Scope Note

The papers of Benjamin E. Mays (1895-1984) provide a glimpse into the life of the renowned educator, Baptist preacher, college president and civil rights advocate. The bulk of the papers range from the 1920s to the 1980s covering his extensive career in various roles at Howard University, Morehouse College and on the Atlanta Board of Education among many others. The papers consist of 217 cubic feet of material and include nine series; Personal and Family Papers, Correspondence, Organizational Affiliations, Speeches and Other Writings, Photos, Audio/Visual Materials, Academic Regalia, Certificates/Awards/Artifacts and Subject Files. The papers were donated in four installations by Dr. Benjamin Mays and the initial deposit was received on March of 1976 by Dr. Michael Winston, former Director of the MSRC.

One of the largest sections in the Mays papers, comprising approximately 48 cubic feet, is the Correspondence Series. The Correspondence Series is wide-ranging and contains both personal and professional correspondence. Many prominent twentieth century African-American artists, activists and scholars are represented in this series including; Carter G. Woodson, A. Phillip Randolph, Zora Neale Hurston and Dorothy Height. Dr. Mays also maintained a close relationship with the King family and the correspondence reflects this with letters from Martin Luther King Jr., Coretta Scott King, Martin Luther King Sr. and various other King family members. It also contains correspondence with politicians such Nelson Rockefeller and Adam Clayton Powell. Needless to say the correspondence series is an indispensable source of information into both the personal and public life of Mays.

Of particular importance is the Organizational Affiliation Series. Dr. Mays had a remarkable career and was a member and/or affiliated with a diverse array of organizations and institutions. These organizations and institutions were educational, religious, political and philanthropic in nature. Some of the more prominent organizations and institutions included in this series are: Morehouse College, Howard University, the University of Chicago, the Democratic National Convention, the NAACP, the YMCA, the Interdenominational Theological Center, the United Negro College Fund and the Ford Foundation among many others. This series reflects the institutional legacy of Dr. Mays.

Another significant feature of the Mays papers are the Speeches and Other Writings Series. This series contains written transcripts of the speeches Dr. Mays gave at colleges and universities, fundraising events as well his numerous religious sermons. These speeches include full transcripts as well as notes and revisions. Among the other writings are papers that Dr. Mays wrote on civil rights, race relations, politics, education and his regular column in the Pittsburgh Courier and Chicago Defender. This series contains a copy of his master's thesis and his manuscripts Born to Rebel and Disturbed About Man. The Speeches and Other Writings Series provides a glimpse into the philosophy of Dr. Mays.

The Benjamin Mays Papers provide researchers with a plethora of primary sources to investigate the life of Dr. Mays. From his speeches to his personal and professional writings, organizational documents and various artifacts, the Mays Papers give a comprehensive view of his life and work.
