SCOPE NOTE

The papers of Kwame Nkrumah (1909-1972), teacher, statesman, and author, span the period from 1955 to 1987. The bulk of the papers covers the period from 1965 to 1974 and the collection totals approximately twenty-six linear feet. While Prime Minister of the Gold Coast, Nkrumah led the successful fight for the colony's independence from the British. From June 1960 until February 1966, he served as President of Ghana, while advocating the cause of a free and unified Africa. After the 1966 Ghanaian coup, Nkrumah settled in Conakry, Guinea, where he continued to promote pan-Africanism and denounce neo-colonialism. This collection primarily documents Nkrumah's activities during his life in Conakry, 1966-1971. June Milne, Nkrumah's literary executrix, donated the collection to MSRC, beginning in 1984.

While in Conakry, Nkrumah authorized June Milne, his former research assistant, to establish Panaf Books, Ltd. Panaf published Nkrumah's new books and reprinted the previous ones. Materials related to these publications, organized by title, comprise approximately half of the collection. These materials were acquired in 1986.

A large portion of the papers consists of Nkrumah's correspondence. Among his frequent correspondents were writer and widow of W.E.B. DuBois, Shirley Graham DuBois; President of Lincoln University, Marvin Wachman; American civil rights activists, Grace and James Boggs; author Reba Lewis; writer and daughter of Richard Wright, Julia Wright [Herve]; and Jamaican senator Dudley Thompson.

While in Guinea, Nkrumah persisted in his 1957 affirmation that the independence of Ghana was meaningless unless linked with the total liberation and eventual unification of Africa. The writings in this collection document his continued belief in this goal. Although physically removed from Ghana, Nkrumah continued to communicate his beliefs through his books and his correspondence.

In 1986 Milne was able to retrieve the files and papers from Villa Syli, Nkrumah's residence while in Guinea. Between Nkrumah's 1971 departure from Guinea and 1986, the papers were exposed to some environmental damage. Fortunately, most of the damage is evident only on the edges of the papers.

In 1987 Milne donated to MSRC the "Conakry Archive," approximately fifteen feet of material comprising Nkrumah's incoming and outgoing correspondence and cables, and Ghanaian radio reports. Milne used a large number of these documents to compile her 1990 book, Kwame Nkrumah: The Conakry Years: His Life and Letters. Although she referred to them by file number in the book, they have been interfiled with other similar documents within the papers. While Milne contributed materials cited in her book, she retained her notebooks and Nkrumah's handwritten letters to her.

Also in 1987, John Marshment, General Manager of Panaf Publications Ltd. and printer of Africa and the World magazine, donated eighteen photographs and a manuscript titled A Call to the Workers of Ghana. Two years later Milne added sixty-two books, files, and Panaf business records. The books have been transferred to the Library Division of MSRC and Howard University Libraries. Some of Milne's personal files are included in this collection. The Panaf records have been separated and will form an independent collection.

Series Description

Series A Conakry Administrative Papers

Box 154-1 Consists of financial documents, lists of names and titles of Nkrumah's entourage, equipment inventories, and travel itineraries. In addition to itineraries of Nkrumah's visitors, are schedules documenting Nkrumah's February-March 1966 journey from Ghana to Guinea.

Series B Conakry Correspondence

Box 154-1 Spans the period from February 1966, when to 154-10 Nkrumah settled in Conakry, Guinea to October 1971, when he left for Bucharest. Includes incoming and outgoing correspondence, arranged alphabetically. Nkrumah's secretaries wrote most of the outgoing letters. Among the correspondents are autograph seekers, students, scholars, journalists, book publishers, friends, and admirers from around the world. Most letters are in English, but several are in French and one in Arabic. There is little correspondence between Nkrumah and his family. See also Oversize Items, Series K, for a chronological ledger of Nkrumah's outgoing correspondence.

Series C Cables

Box 154-10 Spans the period from February 1966 to June to 154-13 1972. The cables are divided into incoming and outgoing, and are arranged chronologically. Outgoing cables originated from Nkrumah's post office box in Conakry, "Box 834." Although Nkrumah sent most of these, many visitors also sent messages from the box. Nkrumah often used cables because Series C (con't.) he believed that his post mail was being intercepted. After Nkrumah left Conakry in October 1971, his staff continued to send cables from Box 834. Note that while Nkrumah was in Bucharest, Camara Sana, Nkrumah's Guinean translator, used the code name "Diallo" for Nkrumah. This series contains only photocopies. The originals are fragile, and therefore, restricted.

Series D Writings by Nkrumah

Box 154-13 Divided into two subseries: Speeches/to 154-31 statements and writings. Speeches and statements are arranged chronologically and include dedication addresses, messages to the Ghanaian people and Legislative Assembly, and remarks during foreign travel. Writings are arranged alphabetically and include books, articles and notes, galleys, typescripts, art work, research materials, and correspondence. Access to "Materials for Destruction," the concluding section of Handbook of Revolutionary Warfare: A Guide to the Armed Phase of African Revolution, has been restricted. See folder for information.

Series E Writings about Nkrumah

Box 154-31 Includes biographical sketches, periodical to 154-35 articles, speeches, clippings, a biography, and a play script. Articles about Nkrumah's death are at the end of the series. Photocopies of oversize articles are included in this series. The originals can be found in Series K, the Oversize Items Series.

Series F Radio Reports from Ghana

Box 154-35 Includes reports of broadcasts gathered by to 154-38 Nkrumah's entourage in Guinea between 1966 and 1969. Most are daily reports, written in code. Nkrumah read and marked these, particularly the police and army messages. This series contains only photocopies. The originals are fragile, and therefore, restricted.

Series G Writings by Others

Box 154-38 Contains interviews, statements, published to 154-39 and unpublished articles. National Liberation Council leaders authored several of these works. Nkrumah's friends and followers sent these to him for comments.

Series H Organizations

Box 154-39 Consists primarily of printed material about African organizations, both within and outside the continent.

Series I June Milne's Files

Box 154-39 Divided into three subseries: Estate of to 154-41 Nkrumah, Correspondence, and Writings. Because Milne was Nkrumah's executrix, the collection contains materials about his estate. The first subseries is primarily comprised of Milne's and Burley and Geach's (solicitors) chronological files about Nkrumah's estate and its distribution. The second subseries contains Milne's personal correspondence. Most letters date from the 1970s and 1980s. Correspondents include Douglas Rogers, Editor of Africa and the World, Nkrumahists and Pan-Africanists. A Swahili translation of Forward Ever forms the third subseries.

Series J George Padmore

Box 154-41 Contains information collected by Dorothy Padmore, for use in a biography of her husband, George Padmore, noted West Indian Pan-Africanist. In 1945 Nkrumah and Padmore organized the Fifth Pan-African Conference in Manchester, England. When Ghana gained independence, Nkrumah named Padmore Counsellor on African Affairs. In 1959 Padmore died suddenly, before completing the biography of her husband. After Mrs. Padmore died, Nkrumah asked June Milne to close her residence in Accra. Milne recovered correspondence and biographical information.

Series J (con't.) See also the September 23, 1960 edition of the Evening News (Accra) which commemorated Padmore, on the first anniversary of his death.

Series K Printed Material

Box 154-41 Arranged into four subseries: Clippings, to 154-46 Periodicals, Books and Pamphlets, and Newspapers. Most clippings concern events in Africa. The general clippings, primarily culled by June Milne from the British news services, are arranged chronologically. Charles Howard's writings (press releases and clippings) about Africa follow. Howard, a columnist for the Afro-American, sent these to Nkrumah in Conakry. The periodicals, arranged alphabetically, are mostly African publications. The majority of the books and pamphlets are Ghana government publications. Titles from the 1960 Inauguration of Ghana form a subseries. The remaining books and pamphlets are listed alphabetically. The newspapers date primarily from Nkrumah's rule in Ghana, titles of which include Daily Graphic, Spectator Daily, Ghanaian Times, and Accra Evening News. Microfilm copies are available for viewing in the Library Division of MSRC. National Liberation Council press releases and fliers are listed at the end of the series.

Series L Photographs

Box 154-46 Nkrumah alone and with others, to 154-47 colleagues and friends, unidentified individuals, Ghanaian postcards.

Series M Oversize Items

Box 154-48 Includes a 1983 Ghanaian calendar, a picture of the Ghanaian Coat-of-Arms, broadsides, magazines, and a log of Nkrumah's correspondence while in Guinea.

Series N Tapes

Box 154-49 Cassettes arranged chronologically within the following subjects:
Nkrumah's broadcasts and speeches, music, and news programs. Most of these materials were made after Nkrumah left Ghana. These cassettes are copies of cassettes and reel tapes which are restricted.

Series O Restricted Items

Box 154-50 Includes original cables, radio reports, to 154-54 tapes, and films. These materials have been restricted due to preservation concerns. See Boxes 154-10 to 154-13 for copies of the cables; Boxes 154-35 to 154-38 for copies of the radio reports; Box 154-49 for copies of the tapes and a soundtrack to the Ghana News Reel. The film, "Le Cancer de la Trahison" (The Cancer of Betrayal"), was shot by Henry Herve, a free lance film director. It presents Amilcar Cabral's speech (in French with English subtitles) at Nkrumah's funeral.
