Congresswoman urges students to speak out against Howard budget cuts

By Natalie V. Moore

Congresswoman Eleanor Holmes Norton (D-D.C.) is calling for all students to speak up to save Howard University's federal funding.

"If Howard is not funded, it will be eliminated," Norton said at the Senate Appropriations Committee hearing this week. "The House will not be able to refuse any more cuts." Norton said that if the budget cuts continue, Howard University will lose its federal funding.

"We need to speak up now," Norton said. "If we don't, then we will lose everything." Norton said that the students have a right to be heard and that they should speak up for their school.

Norton said that if the cuts continue, Howard University will lose its federal funding and will be forced to close. "We can't allow this to happen," Norton said. "We need to speak up now and stop these cuts." Norton said that the students should contact their representatives in Congress to voice their support for Howard University.

Students call telephone fees unfair

By Althea Joseph

Junior Grace Henry opened her mail a few weeks ago and noticed that her local telephone bill had increased by $30 for the month. "I was shocked," Henry said. "I don't make much money and I can't afford this extra expense." Many students share Henry's concern about the rise in telephone rates.

According to Jasmine J. Nicholson, who is a member of the student government, the increase in fees is not due to any improvements in service. "The phones in the dorms are constantly breaking, and the response from the maintenance department is usually slow," Nicholson said.

The increase in telephone fees is part of a larger issue on campus: the lack of transparency and accountability in the way the university manages its financial resources. "There is a lack of communication between the administration and the students," said Henry. "We feel like we are being asked to pay for services that we are not receiving."

Many students have started to question the authority and ethics of the administration. "I don't trust them," said Henry. "They have been making decisions that affect us without consulting us." Others have called for a more democratic process in setting fees and making decisions that affect students.

The university has responded to these concerns by emphasizing the need to make ends meet in these tough economic times. "The cost of running the university has increased," said the university president. "We have to raise fees in order to provide the services that students need." However, many students feel that this explanation is not adequate. "We are not being heard," said Henry. "We feel like we are being forced to pay for services that we don't want or need."

Students protest financial aid cuts

By Arthur D. Monte

"Save student aid," chanted an estimated 40,000 people outside the U.S. Capitol building in Washington, D.C., as they took part in a rally to protest proposed cuts in federal aid to higher education.

"This is not a Democratic issue, this is not a Republican issue," said Hip-Hop mogul Russell Simmons, one of the organizers of the rally. "This is an American issue. This is an educational issue.

"This is an act of civil disobedience," said Simmons.

According to Simmons, the rally was designed to "show that we are concerned." He added, "It was understood how important student aid is in building America...they are afraid that they can make these cuts," he said.

In this context, the Hilltop editorial writer, Cynthia S. O'Brien, argues that the proposed cuts are "unjustified." She writes that cuts in education aid "will change the face of higher education for millions of our young people in the next decade.

Black Family Reunion attracts thousands

By Saundra Chaminade

An estimated half million people attended the 10th anniversary of the Black Family Reunion, which was held at the Mall in Washington, D.C.

The celebration attracts more than two million visitors total in seven major cities and has been attended by over 10 million people in the past eight years.

The event began on Thursday with a town hall meeting at the National Press Club, with Congresswoman Carol Moseley Braun, D.C., and Rep. Cynthia McKinney (D-Ga.).

Saturday's activities began with an Economic Policy Roundtable, sponsored by the National Urban League and the National Urban League Forum. The event featured performances by such entertainers as Kool and the Gang, Bettye LaVette, Ariving, Toy and the Underdogs, and others.

The celebration serves as a rallying point for various advocacy groups, community-based organizations, and families of all races to come together in support of the African-American community.

"This year's event will act as a reminder to the nation's capital and the rest of the world that we are a strong and viable community," said event organizer Lisa Davis.

The celebration focuses on African-American education, health, and other issues.

Affirmative action debate divides Black community

By Sharon C. Guenther

The debate over affirmative action has been hotly debated by Whites and Blacks. However, the debate has not been as heated between Whites and Blacks as it is between Blacks within the community.

Asphalt paved the way for the debate to begin. Although there were no affirmative action policies in place, there were still many groups that felt they were being left out of the conversation. One of the major groups that felt this way was the Black community.

The Black community has always been divided on the issue of affirmative action. Some felt that it was necessary to give them a chance to compete with Whites in the workplace. Others felt that it was unfair to discriminate against Whites.

However, the debate over affirmative action has been particularly heated in recent years. This is because the issue has become more controversial. Some have argued that affirmative action is necessary to ensure that Blacks have a fair chance to compete with Whites. Others have argued that affirmative action is unfair to Whites and that it discriminates against them.

Regardless of the position one takes on the issue, it is clear that the debate over affirmative action will continue for some time. The debate is likely to be even more heated in the years to come as the issue becomes even more controversial.

Dole favors legislation making English official language

By Jay Sutton

In an effort to promote English as the official language of the United States, Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) has introduced a bill that would prohibit bilingual ballots and bilingual education.

This bill is likely to face opposition from many groups, including those who argue that it is unfair to deny Hispanics and others the ability to use their native language in the classroom and in government.

However, Sen. Dole believes that it is necessary to promote English as the official language of the United States. He argues that it is important to have a common language that everyone can understand.

In his speech, Sen. Dole said, "We must have a common language if we are to have a common future. English is that language."
I Haiti’s marketplace women find hope despite hardship in home country

By Michelard Winawe
Hilltop Staff Writer

It is 4:00 a.m. and Port-Au-Prince, Haiti is still asleep in the early morning darkness. Emerging from that darkness, however, emerges the shadowy figure of a woman with two large bundles on her head. As she trudges through the market, her face is sometimes hidden by the barren branches of a tree or the shadow of a mountain, selling everything from fresh fruits and vegetables to handmade trinkets. These are the women who, despite hardship in their home country, find hope and strength in the marketplace.

Dominique Verrela, coordinator of the Women’s Project for the Internationaux des Femmes de Carabane, says that these women are a testament to the resilience of the human spirit.

"I give them a little money in the morning and I leave them in the care of God," she said.

Like any parent, Verrela wants her children to have a better life than she did. But for these women, earning a living is not easy. They must work long hours, regardless of what they sell.

Verrela said, "The interest is so much higher than the $150 and even only $100," Verrela said. "The interest is so much higher than the $150 and even only $100.

"I can sit here all day and make nothing... It is a very hard life," Verrela said.

Another voice in the marketplace comes from Yv-Rose, an old woman who fits into the petite category of the women in the marketplace.

Environmental groups oppose France’s nuclear testing

Several populated islands surrounded France’s nuclear test site, where President Aristide Hall

By Debra N. Nance
Hilltop Staff Writer

In the last few years, France has continued its testing program on nuclear devices. The country has been involved in nuclear testing since the 1960s, and has performed more than 200 tests. The tests have been conducted in the Pacific and South Atlantic Ocean, and are aimed at testing the effects of nuclear explosions and developing nuclear weapons. The tests have also been used to test new technologies and to improve the accuracy of nuclear weapons.

Concerned about the effects of nuclear testing, environmental groups and activists from around the world have been calling for an end to the testing regime. They argue that nuclear testing is a threat to the environment and human health, and that it contributes to the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

"We need to continue," said one environmental activist. "We need to continue.

The U.S. government has already made clear that it is willing to sign and ratify the Comprehensive Nuclear-Test-Ban Treaty, which would ban all nuclear testing.

International Pals make life easier for first time foreign students

By deliciously Mitzayn Avila
Hilltop Staff Writer

The prospect of traveling thousands of miles from home to attend a university can be a frightening experience for many students.

But thanks to the International Pals, an organization for international students, students of different nationalities and cultures can feel a sense of community and support.

The International Pals was established in 1985 by the Howard University Office of International Students. The Pals provide students with a schedule of campus activities, local travel, and counseling services.

The organization also offers an orientation program for new students, which includes a schedule of events and activities.

The International Pals also help students to find housing, register, and attend events on campus.

In addition, Pals members provide students with a schedule of campus activities, local travel, and counseling services.

AT&T's outrageous fee insults students

Last year when students were told that local telephone calls would be $3.00 per hour, many were surprised that the company would charge such a high fee. It was revealed that the reason for the fee was to cover the cost of providing service on campus. Last year, with the exception of some high-ranking politicians, the administration had to pay $1,000 to $1,500 per hour for service. Without the fee, students were insulted and refused to accept the new system. Without service, they were not able to call off-campus to reach friends and family.

Recent resolutions sully Congress' reputation

With the last three weeks, two Congressmen-a high-ranking politician and a new Representative-have resigned from Congress after their sexual misconduct was exposed to the public. The resignation of these politicians has led to a call for the resignation of others.

AT&T should be very willing to appease Black Howard University students. It was not long ago that AT&T disregarded Black students when it was revealed that the company was underpaying Black students.

Civil War. In the past year, the media has been behind many high-ranking politicians. Though Reynolds was only in his second term, it was also his third year on the Finance Committee.

Republican cuts in education spell bleak future for Americans

As the federal government spends billions more on defense, funding for education is decreasing and financial aid is cut. The Republican-controlled Congress has proposed to cut aid grants, reducing financial aid for students. The administration has argued that this is necessary to balance the budget. However, this is a shortsighted policy that only benefits a few at the expense of many.

Our constitutional rights:

Dear Editor:

When our forefathers wrote the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, their intentions were to create a system that guaranteed individual liberty and freedom. True, when the Constitution was written, there were issues that had not yet been decided upon. However, in the words of James Madison, "Whenever men are allowed to determine for themselves, the most is to be desired." The Constitution was a starting point for the government's role in society.

This marriage gave the citizens of America a framework for the interpretation of their rights. Citizens have the right to vote, to speak, to get education, etc. We must leave freedom in the hands of the students.

Your truly,

Kerwin Kearney

Blackness is more than a skin color.

But Thomas is the first of the four to be the recipient of our honorary degree. Reactions from many Bereans have been somewhat mixed, some feel that Thomas is not the best person to receive this honor. Thomas'回应 to those who have been concerned has been to continue to be supported by his family.

During his playing days, Thomas worked hard to become a star in the league, and a great leader on and off the court. While some may argue that his achievements were not enough to warrant such an honor, the fact remains that he has made a significant impact on the lives of many people.

However, the most significant role of the Black woman, in my opinion, is that of a mother, teacher, sister, friend and healer of Black women and children.

The Black woman's role in the Million Man March

Rebecca W. Butler

On October 16, 1995 the Reverend Louis Fortune, the Conventor of the Million Man March held in Washington, D.C. This event will help to bring us together and address the needs of the community.

Although the Black man may feel responsible for and pay homage to his Black women, there is another role that the Black woman plays in this society. The Black woman is not only a mother, but also a leader in the community.

In three cases this summer, in which Black men were attacked, there was a ruling against Thomas. In one case, it was because of his skin color. In two other cases, it was because he was Black and had been involved with people of color.

However, the most significant role of the Black woman in the Million Man March will be that of a mother, teacher, sister, friend and healer of Black women and children.

A real Howard education means learning about yourself.

Ashaka Simeons

If I asked you why you came to Howard University, would you say that you wanted to broaden your horizons? That you wanted to learn about the world?

How do you feel about Howard, your home away from home? At times, you feel that Howard has let you down. At other times, you feel that Howard has given you a lot.

At Howard, you have had the opportunity to meet people from all walks of life. You have had the opportunity to experience different cultures. You have had the opportunity to learn about yourself.

Much of the value of a Howard education lies in its ability to stimulate your personal development.

As a Howard student, you are given the opportunity to develop your own thoughts and ideas. You are given the opportunity to explore your own interests. You are given the opportunity to learn about yourself.

Many women have asked, "What can I do at Howard as a woman?" The answer is simple: We can improve our lives. We can improve our communities. We can improve our society.

Your stay at Howard, albeit a brief one, has have an Al Freeman, a Judy Dearing, and an Renee Ellmers. About finding your views you brought here or discovered something here. Because if all you wanted was to fit in with the crowd. This has not been a sermon, and I could go on to list numbers, famous alumni, successful people but you actually will have failed in your experiences of your life, but you must be open and be to the power to rise back to the master's house.

We h ave often complained of the deteriorating public education system. We h ave often complained of the deteriorating state of our universities. The time is now to rise up and take action. We have the power to make a difference. We have the power to change the world. We have the power to rise back to the master's house.

Many people have asked, "What can I do at Howard as a woman?" The answer is simple: We can improve our lives. We can improve our communities. We can improve our society.

Student movement needed in Black America

Russell Rickford

Ministry in today's rag tag management of chaos in the form of the community is needed. The Christian-alright, black, liberal, and the faith-oriented Christian-alright, black, conservative church should be the ministry. The church that would best be able to meet the needs of the community is needed.

We believe that the abstraction of the Black church is the black church. In the Black church, we find the community. In the Black church, we find the community. In the Black church, we find the community.

What process has been followed in the Black community?" The answer is simple: We can improve our lives. We can improve our communities. We can improve our society.

As watchdogs of the media, the rap audiences bear the duty to battle against poisonous depictions of Black women.

David Gaffter

Black people across the country have been going through a process of healing and forgiving. We have been going through a process of healing and forgiving. We have been going through a process of healing and forgiving.

But the process of healing is not easy. Many Black people have been going through a process of healing and forgiving. We have been going through a process of healing and forgiving.

As watchdogs of the media, the rap audiences bear the duty to battle against poisonous depictions of Black women.

We have the power to stop the denigration of women in rap.

Shape

Shivers through the soul,
at the pressure of amber orbs.
A rush of heady pleasure
when viewing the chocolate back, a phenomenon to be worshipped.
Flowing muscles, ripping with each twist and turn, smooth as silk, sweet as honey,
a picture to be devoured,
again and again.

Thighs so tight and firm
withstanding the mightiest weight, trembling at the lightest caress,
meant for the whisper of lips and fingertips,
Oh to glory in such a marvel.

Ebony columns causing moisture on the brow,
sweat to bead the lips,

inexorable tension in soft thighs,
Mmmm...the beauty of shoulders

Lest forgotten in this praise of shape, the lips.

Not the furred enclosures of woman's secret,
But the full, majestic riches, giving expression of thoughts on an otherwise peaceful visage.

THE BLACK DREAM

Keep Hope alive
Reach deep inside
Descendants of African Kings and Queens, it's time to fulfill your dreams.

A dream to be oneself; a true leader an individual deserving of power.

Someone once said black meant power, happiness, the strength of a race.

So with this in mind why not state your case.

To be an individual, a flower,
a work of art.

Never giving up or settling for less because there's a dream in your heart.

Today you must ask what is the Black man's dream?

Is it to be successful or is it to be free
If the American dream is freedom, happiness and liberty then the dream of the black man is to be a designer's original for all the world to see.

THE ANSWER

WHEN PROBLEMS ARISE FROM DAY TO DAY CALL ON JESUS, HE'S THE WAY.

WHEN YOU HAVE NO MONEY, FOOD AND DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO, HE SAYS, JUST CALL ON ME, I AM HERE FOR YOU.

IF YOU'RE DOWN AND OUT AND THE WAY SEEMS SO DARK THAT YOU CANNOT SEE, HE SAYS, MY ARMS ARE OPEN TO PROTECT YOU—JUST COME UNTO ME.

IF "LIFE" IS WHAT YOUR SEARCHING FOR, I AM THE ANSWER, LOOK NO MORE.

IF I DIED ON THE CROSS SO THAT YOU CAN BE FREE, IF LOOKING FOR THE ANSWER, THE ANSWER IS ME.

LEARNING TO LIVE

SOMEONE ONCE SAID LIFE WAS A MANY SPLENDID THING, WHICH I FEEL IS TRUE. BUT TODAY I ASK WHAT DOES LIFE MEAN TO YOU? SHARING, CARING, GIVING OF YOURSELF AT ALL AVAILABLE TIMES SAYING WHAT'S MINE IS YOURS NOT WHAT'S YOURS MINE.

FULFILLING YOUR HOPES AND SEEING YOUR DREAM COME TRUE, BEING PROUD OF YOUR ROOTS, KNOWING IT'S OKAY TO BE YOU.

LIFE IS THE ABILITY TO TRAVEL BOTH FAR AND WIDE AND TO SHARE WITH EVERYONE IN THE WORLD JUST WHO YOU ARE INSIDE.

LIFE GIVES YOU THE OPPORTUNITY TO GET A EDUCATION AND BE ALL YOU CAN BE AND OPEN THE DOORS TO THE JOB WORLD WITH EDUCATION AS YOUR KEY.

NO MATTER WHAT "LIFE" MEANS TO YOU, YOU ARE REALLY LIVING OR HAVING A GREAT LIFE UNLESS CHRIST LIVES INSIDE YOU!

Several studies show ignorance of computer technology

By Donna Griffin

In the midst of dormitory check-in, campus soirées, and a variety of campus potlucks, seniors and sophomores hunkered down in front of their computers and surfed the Internet.

This year, every computer lab had access to a T1 service, which allowed students to surf the Internet at speeds of 1.5 megabits per second.

In addition, several students said they used their own computers to surf the Internet.

Howard grad strives to increase awareness about African culture

Photojournalist rediscovers his ancestry

Taking high-powered cameras equipped with 35mm film, Phillip A. Collins, a Washington, D.C. native, has been working for years to document African-Americans and the images that are so often unfairly negative. Therefore, I believe getting the public to recognize the negative images people receive of black people is my prime goal. I have been concerned about, and have published Collins' photos. One year ago, he released his second photography book, "Black America," which sold out within the first two months of publication. "The images in this book were taken during my travels to Africa," Collins said. "The images are powerful and inspiring, and I believe they will help to change people's perceptions of blacks around the world."

Collins' latest book, "Freetown," is set to be published later this year. It will feature images from the town of Freetown, Sierra Leone, which has a rich history and culture. "I hope that this book will help to bring awareness to the beauty and richness of Freetown," Collins said. "Africa is full of stories that need to be told, and I am committed to sharing them with the world."

After three years, Carl Martin, Moe One, Craig Marshall, and Dante Hall, known as Shai, dropped their second album entitled "Blackface." This album is a major step up for the group. It features more mature, introspective material, and is a different sound for the group. Shai has matured and grown as both musicians and writers and the result is a fantastic album. This album is a must-listen for any fan of the group. Shai has matured and grown as both musicians and writers and the result is a fantastic album. Open your eyes to the facts about glaucoma.

Glaucoma is a leading cause of blindness among all adults over age 60. And, if you're Black and over age 40, you're up to five times more likely to develop glaucoma.

But, if glaucoma is detected and treated early, the risk of blindness is greatly reduced.

So, get a dilated eye examination in which drops are used to enlarge your pupils. This allows your eye care professional to see more of the inside of your eye. It doesn't hurt, it's easy, and it could save your eyesight.

Resource guide a road map for Blacks on the Internet

By Tina-Renee Johnson

For those African Americans who feel like they are left on the cyberさせてる受動語の情報の楽しみ

In response to the large number of African Americans who have not jumped on the cyberspace bandwagon, Stafford L. Battle and James McLaughlin created a guide that introduces the world of megabytes and modems to computer novices and to Blacks who are "illiterate," he said.

They wrote their first how-to manual for Blacks on computers at the Howard University Hotel on Oct. 14. The impending closing of the hotel's business offices will be hard to find Stafford L. Battle, a 6th Street vendor who said his store was named by Howard students, did not want to add to the "nonsense" that Howard didn't call a meeting to serve Howard students and the community.

"We've been there for more than a year," said Battle, who has been selling food and hot dogs near the School of Business since he's been in business. "I think this is part of the Howard administration's way of getting Howard University students to realize they can't do what they want to do."

"They are trying to get us out of the way, but I will stay in business," Battle said.

"I think they are trying to get rid of me, but I will stay in business," Battle said.

"I think they are trying to get rid of me, but I will stay in business," Battle said.

"I think they are trying to get rid of me, but I will stay in business," Battle said.

The hotel's owner, Daniel Gibson, said he had been in business for more than 20 years and that he had never seen the hotel like this. "I think they are trying to get rid of me, but I will stay in business," Battle said.

Two controversial drugs will make abortion easier for American women. Methotrexate and misoprostol, when taken before the sixth week of pregnancy, can induce abortion.

Both drugs are available in generic form in local pharmacies for less than $10.

Doctors can legally prescribe the drugs for abortion, even though the combination has not been approved by the FDA.

Methotrexate disorganizes the uterine lining and misoprostol triggers contractions of the uterus.

The drugs can be used until the sixth week of pregnancy.

Contraception is necessary because this is very different from a surgical abortion.

Boorenstein said, "The procedure takes longer, and patients have to know what's going to happen and what to do if something frightening occurs, like very heavy bleeding or severe cramping.

Boorenstein recommends a half-hour counseling session before the procedure.

"The bleeding and cramping can be unpleasant. They (patients) could feel a bit of anxiety."

Hausknecht said. "I explained that all I could do was eat, sleep and lift."

Despite Montague's experience with the drugs, he doesn't think the combination of methotrexate and misoprostol is a good idea.

"It's not going to harm you, and it's not going to help anybody. It's just going to make your products not containing each other availa Millions of dollars in scholarships, fellowships, grants, internships, work study programs and special student aid funds go unused every year because students simply don't know where to apply or how to get their share.

The secret in locating money for college, lies in your strategy. You need step-by-step information on what aid is available and how you can get it. The time to apply is now! You can apply as early as your junior year in high school, or during your undergraduate or graduate study. Aid can be used at any accredited college or trade school.

This Directory will provide information for Students or Individuals wishing or attending high schools, business schools, technical schools, graduate schools, law schools, medical schools, vocational institutions, undergraduate schools, research programs, and leadership programs.

Corporations, Trusts, Foundations, Religious Groups and other Organizations offer Scholarships, Fellowships, Grants, Internships, and Work Study Programs to students annually, regardless of grades or parents income levels.

Men’s soccer team begins season undefeated, 3-0

By DeWayne K. Glassender

Men’s head soccer coach Rich Backett seems to be putting a lot of pressure on his team after their 3-0 victory over the Hampton Pirates at RFK Stadium on September 15. The Bison have already won all three of their opening games.

The team is already off to a...

Bison trample Hampton Pirates at RFK

Boothers, men’s soccer team, conjures dreams of championships

By DeWayne K. Glassender

The Boothers, men’s soccer team, have had a successful season so far, with victories over the Washington Huskies and the Hampton Pirates.

Whatever it is that they’re doing, they should keep up the work.

Come support our Bison football team tomorrow in Greene Stadium at North Carolina Central at 1:30.

Students get your tickets at Crampton and bring your I.D.
What is your opinion about Howard University and ACUS imposing a flat rate of $30 on local telephone service for students?
