Howard crowns 1996 Homecoming royalty

By Alyona Ballard
Hilltop Staff Writer

Monday night, Howard University students gathered in the Woman's Auditorium for the crowning of the 1996 Homecoming Royalty. As the audience cheered and gave a drum roll with the strength of forty feet, Mr. and Miss Howard were named. Mr. School of Architecture and Planning Christopher Ryan and Miss School of Business Ziona Jones received the honors, and already the women making plans to heighten the level of respect to their title.

They really mean it when they say Mr. and Miss Howard is a big deal. This year's Mr. Howard pageant began with 123 wannabes vying for the crown. A total of 51 people are currently vying for the Mr. Howard crown.

For the talent competition portion of the pageant, contestants performed 20 minutes before the pageant that was still trying to decide on his talent. The combination of dancing, singing, and character interpretation helped make it the best Miss Howard University.

"I hope I represent the school well," Jones said. "I'm very proud to be wearing a legacy of beautiful and intelligent women.

The Birmingham, Ala., native's platform is called "Operational REASONING LIGHTS"--those who can cut the weight and make it. Jones plans to focus on healthiness in the District, while bringing the Howard community together.

Team of Brian Wagner, la., said he is delighted to receive his crown, although he was a little surprised that he won.

"I love Howard University," he said. "And that's why I'm here. Just because Howard allows me to share the experience.

I'll like to see my position of Mr. and Miss Howard continue on with at least the same level of respect and service improved." They would like to see students raising and wearing a Howard shirt.

Mr. and Miss Howard bring to the homecoming function a new and improved Howard University.

"We are going to have to prepare for that. This is a very big game for us.

If we continue to run the ball as we have in the past, it will work for us.

We still have to prepare for the possibility of another level," aid Jones, a Bison face Aggies in Homecoming game scoring and passing offense, and fifth in total offense that ranks 10th in the country in both scoring and passing offense, and fifth in total offense.

Mr. School of Architecture and Planning Christopher Ryan and Miss School of Business Ziona Jones were named.

Mr. and Miss Howard are set for a game with the Commodores of North Carolina A&T. This year's Homecoming contest will include a drum line and a special guest from the United States Marine Corps. The Aggies are led offensively by sophomore quarterback Michael Blanks, who ranks fourth in the nation in passing and seventh in scoring. Alternating quarterbackship, freshman and sophomore, was thought to be better than the previous year. Senior defensive tackle Bobby Jones has 18 sacks and seven tackles for losses, while junior linebacker Dwayne Williams (25 tackles) and sophomore Christian Jones (24 tackles) have been a hard hitting duo.

Tomorrow the Howard University Bison will change in the Angola of North Carolina A&T. This year's Homecoming contest will pit point to point as both teams come off of decisive wins.

Both teams are coming off of big wins, with Howard making 32 points. With a total of 31 points scored, the Bison have now scored 32 points. With a total of 31 points scored, the Bison have now scored 32 points.

Howard won the last three conference games, including last year's 24-14 decision in Greensboro, N.C., but A&T leads the series 18-10, with 4-4 draw.

If the last four meetings between these powerhouses are any indication (four games decided by a total of 38 points, this contest could be a war of attrition.

Visitation expected to be "chaotic" but safe

By Nicole McLaren

Last year's Homecoming weekend was a chaotic one for Smith, reside nce assistant director of the West Towers.

"It was so hectic," she said, recalling a series of mix-ups that led to students being unable to get in or out of their dorms.

Resident assistants have been put on high alert as Homecoming approaches. "We're just trying to make sure we have enough people on hand," said Samuel Aaron, a dorm director.

Preparations include having extra staff on duty, setting up special security checkpoints, and implementing new policies to control the flow of visitors.

"We're trying to anticipate any problems that might arise," said Aaron. "We want to make sure everyone is safe and has a good time.

The weekend is expected to be busy, with both students and visitors coming and going. However, Aaron is confident his staff can handle the situation.

"We have a lot of experience dealing with Homecoming," he said. "We know exactly what to expect and how to handle it.

"It's going to be a fun weekend," said Aaron. "Let's just hope the weather holds up.

Norfolk A&M marching band director, William Gore, is22ing for Homecoming and the band's performance on the field.

"It's going to be a great game," said Gore. "We're ready to take on any challenge.

"We want to show the world what we're made of," said Gore. "We've been practicing for months and we're ready to perform.

"The band is in top shape," said Gore. "We're looking forward to putting on a show that will make the fans proud.

The band will be performing several songs during the Homecoming game, including "Marching Band Medley" and "Homecoming Fanfare."

"We're going to play some of our best hits," said Gore. "We want to give the fans a show they'll never forget.

"We're ready to win," said Gore. "Let's go band!

GENERAL MANDATORY REGISTRATION

(Monday, 28 October 1996 through Friday, 8 November 1996)

General Mandatory Registration (GMR) is required for currently enrolled students who will be enrolled for Spring 1997.

IT'S A SIMPLE PROCESS.

1. Remove registration holds*.
2. See your academic advisor.
3. Enter your classes into the system by:
   - Seeing a SOLAR Operator in your school or college
   - Calling HU-PROS (Howard University Programmatic Registration On-Line System) at 202-806-4537 Monday-Friday 8:30 am to 6:15 pm eastern standard time from any touch-tone telephone.

*Registration Holds
A student with holds cannot participate in General Mandatory Registration until the holds have been removed. The student is responsible for having any of the following holds removed: Academic, Address, Admission, Advisor's, Housing, International, Medical, Student Affairs, and Treasurer's.

CLEARING FALL 1996 BILLS

Outstanding student account balances must be paid in order for a student to participate in General Mandatory Registration. A Treasurer's hold will be placed on the account of any student with an outstanding balance, preventing participation in GMR.

Final Fall bills were mailed to enrolled students October 7 and 8. Failure to receive a bill does not excuse a student from paying any outstanding balance. Students who did not receive bills or who have questions regarding their accounts should immediately contact the Office of Student Accounts. Note: If expected financial aid for Fall 1996 has not been applied to your account, you must pay the difference between any outstanding balance and the pending financial aid. The student is responsible for paying the entire balance should pending aid not materialize.

FINANCIAL AID

Pending financial aid for Spring 1997 will appear on the Schedule Confirmation/Account Statement to be mailed in December by the Office of Student Financial Services. Any new paperwork for Remission of Tuition, assistantships, fellowships, and scholarships must be submitted to Financial Aid and Student Employment not later than 8 November to ensure proper billing. Eligible employees and dependents must submit new Remission of Tuition certifications each semester. Any required documents and applications for Spring 1997 Federal student and parent loans are due in Financial Aid by 1 November 1996.

Meeting Rooms 148/160

D’Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, Inc. is a major international advertising and communications agency. DMB&B has billings of 6.2 billion and more than 141 offices in 72 countries. We operate in a culture that values initiative, diversity, individual development, and the relentless pursuit of excellence.

We are currently recruiting for college graduates who are interested in a career in advertising, but do not necessarily know what discipline they would like to specialize in. Our training program is designed specifically for the “undecided.” This program would be located in our Troy, Michigan office, (15 miles north of Detroit).

Our Professional Development Program (PDP) is an entry-level program geared toward recent graduates, with either a bachelor’s or a master’s degree. It is an 18-month concentrated training experience, consisting of rotations in various accounts and departments throughout our agency.

Potential career opportunities include account planning, account services, media, production, advertising (television, radio and print), direct marketing, PR, events, and sales promotion.

Learning to combine your analytical skills and creativity to produce communications that touch consumers and make clients successful is one of the many opportunities we offer in our Professional Development Program. To learn more, attend our Information Session on Sundays.

Howard Homecoming: A national phenomenon

Visitors come from across the country to witness the Howard celebration.

By April Turner
Staff Writer

Howard University celebrated its annual Homecoming, which has become a national phenomenon, with a week of festivities that included an expected 500,000 visitors. The event was designed to honor the university and its contributions to African American higher education. The theme of this year's Homecoming was "A Search for Meaning." The event included a variety of events, such as concerts, parades, and sports games. The university also honored its alumni and faculty who have made significant contributions to society. The event was a reflection of the university's commitment to its African American heritage and its role as a leader in higher education.

Howard University president resigns

By April Turner

Dr. Johnnetta Cole, the president of Howard University, announced her resignation on November 13, 2018. Dr. Cole has been the president of Howard University since 2005. She was the first African American woman to lead an HBCU and the first African American woman to serve as president of a major university. During her tenure, Dr. Cole oversaw a period of growth and development for Howard University, including the construction of new facilities and the expansion of its academic programs. However, recent controversies surrounding Dr. Cole's leadership have led to her decision to step down. The university has already begun the search for a new president.

Congress passes legislation to honor King with memorial, keeping his dream alive

By Chanda Garcia
Howard University Student

Congress passed a law last week that would build a permanent memorial to honor Martin Luther King Jr. The legislation was passed by a short vote and was signed into law by President Donald Trump. The memorial, which will be located in Washington, D.C., will honor the civil rights leader's legacy and his dream of a more just and equitable society. The legislation was sponsored by Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., who is himself the son of one of the civil rights leaders who was killed while fighting for voting rights in Selma. The memorial will be built on land that is currently owned by the National Park Service.

World Day of Atonement sparks criticism from Orthodox Muslims

By Yasica Y. Gage
Staff Writer

Orthodox Muslims, who view the World Day of Atonement as a violation of their religious beliefs, have expressed their opposition to the day. The day, which is celebrated by many Muslims and Christians, is a day of fasting and repentance. However, Orthodox Muslims believe that this day is a violation of their religious beliefs and should not be celebrated. They argue that the day is not consistent with the teachings of the Quran and that the day is a violation of the principles of Islam.

Homecoming’s International Day excluded from celebration because of late proposal

By Ndymaye Muskayeye

It has been the talk around Howard campus for weeks. A fantastic event in celebration of the many nationalities in the Howard community was not going to materialize. The cancellation of Homecoming’s International Day (HID) has everyone in the campus community talking. HID was supposed to be a great way to celebrate the many nationalities on campus. It was a way to show everyone that the Howard community is rich and diverse, with different cultures. However, the cancellation of HID has led to many questions and confusion. What led to the cancellation of HID, and why was it not able to happen?

HILLTOP STAFF WRITER

At a time when you are struggling to serve a world, many would say that the idea of Howard not controlling immigration control would be redundant and unnecessary.

However, in some students’ opinions, Homecoming is a way for the Howard University Homecoming Office to recognize the importance of immigration control and its necessity to making the world a safer place than it is now, so you will never be back again.

"The Cold War is over, but the United States cannot put arms control to rest. The world still remains a threat," Holm said.

When we are aware of the issues surrounding immigration, we are able to minimize the threat.

Hilltop Staff Writer

Holm also said that the idea that "The Million Man March" was a temporary situation is unfortunate. He also went on to say that since the office had to inform the supplier of the biological treaty, they did not want to put anyone in danger.

"The whole thing was not even times a year," Holm said.

Lessons learned from the poster event will heighten awareness of the International Day, according to Holm. The poster was not only for the Howard community but also for others to see the importance of HID in the Howard community.

"It is the function of the Howard University Police Department to ensure that the Howard community is safe. We are doing everything we can to ensure that," Holm said.

On October 25, the World Trade Center was attacked.

"It is an unfortunate that this happened," Holm said. "But we are determined to focus on the issues that are important to the Howard community."

The cancellation of HID is unfortunate, and it is not satisfying to see the cancellation of an event that was supposed to be a celebration of the Howard community.

Deep-six Proposition 209

ince the Republican revolution over the nation's political landscape in 1994, the state of California saw three affirmative-action initiatives. Robert Dole, while still a sizable figure in national politics, became a leader in getting Proposition 209 on the ballot. Proposition 209 is a direct challenge to affirmative action, as it is a hostile measure aimed at ending any form of state or federal affirmative action.

Among the many states, none has made as much of the issue of affirmative action as California. Proposition 209 was a vote of the people in favor of a color-blind society.

The legislation was a means to rid the system of what the proponents of Proposition 209 referred to as "reverse-discrimination." African Americans and Hispanics are alleged to have been the victims of reverse-discrimination laws in California. If Proposition 209 was passed, it would end affirmative action as a whole.

The proposition has been criticized by many for eliminating the chance of qualified minorities from enjoying the same opportunities as their white counterparts.

Opponents of Proposition 209 argue that the legislation would be harmful to the nation as a whole and that it violates the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The proposition has been supported by many who believe in the idea of a color-blind society. The proposition would end affirmative action as a whole, and would end any reverse-discrimination laws.

From bare hairs and rock 'n' roll to afros and funk, music dancing after parties to op and sagging, "Howard's Homecoming has a long way to go. Hipsters have infiltrated all and those of students have gone, one thing has remained. It's a feeling that infects anyone, heard of or experienced an incoming.

It was a look at some of the highs from the last 30 years:

Business as Show business in the '60s

It was 1964 and the Homecoming was "On Broadway." Initiation opened with the Mass Howard class 21 women competed for the ticket's pages which represent each school. In 1964 anything a Underhalls, campaigned around and its winner was decided by the judges.

Power to the people: Black and proud in the '70s

Fast forward to an era of afros and dashikis. Black power was the vibe and it could be felt through Howard. The New York Community Choir headlined the gospel concert at the annual varsity show. Richard Pryor, along with comedian Buck Henry, packed a house. Crampton Auditorium for the comedy show. The musical acts were Donald Byrd and the Black Winds (you may remember them from their hit song Rock Creek Park).

The fashion show reflected the era of Black exploitation films. The clothing was strictly for the pimps and hustlers as models strutted their stuff in platform shoes and bell bottom pants. The fakkeladically sounds of Betty Davis and Graham Central Station were the highlight of the Homecoming concert. The Bison football team had an outstanding 6-1 season and defended Florida A&M in the Orange Bowl.

The '70s were a time of Black pride and strength. We were politically aware of everything, said Edward Lewis, a 1975 graduate.

"Our attitudes even showed in the Homecoming events. Everything had a message that reflected our attitudes.""
Chaka Khan overcomes troubles, pain to embrace her 'Epiphany'

 Veteran performer to headline Homecoming R&B concert

By Alonzo Dennis Angel

Chaka Khan, one of the most revered and beloved performers of her generation, will headline the annual Homecoming R&B concert, set to take place next month.

In an exclusive Hilltop interview, the veteran performer talked about her concerns for the American society — notably in the context of recent events and communities affected by pandemics. Khan, who is known for her powerful vocals and soulful performances, has a deep understanding of the challenges faced by many Americans.

"I think it's important to remember that the pandemic has had a profound impact on our communities, and we must continue to support each other," Khan said. "We must also acknowledge the role that our government can play in ensuring that everyone has equal access to healthcare and resources.""}

Spice Lee succeeds in convincing many to 'Get on the Bus'

Director Spike Lee helps commemorate the one-year anniversary of the Million Man March in "Get on the Bus.

The movie focuses on 13 men, all with different backgrounds and experiences, who decide to attend the Million Man March in Washington, D.C., to address issues affecting African-American communities.

"This movie is a testament to the power of unity and the importance of standing up for what is right," Lee said. "We hope that it inspires others to take action and make a difference in their own communities."
Vendors banned from Sixth Street may miss out on Homecoming game profits

The lack of sports marketing at Howard University is causing frustration among students and athletes.

Homecoming no longer means coming home

Closing of Howard Hotel discourages alumni attendance

Peter Amato
Staff Writer

The Howard Hotel, which was once a hub for alumni gatherings, is now closed and has put a damper on Homecoming festivities.

Carsons, by the way, is having a Homecoming game today.

In order to get the most out of your Homecoming experience, we recommend planning ahead and making reservations in advance. This will help you avoid the long lines and save time.

Many universities have a sports marketing department, and they make sure that students are aware of the events happening on campus. At Howard, there is no such department, which is why students feel left out.

Dazed and confused: the dangerous reality of date rape drug, Rohypnol

By Claire Thomas

At the holiday season, there’s a heightened awareness of the dangers of drug-facilitated sexual assault. As many people spend time partying and enjoying themselves, it’s important to be aware of the potential risks associated with alcoholic beverages and other substances that can impair judgment and decision-making.

Rohypnol is a barbiturate used as a date rape drug. It is a sedative that can cause residual effects, including impaired judgment, memory loss, and lack of coordination. The drug is often added to drinks without the victim’s knowledge, making it difficult to detect or prevent.

Symptoms of Rohypnol overdose include:
- Confusion
- Slurred speech
- Vision problems
- Nausea
- Vomiting
- Inability to stand or walk
- Loss of balance
- Seizures
- Coma

In many states, Rohypnol is illegal to possess or use, but it is still widely available on college campuses. It is often used as a date rape drug because it is easy to obtain and can be added to drinks without the victim’s knowledge.

Here are some tips to help protect yourself:
- Be aware of your drinks at all times.
- Don’t leave your drink unattended.
- Be cautious of people you don’t know.
- Use a safety card or check-in system.

Rohypnol is a dangerous drug that can have serious consequences. If you or someone you know has been affected by Rohypnol, seek help immediately.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

How would you describe GE's work environment? Open, inspiring, charged, fast-paced, non-bureaucratic, apolitical. We think you agree these are particularly appealing adjectives. We believe in being boundaryless. We're taking down walls that divide people, eliminating hierarchies by stripping out bureaucratic process company-wide. And it's working. We are a 70 billion dollar global enterprise whose extremely diverse range of businesses are number one or number two in their market. Others look to us for management best practices, and our financial results have shareholders cheering.

We'll be on campus this Fall. Please check with the Placement Office for more details.

We want to hear from Bachelor and Master's degree candidates. If you are bright, creative, passionate about your work and determined to make things happen, we want you. We know you find these to be particularly appealing qualities.
