been culturally and educationally deprived, particularly if it is possible to identify the able in these groups before they reach high school. Too often in the past there has been a tendency even to avoid public discussion of this challenge, which must be faced more frankly in the future. We must explore more fully means of tapping latent talent, hitherto often neglected. We must determine more precisely what measures are necessary both to correct the damage which various ethnic minorities have suffered and to quicken the full participation of these groups in the life of the Nation. We hope that the Class of 1962 will join the efforts of those who are striving to effect these ends and who see the increasing necessity of stimulating young, capable minds whose development is urgently needed.

CLASS HISTORY

September 1958 — And with tremendous enthusiasm, we the Class of 1962 began our college career. At that time, many were the perils of registration, many were the 'alone in a crowd' feelings experienced, many were the passing nostalgic thoughts - but this was Howard, the college of our choice. With dauntless ardor we strove to overcome our negative fancies. For who could resist the prospective fun of living in the dormitories - even with 7 o'clock curfews for the girls? Who could resist the singular opportunity afforded at Howard - that of meeting people from more than 40 different states and more than 50 foreign countries? Who could resist being eager to start, and eventually, we hoped, finish College? - So we persevered. The Steering Committee of our Class Government elected Wiletha 'Billic' Jones as its chairman. Harvey Hansen and Richard Braxton were our Student Council representatives. Under the direction of these officers, we had a successful year loaded with fun - more fun - and some study. 'Billie' Jones was also elected as our Class Queen.

September 1959 — Our Sophomore year! One down and three to go — this was an encouraging thought.

But the year began with a frustratingly hazardous overcrowding situation in the girls' dormitories. This situation was protested by a silent mournful march of the girls in front of the Administration Building. Sponsored by the Women's League, this act succeeded in making the Administration aware of the situation, and appropriate remedial steps were taken.

In November, several of us participated in a sitin strike against segregation and discrimination on the grounds of the White House. However, several of us also succumbed to the strong arm of the law.

The Kappa Sigma Debating Society under the presidency of Conrad Harper won most of its battles. It proceeded from victory to victory, winning over strong teams as those of the University of Rochester and Tufts University.

In the spring, Ethelene Crockett went to Drew University as an exchange student. Also during the spring, many of us were initiated into the social sororities and fraternities of our choice. We were Greeks!

Class Government was in the capable hands of Conrad Harper, President, and Gwen McSwain, Vice-President. Iris Joy was our Class Queen. In the summer of 1960, under the auspices of the Experiment in International Living, Conrad Harper went to Finland, and David Hartsouth to Yugoslavia.

September 1960 — At the start of our Junior year, the battle was half-won. By now, however, at least one-half of us, for one reason or other, had given up the struggle. But this was a good year. The traditional residence of Howard Presidents took a new lease in life as it was converted into the most select Residence Hall on campus. This step was taken to alleviate the overcrowding in the Tubman Quadrangle. Designated Honors House, this building of quaint architectural design, became the residence of 21 young ladies who were members of the Liberal Arts Honors Program, seven of whom were in our class. Barbara Hatton was President of the House, Gwendolyn Stewart was Vice-President.

Everything happened in the spring semester of this year. We sponsored a picnic and a dance, and a tremendously successful Faculty Talent Show. Carolyn Derr, Kathryn Taylor and Jerome H. Wood were elected to Phi Beta Kappa, the National Scholastic Honor Society. Towards the end of the year, Jerome Wood was elected Editor of the Hilltop for 1961-62. Michael Winston was to be President of the Student Council with Edward Miles as Vice-President. Edward Batten was elected Chairman of the 1961 University-wide Homecoming Steering Committee. President of our Class this year was William DeVeaux, Vice-President was Robert Martin, Ir. Sandra Smith was our Class Queen.

During the summer, Jerome Wood attended the University of Edinburgh in Scotland as a Lucy Moten Fellow. Under the program "Operation Crossroads Africa," Janet Morris went to Liberia, Guinea and Sierra Leone, and Herman Dorsett to Nigeria, Ghana, Togo and Dahomey.

september 1961 — Now we are Seniors, and the end is definitely in sight.

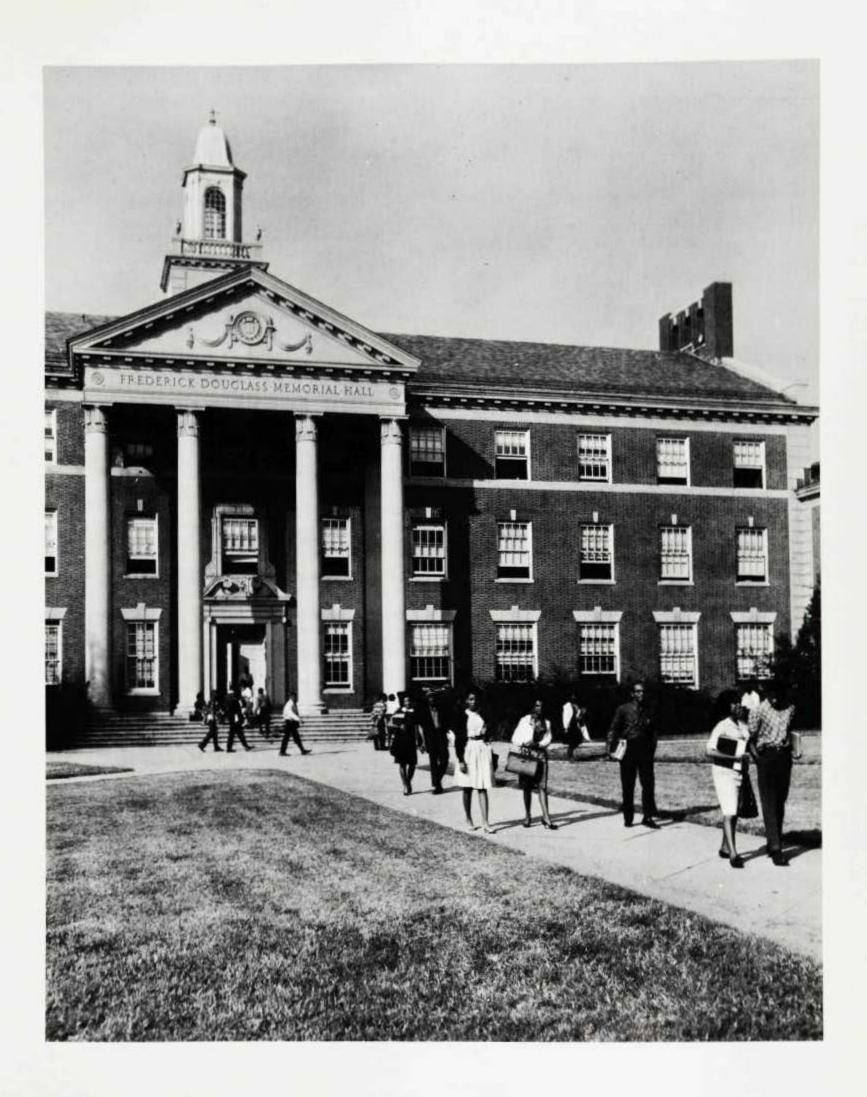

The efforts of Michael Winston as Student Council President enthused us all as plans and projects of every sort went steadily and stead-fastly apace. A Student Assembly was formed, the function of which was "to channel student opinion to the University-Wide Committee on Student Council Organizations and Activities." Edward Miles was the President. "Project Awareness" was directed towards presenting on the campus controversial speakers on the contemporary crucial social and political issues.

After one of the keenest campaigns ever seen on the campus, Wilma Monteith was elected Homecoming Queen for 1961, and reigned over an elaborately-planned week-end of festivities. Unfortunately, we suffered a crushing defeat in our game against Hampton Institute, but even this did not succeed in putting too great a damper on the occasion.

At the annual Women's dinner held in November, Ethelene Crockett was named 'Woman of the Year.'

President of the Class was William DeVeaux, Vice-President was Charles Johnson. Jane Johnson was our Class Queen.

And so on through the spring semester, past our final, final exams., our Class Ball and Picnic, Baccalaureate, and then — oh great, glorious, long-awaited day — COMMENCEMENT — And so, goodbye!

The Dean's Message

To the Engineering and Architecture Graduating Class of 1962:

CONGRATULATIONS!!!

You are members of a class which has had the benefit of a program that represents fifty years experience in progressive development of higher professional education. Each one of you has met in full at least the minimum requirements for your degree. You are honored to be among the class to graduate during the first year of the second half century of our School's history.

We are proud of the record of those graduates who have gone before you, and we have confidence in the type of contribution you will make to your profession, your community, to the national interest and safety of your country and to your Alma Mater. Graduation means the commencement of the second phase of your educational development. This may mean graduate school for many of you either before or after you have served your tour of military duty, or have acquired an internship experience in industry. Your educational and experience growth is a normal attribute in light of the continuous development and expansion common to your profession. Remember: When you are green you grow; when you think you are ripe, you are ready for decay.

The first mile post along the highroad of your professional growth is application for and admission to Associate Membership in your National Founder Professional Society, such as the AIA, ASCE, AIEE or ASME, which gives you immediate personal contact with those, including the leaders of your profession with whom you will live and grow. This can be more simply and most economically accomplished now through the Head of your Department in this school before you leave the campus.

Your next mile post is Professional Registration which should follow your internship in industry, or in the office of a practicing architect.

Don't forget Howard University and, in particular, the School of Engineering and Architecture, will be as interested in you and your welfare fifty years from now as they have been during the past four or five years.

Keeping the Dean's office posted on your changes in address, and statements of your professional activity and growth will help you as well as us to keep your file current.

Remember — constructive READING helps to make the full man, and that SERVICE to your community helps to make the full citizen.

With best wishes, Lewis K. Downing Dean

Engineering and Architecture

Class History

The year was nineteen fifty-eight. The air was filled with tense anticipation and excitement, for this was the year that the class of 1962, School of Engineering and Architecture was to embark upon a journey destined to span the spectrum of human emotion.

We boarded our specially designed four-stage rocket, set the controls and aimed it toward that ever distant goal, the Bachelor of Science. The first stage "eased in" and we were introduced to the Humanities, the Social Sciences and that English. This stage was to provide us with the etiquette and culture needed to adjust to the social whirl whenever we decided to be daring and venture from our compact worlds. But this life proved too tempting and as our second stage prepared to add its thrust to our ascent, some had parachuted and deserted the cause for a more lucrative college life.

Stage two "kicked in" and the danger signal flashed warningly on our control board. Seat belts were tightened an extra notch as we made ready for a flight through the dense, gray clouds in the form of Physics and the Calculus. The grindstone had been set in motion, and with each passing day, our noses were being forced ever downward toward the revolving stone. As we paused for a breather, still more of our passengers decided that this was the point at which they would integrate themselves with other professions.

Stage three had, to put it mildly, a revolutionary effect upon us. We felt extremely "light-headed." This was the stage of sacrifice. Lying on the grass at the height of Spring, sitting and chatting many long hours in the cafeteria, Kampus Korner, the Grill, the Kenyon and the student lounge, and that Saturday night party were all traded for enumerous calculations on our slide rules. Our instructors with their sometimes peculiar personalities and idiosyncrasies became an integral part of our daily lives. "The Cold Roller," "Willie Pep," "Pop," "Big Steve," "The Elder," "The Doc," are names that live on in our memories, for they were our mothers, our fathers, our grandsons, and the keepers of our faith. As stage three neared an end,

"We gazed into the future Our world crushed and forlorn A voice arose and quieted us Courage my sons, life goes on" and truly, life did go on. When the air cleared and the dust had settled, we found nothing lost but a bit of our vanity. The turmoil and strife had relieved all illusions of grandeur and again had taken its toll upon our numbers.

We were not to be denied. Stage four had perhaps, faltered and fluttered, but after all was said and done, we welcomed its final smooth hum, signifing "four bells and all is well." Having gained the basic rudiments, we proceeded to gain finesse and polish the rough edges that may have been developed through our previous experiences. We began to take pride in our engineering presentations, and sought professional ethics. The flight, however, was far from over. Constant vigilance was maintained, lest our journey be suddenly shortened or lengthened considerably. In essence, our burdens had not been lightened. They were heavier, but the broadness of our shoulders created by experience allowed us to bear them.

Soon stage four gave signs of nearing an end. With bright faces and broad grins, we welcomed this final stage symbolizing our release from the elements, typified by our courses of instruction, that sought to hold us and contain us. The fittest did survive. Now, we are Engineers and Architects, with commencement and the Universe our rewards for the years of striving.

Summer School Workshop

Meets in E & A

Auditorium

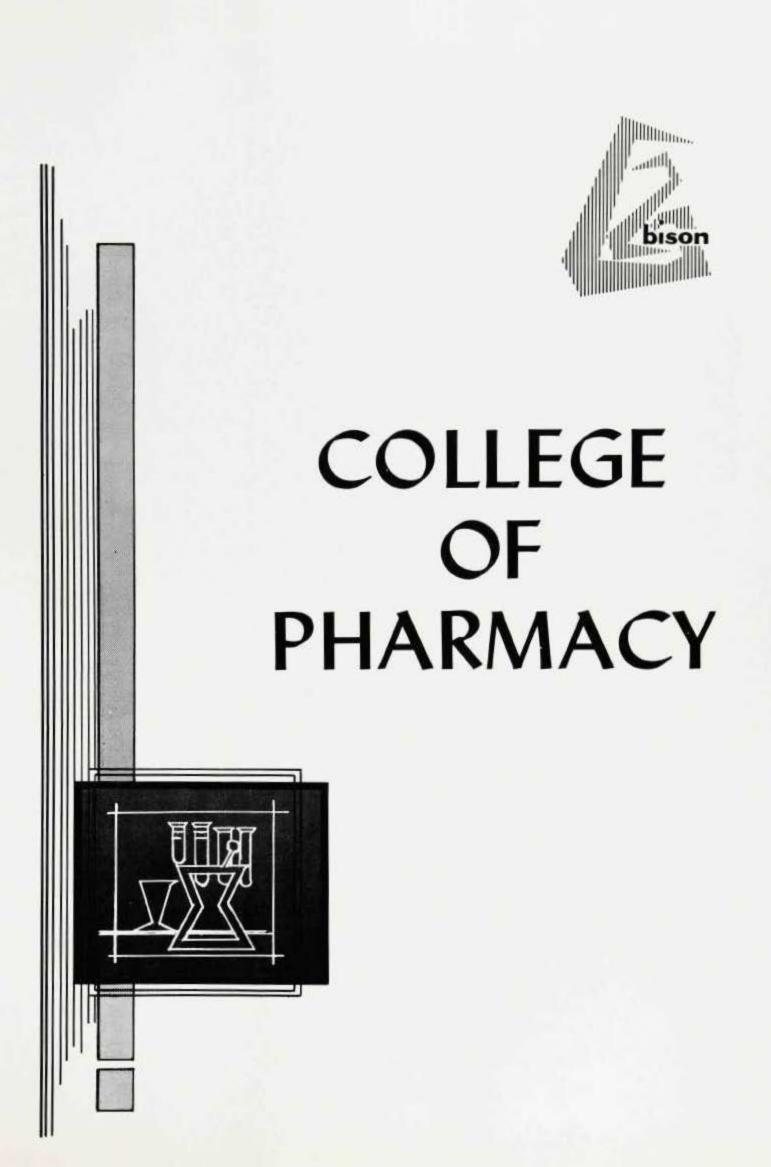

The Group Relations Workshop is one of the many special offerings of the Howard University Summer School. The 1961 Workshop, eighth in the annual series, had an enrollment of 57 members. The above photos were taken at a joint session of the Howard Workshop with a similar group from American University.

shows a section of the student-audience as they listen attentively to a discussion of race relations developments in the South.

The Howard Summer School has also sponsored, for the past several years, a Reading Workshop-Laboratory under the direction of Dr. Gertrude H. Williams, serving approximately 45 teachers and 75 pupil-subjects. Other special projects include seminars for science teachers and for talented high school seniors directed by Dr. Herman Branson, Professor of Physics.

The 1961 Summer School had a total enrollment of approximately 2,300 students. Dr. Stanton L. Wormley is director of the Summer program.

TO THE SENIOR CLASS - 1962

As graduating seniors you have been encouraged and urged by your teachers to study hard and secure the most from your educational experience.

Perhaps at times they have failed you, either by being too lenient or by being too demanding. I assure you, however, that everything they have done, has been done in an effort to prepare you for your Career in Pharmacy.

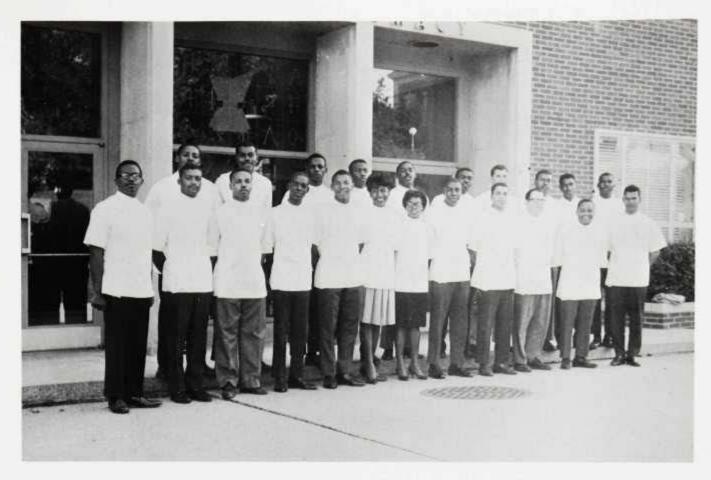

You have met the requirements for the degree Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy, and within a short time you will take the examination for licensure to practice your profession. The responsibility of the Faculty to teach you, and your responsibility to learn, in so far as the degree is concerned, will no longer exist.

Therefore, I now urge you to learn for learning's sake and for your own personal betterment.

You will soon find that the demands of the Faculty have been minor in comparison to what will be expected of you as a practitioner. To present the proper image of your profession will require continued study. To keep abreast of the times, read appropriate journals, attend professional meetings, seminars, work-shops and conventions. Be a part of the general civic activities of your community, participate in the public health programs and identify yourself with organized pharmacy.

Unless you do these things your profession will pass you by and your years of study will have been in vain.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1962

September 1958 marked the entrance of approximately forty-two students through the historic portals of the College of Pharmacy, Howard University. All of us seemed imbued with tremendous enthusiasm to initiate the pursuit of our pharmaceutical career. We came from various walks of life; some of us were veterans, some were recent high school graduates, others were former research assistants and a few were from other fields of endeavor. We came from several areas of the western hemisphere; the Atlantic States, the Southern States, the Central States, Jamaica, and the Virgin Islands.

We began our first year in the College of Pharmacy with initiative and unwavering drive to explore the frontiers of pharmacy. As time progressed, problems became more intense, adjustments were made; but not without failure to some.

Having left behind us "Next," a word frequently used by the Dean when students failed to answer a question correctly, the sophomore year presented them a new command from a member of the staff: "Let's go into spread formation." This imperative sentence preceded each examination and quiz. By actual compounding in laboratories, we gained a knowledge of pharmaceuticals and problems involved in the preparations thereof. There seemed to be no end to examinations and quizzes, but we fortified ourselves and pushed forward.

In our junior year we gained new classmates, transfer students and other students who for some reason had to "relive" their junior year. We vowed to study even harder. During this year, our participation in extracurricular activities diminished by varying degrees, but we were able to journey to a large pharmaceutical company. Here, we saw mass production being carried out with many of the techniques that we had learned. As usual, at the end of that year, anxiety, excitement, joy and remorse were manifested during our finals.

The last mile was finally in view. As we approached the end, we looked back in retrospect with mixed feelings. We called our joys, sorrows, blunders, and triumphs. Being faced with Dispensing Pharmacy, we gained an added appreciation for the preceding subject matter. To many of us, the comprehensive examinations proved whether or not the whole was the sum of its parts.

Four years uphill, but now all is accomplished. As we look back with an objective viewpoint, we see that hard work, interspersed with some good times, was really worth the goal. Certainly this goal could not have been achieved without the patience of Dean Cooper and the faculty. To them we can attribute much of our technique and knowledge. The end is just the beginning of our hopes, ambitions, and services in the field of pharmacy.

COLLEGE OF FINE ARTS

This year, more than ever before, there is a climate of concern and a creative interest in the Arts. Unquestionably, there is indication of a tremendous upsurge of public opinion for music and the arts despite the strong pull of our scientific needs. There is growing indication also that we are beginning to realize that any advance in the area of science and mathematics without an accompanying advance in the creative arts is dangerous to the future security and well-being of America. We are being strongly challenged by Russia, not only in matters scientific but equally in the fields of education, technology, the creative arts and the humanities.

This will be a formidable challenge for you to meet. Direction has been established by your studies and your many educational experiences here. It is necessary now for you to accept this challenge of responsible citizenship in your area. We know you will be a credit to your Alma Mater.

May God bless each of you.

New Facility on Site of Old Clarke Hall Becomes Home of New School of Fine Arts; Cramton Auditorium Considered D. C.'s Finest

"An Electronic Dream," wrote the Evening Star. "Unquestionably the most beautiful concert hall in Washington," said the Washington Post. And all who have seen Gramton Auditorium agree. Located in the new Auditorium-Fine Arts Building, it is without a peer among places of assembly.

But Cramton is only one of the features of the new four million dollar edifice which now adorns the site formerly occupied by Clarke Hill. The Ira Aldridge Theater, seating more than 300, art galleries, dressing rooms, music and art studios, rehearsal rooms, and dozens of other facilities designed to help the student develop proficiency in art, drama and music make the newest addition to the Howard University campus one of the finest building of its kind in the nation.

Opened in January, the Auditorium-Fine Arts Building now houses the School of Music and two departments of the College of Liberal Arts, Art and Drama. Next September the three divisions will merge into a new School of Fine Arts, offering Bachelor of Fine Arts degrees in art and drama, in addition to the degrees, graduate and undergraduate, now offered by the School of Music.

The new structure, as its name implies, is two facilities in one. The 1,508-seat auditorium, named for former Congressman Louis C. Cramton of Michigan, is located at the corner of Sixth and Fairmont Streets, diagonally opposite Cook Hall and facing west. Adjoining it, also facing west, is the Aldridge Theater, production studio and classroom for the Department of Drama and home of the Howard Players, student dramatic group. The theater is named in honor of the noted 19th century Negro Shakespearean actor. Adjoining Cramton and Aldridge, but facing south toward Founders Library, is the fine arts wing of the building.

Gramton Auditorium must be seen to be fully appreciated. Its gray-green decor is accentuated by terra cotta wall figures. The distance between the stage and the last row of seats is 126 feet, yet a normal speaking voice can be heard without the benefit of amplification. There is amplification, however, provided by a series of hidden speakers, so situated as to give equal volume to every area of the auditorium.

The stage is 56 feet wide, 35 feet deep, and 80 feet from floor to ceiling. Only 40 feet of the height is visible from the auditorium. The remaining distance conceals equipment for 42 flats which can be dropped quickly for scene changes. The orchestra pit, which is an extension of the stage when not in use, can accomodate 65 musicians. Beneath the auditorium is a series of dressing rooms for the performers.

The Ira Aldridge Theater has 314 seats, all upholstered. Like Cramton, it is air-conditioned and has seemingly perfect acoustics. Its stage has a proscenium opening of 40 feet, is 28 feet deep and 20 feet high. Above the stage is nearly 60 feet of height in which scenery can be flown or stored. To the rear of the stage is a complete scene shop with lathes, vises, steam drills and other equipment used in making scenery. This area also houses a lighting laboratory and a wash-down trough.

The fine arts wing of the new building is a three-story structure with full basement. The features of the basement, used by the School of Music, include 60 individual practice rooms, four ensemble studios, a band and orchestra rehearsal room accommodating 125 musicians, dressing rooms and lockers for the choir and band, a uniform storage room, and an area for the cleaning and storing of instruments.

All studios of the Department of Art are located on the second floor. There are 10 large, well-lighted studios for such subjects as painting, desing, graphic arts, ceramics and sculpture, crafts and techniques of art education, and photography. Connected with each studio is a utility room with storage cabinets, materials, apparatus, and such student projects as require daily storage until completed. Also located on the second floor is the Art Seminar, a classroom area which contains a diversified and extensive collection of visual aids.

MUSIC CLASS HISTORY

We, the members of the Senior Class would like to express our gratitude to the present faculty and the forerunners for establishing such an essential part of our lives and futures.

We realize the role that the School of Music of Howard University has played in the development of Music in America, since its first beginning in 1885. The road has been steep and rocky since the first director, Miss Lulu Vere Childers, was first appointed in 1906, to the present.

We are more than proud to have witnessed and to have had a part in the merger of the three art schools of the University, thus forming The College of Fine Arts.

This merger means that our aims and objectives are actually more complicated, but we feel that we are ready to face these challenges.

Two of these challenges are:

- Upon America alone rests the responsibility of preserving human culture.
- (2) Co-responsibility for the future of Negro Music around the world. The graduating class of 1962 had its most humble beginnings in 1958. Very few, if any of their friends and instructors dared to dream of the successes, potentialities and qualities this group would show.

In 1959, our portals were lightened with the appearances of Jeanette Ward, Gaynell Devane and Jesse Herring; the former and latter members of the class being transfer students.

Jeanette Ward has given many services to the University as well as to the College of Fine Arts. She is still known for her sophistication. Gaynell DeVane was chosen as one of the distinguished students on the campus to march in the Charter Day ceremonies of 1961. As her name implies, she brought glad news, and is noted for her gaiety.

Jesse Herring: Jesse, you are aware of the fact that your name means "grace of God?" Well, remembering the position of the University Band when you arrived, you lived up to your name. Jesse will be remembered as one of the major student influences who helped the band back on its feet. He very willingly shared with the University his experiences with the U.S. Army and his natural talents. Jesse arranged the music and the formations used during the 1960 marching season.

Benjamin Dixon: Here is an example of the conservatism which is characteristic of the New Englanders. Even on the under-graduate level, Ben has had the pleasure of hearing many of his piano originals performed and enacted in dance performances. Ben directed the University choir at the 1961 Christmas party held in the dining hall. This young man has left his mark as a top student leader around the University and one of the exponents of top standards and qualities. Benjamin, your name is quite appropriate to your person, "Son of the right hand of good fortune."

Charles Tinsley leaves the memory of many magnificent and challenging piano recitals. Many of the vocalists who appeared on student recitals are indebted to him for his excellence as an accompanist.

Clemmie Weems will be remembered for his soft spoken words and nonobjectionable attitudes. Needless to say how his friends and instructors will miss his participation in the music ensembles. Had it not been for his untiring efforts, leadership and interests, the University Band would probably have become defunct. The meaning of the name? "Mild and Merciful." Washington Driver had the talent for expressing well-placed "slogans". They were most serious to him but comical to his listeners. Also, he was noted for perfect attendance and punctuality in all his classes.

James Davis "Dry Humor personified." James will be remembered for his blunt frankness and a good laugh, when most needed. He was the perfect combination of humor and talents.

Harold Martin will be immortalized for his seemingly lackadaisical attitude toward most subjects not pertaining to Music.

Joyce Clark was the representative on the panel of the White House Youth Conference, in the spring of 1960. Her summary of the conference was published in the Music Educators' National Conference magazine. As President of the University chapter of the M.E.N.C., the meetings and projects were most inspiring due to her excellent planning.

Wanda Brown will be remembered for her cheerfulness and making it her business to "know everyone". Truly, she will make a superb candidate to combine the Arts and Public Relations.

Carolyn Holmes' devastating grace and charm will linger timelessly through the halls of the College of Fine Arts. There was no place for glum, when she was around.

Alma Bailey brought humor, talent and a system for manipulating the members of the human race. She amazed the Music School with her collection of the "Peanut" comic strips. As a matter of fact, most of the students made contributions to her hobby. It was not long before her harmonic talents were recognized. Even "Three Blind Mice" sounded like a great concerto, after Alma's transcriptions.

Connie Pernell: a genius for remembering dates, especially those related to Music Education 101. Her friends will remember Connie as the most fantastic relator of interesting stories.

Mary Fowlkes: The University-wide accompanist and choir director. Mary, already the University and your "sisters" feel lost without your services. Clara Ike was noted for her courses and experimentations with the works of Bach. It was a rarity for her friends to receive the pleasure of hearing her wonderfully controlled voice in song.

Josephine Pollard (Diva). Her voice was acclaimed on the continents of North and South America and the West Indies.

We are now the past as far as this segment of our lives is concerned, but there will always be moments to cherish — some sad and some glorious. In passing, we would like for those of you remaining to remember this phrase, when the going seems unbearable:

> "ART IS DIFFICULT, TRANSIENT IS HER REWARD."

> > . . . Schiller

Dr. Peter Marshall Murray of New York City, member of the board of trustees, presents the Seal of Office to the president.

In his remarks, directed in a large measure to our faculty, Dr. Nabrit suggested two specific areas for study. They were the present status of the Negro in the U.S. and the problems confronting peoples of newly emerging nations.

The Secretary challenged the University to seek out and find talented youths who have been denied an opportunity to develop their academic abilities. He said that the Kennedy Administration and Howard will "toil in the vine-yard together" in preparing students to serve their country and all humanity.

Dean Griswold said that Howard's role in America becomes even more significant now that full equality for all citizens is in sight.

President Nabrit's Inauguration

Dr. Nabrit was installed formally as fourteenth president of the University during inauguration ceremonies before a capacity crowd at Cramton Auditorium, Wednesday, April 26, 1961.

On hand at Cramton were some 1,500 persons including nearly 300 delegates from other schools, learned societies, educational institutions, and Howard alumni clubs. Hundreds of others viewed the exercises over the University's closed circuit T.V. system.

Dignitaries and speakers present included Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff; Dr. Erwin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law School; Senators Wayne E. Morse of Oregon and Kenneth Keating of New York; Federal Judge William Hastie; and Congressman Charles C. Diggs of Michigan.

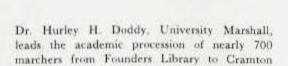

The first stop on President Nabrit's post-inauguration itinerary was the University Ballroom, where some 500 students had gathered for a special box luncheon. Here, we presented him an engraved silver cigar box.

As Mrs. Nabrit looks on, Dr. Benajmin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia and former dean of the School of Religion at Howard, is greeted by President Nabrit. Dr. Nabrit is an alumnus of Morehouse.

Do you remember meeting Mr. & Mrs. Nabrit at the Reception? Can't you see her smiling face now? Do you recall any of the strange-looking faces around campus the third week in April, 1961? You remember, of course, "Antigone".

A CITATION TO MRS. WATSON

Among those who best reflect the atmosphere of hospitality at our University is MRS. BEATRICE WATSON, University Hostess and Director of Kelly Miller House. In 1954, after a career of teaching and school administration, Mrs. Watson came to Howard to fill her present position. Although her duties today are not as broad in scope as they were when she first arrived at Howard, Mrs. Watson finds herself just as busy. Today, Miller House is no longer run on an open-house — student center basis; nor is it used for Freshman Orientation programs. Now Mrs. Watson works in conjunction with the Director of Student Life scheduling activities held by University organizations and acting as aid and hostess at these affairs.

As University Hostess, Mrs. Watson arranges living, dining, and recreation accommodations for trustees and guests visiting the campus. Any affair arising out of Food Services — banquets and luncheons — come under the attention of the University Hostess. It is indeed in the performance of these duties that we most often see her welcoming, directing, and putting at ease befuldled campus guests.

These words of recognition are given to Mrs. Beatrice Watson in appreciation of services rendered.

Zeta Phi Chapter of ALPHA PHI OMEGA is also active in the maintenance of campus hospitality. Through their program of service to campus and community, the members of this service fraternity have done much to promote campus spirit and wellbeing. They have accomplished their objectives of service through the past year by serving in such capacities as ushers at campus functions, assisting in campus elections, operating a Lost and Found office, assisting in community social work projects, and working in the Student Center.

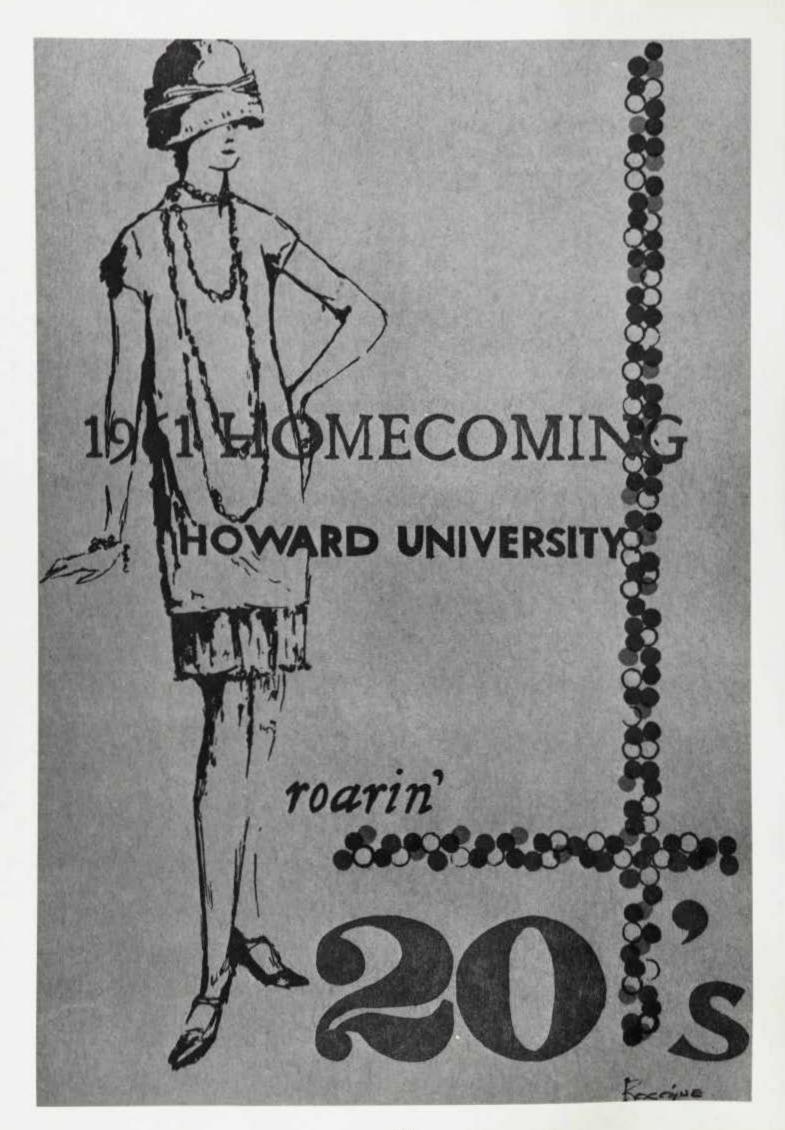

Michael D. Hopson, President

The sister organization of Alpha Phi Omega is the GIRLS' SERVICE CLUB. This year, members of the club served as hostesses at the Faculty Reception for Freshmen, have given service to the Northwest Settlement House, the Meriweather Home, and four Washington hospitals.

VARSITY

1962 may mark a turning point in the history of varsity sports. Howard, since 1912 a member of the CIAA, was contemplating withdrawing membership from the Conference. The main issue stemmed from the inability of the University with a non-subsidized athletic program to compete on even terms with schools whose varsity programs were heavily subsidized.

At present, although no positive action has been taken, the future of Howard in this Conference is not particularly bright.

Elsewhere the Bisons had a lot to be proud about. The Soccer Team presented the University with her first National Championship in sports — the National Athletic Intercollegiate Association trophy.

Howard also achieved another first, this time in the field of rowing. On Easter Sunday of last year an eighteen man crew from Howard took on the Varsity and Freshman crew of Brown University to become the first Negro rowing team in colleges and universities throughout the country. Although its status has not yet been decided upon, rowing may well become the fourteenth varsity sport.

In other sporting spheres, Howard's flag flew high at times and low at others. The track team returned a perfect record in dual meets, but perhaps the greatest impact on sporting fans was the 1-9 record of the football team, one of the worst on record.

As usual we were sacrificed to Virginia State (49-12) and Morgan (20-0).

Against Delaware State, four fumbles and an equal number of interceptions cost us the game. The loss to Fisk 20-6 was an unfortunate affair with all-CIAA halfback losing two touchdowns to penalties.

Losses to Drexel 13-9, Morehouse 14-6 and Elizabeth City 12-6, the optimists say could easily had gone the other way, but apparently the days when the Bisons could have thrashed all three in a single afternoon will remain a memory of past alumni.

Though handicapped by injuries, all-CIAA halfback Howie Williams, tackle Harold Nickens, and halfback Leroy Robinson gave their best.

For stalwart seniors, Bob Reed, Crawford Ellerbe, Ellsworth Wiggins, Leon Armour the season was particularly frustrating. Williams had been the leading Bison scorer and ground gainer, Reed and Ellerbe outstanding two-way ends, and Wiggins and Armour honored repeatedly as Hilltop Players of the Week.

The final game loss brought Coach Bob White's ten year coaching record to 53 wins, 38 losses and five ties. Guard E. Wiggins summarized the 1961-62 gridiron season with these words: "No team in history, probably will ever have so little to show (victories) for so much effort put forth. I wish next year's squad more luck!"

SPORTS

Captains and Co-Captains

Soccer

The 1961 Bison Soccer Team achieved the distinction of becoming the first minority college soccer team to win a national championship in the United States when they defeated Newark College of Engineering of New Jersey at Lock Haven, Pennsylvania on November 25, 1961.

Charged with tension and excitement, the teams were deadlocked at 2 all with 18 seconds to the final whistle. Inside left Cecil Durham then provided a glorious release when receiving a pass from outside left Alex Romeo, he ripped a hard right footer that had the keeper fetching the ball from the back of the net.

Howard was also winning her first national championship in Sports. The soccer team became the sixth Negro team to win in any field of sports in the United States.

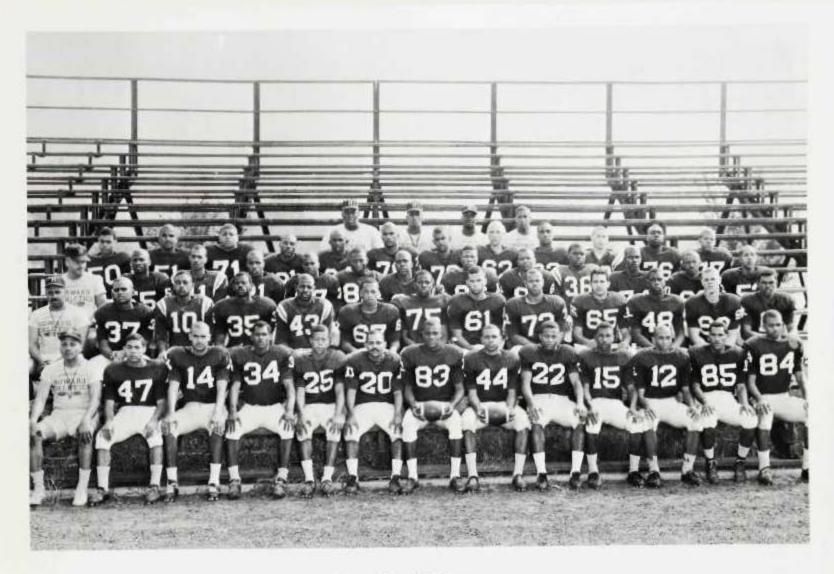

All-Tournament Players

Voted All-Star Tournament Players were A. Charles, T. Henry, N. Carr, C. Durham, and Romeo, and Carlton Hinds.

As a result of the outstanding performance, the following players were named to the All-Southern team: Charles, Hinds, Durham, and Winston Alexis.

At the Soccer Victory Banquet, Dean Snowden lauded the team achievement, as did many others who attended.

Football Team

The Varsity football team had a season which gave little in reward and indicated a future full of apprehension and doubt as to whether they could retain the prestige they once commanded.

When the team lost to Elizabeth City (N.C.) State Teachers 12-6, it had gone 8 consecutive games without a victory — the longest losing streak in Bison gridiron history.

Though handicapped by injuries, all CIAA halfback H. Williams, tackle Harold Nickens, and halfback Leroy Robinson gave their best.

Ellsworth Wiggins, Bob Reed, Crawford Ellerbe, Stan Allen and Leon Armour distinguished themselves at one time or another, evidence of the unbroken spirit of the Bison squad.

Track

For the first time since 1948, the Bison Track Team sailed through a season unsullied by defeat. The Highlight of the thin clad season was the superb performances of Clayton Glasgow in the 220 yard events. The 5 ft. 11 in. 145 lb. speed merchant cracked 21 seconds twice during the dual meets. Glasgow's time of 20.8 against Lincoln University was ranked 8th fastest in all colleges across the nation according to NAIA and NCAA statistics.

In the CIAA Tournament held at Petersburg, Virginia, Howard placed fifth with a total of 15 points thanks to Glasgow and his gallant track teammates.

Tennis

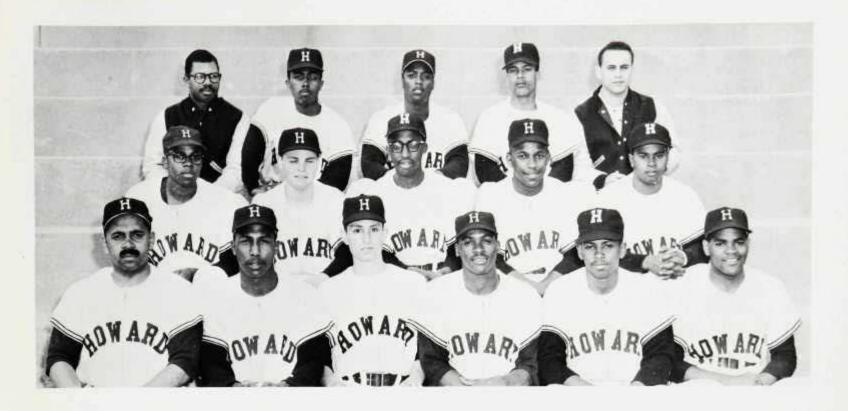

The tennis team after an impressive 9-2 seasonal performance fell from grace in the CIAA tournament held at Hampton Institute last year.

Number Three singles played William Redd and the Number One doubles team of Captain John Christian and Edward Alston were undefeated throughout the season. But at the CIAA conference they failed to survive the first round.

With Ed Alston, the only graduating senior, the team stands strong for this year.

The Bisons broke a three year losing spell last year when they returned a 6-4 conference record for the season.

Pacemaker of the season was Daniel Gaither whose cumulative .490 batting average shattered a 21 year old Bison record and placed him high in the ranks of batters in the nation's small colleges. The Bison pitching roster was only two strong in Plater and Joe Phillips. Phillips finished with a 3-1 record and an ERA of .999, while Plater carrying a 3-3 record finished with an ERA of 4.842. In one of his victories (against Delaware State) Plater pitched a no-hitter.

Cross Country

The 1961 Bison Cross-Country team with a dual meet record of 1-2 ended the season placing fourth in the Annual Veterans Day Meet. Khaleel Sayyed was the only Bison runner to finish in the first ten. Along with Bob Pickett, the only Bison to win during the season, Sayyed paced Bison harriers.

Howlad Ware, Leo Zajach (Coach), Sid Banks (Ass't Coach), Michael House (Manager).

Last year Howard launched the first Negro Rowing Team in the nation. Not yet a varsity sport, it is set up under the auspices (but not financed by) the Physical Education Department.

The existence of the Rowing Team was made possible by Mr. Howland Ware, Class of '41, who in addition to his services as head coach has contributed all the necessary equipment and uniforms without financial remuneration.

Assistant coach is Mr. Leo Zajac who did competitive rowing at Clark University both as a crewman and then as a coach.

In their initial outing last year the team captained by Dennis Hightower failed to win in six ventures. But in the words of Coach Zajac "Our main problem is the lack of competitive experience."

Golf

Howard University was runner-up in the CIAA golf tournament held at East Potomac Park on May 12th and 13th of last year.

The linksmen aggregated 675 to Winston-Salem's 646 strokes.

Lester who was Howard's strongest bet for individual honors took second, four strokes behind the winner Robert Taylor of Maryland State College.

The team had a conference record of 4-3.

The Bison Varsity Rifle Team ended their season last year with a 16-2 won-loss record while competing against some top universities on the east coast.

Outstanding freshman, sophomore, and senior were Bernard Cole, James Dickerson and Nathan Bevans, while captain and junior John Waller was the season's outstanding competitor. Waller's 294 out of a possible 300 was the best performance of the season.

This year, the team so far has a 7-2 won-loss record. They compete on a league basis along with 23 other teams.

Basketball

The Bison Cagers closed their conference with a 5-10 record last year with an overall seasonal record of 8-13.

Larry Hancock, 6 ft. 5 in. 190 pound Bison Hoopster was the leading scorer (459 points) and rebounder on the team. His outstanding performance earned him a berth on the All-CIAA first team at the season's end.

This year, Coach William Jones though handicapped by an inexperienced squad with a 4-8 record, is optimistic regarding the final outcome.

So far this season, "G" men Roscoe Grayson and Paul Gish have paced the team along with Bill Boddie and Will Holland.

Parris, Robert Cheemooke (umpire), William Foster (manager and commentator).

Cricket

The Bisons closed the 1960-61 Cricket Season with a 4-1-1 (won, loss, tie) record.

The excitement and color of the game, familiar to those in the West Indies, India, Pakistan, England, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand once again for a few brief months wooed spectators away from more indigent sports.

The batting was at all times dashing and adventurous if not orthodox. The memory stirs when one recalls that innings of captain Keith Bowen who pelted 8 sixes and 4 fours on the way to the season's highest score of 75 against Philadelphia Textile Institute, or the ruthless power of opening batsman Aloysius Charles who heralded the season with a hard-hitting 61 — to whom all bowlers were of similar vein.

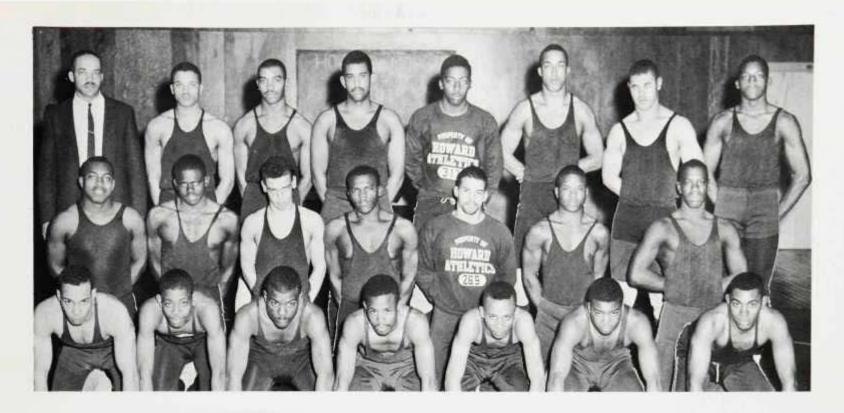

Then there was also the wristy stroke play of Raymond Lloyd who charmed with a scintillating 59 in the season's second match; the brilliant onside play of Noel Carr and Lloyd Stewart who scored 40 not out and 44 respectively in the closing games of the season.

Three players Bowen, Charles and Stewart totalled over 100 runs each with Bowen's 174 the highest total.

Heading the averages was Carr with 53 who batted twice, but Bowen averaged 43.2 with 5 innings at bat.

In bowling, Bowen's leg breaks rightly earned him the most wickets — 20 and the best average, 3.4 (crickets per runs). Charles generated enough speed to capture 18 wickets, but his average of 6.3 fell behind that of Carr who took 12 crickets at a personal cost of 4.4 runs each.

The fielding which was fair showed the team's allround strength. With training already in progress this year, Coach Chambers promises a longer schedule.

Wrestling

The Bison Grapplers closed the wrestling season last year with a 4-6 Visitation Conference record and third place in the CIAA Tournament.

Memorable for Howard during the Tournament was the individual performances of Co-captain Donald Grey, a junior, and freshman, Staley Jackson. Grey, a sociology major, and physical education major, Jackson, each took top CIAA honors, Grey in the 147 lb. class and Jackson in the 157 lb. class.

Grey was capping a seasonal performance of nine straight victories while Jackson pinned nine out of twelve losers while going undefeated.

R. Stuart performed competently to take second place in the 123 lb. class.

This year after losing to American University 23-16 in the season's opener, the Grapplers defeated Catholic University 36-3. In their first CIAA match this year the Bisons drew with Morgan State College.

Swimming

After experiencing ebb tide in the water lanes last year (fourth out of four in the CIAA Tournament) the Bison Sharks are well on their way to the top from which they slipped.

Speaking of last year, individual honors were not however denied Penny's Sharks. Nineteen year-old diving ace, Harry Seymour, took top CIAA awards in this division.

Junior Ron See Tai took second in both the 220 and 440 yard free styles, but it was sophomore Samuel East who gave the Sharks their only CIAA record when he led the way in the 100 yard backstroke. He also came second in the 200 yard butterfly.

This year the loss of East has been more than made up by some of the most outstanding prospects turning out to swimming for a long time.

Office of Foreign Student Services

Howard University ranks exceedingly high among American Universities which have clearly demonstrated their interest in welcoming students from other lands. Here we promote a strong interest in their problems and seek to develop an understanding of their individually-expanding horizons and needs.

The foreign students have been quick to seize upon our invitation to them, and because of their response, Howard University now ranks number one among American institutions of higher learning in respect to the percentage of foreign students to its total enrollment. This year, Howard University has approximately 900 foreign students enrolled in comparison with approximately 800 last year.

These students come from over 50 countries and represent every major race, religion and creed.

Within this truly cosmopolitan atmosphere we have endeavored to make students from other lands really feel at home. The cross-fertilization of culture resulting from their harmonious sharing of experiences has in truth implemented our aim to bring about some measure of international goodwill and understanding. The University will continue to support this objective enthusiastically and is honored to find itself held in so high esteem by governments, educational institutions, and students from abroad.

The number of foreign graduates from Howard University is increasing each year and we would like to feel that each graduate in this year's class will do as many of those who have preceded them have done — send back some other student to take his place.

Congratulations and all good wishes as you go back to your respective countries to test your effectiveness in a larger sphere of usefulness.

Sincerely, Ernest J. Wilson, Director

Before 1908 Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority was but a dream in the heart of Ethel Hedgeman, a junior at Howard University. However, in her room in Miner Hall, Ethel Hedgeman together with twelve other women, saw her dream a reality and Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority was established. From this small nucleus in 1908 Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority has grown to include 180 graduate chapters, one of which was recently established in Liberia, and 107 undergraduate chapters on college and university campuses throughout the country.

In keeping with its original goals Alpha Kappa Alpha has instituted many projects. The National Health Project which supports research in the area of sickle cell anemia, the American Council on Human Rights a non-partisan lobby, scholarship aid and fellowships given to deserving students for undergraduate and graduate work, are only a few of the many programs instituted and supported by Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. Through these activities Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority has come to mean to more than 45,000 women greater service and finer womanhood.

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority was begun in 1920 on the campus of Howard University. Zeta was founded on the ideals of Sisterhood, Finer Womanhood, Scholarship, and Service. Since that time, Alpha Chapter has directed all of its activities toward upholding those ideals. Zeta has as its national project the "Prevention and Control of Juvenile Delinquency." Annually, Zeta Phi Beta sponsors in February Finer Womanhood Week and the Youth Conference. Service-wise, Alpha Chapter devotes the entire month of February to volunteer work at the District of Columbia General Hospital.

Recently, the members of Alpha Chapter devoted their daily lunch hours to entertaining the elderly members of the Stoddard Baptist Home.

During the 1960-61 academic year, Zeta Phi Beta Sorority maintained the highest scholastic average of the Greekletter organizations on the Howard University campus.

Kappa Alpha Psi was founded at Indiana University on January 5, 1911. Xi Chapter was established at Howard University in 1925. Kappa Alpha Psi has afforded its brothers mutual respect, self-expression, and a keen sense of belonging. Within the past thirty-seven years on Howard's campus, the men of Xi have brought together young men for the purpose of ACHIEVEMENT. Some of the chapter's activities are: Silhouette Ball, Easter Dawn Dance, and the Guide Right Movement.

The objectives of Xi Chapter of our dear fraternity are to help each member to achieve his individual goals, to help in the achievement of the goals of the Fraternity, and promotion of the activities which are necessary for a harmonious Howard University Community.

DEAN'S MESSAGE

The task of preparing a message to the graduates, as they leave the School of Social Work, is one always approached with mixed feelings. On the one hand, there is pride and gratification at the graduates' successful completion of the rigorous demands of the two year curriculum. On the other, the sadness of parting from those with whom two years of close association has produced lasting ties. Overshadowing any personal feelings however, is the happy anticipation that additional well prepared recruits are entering the field of social work with its multitude of challenges.

One of these challenges lies for us in living up to the great traditions established by the pioneers in social welfare. They advanced us far along the path of social reform, but an equal challenge faces us in pushing outward the social welfare frontiers of today.

Today we live in a world beset by threats to its continued existence, thwarted in the achievement of its goal of universal peace by narrow nationalisms, rivalries for power and weakened, if not broken, capacity for relationship. Scientifical and technological advances offer breathtaking and awe-inspiring vistas of man's power to command the physical resources about us. It is a sobering thought that these tremendous forces could conceivably be unleashed for destructive ends. On the other hand, advancement of human well-being requires that these forces be channelled to the promotion of responsible, representative cooperation. Institutions, political, economic and social, will be judged by their capacity to harness and to use these new powers for the promotion of free cooperation in the advancement of the dignity, integrity and creative power of the individual human being.

Social Work has a part to play in the achievement of such objectives. Although young in its development as a profession, it has in its clarification of its purposes, function and process learned to help human beings to find the opportunity and to utilize innate capacities for personal satisfactions and contributions to society. Problems of nations and of living in the world today reflect the problems of relationships of people, as individuals, groups, and communities. We recognize as an everlasting and enduring need the quest of mankind for the opportunity to enjoy creative, satisfying life in the midst of continuous development and change.

Social work acquires, not only from its theoretical base, but also from its experience, the meaning to people of the problems encountered and some of the approaches to correction, and, hopefully, to prevention.

It is to the new recruits to the field that we look for the achievement of these objectives.

CLASS HISTORY

September 13, 1961, sixty-six eager young men and women, some with previous experience and some fresh out of undergraduate school but all scared and apprehensive, entered a drab building located on Howard University's campus. This building held the key to our hopes and aspirations of becoming professionally trained social workers, and of entering a field that we felt was very dear to us. We were also looking forward to the day when we would move upwards on the economic ladder.

Without any procrastination we were plunged into a week of orientation which was a sample of the goals and treatment that was to insure us of a future in the School of Social Work.

We were warmly welcomed by the second-year class who seemed to us to have an air of security and sophistication. Our beginning experience was highlighted by a luncheon given by the second-year class for us — a group of hungry, appreciative novices who had pinched pennies for years in order to enter school.

We were soon deluged with lectures, classes and papers that somehow managed to be due on the same day. We were frightened and confused by the first weeks of field work, but this was our real opportunity to put into practice what we were learning in class.

We were asked to be clear, concise and succinct in our papers, but when they were returned the comments were stated as barely, fairly, fully, entirely and very satisfactory leading us to wonder whether we had really chosen the appropriate profession.

By mid-semester we were familiar with Social Welfare pioneers, settlement house movements, defense mechanisms, and principles and concepts of social casework — all which were necessary for our on-going professional development. We were really becoming . . .

Our days were filled with conferences with faculty members and field work supervisors. Our nights were bogged down with studies with no outlets for our pent-up emotions until one snowy night, December 16, 1961, we were able to release these emotions at the annual Christmas Party. As we shimmied and made merry, we wondered whether we were social workers or s-o-c-i-a-l workers.

Even though they worked over us, on us, and with us through selfdetermination and will-power received through supportive treatment from our classmates, we were ready to return to classes.

By this time we were familiar with our faculty and classmates and second semester breezed by too quickly.

Suddenly, we were confronted with the idea of writing a thesis which made us anticipate the second year but before we could even consider this we had to receive that all important letter of acceptance.

The end of the semester rolled around and our hopes and prayers went up for the second year class as they completed their theses and took oral comprehensives with thoughts about what we were to face in the distant future.

As loyal first-year students, we gave the traditional graduation party for the second-year class which turned out to be a party for ourselves.

The year ended and we wondered whether the faculty really knew of our real potentials and interests which we had tried so hard to convey. The summer also found us in a continuous learning experience as we formulated ideas for our theses. During this period many of us also worked as casework assistants, camp counselors, and supervisors of summer programs while the remainder spent a well earned vacation.

The second year began and we looked forward to meeting new members who had been added to the faculty and faculty members who had been on leave.

We had the privilege of seeing a first-year class enter the school and we reflected back on our first year of graduate training.

Many changes took place. We had to adjust to two and one-half days of field work, writing theses, attending classes and writing papers. We became more involved.

We are happy and grateful that we have completed two enriching years in the School of Social Work and are ready to fulfill one of the goals of the social work profession — to help people to help themselves.

Sharing Ideas

As we stand on the threshold preparing to go out to practice casework, group work, community organization and administration, there are many things we shall remember about our two years in the School of Social Work:

We'll remember sleepy-eyed field work mornings after thesis summit meetings.

We'll remember 1338 K . . . n Street.

We'll remember chitterlings on Thursday but never on Sunday.

We'll remember the Social Welfare protege, Bill Sykes.

We'll remember those who must have been verbally deprived at home because they were so verbally aggressive in class.

We'll remember the amazing Dr. Chapman who could sleep, write and wake up in time to answer a question.

We'll remember Anne Nash's adventures in reading.

We'll remember the class where Bill Sykes could never give a wrong answer and Raymond Puryear could never give a right one.

We'll remember the beautiful New England accents of Cynthia Bruton, Betty Ottinger, and Helene Mayock.

We'll remember William Mercer's intensive and extensive use of the English language.

We'll remember the cultural shocks Ashutosh Vyas, Raguel Sosa, and Dudley Cawley had.

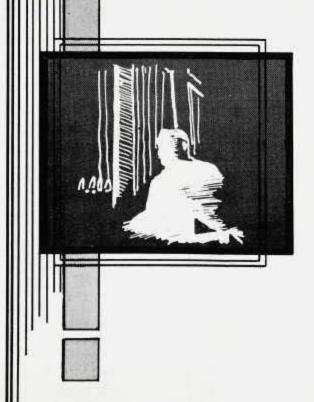

We'll remember the crowded classroom when Dr. Lloyd lectured and the psychosomatic illness that followed.

We'll remember how we "pulled" the Human Growth and Development sequence together.

We'll remember the constant checking and experiment of the faculty to see if we really wanted to be social workers.

SCHOOL OF RELIGION

You have been commissioned to preach and teach the GOSPEL and to afford a practical and a spiritual leadership to the people in a day of recurring crises. Upon a foundation of love and devotion to the highest Christian principles; through your personal conviction to fulfill a divine calling, and through your dedication to the cause and example of the MAN OF GALILEE, you have sought to build your knowledge and understanding of the meaning of the Christian ministry as your encounters with truth and experience have revealed these things to you.

May God sustain, inspire and bless you as you go forth to serve the people, our nation and the God of all mankind!

Daniel G. Hill Dean

CLASS HISTORY 1962

The years have handles on them. Names, dates, places, faces all blur in time, and what we really remember comes out a hodgepodge of things. Perhaps it is feeling we really recall, more than anything else. We recall the way we felt when these things happened to us long after we have forgotten the dry barren series of events themselves.

We remember the mixed emotions that filled our hearts as the twenty-two young men entered the School of Religion, destined to become the Class of 1962. Some of us hardly dared to ask ourselves if it were really true that we were here. For others the question of our being here seemed real enough; the genuineness of our purpose in coming was something else again. Only the coming years of discipline and growth could answer that. The ranks thinned early, many of those who heard the call, decided that their calling and careers lay in another direction. To other classes we lost such as the Reverend Mr. Gill.

What a frantic time that first year was! Church History nearly killed us and Mr. Rice's Old Testament classes had us all feeling like the Patriarchs. This was the year we broke with tradition and decided to participate in the Homecoming. What a frantic time! We'll never forget decorating the car at the last minute with materials left over from the Coronation Ball! Or Ron Morris running from Fairmont Street to the Dent School fastening on the "School of Religion" signs. Then back to the books for the final grind toward the holidays. The second term seemed the usual long pull before Easter then before we knew it

June was here and for gosh sakes put that window up!

Our Middler year was highlighted by the quality of the Retreat and the Spring Lecture Series. The Cloak of Velvet Green will be long remembered by all of us. And who can forget the challenge flung into our teeth by Dr. Miller of the Harvard Divinity School, in his three part lecture to the effect that this Christian religion may indeed die out. May we never be so cocksure of ourselves, that we do not take time to recall the words he spoke, challenging Neo-Orthodox Christianity to either re-vitalize itself or have the decency to get out of the way and let the Spirit move in another clearer channel.

Oh yes, the academic side of life progressed in its own way, but the trials of the spirit stood out a little more sharply this year. No one could forget the Religious Education side of the curriculum. Except during the comprehensives, that is. For with this year dawned the new system of "block" comprehensive examinations, given at the completion of a series of courses. One of our "scholars" chickened out of the Systematic Comprehensive at the last minute. Half-way through, the rest of us wished we had! Winter's snows brought their hush after the incessant rustling of Autumn's leaves, and for gosh sakes put that window down!

Elijah Gardner was elected President of the Student Assembly. Jerry Houston (where did he get the Ulysses monicker from?) was framed as President of the Senior Class. It's this sort of thing that we truly recall. John Bruce trying to put two good religions together. Lloyd Hall driving his Stanley Steamer for the 1961 Homecoming Parade. William Wheeler trying to find Rasmussen. Plato Southerland's poems . . . ? Maceo Mc-Crays beautiful bass voice. Rafe Taylor's quiet, intimate style of preaching.!!

So where do we go from here? Some to the pastoral Ministry, others to the institutional or Armed Forces chaplaincy. All of us go to the biggest challenge we ever knew. May we not fail those to whom we minister, or Him whom we serve.

SCHOOL OF LAW

DEAN'S MESSAGE

Spottswood W. Robinson, III

Three years you have spent within these walls to gain an intellectual understanding of the law, to develop the skills of the lawyer's craft, and to achieve professional maturity. You are now prepared to render capable, efficient service in your chosen branch of the legal profession. More importantly, you have the attributes of a leader — a leader of your communty, your state, and even your country. You have both an opportunity and a challenge.

"Law," the President of the United States has proclaimed, "is the strongest link between man and freedom, and by strengthening the rule of law we strengthen freedom and justice in our own country and contribute by example to the goal of justice under law for all mankind." We have the good fortune to live under a government by law rather than a government by men, to live in a land in which respect for the equality and rights of individuals is fundamental, and to enjoy a heritage of law and order. These all are basic ingredients of our democratic society; they pervade our national philosophy. By the mandates of the Constitution, the provisions of many statutes, and the pronouncements of many courts in the protection of legal rights, the link between man and freedom is strengthened.

Yet, as we all know, the full measure of citizenship under law is not always available equally. At times it is restricted artificially, and sometimes it is denied arbitrarily. To the extent that this is so, the link between man and freedom is weakened. You leave, then, with an obligation as well as a privilege, and an admonition as well as a blessing. The full realization of freedom and justice will continue to demand the resources of the nation, particularly the legal profession. You must, then, strive continually toward the goals that are a vital part of our national way of life to the end that legal rights will forever be protected, that the link between man and freedom will forever be secure.

CLASS HISTORY

This is the story of a group of men and two women who for three years shared a common experience. They found, as did their predecessors, that passage through law school was not unlike ascending a mountain of great height. That is to say, the early zeal and enthusiasm which carried most of the climbing party along the paths at the mountain's base proved to be insufficient to bear them over the rocky crags and treacherous ravines. The party subsequently dwindled in number — some, having tired, chose to remain behind, while others discovered that they lacked the unerring equilibrium necessary to scale the steep and often perilous heights above. The hearty group which survived possessed both skill and fortitude. This is their story.

Early in the month of September, 1959, weeks before the University commenced its fall semester, forty-three individuals, proud of having been accepted into the Class of 1962, assembled in Room 201 at the Law School building. There, Professor Reid, for two days, delivered a seemingly endless lecture introducing them to the mistress who for years to come would dominate their daily lives, — The Law. They were strangers to one another, but still stranger was the man at the front of the room constructing hypotheticals and dissecting student responses.

Days passed into weeks; strangers became classmates; individual interests and talents forged into the common purpose of warding off the sometimes unmerciful onslaughts of the faculty. Often identifiable in this phalanx of legal aspirants were: "Skeeter" Owens; Nat the Swooper; the Bib "O"; Rob; "Q"; Lee; and Jack. There was Slick Dick Plenty, "Dean" Nelson, Melville, Ed Major, and Cooley. There was "Windy" Hopkins, Tru (no problems) Hall, and the little man with the big voice, H. Dees. Also the ladies, Carrie Fair and the inimitable Emma D.

Weeks passed into months. Professor Washington dazzled them with the ever elusive "fee", and "subinfeuded" their minds with the rules of Shelley and Wilds. Dean Nabrit, with modus inimilibilis, extracted the legal implications attached to the statement by the old farmer who from his deathbed declared to his son, "Zeke, I want you to have mah boots." Aften the young aspirants, who only by great effort the previous night had freed themselves from an ensnarling brush of details, were further exasperated when the eminent Dr. George M. Johnson pointed out that the several situations were but a series of "single shot" cases which could have been covered by a single "sophisticated issue." There was Charles (i.e.) Duncan triping them as they traversed a Complaint; and Professor Herb Reid, who invaded vi et armis their minds to install a thought process capable of receiving his unique transmissions in the area of Criminal Law. There was Professor Nudum Pactum (English translaction — Newton Pacht) with whom they boarded the famous Ex Peerless and embarked upon the fathomless Sea of Contracts. And there was the Chancellor — outspoken, but listenable; opinionated, but whose opinions were supported by savants of the law such as Cardoza, Holmes, and Dorsey E. Lane.

Years passed — there were other instructors and further exposure to the voluminous study of Law. From the Louisiana delegation, Dr. Morse joined the faculty, the "Johnson boys" joined the class. Messrs. Parks, Woods, and Chisholm were other additions to the faculty supplementing the loss of Duncan and Dr. Johnson. The distinguished Virginia attorney, Spottswood Robinson III replaced Dean James M. Nabrit who ascended to the presidency of the University. A further addition was Dr. Del Russo, whose background in International Law enabled the Law School to broaden its curriculum.

The class of 1962 continued its strife undauntedly. They wrested the principles of respondeat superior, plunged into the commerical world of negotiable instruments, conditional sales, and corporations. They defended with vigor, Powell vs. Alabama; they struggled with the concept of domicile and circuitous "renvoi." Creditor rights, mortgagor's redemptions, and taxpayers' exemptions — all these they learned.

Now they have arrived at the threshold of their goal. They are weary of battle, but have gained the affray a deep respect for the Law. Theirs was more than a frolic, theirs was a profound and profitable experience endured by few.

As they leave the institution from whence they arrived several years ago, let these words apply to each member of the Class of 1962:

He was bred to the law, which is, in my opinion, one of the first and noblest of human sciences; a science which does more to quicken and invigorate the understanding, than all the other kinds of learning put together. . . . BURKE, Speach on Taxation (April 19, 1774.)

DEAN'S MESSAGE

TO THE CLASS OF 1962

Dear Friends:

Tonight I think of you individually with TOMORROW in mind. Before me, to guide my thoughts, I have a photograph of each one of you which was made when you first came to us from your homes, scattered across 4 continents, 3 islands, 27 states and the District of Columbia. Each photograph brings back memories of you as you were then and as you grew in age and in stature . . . But all of your photographs together cause me to remember that TOMOR-ROW means COMMENCEMENT in June, 1962 and it means also internships and residencies and the practice of medicine thereafter . . .

As I think swiftly of your nearly four years here with us and more slowly of the TOMORROW which is to be yours, I wish that you were here that I might ask each one of you these crucial questions:

Will you serve each one of your patients faithfully, competently, without neglect and with full respect for his dignity as a human being?

Will you remain humble enough to seek consultations as needed to maintain or to enhance the quality of medical service received by your patients?

Will you keep the confidences entrusted to you or the deficiences revealed to you by your patients unless the laws of our country or the welfare of your patients or of the community cause you to do otherwise?

Will you place your major emphasis upon the quality of the services you render rather than on the quantity of the compensation you receive?

Will you strive continually to become a better physician?

Will you uphold the dignity and honor of our profession, and accept its self-imposed disciplines?

Will you safeguard the public against doctors deficient in moral character and professional competence?

Will you extend your responsibilities beyond your patients as individuals to embrace the society of which you are a part, improving by your efforts the health and welfare of both the individual and the community;

These questions and others like them will cross your minds in the months beyond June, 1962. As you answer them affirmatively you will discover that you are more than scientists in medicine, you are PHYSICIANS, ready to meet and to serve the thousands of persons who need you. It is without doubts about your answers that I commend you to the TO-MORROW which is yours. Go to meet it with confidence and pride, tempered by humility and fortified by the assurance that we have faith in YOU.

To The Graduates in Dentistry 1962

Education is a vested interest for the total development of human resources — resources which serve not only our personal success or progress, but the larger purposes of the community.

Men and women of strong will and high purpose always improve the community in which they live and serve. You, the graduating class of 1962, are to be congratulated for your achievement toward this milestone which, to date, has been something of a test of your timber and true aims.

As you now enter, practically, into the open field of boundless opportunity for rewarding Health Service, may your goal be that of perfection in how much you can do toward the alleviation of human suffering, and the promotion of buoyant health and happy living, without primary concern for anything more than a well-rounded life and a "just" financial reward.

COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY CLASS HISTORY

The Class of 1962 assembled for the first time in September 1958. We were the largest class ever to be enrolled in the history of the College of Dentistry and the only Dental School in the country to have seven female students. At our first assembly, we listened attentively to advice from all sides — the Dean, Faculty, and Student Body President. Yet time was the only factor that would make these advices lived experiences. We had embarked on our careers as dental students and would soon learn what it was to be in class at 8 A.M. and out after 5 P.M. It is only now on the eve of our attaining our goal that we can look back and appreciate the discipline, the long hours of intense study, the perseverance, and the unwavering determination which filled these four years.

Human Anatomy and its sometimes fatal "Cadaver Walk," Biochemistry and its fatalities, Bacteriology, Dental Materials, and unfailingly every Tuesday at 1 P.M. — Orientation, formed the major part of our first year.

As this year ended, we started the new semester fully cognizant of Matthew Arnold's famous words, "To die be given us or attain. Fierce work it were to do again." This second year brought new experiences and with them came renewed courage. The "Three P's," those awesome giants of the Medical School and the "Technic" courses, the devastating courses of the Dental School, loomed ahead of us. We who learned, grew to understand those who taught, like Drs. Fitzgerald, Gaskins, and Griffiths and their never failing technics; Dr. Hayes, who quizzed us unceasingly in Oral Histology; and Dr. Tuckson, who simplified the "Bisection of the Angle" technic in X-ray, to mention only a few.

The successful completion of this year meant a chance to work on patients in the clinics. This was it! We had arrived! We had it "made" we thought. Little did we know that the real big problems were just beginning.

Our third year saw us a smaller but more determined group, ready to meet the onslaught of such courses as Periodontology, Oral Pathology, Pedodontia, Therapeutics, and Orthodontia — "hold wire with pliers, bend with the fingers." To our chagrin, Dr. Pinson's challenging course in Head and Neck Anatomy was added to our schedule. We surely had not bargained for all this. And to top it off, the pressure was on in Clinical Dentistry to accumulate the minimum requirement of 1000 points. This proved much harder than we had expected because for some reasons, the patients just did not act like our technic manikins.

That third year ended and we were at last seniors. The other classes were looking to us for leadership and we could not let them down. Along with this leadership came many new responsibilities. There were still many hurdles to cross, not just courses like 'CPC', Seminar and our first publication, Jurisprudence, and Surgery, but practical examinations, oral examinations, and Board Examinations. Along with all this, we had our clinical requirements to fulfill, plus the "Specials," like a bridge under Dr. Fitzgerald, a therapy on a molar under Dr. Haves, and a gingivectomy with Dr. Henry. There was so much to do in so little time. Yet all was not work as Arnett Anderson and his staff published the first edition of "The Newsletter"; Wellington Eng represented Howard at the American Dental Association Convention in Philadelphia, Pa., with an excellent table clinic; and Cyril Price was our representative to a convention of international dental students in Equador. Twelve of our class members were selected to work with dental assistants on a project teaching the student how to effectively utilize the aid of his assistant.

We who graduate in 1962, look forward to our Commencement — not with the thought that "c'est fini," but rather with the feeling that we are just beginning. We will forever remember what took place within the walls of Howard Dental School and its clinics. We contoured many a gingiva and alveolar process — so were our characters contoured by this band of worthy professors. From raw, unknowing Freshmen, they moulded us into knowledgeable Seniors — potential Dentists. The rest is up to us.

And as we depart, let us remember the words from Jurisprudence: "The moral ideal for man consists in the full development of his life . . . not the life of one man, but the lives of all men."

Message from the Superintendent

TO THE GRADUATES

You are fortunate to be beginning your careers at this particular time as you already have become heirs to many benefits. In the first place, you live in an age which offers a greater inheritance of wealth in terms of scientific and technological advancement than humanity has ever before enjoyed. In the second place, you are citizens of a country which has translated this progress into reality more than any other country in the world and as a result provides its citizens with the highest standard of living found anywhere. Make the best of your good fortune by always following the most useful set of rules that I know for achieving a successful career — work, work, work. Best wishes for an exciting and rewarding future.

Charles E. Burbridge

Message from the Director of Nursing

To you, the new members of the nursing profession, who are planning to join us as participants on the health team, the Faculty of the School of Nursing and the Nursing Service Staff of Freedmen's Hospital welcomes you.

We look forward to the fellowship of sharing our professional knowledge, skills, and experience with you.

It is anticipated that together we shall continuously be determined to increase our effectiveness in the practice of nursing.

The nursing staff hopes that you will be professionally stimulated; and that your contributions will further advance us toward the full realization of the goals set forth by the founder of modern nursing, Miss Florence Nightingale.

Jurhetta N. Smoot

CLASS HISTORY

Forty-two enthusiastic students, including two males, who yearned to become registered nurses arrived at Freedmen's Nurses' Dormitory in September of 1959. We were greeted by Junior students who introduced themselves as our "big sisters." We traversed strange surroundings and envisioned many obstacles, but we soon became oriented to our new and challenging environment. After initiation, certification, registration and introduction to the faculty members, we eagerly anticipated the activities of our first year.

Our first days in Fundamentals of Nursing Laboratory were spent trying to spell, define, identify, and properly use such terms as the sphygmomanometer, benzalkonium chloride, medical asepsis, hyperpyrexia, and periodontoclasia. However, this was just the beginning; for much was ahead of us. The fumes of hydrochloric acid in the Chemistry Laboratory left us breathless, watered our eyes, and irritated our nasal mucosa. We found it easy to remember the 206 bones of the body; but the anatomical locations of the muscles were quite difficult to grasp at that time. Our leisure moments, before physiology classes began, were spent making ourselves captivating for our pharmacy "brothers" who helped us dissect the frogs and fumble through other experiments in classes.

Time passed rapidly and it was soon final examination week; this ended our first semester. The five-page exams which we originally had were nothing compared to the twenty-five page exams that caused writers' cramps, insomnia eyestrain, and complete exhaustion. The knowledge must have been retained for we soon found ourselves gazing into microscopes in microbiology class.

Finally, the day arrived when we were notified that we had earned our clinical uniforms. We will never forget the day we all arose before daybreak to assemble the six-piece uniform and its accessories.

We were greeted on the wards by discerning nursing personnel and patients who seemed pleased to see us, not realizing how awkward or unskillful we really felt. Administering nursing care on the wards proved much different from that treatment given to Mrs. Chase (our dummy) and to each other. Subsequently, a memorable Florence Nightingale Pledging Ceremony was held at which time we received the Florence Nightingale Lamps, symbolic of the nursing profession. However, the last lines of the Pledge, "devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care," were repeated in our minds when we were valiantly trying to cook in nutrition. At the close of the second semester, our grades were sent home, while we were left behind to face the summer heat and an eight-hour day on the wards.

We were given more responsibility and taught more complex nursing skills which were the foundation for our Junior year. These skills were inherent in such new experiences as the operating room and the administration of medications to actual patients instead of "Mrs. Chase" and the "injection orange."

The long days were spent studying hard and learning to administer comprehensive patient care—still there was time for social life too. We enjoyed such activities as the R.O.T.C. Ball at the University of Maryland, dancing, swimming, bowling, Student Nurses and Slowe Hall's Glee Club Concert at the Washington Monument, and other organizational activities. We competed with other nursing schools in the District of Columbia for the annual Jane Delano award. The winner is usually chosen for her performance in the talent show. In 1959, our school won this award. Throughout the summer we were delighted by the idea of becoming juniors and hearing everyone say "You'll soon be Juniors."

That next year, our uniforms had a distinguishing attraction, that of a diagonal black band on the caps and a blue cape. This band connoted new insight, responsibilities, and leadership roles. Of paramount interest to every student, was witnessing the birth of a baby and over-coming the fear of "premies." We enjoyed exercising our "Mother Wits" while on the pediatric service and we were pleasantly enlightened by a two weeks' affiliation at the Howard University Day Nursery. During this year we took our last courses on the "Hill." At this time emphasis was placed on the psychological and sociological aspects of nursing.

After a three-week tranquil and wonderful vacation, our class, now thirty-six students, became enmeshed in the strenuous activities of our senior year of nursing. This year was largely a reinforcement of learning, on a higher level, related to our previous services with the exception of two new experiences - psychiatric nursing and tuberculosis nursing. We imagined that the conclusion of the senior year would find us either with "T.B." or a "crack-up." Some of our duties now include round-the-clock hours, charge nurse experience, comprehensive care of acutely ill patients, and assisting our underclassmen. We viewed comprehensive and achievement exams and the State Board Exams with mixed emotions. Before we knew it, the advent of the year 1962, was upon us, bringing with it the realization that the goals we held as Freshmen were nearing completion. With one goal completed we have already begun to set additional aims such as marriage, advanced education and positions as professional nurses.

CHI ETA PHI

Our professional sorority for nurses was founded at Freedman's Hospital, in Washington D.C. by Ailene C. Ewell in 1932. Soror Ewell and eleven other charter members set out to elevate the plane of the nursing field. At present there are twenty-eight chapters, with total membership exceeding six hundred. Each chapter, as well as the National Body, lends itself to professional, civic and cultural affairs, both local and national. In order to increase the interest in the nursing field, there is an annual scholarship fund from which a scholarship is awarded to a deserving student.

The national activities and contributions of Chi Eta Phi include: the donation of furniture and supplies to equip a health unit in an elementary school in Monrovia, Liberia; citation to Congress-woman Francis Bolton in recognition of her outstanding contribution to the nursing field; grant of $2400 to Soror Mabel K. Staupers in order to complete her book; "No Time For Prejudice"; the establishment of Nurse Week to aid in the recruitment of nurses. Additional contributions have been made to: the African Feeding Project; Montgomery, Alabama car pool; membership in National Council of Negro Women; the Prince Edward County School Project; life membership in the N.A.A.C.P.

Chi Eta Phi is continuously striving to increase in wisdom, as well as in strength, so that we may serve mankind, not only in sickness, but in health, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

ADMISSIONS

On behalf of the Staff of the Office of Admissions, I wish to congratulate you on your graduation from Howard University. You will understand, of course, our special pride in your achievement, for some years ago, we recognized you as an applicant for admission who gave reasonable evidence of succeeding at Howard University. Now we invite you to assist us in attracting to Howard University students who show signs of academic potential. As the function of the University is to train men to use intelligence in living, there is a demand for students who, like you, are concerned to develop their ability to reason. In developing this ability, you are enhancing the reputation of your Alma Mater, and strengthening your nation.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT & GRADUATE PLACEMENT

Congratulations to you on your achievement thus far! We feel that, with your immediate goal in sight, you are more than ever determined to reach it. Your Student Employment and Graduate Placement Office is very proud of you.

Some of you have received services in the areas of part-time employment, guidance, and placement through this office. We should like to help all of you in every way possible — now or in the future — particularly in securing employment relative to your career interests and in advancing at a rate commensurate with your aptitudes and abilities.

Register with your Placement Office before you leave the University even though you plan to study next year or you already have your job waiting for you. If you have not been placed already, registration will enable us to assemble your credentials and to make them available to prospective employers.

We always have many professional vacancies listed with us which we shall be happy to discuss with you. If you are registered for graduate placement, we can bring vacancies to your attention as an alumnus of Howard University. In order to do this, however, we need your cooperation.

Again, we congratulate you and assure you of our best wishes for the future. It has been a pleasure to watch you develop since your arrival at Howard University.

> Sincerely yours. Marian V. Coombs Director

ALUMNI SERVICES

Dear Fellow Alumnus:

As you leave Howard University and join the thousands of other Howardites in every section of the world, we hope that you will always associate yourself closely with your Alma Mater. The Division of Field Services, which functions as an alumni relations office, will be extremely interested in you and in your progress.

This division will be your point of contact with the University. The HOWARD UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE will be our principal medium of regular communication with you. We would like to know about your activities, so that we may publish these items of interest in the magazine. Through the Class Notes Section of the alumni magazine, you will be able to maintain communication with your classmates. It is of utmost importance that you notify us about any changes of address or marital status.

Please consider yourself, now and henceforth, a public relations representative of the University. You can be especially helpful in the following ways: (1) by keeping the name of Howard University alive in your community; (2) by actively encouraging a continuous flow of talented students to the campus; and (3) by supporting the University scholarship fund through annual contributions.

Congratulations to you as you now join the great body of more than 18,000 Howardites throughout the world. Godspeed to you! Howard will always remember and cherish you for your contributions to the life of our beloved University.

> Sincerely yours, Lawrence A. Hill Director

STUDENT LIFE

To each of you our most sincere wishes for success in your chosen field of endeavor. Many of you have demonstrated, during your stay at Howard, that you possess the skills, capacities, and initiative to accept fully your responsibilities as contributing members of the adult community in which you will reside.

The real test of your abilities has yet to be met. In the final analysis, the effect of the growth, development, and experiences which you lived as a student at Howard, will be put through the most severe and rigorous exercises by employers, fellow professional workers, associates, and even strangers. Your response to these challenges will, we hope, be indicative of the best that any university would be proud to have had a part in shaping.

It is our fondest desire, that the influence of Howard University will make a more distinguishable difference in your reaction to problems yet to be faced, than would have been made had you not matriculated here.

> Respectfully, Carl E. Anderson Director
