Dear Howard Family,

I am truly proud of what we have accomplished in the 2004-2005 Bison Yearbook. It was both a privilege and an honor to contribute to a timeless piece of history that will forever reflect our years at Howard University. This was my way to leave my mark and I am so grateful that I was afforded this opportunity.

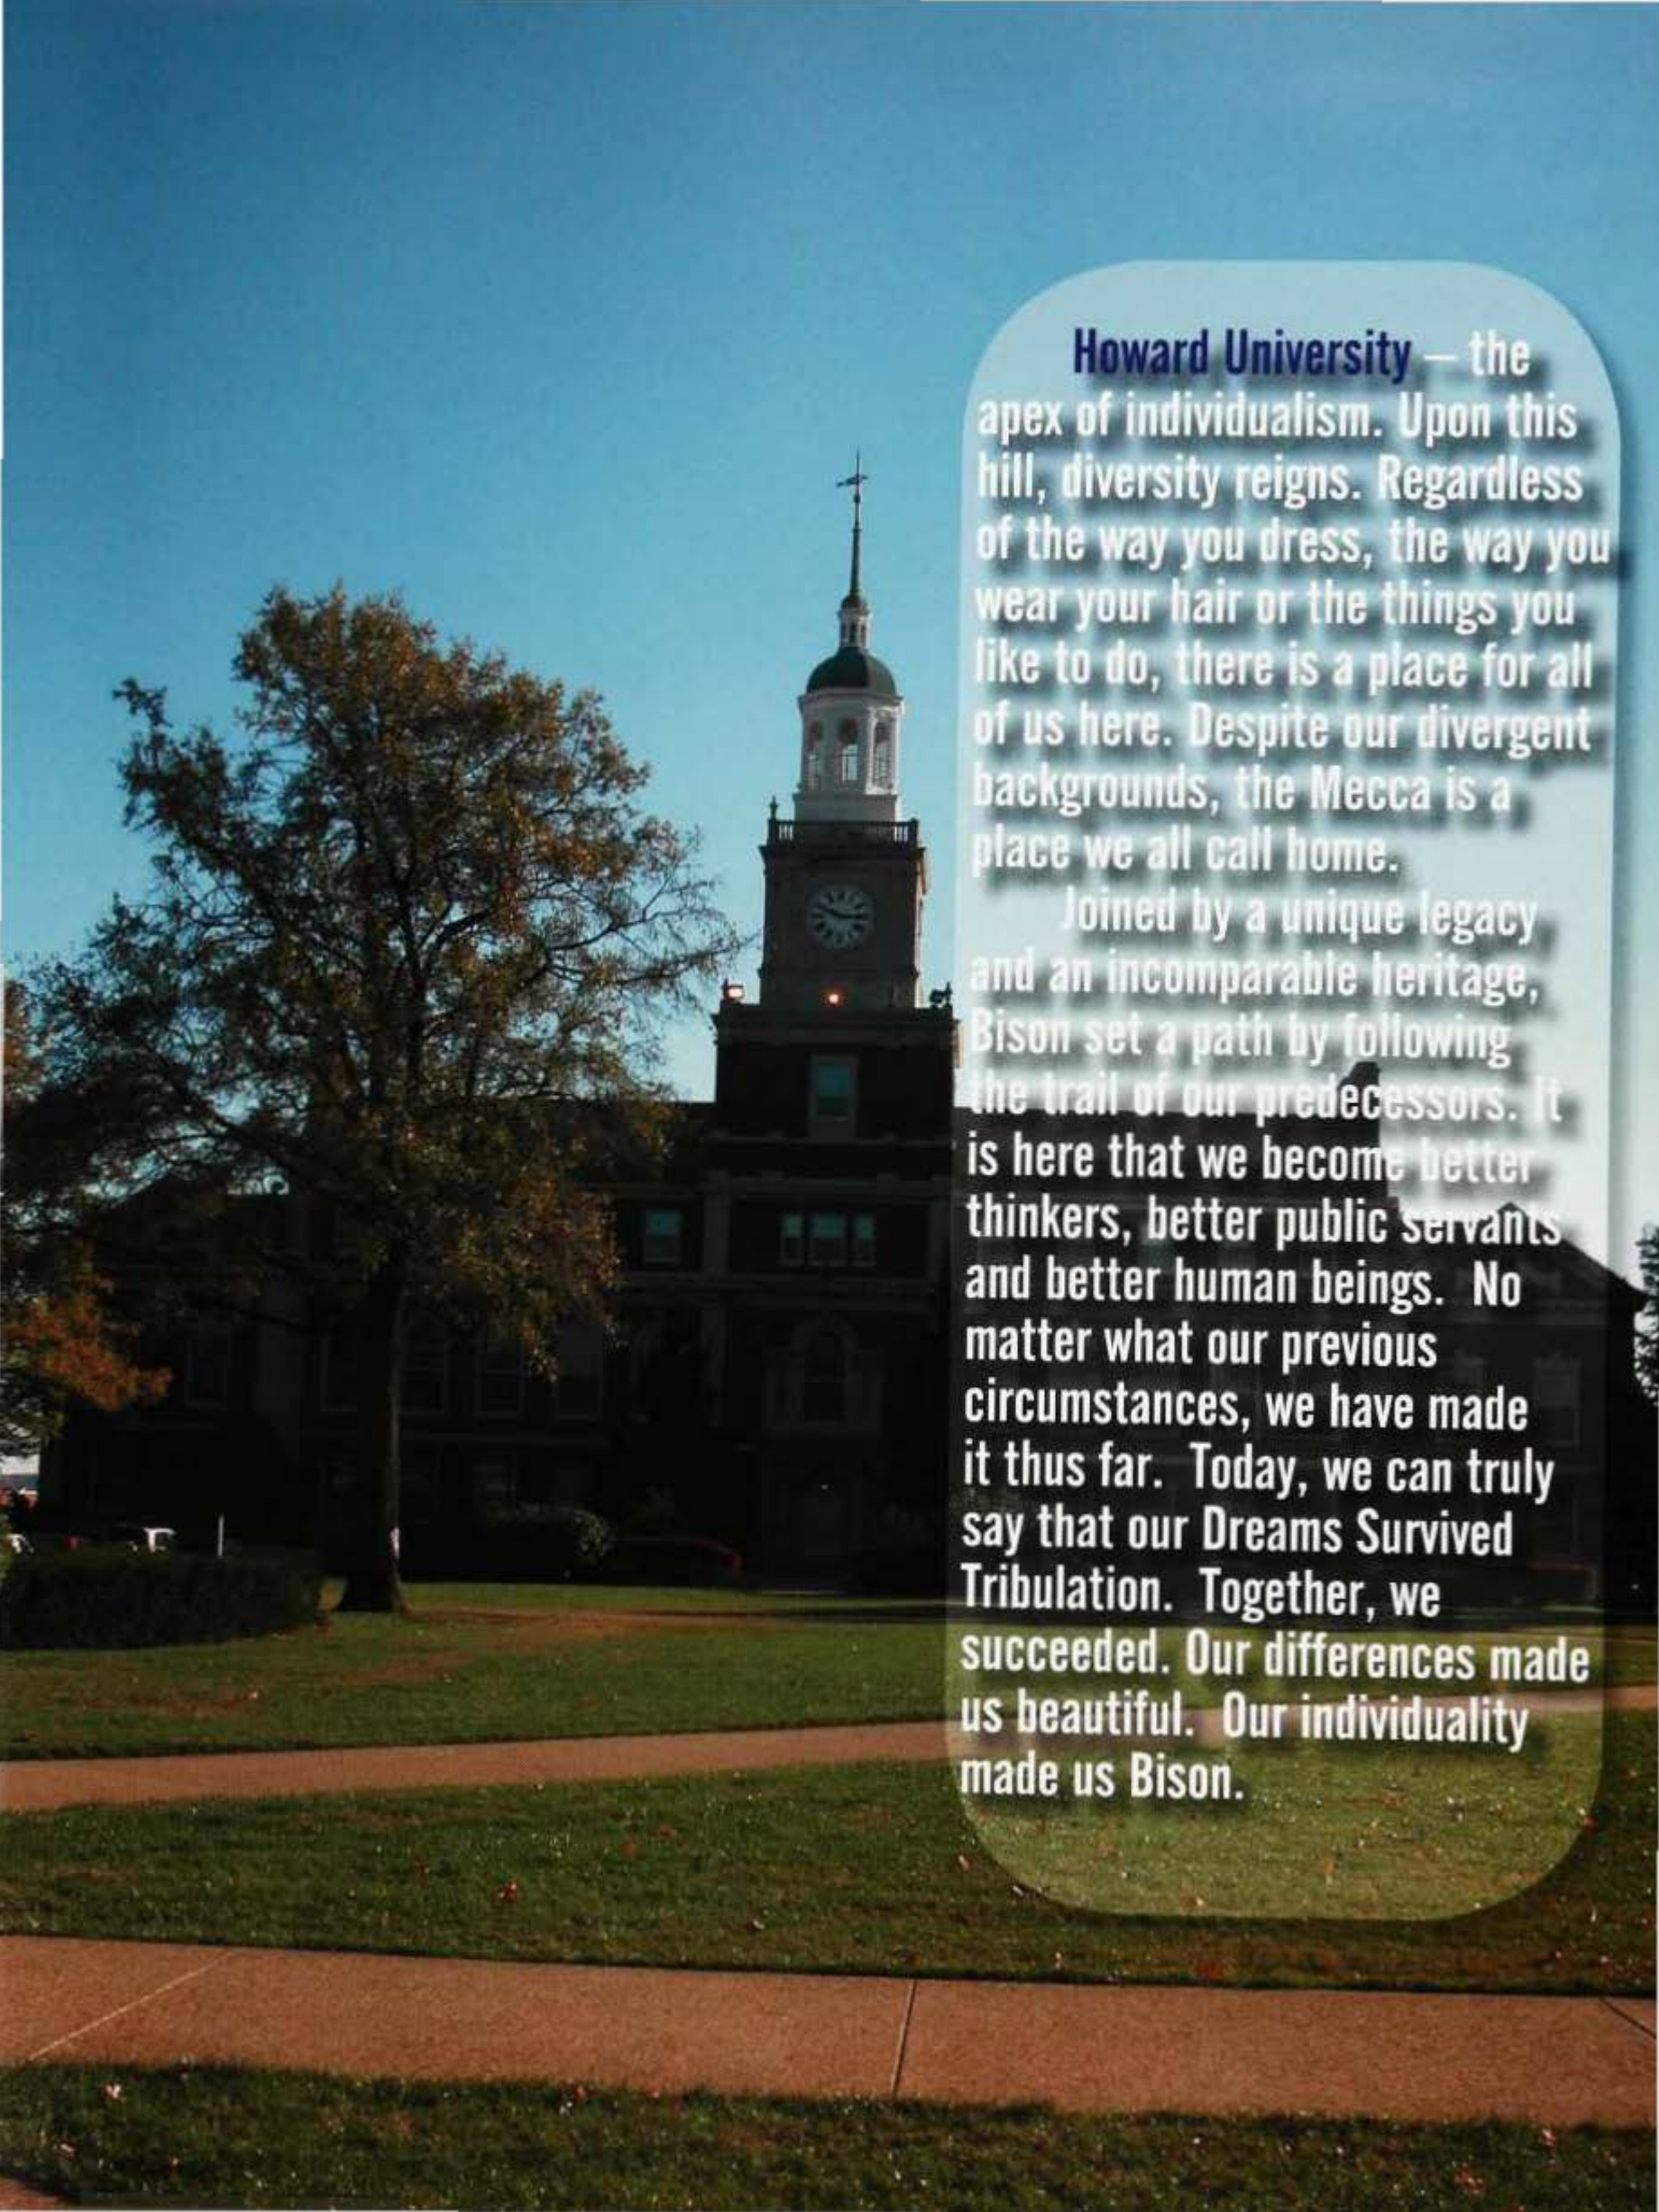

I wanted to do something innovative and exciting with this book that would make it one that truly captures the Howard experience. My objective was to do something that had never been done. With this in mind, I tried to think of something that would illustrate the individuality that makes HU what it is. I also thought about my own interests and goals and ultimately decided on a magazine-style yearbook. What better way to incorporate the many facets of the Howard community than with a magazine? It has always been my goal to run my own magazine one day and I saw the yearbook as my first step to achieving this goal.

I sincerely hope that you all enjoy this book as much as the staff and I enjoyed creating it. To the Class of 2005, farewell and good luck in all of your future endeavors. We did it!

Howard University — the apex of individualism. Upon this hill, diversity reigns. Regardless of the way you dress, the way you wear your hair or the things you like to do, there is a place for all of us here. Despite our divergent backgrounds, the Mecca is a place we all call home.

Joined by a unique legacy and an incomparable heritage, Bison set a path by following the trail of our predecessors. It is here that we become better thinkers, better public servants and better human beings. No matter what our previous circumstances, we have made it thus far. Today, we can truly say that our Dreams Survived Tribulation. Together, we succeeded. Our differences made us beautiful. Our individuality made us Bison.

THE PLAYERS

It was an oddly warm Saturday evening, that eleventh day of September. It was a day of reckoning between two warring factions. The rivalry transcended the chattering of ubiquitous freshmen to the calm, time assured alumni.

By the bus and carloads, red and blue clad Bison made the three-hour trek to Hampton. Their stadium may be newer and the turf a little more fresh, but the Pirates can't match the charge of the Bison spirit.

The "Showtime" marching band and the Bison cheerleaders led the crowd in "B...I...S...O...N..." at a feverish pace. We bombarded the stands without warrant, filling every available seat and some imagined. Fists pumped the air. Empowering signs were raised to the rhythm of soulful chants. The Bison spirit had come out in full force, ready to dominate, ready to take on whatever the ragged pirates had to bring on.

In the beginning it was good. The clouds parted and early Howard touchdowns were scored. We held an early lead against Hampton, strengthened by the yells of the students and spirited Bison cheerleaders. In the end, the scoreboard said it all - final score: Hampton 47, Howard 17. Sure we were scorned by the eighth consecutive loss, but Bison don't dwell in loss. Instead, we rise in victory by remaining united. The Pirates may have robbed us of the gold this time, but there will always be next year.

At Howard, students are known for standing out and being phenomenal. From singers and dancers to rappers and poets, students at Howard are endowed with many talents and abilities that are showcased and honed in campus events and popular venues.

What else can be expected from a school that has nurtured world renowned talents like triple threat Debbie Allen, actress and actor Ossie Davis, former American Idol contestant Frenchie and rapper, actor, producer Sean Combs just to name a few?

Many students get their first start in performing out in front of the live and brutally honest HU audience. At events like the Homecoming Yardfest, Wednesday Nite Live (hosted by campus religious organizations), Jabberwock (hosted by Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Incorporated), the annual Verbal Armageddon (a battle rap competition) and gospel concerts, students showcase their poetry, voices and freestyles. Various pageants on campus are also good venues for performers to shine. The talent portion of the competitions is always phenomenal. THE LIVES OF 3 HOWARD STUDENTS

Mike Sampson- Athlete

Some people think athletes are slackers, but HU track star Mike Sampson knows that isn't true. Sampson has been a part of Howard's track team for four years and still maintains a sense of scholarship. His day begins at 9 a.m. in regular classes, and at 2 a.m. if he has a morning practice. After the morning practice, which consists of short sessions in weight training, stretching, drilling and walking, he will run four laps around the track. Practice may last up to two hours, but on Tuesdays and Thursdays he has all practices that can last over three hours. These practices usually do not end until after 2 p.m. After 5 p.m. he heads back out to practice again, which means more running and more work. All of this is done every day and do it again the next day. With a schedule this tight, Sampson finds it hard to juggle his social life, classes and his track meets. Sampson is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. and a student in the vigorous School of Business. He sparingly gives time to each area of his life and says, "I am focused and motivated." He attempts to be the best at everything that he does and tries to give 100 percent to each activity.

Angela Davis- Mother

Angela Davis is a senior broadcast journalism major. She is also the mother of nine-month old, J-Niah Destiny Davis-Savage. In the daily struggle to triumph as a mother and student, she wakes up early, rushes J-Niah to daycare, then goes to her classes from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and transforms back into a mother as soon as the clock strikes 4 p.m. She then goes to her night job and reunites with Baby J around 9 p.m. Finally at about 10 p.m., she studies, kisses the baby goodnight and gets ready for the next day. Then she says, "I must be prepared for anything and everything." Although it can be very hard, Angela advises other young mothers to pray and to never let your child know or feel the struggle of a single parent, because you are their security. "I listen to Smokie Norful because he gets me through the day," Says Davis. With her degree, Davis hopes to alter the way the world is perceived and open a teen pregnancy center for women who need the guidance and support.

Kevin Harris- Employed

Kevin Harris is a graduate assistant in Cook Hall and works in the Vice Provost for Student Affairs' office under Dr. Franklin D. Chambers. He is also studying to obtain his Doctorate in Educational Leadership and Policy. He hopes to one day be an Urban K-12 Public School Superintendent. Harris is married, but his wife is pursuing her Ph.D. at the University of Georgia, while he is here at Howard. His hectic schedule includes duties as a graduate assistant and working with Student Affairs' operations. He wakes up usually at 5:30 a.m. to prepare for classes and then works in the administration building. Harris finally rests around 11 p.m. after helping students in the dorm and doing course work in his graduate major. He says, "I wouldn't change my schedule because it is important to help others." He advises others to "know yourself as an individual and as a people and give thanks to God for all of your blessings". He said, "In doing so, you develop self confidence and respect, to transition from boyhood to manhood."

THE HIP HOP VOTE

Written by Aarin Williams

2004 promised to be the year of the "Youth Vote" and true enough voting polls around the country experienced turnouts like never before, resulting in a very marginal win for Republican incumbents George W. Bush and Dick Cheney. The controversial Bush-Cheney, Kerry-Edwards face-off for the presidential election, caused a surprising influx of popular culture icons to speak out on hot topic issues like abortion, the war in Iraq, and national security. From right-winged conservatives to left-winged liberals, rappers, actors, musicians, and under 25ers around the country, popular figures have delved into the exclusive realm of politics.

From Black Youth Vote, to HU's own Sean "P. Diddy" Comb's ever-present Citizen Change, voter registration groups became strong images on Scion helped "Drive the Vote" by taking students to their voting polls.

Howard's campus. Recently named among the most politically active college campuses by Mother Jones magazine, students at Howard became increasingly involved and vocal about their stances on political issues, the presidential candidates and what they represented.

For undecided, skeptical and first-time voters, several student organizations sponsored events that informed them about the issues and the candidates. The NAACP sponsored a voter registration drive, the Howard University Student Association, organized a week of events to encourage political awareness, and the Hilltop featured articles on each candidate, the debates, and the issues that concerned our nation and the black community. It is no wonder Howard students are so politically active on and off campus.

Demanding to be heard and represented, political groups aimed towards minorities and young people have used every Generation X stigma to get the word out that voting is necessary. From television specials, jam packed concerts, "Vote or Die" paraphernalia, commercials, posters, and politically charged movies, a were generated for what was labeled the "most important election of our lives". The hip hop and pop generations have proven that they can surpass fashion, movies, and television by using different avenues to reach out to the youth of America and encourage them to exercise their right and power to vote.

While Howard students love the Punch Out and Georgia Ave. provides standard quick and convenient eateries, sometimes an occasion calls for a meal away from the bustle of campus. DC offers many restaurants that Howard students can venture to and experience a unique environment.

In the age where coffee houses are becoming an ever-popular trend, Tryst and Teasim are alternatives to the overplayed Starbucks. Tryst offers coffee and an array of great foods including fresh salads and grilled sandwiches named after regular customers. Teasim's chai is brewed fresh and gives chai lovers something a little more authentic. The restaurant offers a comfortable laid-back atmosphere that is particularly quiet in the afternoons. The small menu offers an array of amazing Indian, Thai and Japanese curries and other Japanese foods.

More exotic food can be found at Thaiphon in Dupont Circle, a restaurant with food as bright and splashy as its decor. Flavorful Thai dishes like the honey-roasted duck and Mai Thai excite many taste buds.

For a festive evening, Lauriol Plaza, a Tex-Mex restaurant that overlooks 18th street, has an amazing, upbeat ambiance and great margaritas. When a night of quick food is needed, Hogs on the Hill offers delicious Bar-B-Que, without all the effort.

Students say U-topia, on U St., offers a dining experience that plays into all of the senses. Listen to live Jazz on Wednesday nights and weekends and view the vibrant artwork and Moroccan decor in this house-turned-restaurant. The menu includes chicken pecan, lamb, an array of pastas and the "Chef's Advice" pasta dish.

Whether you're doing it up for a night out or just looking for a place to chill, DC offers a wonderful variety of restaurants outside Blackburn Center.

Sophomore advertising major Lauren Johnson put it best when she said, "Every once in awhile you need a change of scenery and some real food that's not from the cafeteria."

U-TOPIA PROVIDES A PERFECT AMBIANCE FOR A NIGHT OUT!

"Whether you're doing it up for a night out or just looking for a place to chill, DC offers a wonderful variety of restaurants outside Blackburn Center."

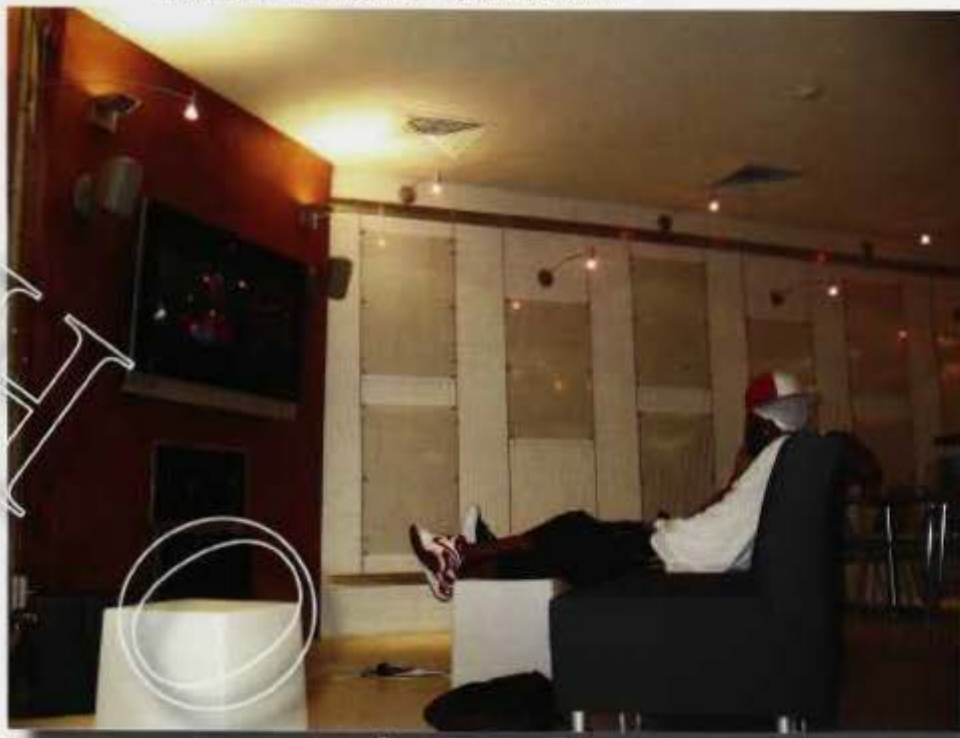

PUNCH

“A Different World” had the Pit, Hillman’s beloved lunchtime hot spot.

Here at Howard, our version is the Punch Out, Howard’s unofficial “upperclassmen only” alternative to the cafeteria. The Punch Out serves not only as a place for students to eat but also as a campus hangout.

Remember grabbing a Bison Burger, chicken finger combo or fruit cup all while catching up with friends in a cozy booth? Whenever students needed an escape — whether it was before class, after class or even during class times — they could head over to the Punch Out. Because the Punch Out has played host to many memorable events at the Mecca, it was only fitting that a place of such necessity to students adopt a new look that is befitting of its title.

This guy takes time to relax on the couch in front of the big screen in between classes.

Here is a look at the new state of the art stage for open mics and performances.

The Punch Out is now complete with great food, an even better ambiance and state of the art technology!!!

This year, the Punch Out has undergone an amazing renovation that has been long overdue. It has finally received a look that is reflective of its status as a Howard hangout. Gone is the cafeteria-style, single food station and in its place are three new commercial eateries: Chick-fil-A, Pandini's and the Sky Ranch Grill.

Students now enter the Punch Out and are welcomed by a bigger, brighter environment. The walls are no longer wood-paneled, but sport a more inviting white color. Even the flooring has undergone change, with its solid white base sprinkled with splashes of vibrant colors. The cushiony booth and stylish chairs provide a new level of comfort for those who dine in. With new lighting, new seating, and new colors, the Punch Out has become young and hip – truly reflective of its patrons. In addition to these changes, the new Punch Out has three high-tech plasma screen TVs that play movies, music and music videos, instead of just one big-screen TV that was always turned to BET.

But even this change was accompanied by drawbacks and discomforts. Regardless of this, no matter what its color, what food it serves, or how many TVs it has, the Punch Out will continue to be a place where Howard students eat, hangout and complete their Capstone experience.

HOOTERS

WRITTEN BY: FELICIA N. CRABTREE AND JESYCE WESTBROOK

TIMES ARE HARD. FOR MANY COLLEGE STUDENTS, TIMES ARE REALLY HARD, ESPECIALLY WHEN FINANCIAL AID HAS FAILED YOU, THE OFFICE OF ENROLLMENT MANAGEMENT HAS THREATENED TO PURGE YOUR CLASSES, YOU NEED MONEY FOR BOOKS AND YOUR REFRIGERATOR IS BEGINNING TO LOOK PRETTY VACANT. "HOW ON EARTH AM I GOING TO SURVIVE?"

Sure, Mom and Dad are always there for financial support, right? Wrong! Who are we kidding? Junior child and adolescence development major, Arin Olds, was in a similar state a year ago. However, she took matters into her own hands and got a job.

Not just any job, either. Arin took a job as a waitress at a nearby Hooters restaurant. What started out as a joke turned out to be a very successful business venture.

FOR THE LOW

“Working there creates a misconception, but ultimately I am just a waitress.”

“Despite what many people think, working at Hooters has created a great networking opportunity for me, it pays extremely well, and it’s very flexible with my schedule.”

Although it has its perks, it has its disadvantages as well. She says, “Working there creates a misconception, but ultimately I am just a waitress.”

Many know him simply as D.J. Premonition, but senior broadcast journalism major, Cubie Coleman, had the feeling that some good money was about to come his way when he first decided to get into DJing. He said, "I saw that there were many opportunities at Howard to gain exposure and make the crowd move." While he initially did gigs for free during his freshman and sophomore year, he is now the record spinner in demand for events like the Homecoming fashion show and Spring Yardfest..

Starving students have found that when it comes to bringing in the cash flow, sometimes you gotta use what you got to get what you want.

Some students have opted to participate in psychology experiments or have donated bone marrow in order to make quick money. Senior legal communications major Chanelle Dumas says of her experience donating bone marrow, "It wasn't as painful as I thought, but I would never do it again, because it left permanent scars." She adds, "but the money was so good!" Starving students have found that when it comes to bringing in the cash flow, sometimes you gotta use what you got to get what you want.

The newly crowned Mr. and Miss Howard pose for the paparazzi.

Written by Joy Moreland and Jesyca Westbrook

The theme of this year's Mr. and Miss Howard Pageant, "When We Think of Home, We Think of a Place..." was derived from a line in the musical, The Wiz. The theme was incorporated to bring back the returning spirit of Homecoming. As the first homecoming event of the week, the pageant set the tone for the rest of the week.

The pageant opened to the voice of "The Wizard," aka Olu Burell, welcoming the capacity filled crowd and the contestants running down the aisles in

"Now that I am the new Miss Howard University, I want to be here for the students. I hope I can make a big difference as I serve as Miss Howard '04-'05."

inspired costumes, including Dorothy, the Tin Man, the Lion and the Scarecrow.

The talent portion of the pageant showcased the many talents and abilities in the HU community. One contestant roller-skated, one sang in monologue. Sophomore Melissa Jones said, "Everyone had great, unique talents and I enjoyed it all."

Laura Brown, who performed and lip-synched to Tina Turner, said, "I was very excited throughout the show, but I felt on stage, the excitement from the crowd really made it easy for me.”

Some celebrity judges included former Howard students, A.J. Calloway, co-host of BET's 106 and Park and Camille McDonald, model on Season 2 of America's Next Top Model. Contestants stated their individual platforms, dazzled in their evening gowns and tuxedos and answered tough questions from the judges.

Once the time came for the new Mr. and Miss Howard to be announced, Phillip Murray and Laura Brown were crowned. Brown said, “Now that I am the new Miss Howard University, I want to be here for the students. I hope I can make a big difference as I serve as Miss Howard '04-'05.”

Pageant Coordinator, Holland Diana Johnson said, “The best part about the pageant was seeing it all coming together.”

Coronation Ball

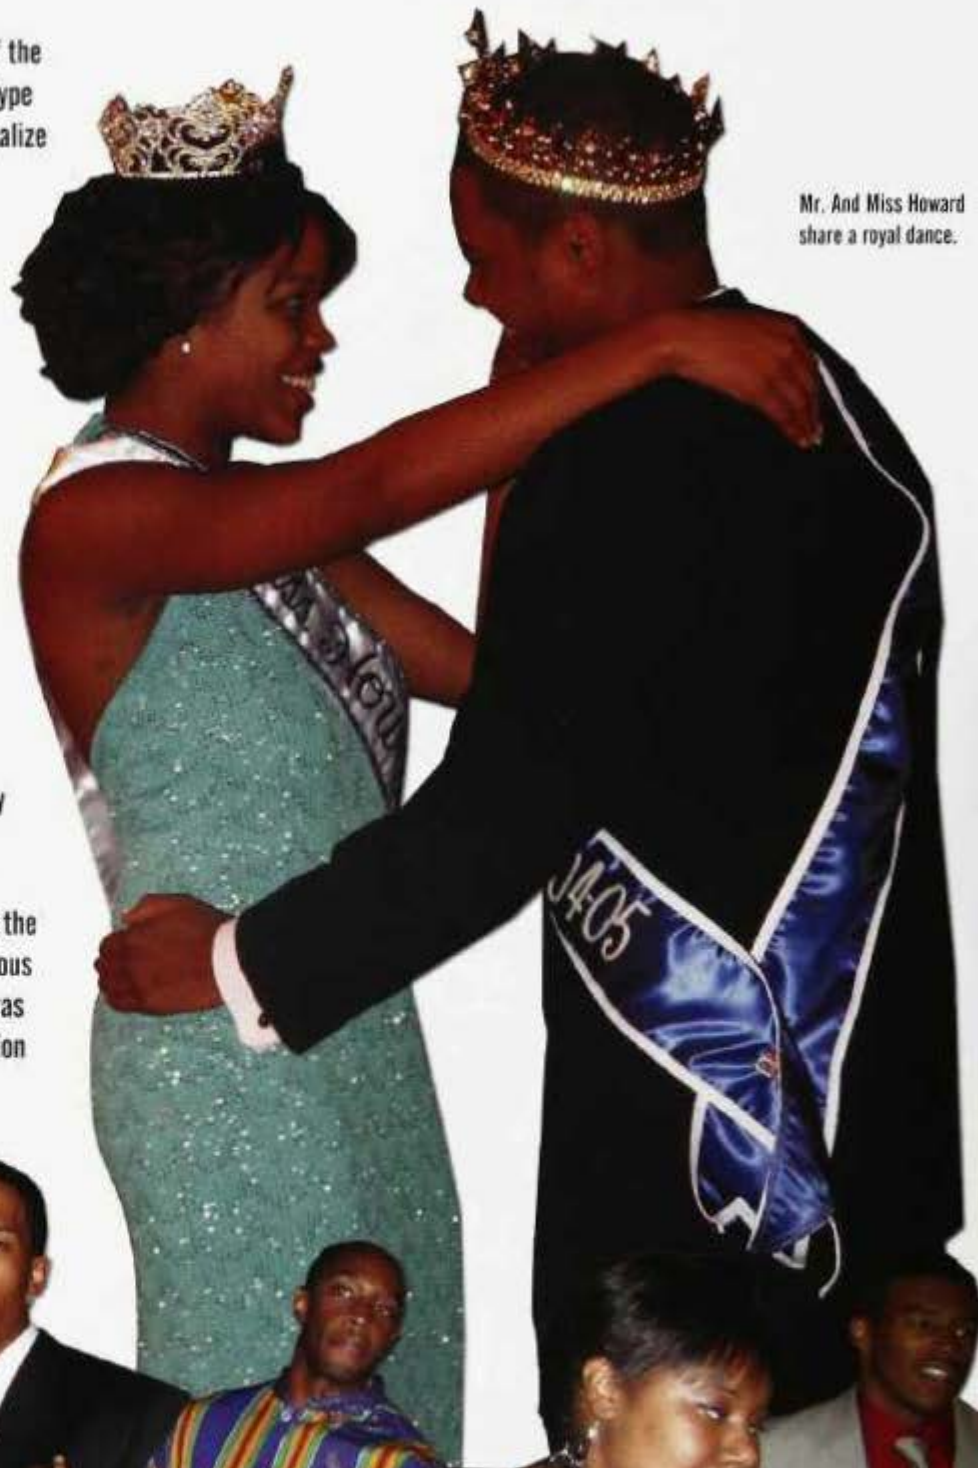

Written by Nakisha Williams

Instead of stepping out on a red carpet, students "followed the yellow brick road" to the Coronation Ball. Attendees in glittering dresses and dapper suits were welcomed to the "Emerald City" following the "Wizard of Oz" theme for the Mr. And Miss Howard Pageant.

Coordinator Kia Wood worked especially hard to tie in the theme of the pageant. "The goal of Coronation Ball this year was to have some type of continuity from the pageant," she said. "People don't usually realize that the Ball is supposed to be a celebration and presentation of Mr. and Miss Howard."

Crowned and adorned in their sashes, each representative from the homecoming court made their grand entrance into the ballroom. Then, as the new Mr. and Miss Howard University, Phillip Murray and Laura Brown ascended to the podium, the crowd gave a standing ovation. They shared the first dance to Stevie Wonder's "Ribbon in the Sky" as the crowd looked on and later cut a Wizard of Oz inspired cake. "I attended the ball last year, but in a little different position," chuckled the new Mr. Howard, Phillip Murray.

DJ Premonition, took it back with the Cha Cha Slide and the Bunny Hop as everyone joined the royalty on the dance floor. It didn't matter that the crowd was dressed up, they still found a way to cut a rug to the intertwining mix of Southern crunk, NY flavor, California beats, splash of reggae and a session of slow songs for lovers only. While some got their groove on, others opted to sit at the tables and mingle as they enjoyed the hors' d'ourves. Unlike previous years, the event remained packed until the lights came on and it was time to go. Miss Howard, Laura Brown summed up everyone's opinion of the night by saying, "Tonight has really been a lot of fun."

Gospel Come

Written by Natasha Williams

"Amen!", "Hallelujah!", "Thank you Jesus!" were shouted all through Cramton Auditorium during the 2004 Homecoming Gospel Concert, "Rebirth: Time 4 Restoration, which featured singer Lisa McClendon. The Howard University Gospel Choir, delivered a powerful performance, singing, "Work on Me" by Tonex and "Manifest" by Jonathan Nelson. Seattle native, Benir Pierre, read poetry and spoke of the importance of recognizing God's love and faithfulness. The Howard University Bisonettes Dance Ensemble graced the stage and danced to Kirk Franklin's "Hosanna". Dressed in all black, the Alpha Omega Steppers for Christ danced and stepped while preaching "Jesus is the center of my life." Other performances were by God's Image, a R&B styled quartet and the Living Stone Worship and Arts Ministry.

Headliner Lisa McClendon, sang five songs from her solo album, My Diary, Your Life. It is infused with a spiritual, yet neo-soul and afro-centric style. McClendon's mission is to speak about issues that people often try to sugar coat like premarital sex, divorce and lying. She told the crowd, "I'm here to take the sugar off and call it what it is." Her songs included "Still Alive" and "Stuck", a song about working through marriages and relationships.

In between performances, McClendon gave testimony of what she went through in college. "When I was younger I had to deal with low self-esteem and the spirit of rejection," she said. "I learned how to be a chameleon, because I would change who I was just so people would like me. I realized that I didn't know who I was, because I was trying to please other people."

In the end, the host, Vance Henderson, encouraged the crowd to carry out the messages they heard and find happiness in God, saying, "You need to know that God took his time to make you and you are wonderfully made; God don't make no junk!"

Members of the HU community including the Bisonettes Dance Ensemble, the HU Gospel Choir and the Living Stone Worship and Arts Ministry delivered performances worthy of praise!

COMEDY SHOW

Written by Jesyca Westbrook

The comedy show, titled Comedy TKO: Punch Line... Knockout... Game Over, left many attendees feeling like they had just been in a fight. Some complained that their stomachs hurt while others left with teary eyes - all from laughing too much.

The stage was set up like a boxing ring complete with ropes and a ceiling mike. Homecoming staff members wore referee jerseys and a big screen behind the ring showed replays of famous knockout matches like Ali vs. Frazier. Sexy ring girls announced each round, and host Damon Williams announced each of the main comics, Roland Powell and Michael Blackson along with special guest, Red Grant.

The show was a part of the "Stand Up for Freedom" tour sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union and a rep started the show with a serious message and startling statistics about the state of black youth today. This simmered the light-hearted mood, but only for a minute. Then, HU's own D.J. Premonition hyped up the crowd with hits representing both coasts and all areas in between.

This was host, Damon Williams's second time at HU and he began by talking about white students, gays and Greeks. When he asked which Greek organization the fat girls belonged to, Williams said, "You know that group, "I Eta Pi." The other comedians delivered jokes with soft punches that some in the audience appreciated. Roland Powell, aka, Lil' Duvall, came out with a comedy rap routine in which he changed the words to some hit songs. When no one laughed at his joke, he rapped, "If you don't think I'm funny, I don't give a what" over Lil Jon's beat. Red Grant, a DC native, told a few jokes, however the funniest part of his routine was the sound of his own laughter.

Michael Blackson, famous for a cameo in "Next Friday" and many appearances on BET's "Comic View" played up his African heritage and made being African, tall and dark funny. Audience members left the show saying his signature phrase, "mutasucka".

Comedy Show coordinator, LaKeisha Hill, said, "My hard work paid off in a major way." She said that she had been working on the theme and the general concept for the show since last February.

Coordinator Danie Rae said her Campus Pal friends and their variety show inspired the nine-segment show.

The theme "Too Hot For TV" was clearly an understatement as the audience tuned into watch "Sex and the City", the first fashion episode of the night. In the "Sex and the City" segment were the styles of the year, inspired by the hit TV show. Leather-clad models, Phallon Kimpson and Japonica Gilbert strutted down the catwalk to Usher's "Bad Girl." Celebrity model Lloyd, caused the female audience members to explode as he glided down the aisle with two beautiful models adorned in glitter makeup in the shape of butterflies.

VH1's "I Love the 80's" was on channel 2. "Walk This Way" by Run-DMC and Aerosmith, threw the crowd into a world of spandex, mohawks, big hair, and bright blue eye shadow. Male models Aaron Beemer and Thurston Haynes came out with popped collars and spray cans. As the channel surfing continued, the audience watched the hit reality show "Survivor". The exotic and alluring world of the Amazon jungle caused the models to sashay down the runway in a snake like style. The models' outfits were accessorized with live pythons draped across shoulders and necks, iguanas decorating arms like bracelets, and large colorful parrots adorning their fingers.

Keeping in line with the 2004 election, the next channel was self-explanatory: "The Revolution Will NOT Be Televised". "We are P.O.Ws", "Buck Fash", "Where Do You Stand?", and "Each 1 Teach 1" signs were carried down the runway by models clothed in this year's popular "Vote or Die" t-shirts, airbrushed jeans and midriff bearing tops, as Jadakiss's hit song "Why?" played in the background

The "Too Hot for TV" marathon ended with the futuristic moves, music and clothing of Star Trek. The two male models, Gamole Armstrong and Sabrina Blue, surprised the crowd as they dressed as women strutting down the aisle, and ripped off their wigs, exposing their 'true' identity. As the audience dispersed, it became evident that this year's Fashion Show was the most innovative and exciting in years. Anyone in attendance to either of the two shows can agree, with the dance breaks, celebrity models, live accessories, and the stripper-like performance at the very end, this was the event of Homecoming!

Despite the cold rainy weather and muddy grass, students, alumni, friends and family gathered on the Yard for the 2004 Homecoming Yardfest, which featured rap artists Trick Daddy, Gorilla Black, I-20, Mr. Cheeks, Xzibit, and neo-soul artist Raheem Devaughn. Trick Daddy represented for Miami and kept the crowd moving while he performed two songs from his new album, "Married to the Streets" including "Let's Go," his newest collaboration with Lil John and Twista. He also performed old hits, "Thug Holiday" and "Nann," a hit he popularized with Trina.

New West coast sensation, Gorilla Black of Virgin Records, performed three songs and did some freestyle, while Raheem Devaughn, of DC wooed the ladies with his new single, "Guess Who Loves You More" and handed out free CD's to promote his album. R&B singer Lyfe performed two songs from of his album 268-192, which included "My Life" and a song that has been featured on BET called, "Stick up Kid."

Mr. Cheeks also performed two songs from his upcoming album, "Ladies and Ghattomen" and the crowd rapped along with him to "Lights Camera Action." Relatively unknown rappers from near and far got the chance to perform for the massive HU crowd. Groups including "Future" from DC, "H2" of Houston and "Holla Point" from Mississippi all promoted their rap songs and catchy beats.

The Bison football team and the "Showtime" Marching Band even participated in a pep-rally before the game the following day. Among other guests appearances that day were Lloyd, Russell Simmons, LL Cool J, New Edition, Juvenile, and P. Diddy. People showed their support for vendors who sold everything from Greek paraphernalia, to African inspired jewelry, paintings and clothing. The aroma of delicious West Indian, Asian and Southern cuisine permeated the Yard as the rainy afternoon skies cleared up just in time for the end of the celebration.

R&B AND REGGAE CONCERT

Performers including Bungi Garlin, John Legend, Keyshia Cole and Anthony Hamilton had something for everyone from Soca to Neo-Soul and everything in between.

Written by Shara D. Taylor

Students filed into Cramton Auditorium for a sold-out show to remember. They heard the sounds of rhythm and blues crooner Anthony Hamilton, industry newcomer John Legend, and new artist Keyshia Cole.

Hosted by WHUR on-air personalities, Tony Richards and George Wilborne, the show opened with Keyshia Cole performing a few songs from her upcoming album, "The Way It Is" including new hit, "I Changed My Mind," "Never" and "I Should've Cheated," a song that especially got applause from the women in the audience. Although new to the scene, she is starting to burn up the charts and was well received by the Howard audience.

John Legend, alone on stage with just a piano and microphone, reminded the audience of his numerous guest appearances on other artists' songs, including Kanye West, Alicia Keys, and Jay-Z. Many people in the audience were surprised by some of the big name songs he had already performed on. He gave the audience a preview of his potential star power as he performed new songs from his debut album, "Get Lifted" including a new hit, "I Used to Love You." Freshman Jason Withers said, "His piano ability was amazing, that guy is definitely going to blow up, he was so good."

The main attraction of the night was Anthony Hamilton. He wowed the audience with his soulful performance, complete with a live band and backup singers who were as impressive as Hamilton himself. As he left the stage and made his way into the audience multiple times, he broke the barrier between the musical artist and the attendees and made the show more personal and intimate. He ended the show by reminding everyone to love themselves and each other.

Later that night, the Caribbean Student Association co-hosted the reggae concert at DC Tunnel. The jammin' party was hosted by DJs Renaissance and Glamour Wayne of Jamaica. Bungi Garlin, a Trinidadian soca artist performed live. The Caribbean Explosion Reggae Concert carried on until the wee hours of the morning and was considered a major success by the packed crowd in the nightclub.

Generations of the Howard Community gathered for the most live Homecoming Parade yet!

Homecoming

Written by Shara D. Taylor

With the floats, bands and parade beginning in front of the administration building at Howard Place and moving down Georgia Avenue, the annual Homecoming parade gave the surrounding Shaw community residents and their families an opportunity to participate in the Homecoming festivities. Gray skies and cool temperatures could not deter parade onlookers as they gathered on Georgia Avenue to see Homecoming grand marshals, LL Cool J and old school R&B group New Edition, lead the celebration.

Leading the festivities were the Howard University "Showtime" Marching Band, some of their alumni band members, the Ooh La La girls and the Flashy Flag Squad following closely behind them. The parade was the kick-off to the activity-filled day. Riding in convertible cars, the 2004-2005 Homecoming Court in their sashes and glittering crowns, waved to the cheering crowds of children, alumni, students and friends.

The processional also included Howard student organizations this year. Groups including the Texas Club, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Incorporated, Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity, and Vizion Performance Team had representatives present. Parade coordinator, Joy E. Moreland, was especially pleased with their participation. She said that she extended the invitation to participate in the parade to many campus organizations to create more visibility for them and to forge a deeper connection between the campus organizations and the Shaw community. Other organizations that participated were the District of Columbia Fire Department, the Antique Car Club, and the local Shriners organization.

Lining the sidewalks along the usually congested street, parade attendees saw local high school marching bands, middle school majorettes, and ROTC squadrons exhibit their musical abilities, dancing talents, and precision skills. Because there were so many people standing on the sidewalks, some attendees found rest and refuge on the brick walls along the edge of campus. Although they disappeared quickly behind the low-hanging clouds, 1,867 blue, white, and red balloons, representing the founding year of Howard, were released into the air at the conclusion.

HOMECOMING GAME

This Drum Major leads the "Cher-isse" Marching Band to "Drive It Like It's Hot"

Written by Shanel Knox

Every year, the stands are filled to capacity with students and alumni. Then the game is broadcast on jumbo-tron to hundreds more on the Yard. The whole Homecoming week gears up for the game as everyone crosses their fingers for a win. Alumni Ooh La La dancers performed with the band as former Cheerleaders proved that they could still "Shake it." The Homecoming half-time show was the delight of the game with a tribute to R&B group, New Edition and L. L. Cool J, who nodded his head on the sidelines. The band took the crowd back to the 80s and mixed in some new hits. The Ooh La La dancers, dazzled with a "Caribbean Carnival" inspired theme, complete with red bikini costumes and feathered head dress. Back on the field, victory leaned toward the Bison early when Roland "Jay" Colbert rushed 75 yards at the beginning of the first half, putting the Bison on the scoreboard. However, this was not the end for Colbert. With less than seven minutes on the clock in the second quarter, he answered to the Spartans' rushing 42-yards, giving the Bison a lead of 14-7 at half time. The punt attempt by Norfolk State's Antonio Gomez was blocked by Carl Alleyene and recovered in the in zone for a touchdown by senior Fred Turner. Senior Mike Sanders led the Bison with four assists and six tackles, Antoine Bethea had seven tackles and three pass breakups, and senior Brian Johnson contributed six tackles. Jay Colbert ended with a career high of 197-yards and four touchdowns contributing significantly to the Bison 35-17 victory over Norfolk State! When it was all said and done, the Bison held their heads high and walked out of Greene Stadium to bright skies and another homecoming victory under their belts.

“Titan-O-Machia”

Written by Shara D. Taylor

They came. They battled. They conquered.

Students, alumni, and friends packed into the DC Armory to witness the Divine Nine Greek Pan-Hellenic organizations clash in the “Titan-O-Machia” step show. When the smoke cleared, the ladies of Alpha Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Incorporated and the gentlemen of Kappa Chi Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Incorporated stood victoriously. The Beta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and the visiting Alpha Phi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated won second place in the fraternity and sorority divisions.

Posing the question “Who’s next?” the devastating Deltas based their show on a Samurai theme and secured their fourth straight win at the Homecoming step show. Their complex and precise moves had the crowd riveted. The Kappas claimed the title for the third consecutive time as they opened their show to “Overnight Celebrity” with a Miri Ben Ari look-alike violinist and a virtually flawless kane routine.

As the men of Iota Phi Theta Fraternity, Incorporated, DC City Chapter swung machetes at each other’s heads and stomped so hard they shook the stage, the brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Incorporated, Beta Chapter “Remembered the Time” when they were pharaohs and sphinxes as they donned Egyptian garments.

The brothers of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Incorporated, Alpha Chapter dedicated their show to fraternity members they lost in the past year while completing their impossible mission into brotherhood. They showed the crowd that Kappas aren't the only brothers to use canes.

Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Incorporated, Alpha Chapter executed lively, traditional steps while encouraging everyone to vote in the 2004 presidential election. The Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority step team from New York City showed their disdain for the other sororities and fought off the "haters." BE INSIGHTFUL

HOWARD: A PROJECTION OF REALITY OR A UTOPIC FANTASY?

Written by Shara D. Taylor

At Howard, nearly everyone is black, successful, doing big things and making moves. You feel as if you have no choice but to succeed as well. Your best friend runs the Howard University Student Association. That girl in your African-American literature class is campus editor at The Hilltop. The majority of your professors and administrators possess a hue similar to yours. Even the president of the University is black. In short, you are a part of a place run by your people and found a family away from home.

Students from across the Diaspora have come to share in the HU experience. They have come from all corners of the universe including: Trinidad, New York, Nigeria, California, Jamaica, and Texas, yet you all have one common goal: continue the Howard legacy.

All of you take pride in the other's accomplishments. You support and encourage each other in many ways and you understand the challenges and struggles that your classmates face on and off campus. This is the life. I could live like this forever, you think to yourself everyday as you walk across the Yard. Could you stay in this place, forever? Could you really remain in this black utopia for the rest of your life?

When you step outside the confines of Howard's boundaries, reality hits you - HARD. You are taken aback as you realize that the last four years of your life have been spent among some of the most exceptional black students in the world. However, outside of these gates there are very few like you leading the world. You have transformed from the majority to the minority.

You wish you could coil up and return to the cocoon of Howard that has protected and nurtured, accepted and encouraged you, but you can't. You must refuse to turn back. Though Howard has sheltered you to an extent, being here has also challenged you to look at yourself, grow and figure out your rightful place in the world. Howard helps you find leadership in America and the global community. All you have to do now is claim it.

IMAGINE HOWARD WITHOUT THE YARD...

By Shara D. Taylor

Aside from the one or two students darting across the rugged landscape to reach their destinations, the "Yard" is deserted. Students hustle across the main quadrangle from class to class.

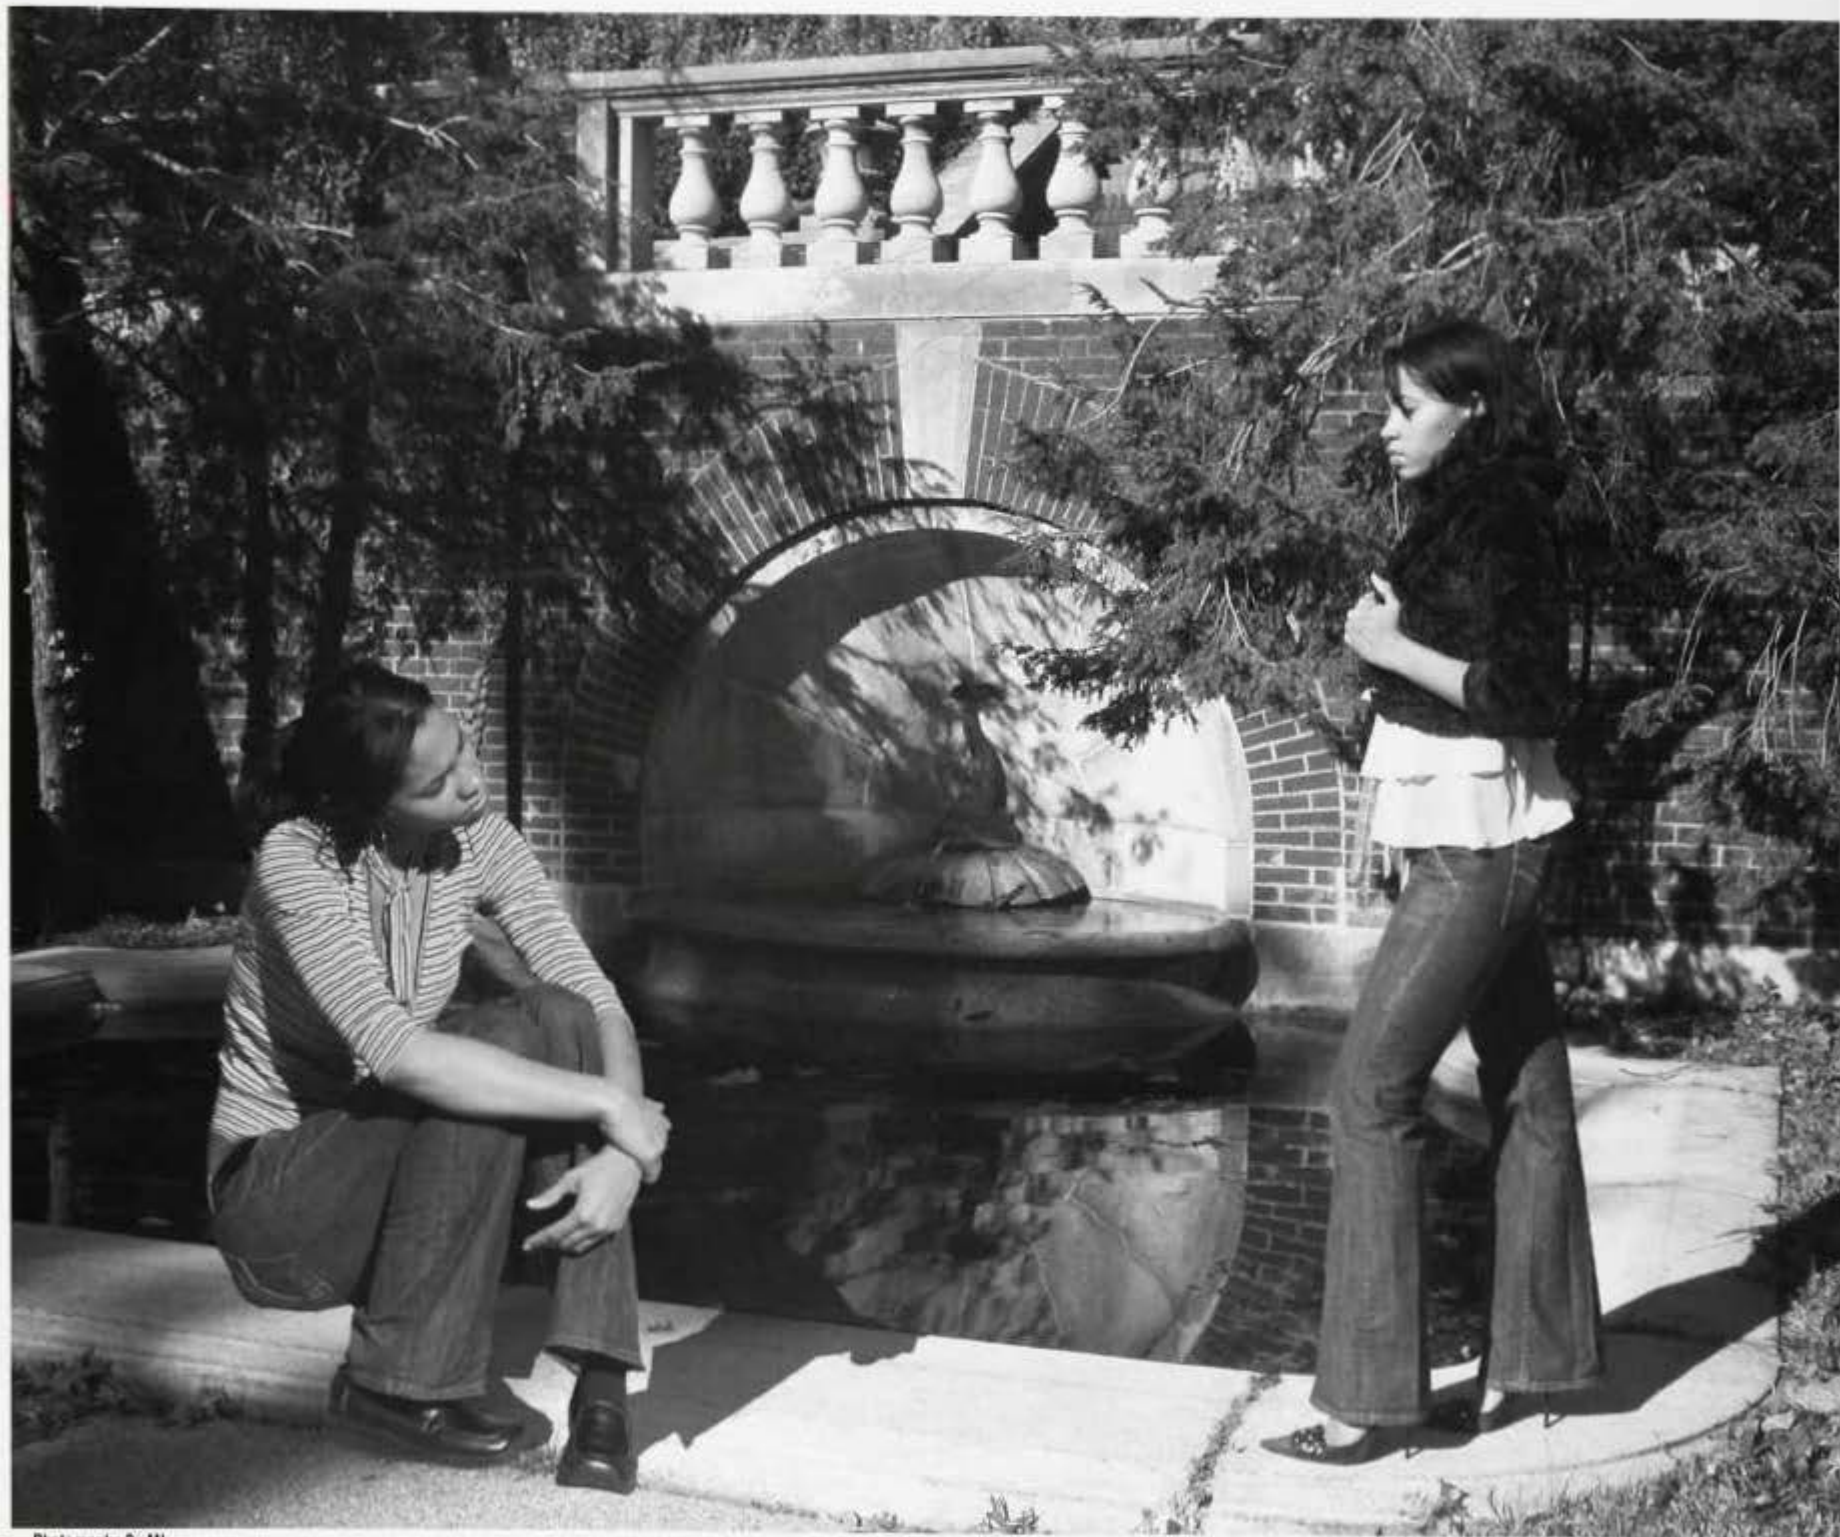

Welcome to the Mecca, where the "Yard" is not plush and green, but rather dried and yellow. The concept of an outdoor communal spot remains nothing more than an imagination.

The campus is devoid of the Ganja clique, who spend most of their time getting "lifted" on the side of Douglass Hall. The Yardfest as well as other Homecoming events are held in Cramton Auditorium. Thousands of attendants cram into the auditorium's tight space. They stand nose to nose with their favorite rapper and no less than a nanometer from their closest neighbor. The Commencement ceremony is held in Burr Gymnasium (all schools, all together, all at the same time).

There are no "Fridays on the Yard." No Greeks posted or hopping at their plots or paying homage to their founders. No international students honing their soccer skills. No freshman women modeling the latest styles.

On this campus, who needs to sit idly on the Yard and exchange sweet nothings with friends? What university in their right mind would provide a place for their scholars to party, protest, study and socialize? What school would want to provide their students with a venue to host snowball fights and water balloon battles? The students at Howard decide to leave the frivolities of life to other, less "cultured" college students.

"AAAGGGHHH!!!!!!" I scream as I fall from my bed onto the carpet-covered concrete floor of the West Towers, jolted out of my sleep by the sounds of someone blasting the newest Hip-Hop anthem. A feeling of relief pervades my body as I realize that I was only having a bad dream. The Yard is still there in all its grandeur and glory. Howard's center and lasting landscape remains unchanged.

TO THINE OWN SELF BE TRUE

By Nakisha Williames

As much as college is supposed to be about "finding yourself," for some people it may seem easier to just be like someone else. All too often, clones and carbon copies exist at Howard. You can find them on the Yard. Like that girl over there, she only wears designer clothes, not because she likes the styles, just so everyone can see how much she spent. Is it really worth it to spend your refund check and the money your parents gave you for dining dollars on clothes, shoes, nails, weaves and accessories, just to impress someone else?

And see that boy over there? He's reppin' the city when he's really from the 'burbs and walks around campus like he's extra hard, but he's way too scared of the area. Guess no one told him that there's no such thing as a collegiate thug. You know that guy power-tripping in Power Hall? He loves to brag about how many organizations that he's in, how successful he is, and how much he's doing for the community. But he's never paid membership dues, he doesn't go to meetings, and quiet as it's kept, that brief case he's carrying is probably empty. Since we are really here for an education, his case or backpack should be filled with books instead.

While it may have been cute to follow the status quo freshman year, the older we get the more essential it becomes to learn who we really are. Being true to yourself does not necessarily mean that you have to go against the grain. It's just realizing that you don't need anyone's confirmation, affirmation or co-sign to "just do you."

When you're not true to yourself, you give other people the power to shape your life. If you're not following your own goals, dreams, or aspirations, you're probably being used to fulfill someone else's. So, find your own path and stick to it even when you look up and realize that you don't have an entourage behind you.

Just remember the words of one wise man: "You ain't gotta lie to kick it!"

THE ULTIMATE DIVIDER: THE PRIVILEGED VS. THE UNPRIVILEGED OF HU

By Cassandra Cumbess

Despite our history of struggle, it seems we always find some way to divide ourselves. Whether by the varying hues of our skin or by the different dialects in which we speak, black Americans have perpetuated a counterproductive practice of de-unifying based on superficiality.

Here at Howard, we have given fortress to the ultimate divider – that of the privileged versus the unprivileged. We have conceived an invisible line between those with the Hummers and those with the monthly metro cards. Those whose families are legacy at Howard and those who are the first in their family to attend college. Those whose educations are paid for simply by signing a check and those who will owe thousands in loan payments upon graduation.

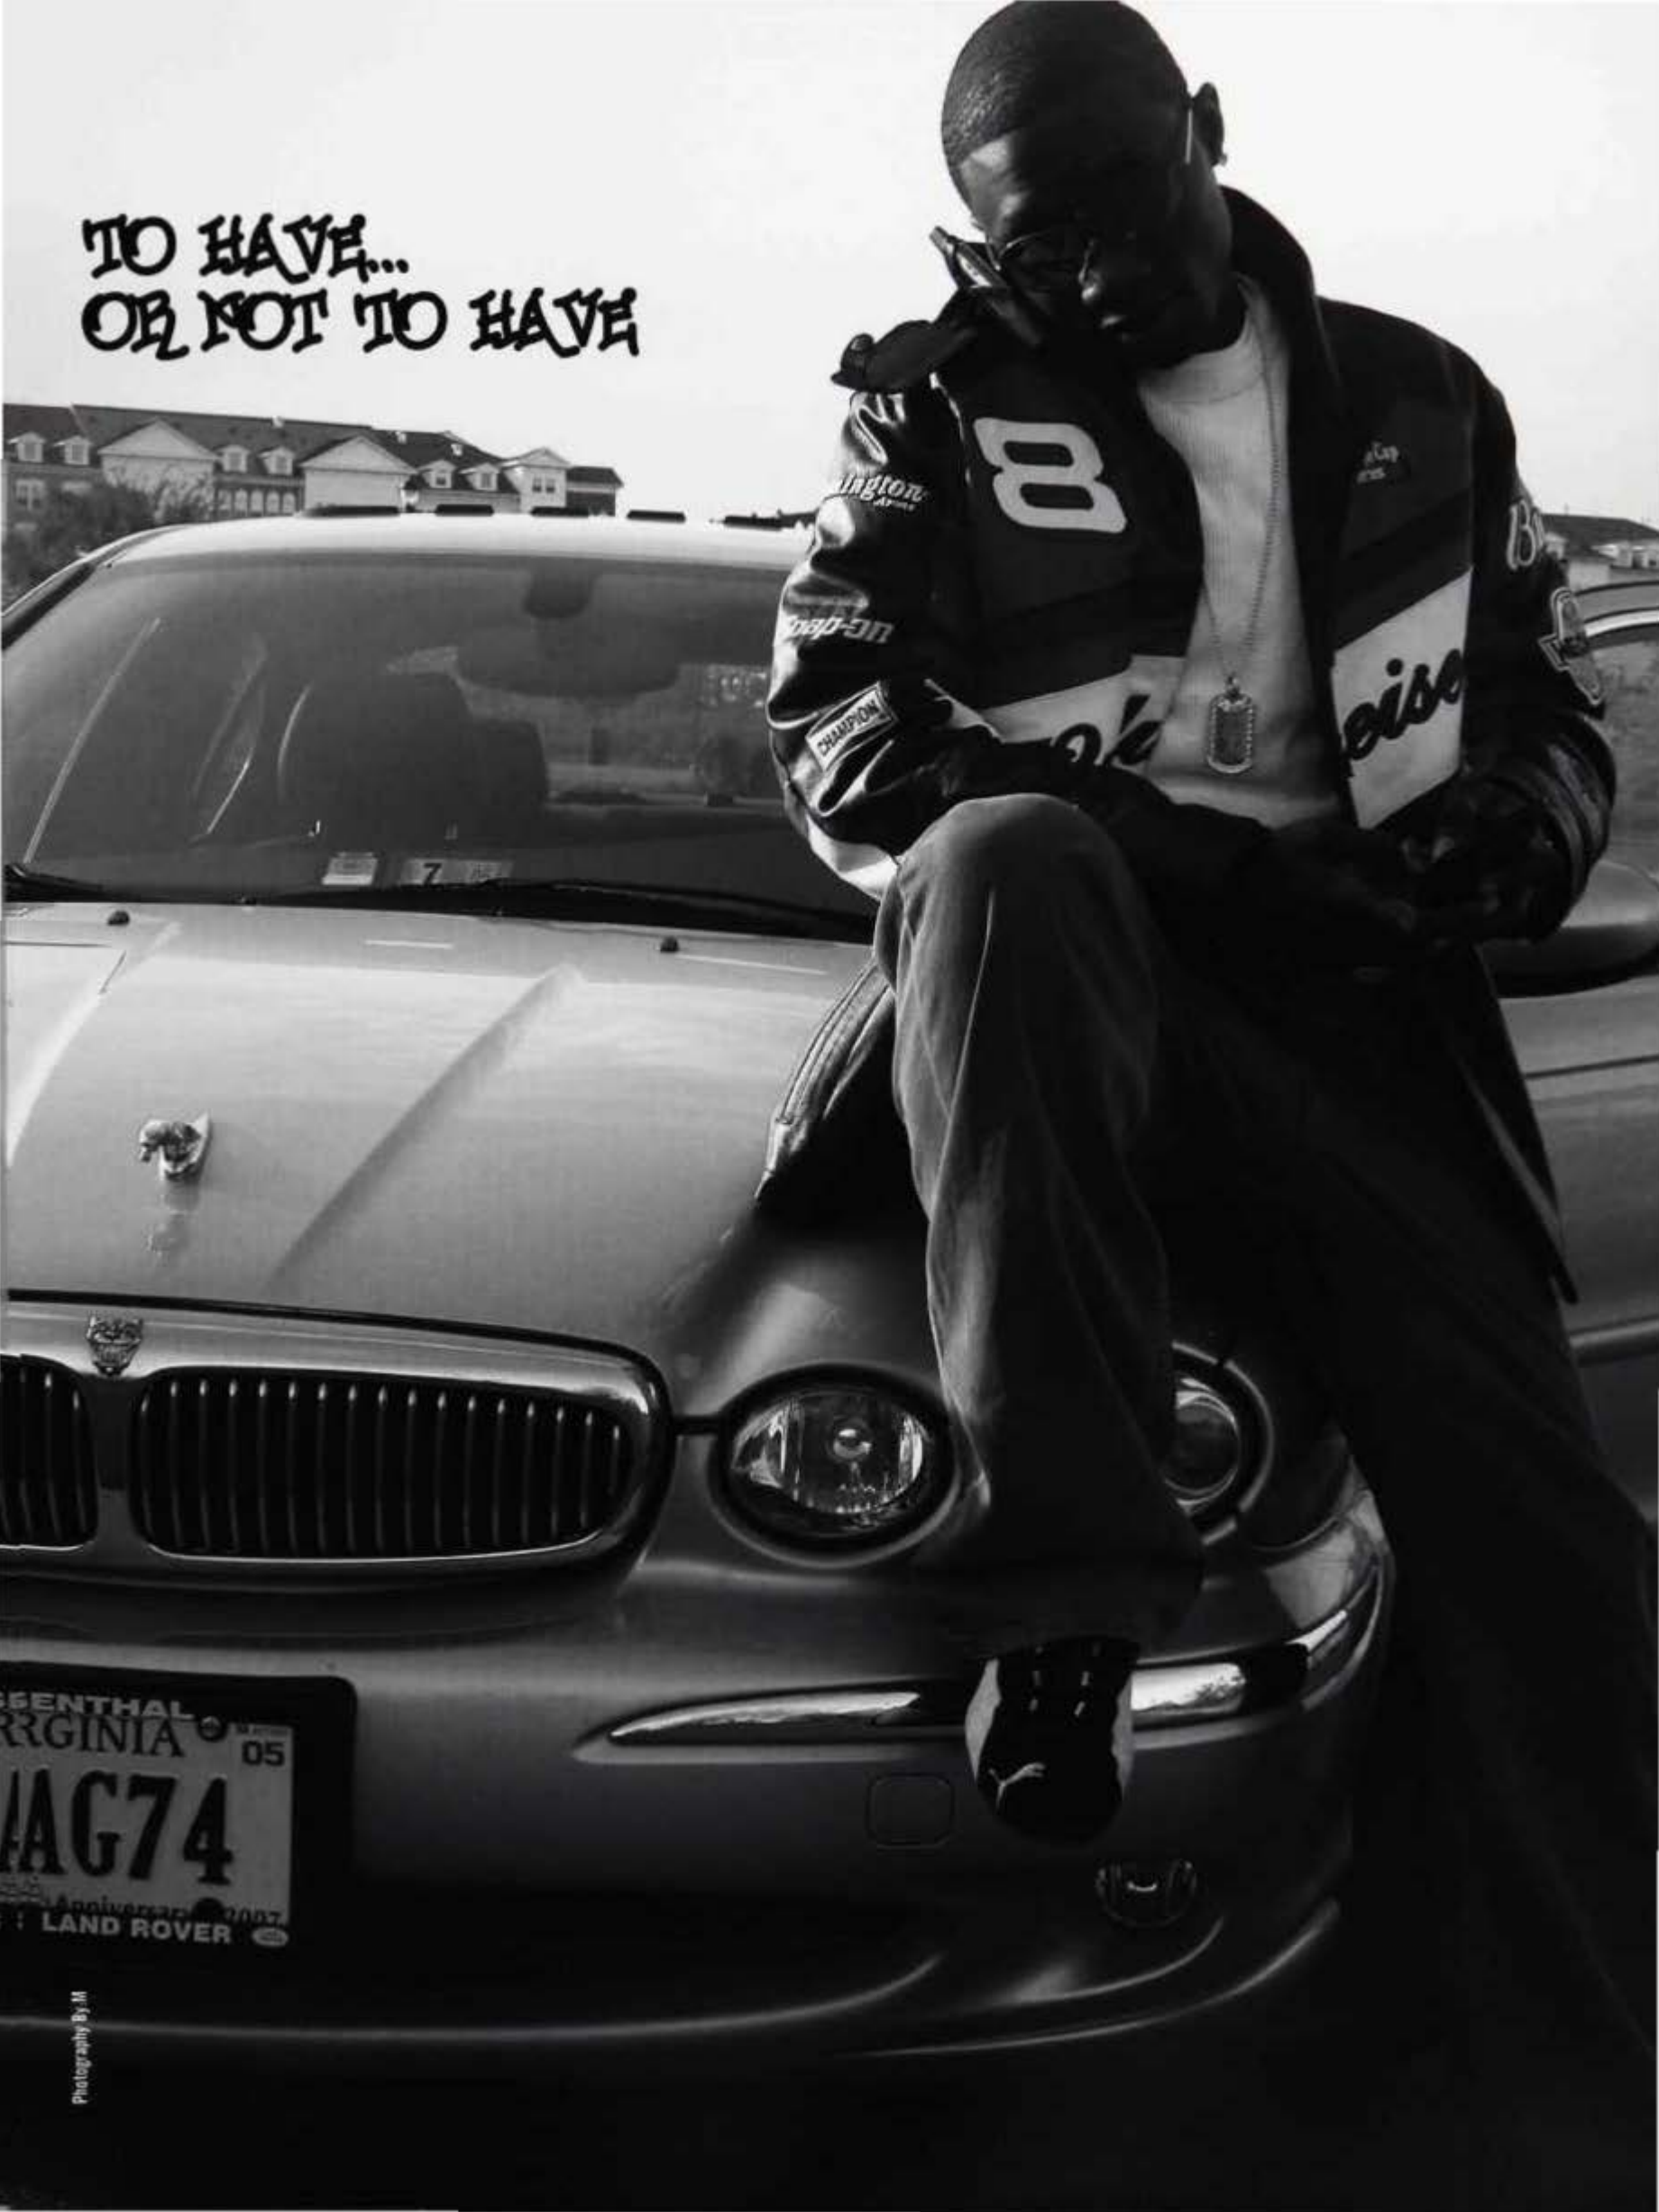

Too often, one Bison may look down on another because he's broke and complaining. She says, "I can't help it if my parents can afford to give me a wonderful life."

He, on the other hand, looks at her as spoiled because of the material things he sees on the outside. He says, "You think you're better than me."

The privileged student seems unconcerned and oblivious to the struggle. The unprivileged appears uncouth and disadvantaged. Stereotypes are rampant and the dangerous separation is henceforth established.

Instead of breathing life into the battle between the privileged versus unprivileged, we need to understand that by simply being here, by merely being a part of the beautiful legacy that is Howard, we are ALL privileged. There are too many young people out there who cannot even conceptualize the idea of going to college. We are blessed by the simple fact that God has chosen us as leaders. We should embrace our differences and realize that our backgrounds are not determinants of our future.

TO HAVE...
OR NOT TO HAVE

SCHOOL DAZE: LEARNING THE GAME

Dear Freshman Girl,

During my days at the Mecca I have seen and heard it all when it comes to relationships. When I say relationships, I'm talking about a wide range of relationships. For example, the long distance relationship where the female (usually a freshman) swears her man isn't cheating and she is going to marry this man. The reality is that he is going through fits due to the lack of female companionship and will ultimately find it somewhere else.

The next type of relationship is the ever so lovely "friends with benefits" relationship. This relationship is the number one choice for guys at Howard. This relationship allows us upstanding gentleman to get know all sorts of beautiful Howard women. On a campus that is three to one in terms of the female-to-male ratio, it is imperative that the men stay single. If we weren't single (or unfaithful) then there would be at least six thousand uptight, stressed out, "independent" and undersexed women walking these hallowed halls. In my opinion the women of Howard are already too uptight as it is. I don't tell you all this to discourage you from finding the man of your dreams here. I just want you to understand that there are rules to finding and keeping a man at the Hilltop.

The first and most important rule is PLEASE YOUR MAN. The bottom line is that guys really don't feel like putting in that much work all of the time. Don't get me wrong, working out isn't bad but there are less strenuous sexual activities.

The second rule is BE UNDERSTANDING. In order for you to keep a man here at Howard you have to understand that sometimes we make one or even seventeen mistakes. That doesn't mean we don't care about you or your friends that will most likely go through these bumps in the road also. It's just that some times we get a little fidgety and just want to see what another female's personality is like. So when this happens to you (and believe me it will) just say "WOOSAAHHH," take a nap and it will be all over. This rule will enable you to keep your man and make him realize you're the one he will marry because he knows you will understand in the future.

The third and most important rule is "YOU ARE NOT A DREW RAT BECAUSE YOU GO TO DREW HALL!

If you live your college love life by these rules you will have a man and your girls will be the only ones hating. I hope this letter will be of some help to you in your search for your Howard man. If not, there's always Georgetown.

Sincerely,
A Senior Man

P.S. If you're not doing anything this weekend you should come by and visit my house sometime. Remember, I'm a senior...I live off campus.

Dear Fresh-"Man"?

You are never going to have it any better than you have it right now at Howard. And although I could very easily play the male-female ratio card like everyone else, let me be real for a moment. The Howard campus is a very small setting and in closed settings, people do things that they wouldn't ordinarily do. With this in mind, here's some food for thought...

Maybe you're not really as cute as you think you are...maybe you're only the cream of the crop in a limited selection pool. So unless a girl is dumb or blind...yeah she's gonna be on you a little harder than the Steve Urkel looking dude. Maybe your game is not as tight as you think it is! Yeah, you may be a "pimp" and have your main chick, a mistress and a young chick on the side, but if you're sleeping in three different beds on any given night...who is the real hoe? And please, please, please don't think the girls won't find out...because the truth always comes to light!

So if you have a moment to read this letter between your empty conquests and hit and runs, let me tell you a secret. There's more to a Howard woman than A&T. Underneath the curvy figures and behind the pretty faces, we have so much more to offer a "man." I just said a "man," not someone perpetrating as one.

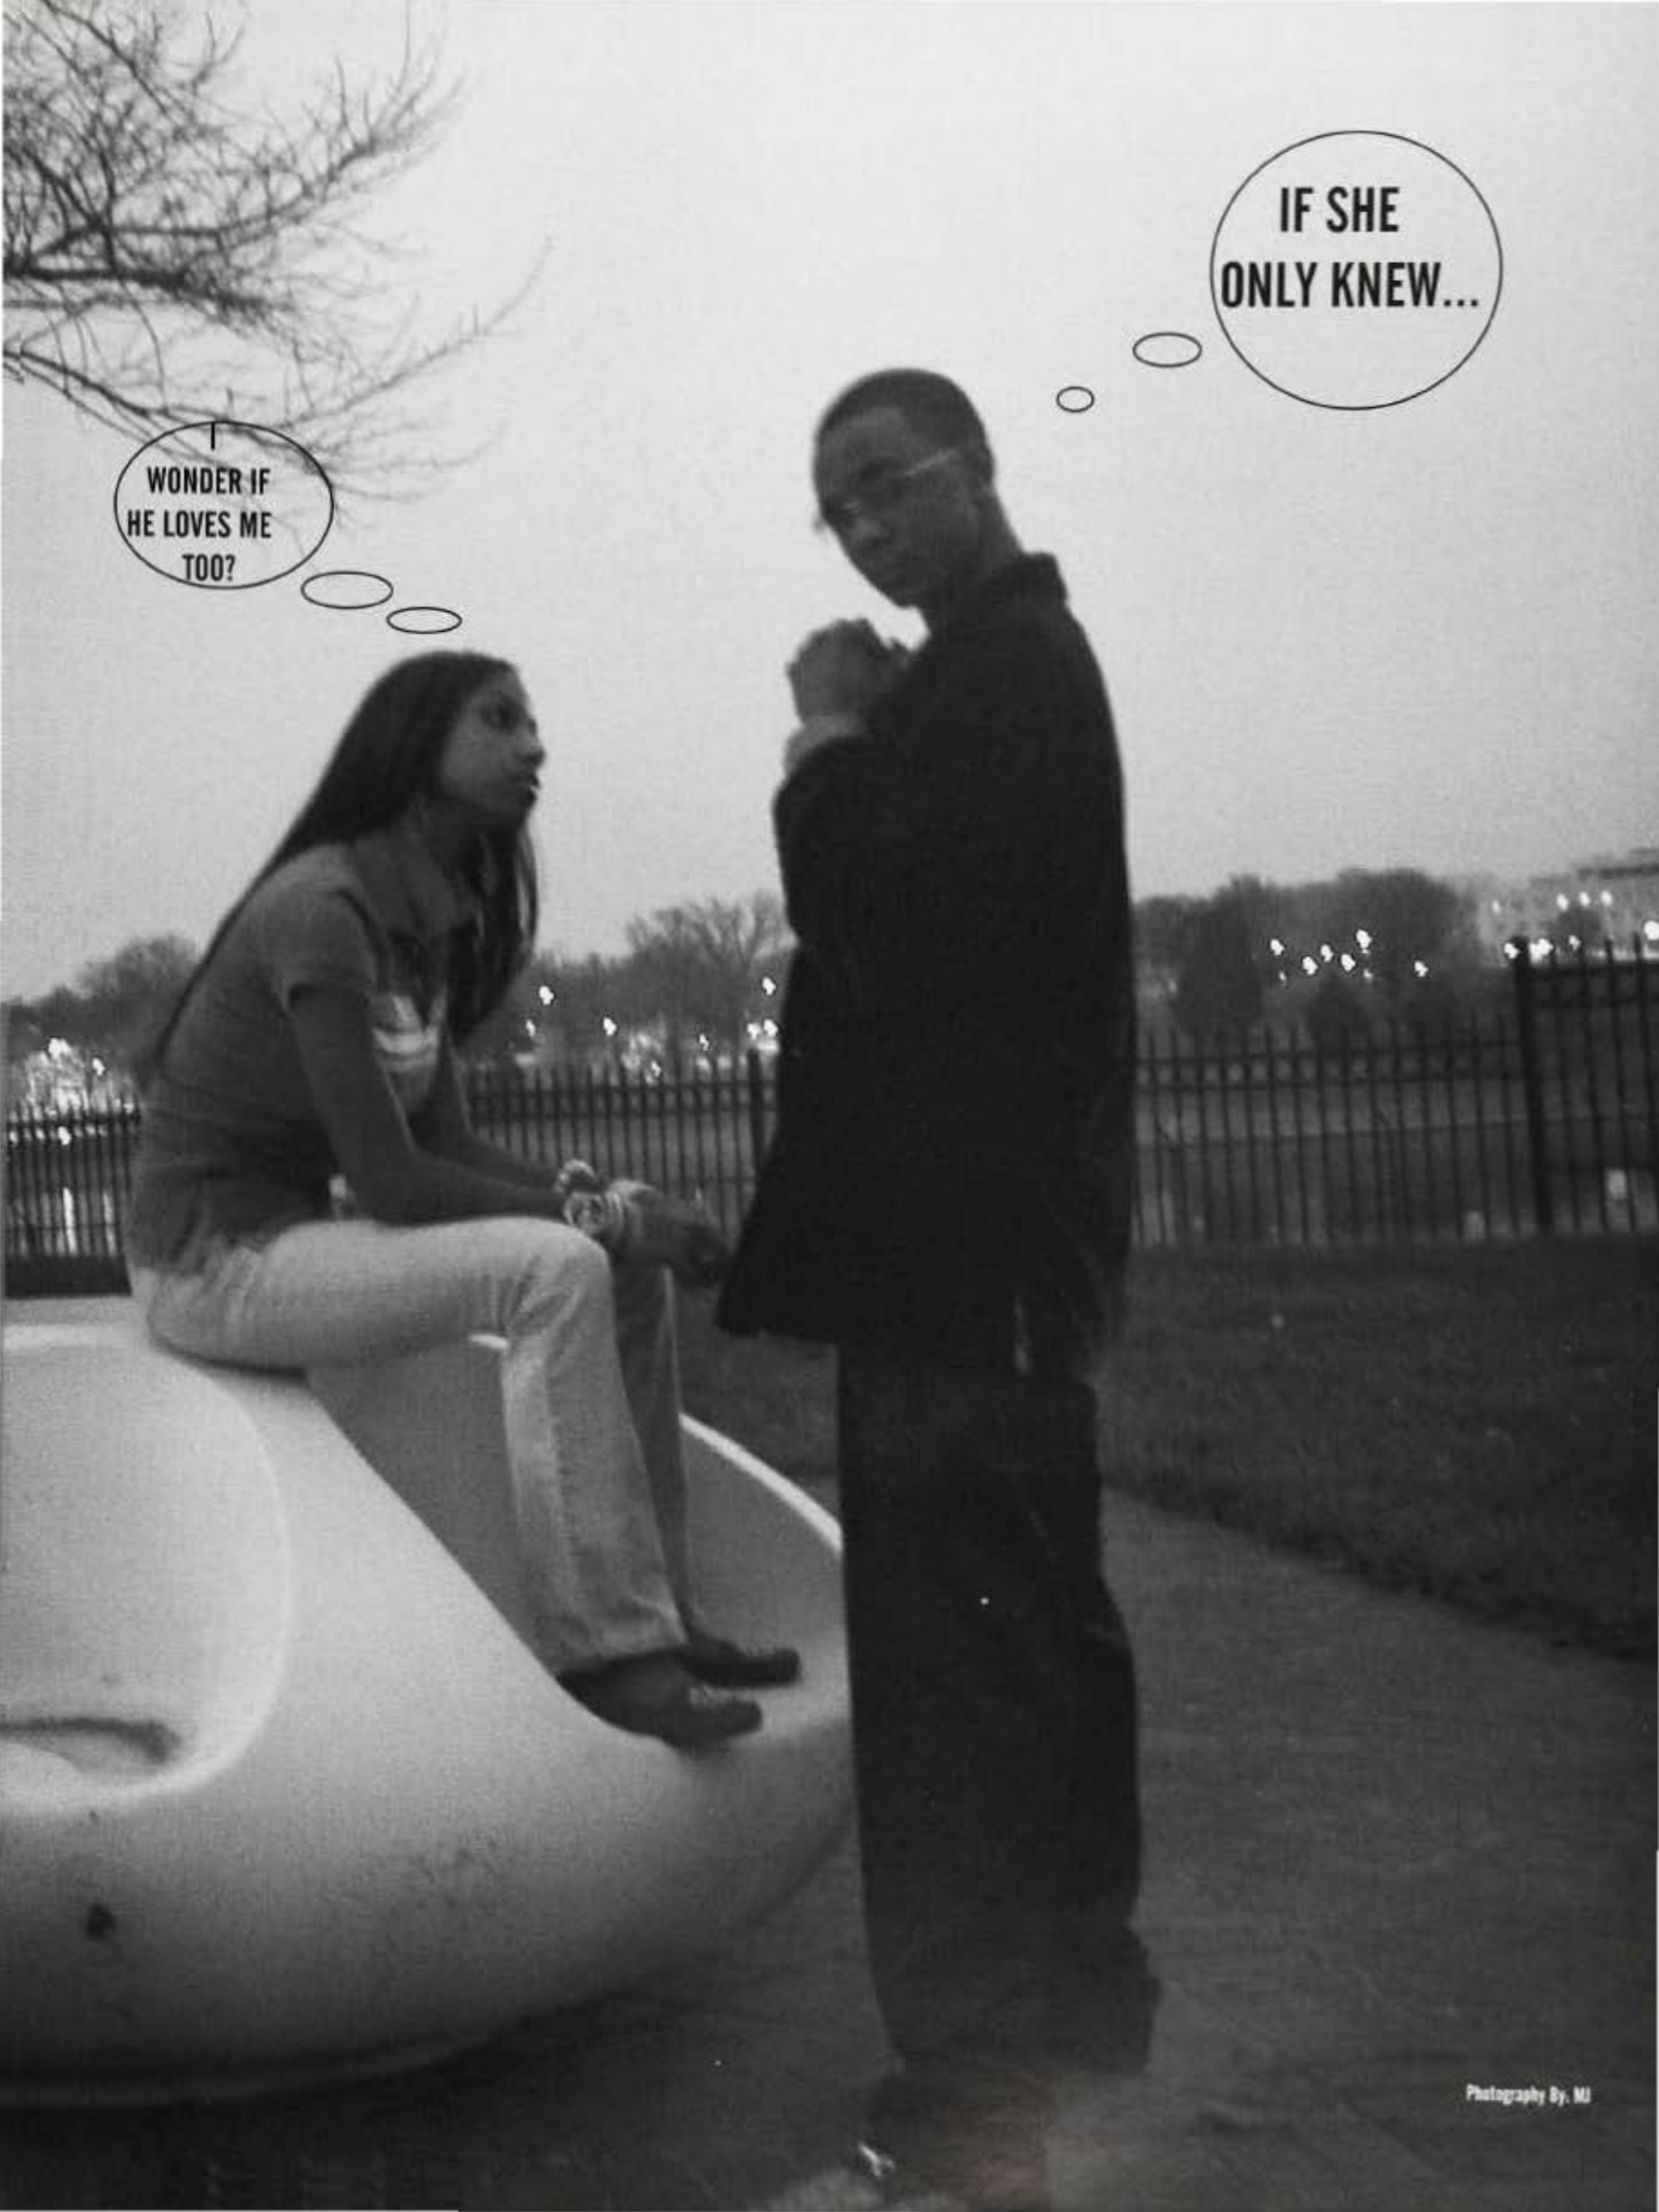

Most guys at Howard take for granted the women standing right in front of them and don't realize they had diamonds in the rough, until it's too late. Do you know a real woman is capable of fulfilling a man's every want and desire? Unfortunately most "boys" at Howard would rather receive immediate gratification than engage in any relationships of substance.

Time out! I know you are freshman and I'm not saying you should find your wife while you're at Howard, but the bottom line is that every woman demands respect. If you're not trying to be in a serious relationship, then just say so. If you are in a relationship, then don't cheat. It really is that simple. But sshh this is the real secret...a concept called honesty actually works. But if you don't believe me you can take my advice with a grain of salt. Keep in mind that karma does exist and there is a consequence for every action.

But more importantly, I beg you to take advantage of the brief time that you do have to truly appreciate the strong, intelligent, motivated black women that surround you. Please don't take us for granted, because in a place called the Real World...such women of quality and substance are few and far between.

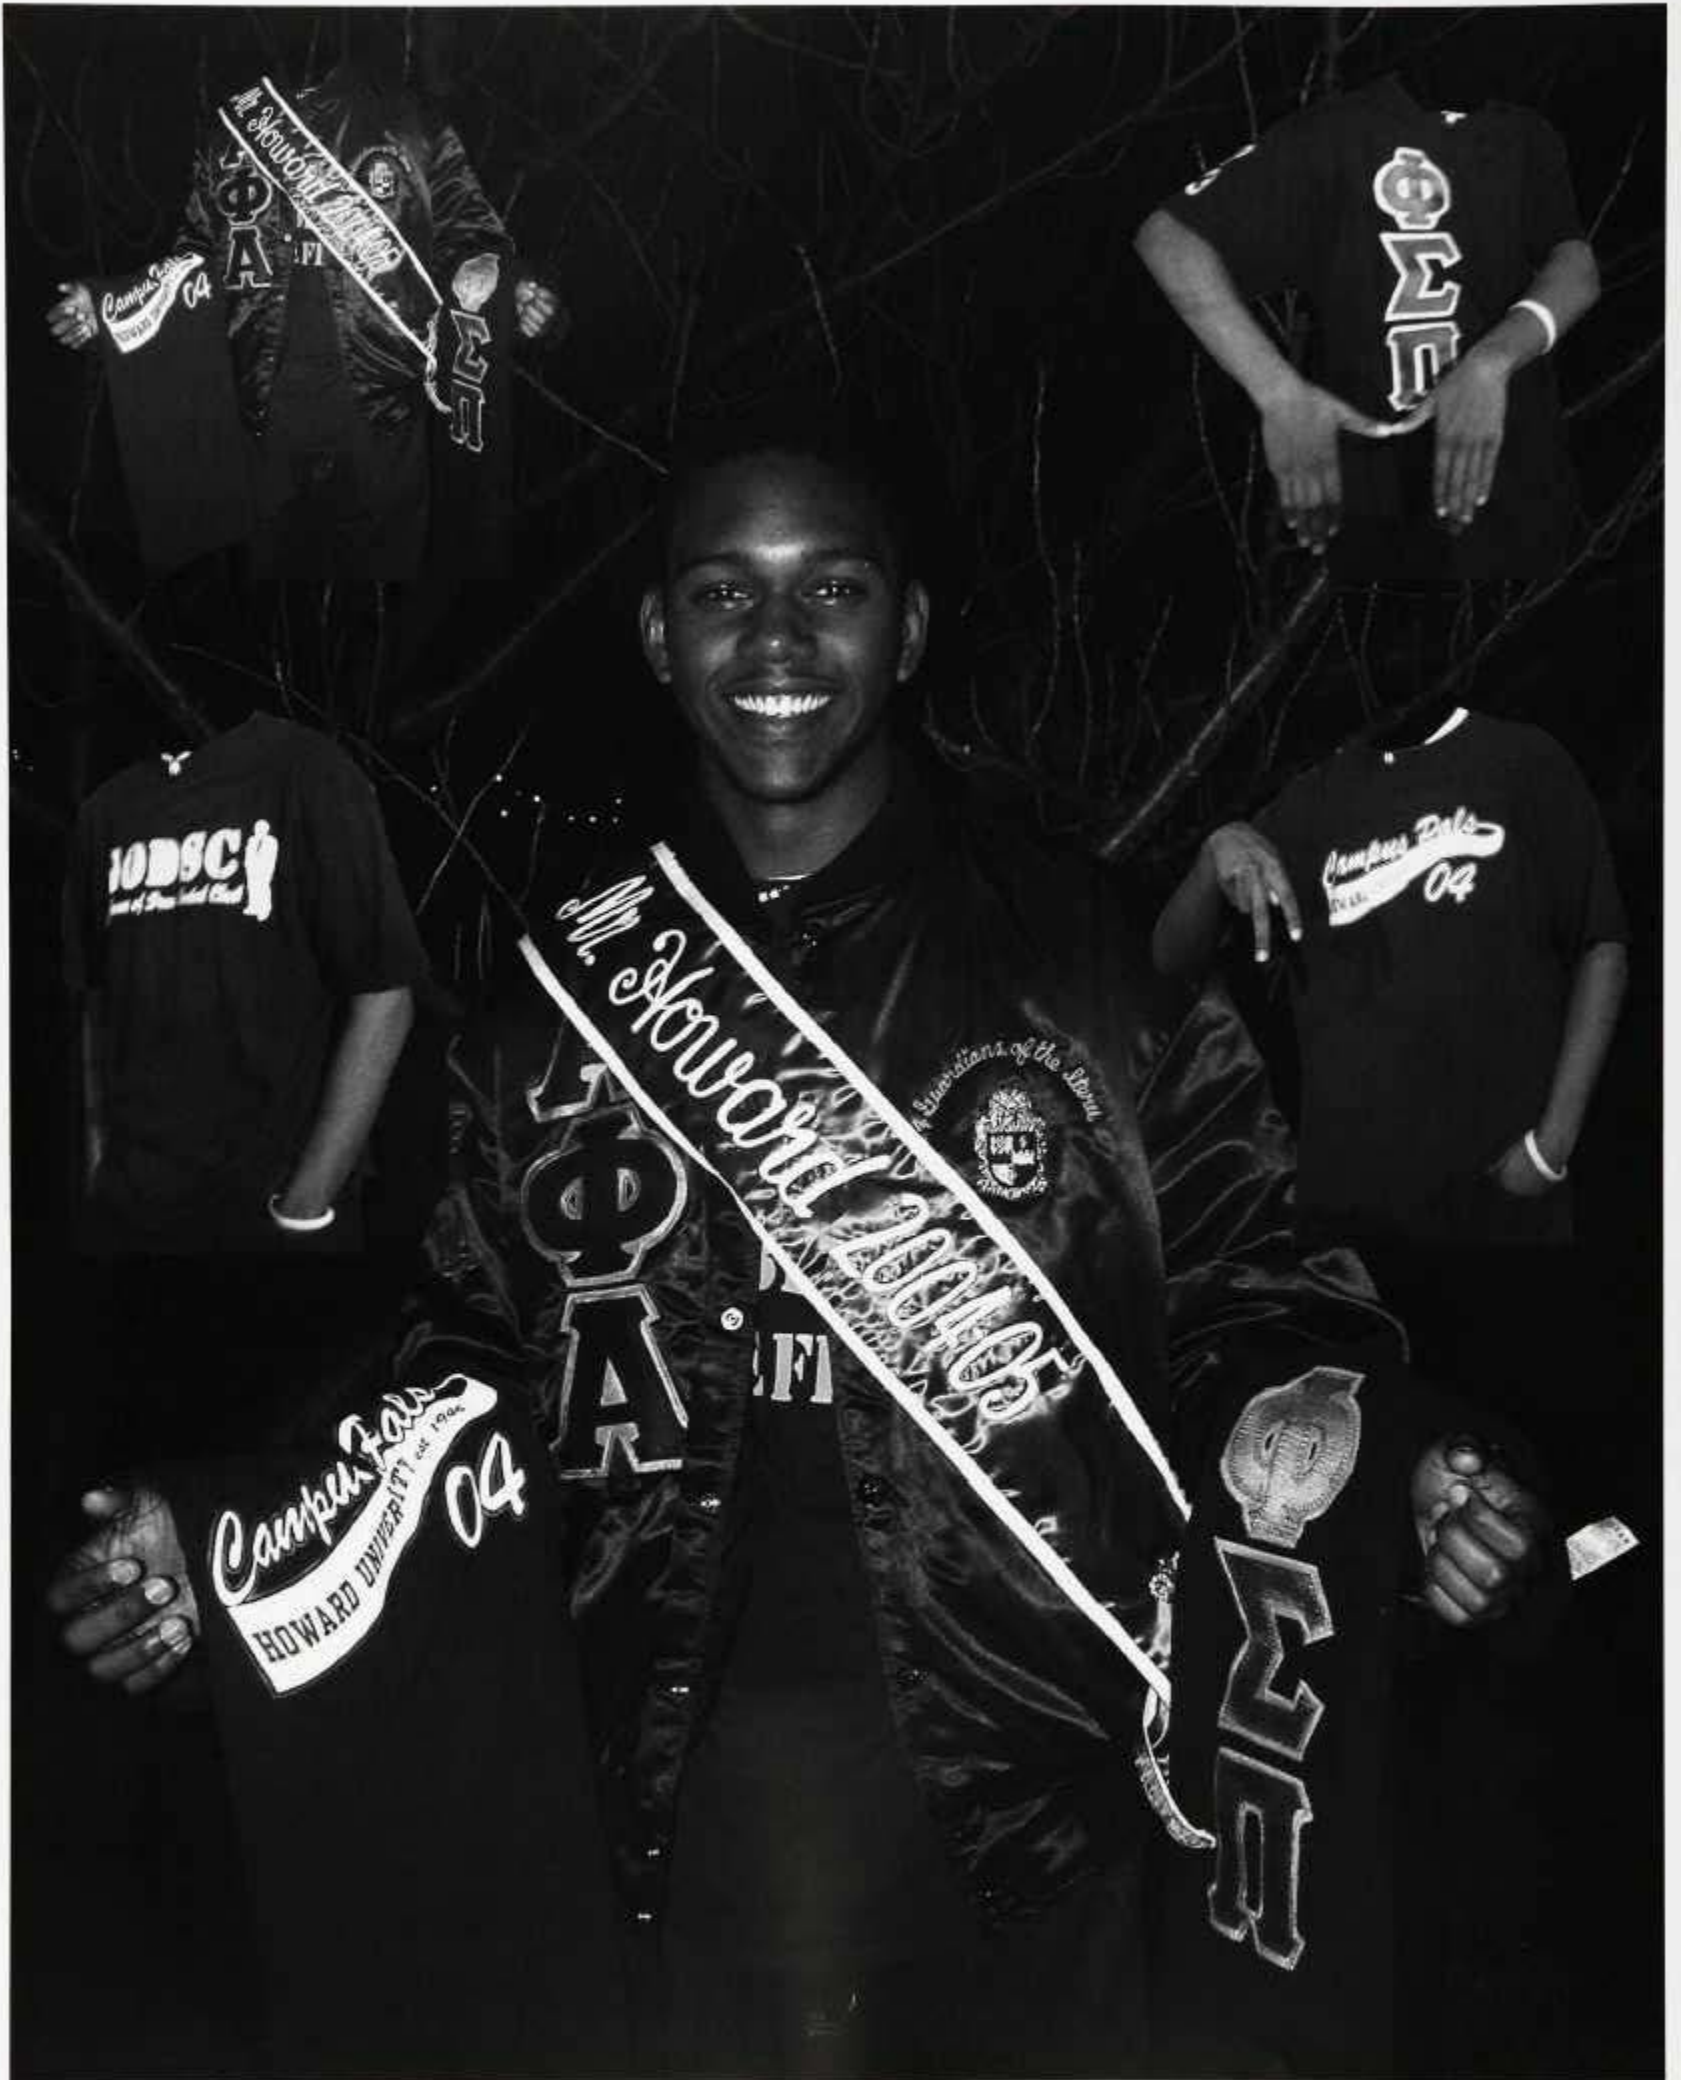

Love,

A Senior Woman

MAJORING IN STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Written by Madra Deanne McAdoo and Jesyca Westbrook

When you see Mr. Everything and Ms. Hottest Thang on campus, you wonder how they have time for class with all the meetings, organizations, panels, parties and events they must attend. Those who can hold it down in class and on "Power Hall" truly deserve the praise, because it isn't easy. There is nothing wrong with wanting to be involved, as long as you know when enough is enough.

Although we all come to college to grow, learn, and make advances towards our futures, people go about this in various ways. While you may be majoring in psychology or English, others are majoring in student activities and minoring in academics.

To some, Power Hall represents the elite of the college experience. But what drives this desire for power? Are they doing it for the perks, the stipends, V.I.P status or because they really want to enact changes? Let's hope the latter.

Just like in high school, there are some stereotypical patterns that some people think leaders follow. Many Leaders hold positions in their dorms, are in Greek Organizations and give back to the community. Students majoring in students activities give back to their school and have a deeper love for the "family" they have adopted on campus. It may not be that they just want to be in every group, they may have more talents, ideas and time to share and give back.

While some of these stereotypes may be true, there are those who manage to handle the pressure of running the campus and making the grades. However, for those who opt to spread themselves too thin....you may want to consider re-evaluating your priorities and ultimately changing your major.

HU QUA

ARE YOU A REAL BISON?

1. Have you ever attended classes without being financially validated?
2. Have you ever spent a whole paycheck on a Homecoming outfit?
3. Are you regularly dapped up or hugged by J-Rock?
4. Have you been exposed to a piece of Black history that you were never before aware of?
5. Have you ever snuck into a dorm?
6. Have you ever sat on the "Booty Wall?"
7. Did you have a crush on your Campus Pal freshman year?
8. Has a Howard administrator or employee ever been rude to you?
9. Have you ever been late to class because the shuttle bus was running late?
10. Have you ever hung out in the Punch Out for hours and not eaten anything?
11. Have you ever lived in a triple with no air?
12. Have you ever rocked a cut up HU shirt?
13. Have you ever had a professor with an accent you couldn't understand for the entire semester?
14. Have you ever had a snowball fight in the Valley?
15. Was your resident hall's visitation ever suspended for misbehavior?
16. Have you ever seen a celebrity on campus?
17. Have you ever stolen food from the Cafe?
18. Have you ever left a football game after half-time because you only came to see the Showtime Marching Band perform?
19. Have you ever wondered what it would be like if the Annex were co-ed?
20. Have you built relationships at Howard that you know will last forever?

Give yourself two points for every YES answer.

28-40 points: A REAL Bison

You have truly lived the Howard experience. GOOOOOOOOOO BISON!!!!!!

14-26 points: An Occassional Bison

You shared in the Howard experience, but you were gone half the time. You must have lived off campus!

0-12 points: A Howard Student

You attend Howard University, however you've missed out on much of the culture of Howard life. Where were you?

Study Abroad

by Nell Bradley

Parlez- Vous Francais “I decided to go abroad because I really needed to get away for a moment.”

The motto “Leadership for America and the global community” provides students with the opportunity to live a different collegiate lifestyle at Howard that involves a plethora of activity such as participating in various events and learning about different cultures. For some students like Takara Swoopes, leadership in America is only a small portion of her Howard experience. In the fall of 2003, Swoopes participated in Howard’s Study Aboard program in Tokyo.

After taking two Japanese classes at Howard, Swoopes made the decision to study abroad to improve her language skills and learn more about Japanese culture and society. She went through Howard University’s Study Abroad Office, in the Ralph Bunche Center on 6th street, and found a program that was compatible with her language ability and interests.

“I decided to go abroad because I really needed to get away for a moment. I was tired of the working full-time and attending school full-time routine, and I needed a change,” said Swoopes. “It really helped that Japan is one of the countries that provides several scholarships and a lot of money to students interested in studying there,” added Swoopes. Applying for Howard’s Study Aboard Program is fairly easy. Students must go through the program at Howard if they want to participate in the fall or spring semesters and receive financial aid reimbursements. Students must also be in their sophomore or junior year and have a grade point average of 3.0 or higher.

Once the student consults with a representative, such as Ngoma Iroabuchi from the Howard’s Study Aboard Program they must complete an application and select on location they would like to study in. There are also several continents students can study with and scholarships are available. “I think it is a great program and experience.” said Iroabuchi, “Students get to learn

An Interview with President H. Patrick Stuygert

Lunches usually consist of meetings with board members or dining out with private and corporate donors. But at least two times a month, he tries to eat either in the Punchout or the Restaurant, so he can remain visible on campus.

On Thursdays and Fridays at 4 p.m. President Swygert has open hours for student appointments. No matter where he has been during the week, this time is usually left open for students.

"Over the past 10 years I have met with hundreds of students. I hear about what's happening on campus and what would help make things easier for them." He said the idea for a shuttle bus from the Howard/Shaw metro stop to campus came directly from a student interview about 6 or 7 years ago.

After business hours, Swygert often attends receptions and social functions for the school. During graduation and homecoming weeks, he goes to a party or event almost every night. "When your day starts at 6 a.m., making it to an 8 or 9 p.m. event becomes pretty hard." He said, "In order to be president one needs a lot of physical stamina."

Part of his job is to raise money. So many times during the month, President

Written by Jesyca M. Westbrook

A typical day for President Swygert begins long before he comes to campus. He usually gets up at 6 a.m. and while drinking his coffee, he checks his email and surfs the net. When Howard students write him at hswygert@howard.edu, he actually answers them. He said, "Students don't know that I actually read the emails that they send me and respond to them myself. Many times I get replies saying, 'Is that really you, President Swygert?'"

"Alumni were saying, I remember when there was no air here, no elevators...and no real bookstore. Now we have so much more, yet there is still work to be done."

Swygert, goes out of town to meet with contributors. He said, "For example, last Wednesday I was in New York and had a meeting with the development and fundraising committee. By Thursday, I was in Chicago meeting with Mr. Johnson, publisher of JET and Ebony magazines, to give him an update on the School of Communications."

It sometimes can take a decade to see how Howard has really changed. Swygert said that during Homecoming, alumni returned to campus and were crying over the changes. "They were saying, I remember when there was no air here, no elevators, no ventilation in the band practice rooms and no real bookstore." He said, "Now we have so much more, yet there is still work to be done."

Future changes that are in store include: a new town center, a new science campus, a new apartment complex to be located by Cook Hall, a new freshman male dorm and a new gymnasium.

"I am proud of Howard. We have more donors than ever before, more scholars and the most motivated and active students around." He said, "The reputation of the school is what has motivated me the most and I hope the student of today and tomorrow see this period as a success."

Then by 8 a.m. he gets to campus and starts his day with a morning schedule of meetings with advisors and administrators.

Then after the series of morning meetings, Swygert often makes cameos at campus activities. Depending on how many events are scheduled on campus, this can be very time consuming. He said, "I hardly ever just get to go and observe in the back."

Howard University has a reputation for producing many of the world's top scholars in many fields of study. Many students attend Howard to be immersed in the rich academia that is available. Here, many professors distinguish themselves by demonstrating passion for teaching and dedication to student learning. For students trying to quench their thirst for knowledge, nothing is better than a teacher who goes the extra mile.

Professor Oswald Chase in the School of Architecture has a wealth of knowledge and world-renowned experiences. Professor Chase teaches numerous courses like "Language of Criticism." He credits study in countries like Israel and Sweden as being influential to his teaching style and experience. He also unites African, Hindu and Caribbean Art together and encourages students to think outside the box.

"Celebrity" Professor Smith in the School of Business is a role model to his students. A former member of corporate America, Smith, a Howard alumnus and a member of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Incorporated, shares his practical real world experience with his students. He previously worked with IBM in marketing operations. His scholarly approach to teaching enables him to educate his students by treating them as the "customer" and giving them real world knowledge on a professional level.

Dr. Clarence Stewart, an outstanding professor in the Human, Health and Leisure Department teaches unique courses like "Human Sexuality" and approaches taboo subjects with energy, skill and passion. He helps students to go beyond the classroom by giving them the chance to become certified HIV-AIDS peers. His students respect him for his encouragement to become active in the community.

Howard Alumna Dr. Felecia Walker is the head coach of the Mock Trial Team who has won numerous awards and championships. She is also a professor in the School of Communications. An important motto to Dr. Walker's group is "one team, one goal," which serves as a guide for their success. She stresses the importance of the team doing hard labor with positive expectations under a family atmosphere, and her motivational strategies stick with students even after they leave her classroom

Dr. Cybil Roberts, a playwriting teacher in the Fine Arts Department is very personable with her students. They love to be around her, because of her warmth and professionalism. She gives them the ability to prepare themselves for their professional careers.

Professor Goodlett graduated from Howard and has been teaching at HU since 1976. He teaches many classes in the Center for Academic Reinforcement and the Mathematics department including Applied Calculus and College Algebra I and II.

"Math is challenging for many students, but it is not really hard," he said. "Everyone can learn with the right nurturing and background, anyone can accomplish their goal." One of his main goals is help students improve their performance in the subject. He said, "It gives me pleasure give back to Howard after graduating from here."

Great professors at Howard are not hard to find and those that stand out by giving back to the academic community are preparing the next generation of leaders.

EDUCATION OUTSIDE THE BOX

Written by Ashley Sinclair

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to step outside “the black experience” and attend an institution where you were no longer the majority? Ever just wanted something different from the everyday Howard crowd? If you answered yes to any of these questions, then taking classes through the consortium might be an opportunity you would like to explore. The Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan Area is an arrangement between Howard and other universities in the District that allows students to share academic resources. HU students still pay tuition to Howard while taking credits at schools like Georgetown and UDC. The consortium includes: American University, Catholic University, Gallaudet University, George Mason University, Georgetown University, George Washington University, Marymount University, Mount Vernon College, Trinity College, University of the District of Columbia and the University of Maryland at College Park. Consortium courses are open to graduate students with a 3.0 grade point average and undergraduate juniors and seniors with a 2.0 or higher. According to Mrs. Wanda Jones, the Consortium Coordinator at HU, only fifty-nine students were enrolled in consortium classes for the fall semester. Junior Physical Therapy major, Dalontee Edgerton, was one student who took advantage of the option of consortium classes. He took Child Health Issues at UDC in the fall of 2004.

“Participating in the consortium is like studying abroad, but staying local,” he said. “It was an opportunity for me to get a feel for a different environment.” Because Howard students tend to stay confined to the campus, many are oblivious to the abundance of opportunities that surround them. Some consortium schools offer courses that Howard does not.

The consortium is free, but students cannot take more credits at a consortium school than they are taking at Howard. The next time you cannot register for a course because all sections are closed or you just want a change of scenery, look to the consortium and experience education outside the box.

“So what’s your major?” While some common answers from Howard students may be political science or business, others may surprise you when they say interior planning, costume design or ceramics. HU has a lot more to offer than just what is classified as the “typical” major and some students plan to make careers out of them.

Ceramics is a major in the Division of Fine Arts. Classes focus on the foundation of hand and wheel formation, glaze calculation, clay formation and finishing and firing techniques. Some courses include painting, sculpture and drawing. In interior design, students learn how to handle space analysis and must learn about furnishings and construction. Some other less popular majors are speech pathology, atmospheric science and leisure studies.

One of the more scarce majors found on Howard’s campus is actuarial science. Only about 30 people have this major. Actuarial science as a concentration is offered in both the School of Business and the School of Arts and Sciences. The business concentration is in the insurance department, while in the College of Arts and Sciences, the concentration falls under the mathematics department. Marcus Thomas, a junior actuarial science major, refers to it as a “phenomenal major” He says, “There’s always a need for insurance, so I’ll always have a job. In fact, insurance sales is considered among the top ten careers in the world.”

Graduating senior Samantha Jones has never met another costume design major at Howard, because she is the only one. Howard did not have a costume design major, but she wanted to combine her love for both fashion and theater. Technically, her major is termed theatre technology with a concentration in costume design. She has one main teacher to turn in work to and some classes are pass or fail. She said, “It’s hard sometimes. I have no set scheme and no camaraderie with other Fine Arts students with my major.”

Most students may not have known these majors were offered on Howard’s campus, but if you inquire, you will find that Howard has more to offer than what meets the eye.

Convocation

“There is no substitute for preparation and hard work”

The traditional convocation ceremony began with the capacity-filled crowd holding hands, singing the alma mater and “Lift Every Voice and Sing,” the Black National Anthem. President Sywgert paid tribute to the men and women who are currently serving our country in Iraq with a moment of silence. He also reminded the HU community that this year marks the 50th anniversary of Brown vs. Board of education.

Mr. Stan E. O’Neal, chairman and CEO of Merrill Lynch & Co., was given an honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters and served as the guest speaker. O’Neal is the grandson of slaves and now leads one of the largest investment banking firms on Wall Street. He said, “This school was born in the shadows of the Civil War and has a history so deeply entwined with the history of Black America and educational opportunities and freedom.”

During his address, he shared some lifelong lessons that have guided his success. Some mantras included, “there is no substitute for preparation and hard work” and “connecting with people is essential for achieving success in life.” Later, he advised everyone to “find their centers,” which means to discover your individual talents and abilities.

President Sywgert also presented Dr. James W. Norris, the HU music director, with an award for 30 years of excellent work with the orchestra and the choir. As convocation came to a close, Khalia Hampton, a sophomore soloist in the Howard University choir, led the choir and orchestra in a soul-stirring version of James Wilson’s “I Wanna Be Ready.” This opening convocation left the HU community inspired to begin the school year with pride and confidence.

FANTASTICKS

Written by Steve Mobley

Deception, humor, love found, unrequited love and life lessons were some themes in this year's fall play presented by the Theatre Arts Department. "The Fantasticks" can be described as phenomenal. Staged in the intimate Environmental Theatre Space, the cast really drew the audience into the plot of the production.

"The Fantasticks," written by Tom Jones and directed by Mark Jolin, is the story of a youthful love affair. Ashley Honore and Darell Payton, play "Matt" and "Louisa," a young couple tricked into falling in love by their parents, "Hucklebee" and "Bellamy" (played by Marinda Anderson and William Bryant Miles). The parents pretend to feud – Romeo and Juliet style.

The plot twists and turns as a hired-thief, "El Gallo" played by Isaiah Johnson, stages a phony adventure to get Matt to "save" the girl, reinforce their love and give the parents a reason to end their fighting. This is supposed to result in a happy ending, but really marks the divergent beginning of the play.

In conjunction with a great plot, the production did an excellent job of leaving you with wisdom to carry home after the play. During the play, "El Gallo" stated it best in the following quote, "Without a hurt, the heart is hollow." It taught the audience that true love can remain a somewhat shallow emotion until one has suffered and proved it to be true.

With the lessons learned, colorful characters, vibrant choreography, stellar musical numbers and humorous dialogue, "The Fantasticks" really showed off the stellar talent in the Howard community. Even when the play was finished you could hear viewers singing the songs and laughing at the play. Sophomore student, Adreia Young, said, "This is a play that I could watch over and over again."

FOOTBALL

This year, the main goal of the 2004 Bison football team was to rebound from a four-win 2003 season. At first this goal seemed unattainable after back-to-back early season road losses against Alabama State and our nemesis, Hampton. The Bison soon turned things around with a 17-10 upset against Alcorn State in the inaugural Prince George's Classic at nearby FedEx Field. The win sparked a four-game winning streak, marking the first time the Bison had won four straight games since 1998. The streak was highlighted by a thrilling 42-35 over-time victory over Morgan State at Greene Stadium.

The Bison were led offensively this season by senior quarterback Marcos Moreno, who finished his second year as the starter. Behind Moreno was arguably the best running back combination in the MEAC. Senior Roland "Jay" Colbert and sophomore Antoine Rutherford wore out opposing defensive lines game after game. Colbert chose homecoming Saturday to have his best game of the season. In the 35-17 victory over Norfolk State, Colbert ran for a career high of 197 yards and four touchdowns. Known mostly for his abilities on the track, senior David Oliver used his fast legs this year as a wide receiver.

On the other side of the ball, senior linebacker Mike Sanders and junior safety Antoine Bethea led a defense that ranked first in the MEAC in rushing yards allowed. Senior defensive back Ronald Bartell, Jr. caught the eyes of NFL scouts this year as he shut down wide receivers on a weekly basis. Many fans were surprised by the consistency of the special teams unit. Freshman kicker Justin Brantley contributed to many of the Bison's wins this year. His accuracy on extra-points and field goals put points on the board, and smiles on the coaches' faces.

The Bison football season was far from disappointing this year. In fact, they finished the season with a winning record. Both the players and the fans alike can agree that this team exceeded all expectations. They also ended the season giving the fans a lot to anticipate. The future looks bright for the Bison football team. With a core of talented underclassmen, the Bison are sure to be a top contender for the MEAC championship next year and in the years to come.

“Those who think cheerleading is not a sport must not know about all the hard work and practice the girls go through.”

CHEERLEADING

Written by Felicia Crabtree

"Shake it, shake it, shake these..." Indeed, they do a lot of shaking, but that's not all the Bison cheerleaders do on the sidelines. The cheerleading squad led by coaches Tiffani Nowlin and Nicole Frances and captains Crystal Belcher and Felicia Crabtree motivate the crowd when games get hard for the football and basketball teams. Even when the team is losing and they are at their lowest point, the cheerleaders must keep performing.

In addition to rooting the sports team on, the cheer squad also has another task. Although they have not been able to do it in the last three years, they hope to participate in cheer competitions this year. "This squad has so much talent and potential, there's absolutely no reason why we shouldn't compete," said captain Crystal Belcher. "Taking part in competition always comes down to how bad we want it."

Preparing for games as well as competitions can be very strenuous. The squad has 6 a.m. practices Monday through Friday with weight training twice a week, running, and team stunting. Those who think cheerleading is not a sport, must not know about all the hard work and practice the girls go through. Coach Tiffani Nowlin said, "They work really hard to look good for games. It takes a lot of hard work and dedication to accomplish their goal of being 'up to par' for games. The stunting, flying and gymnastic-style tumbling requires a lot of skill and practice."

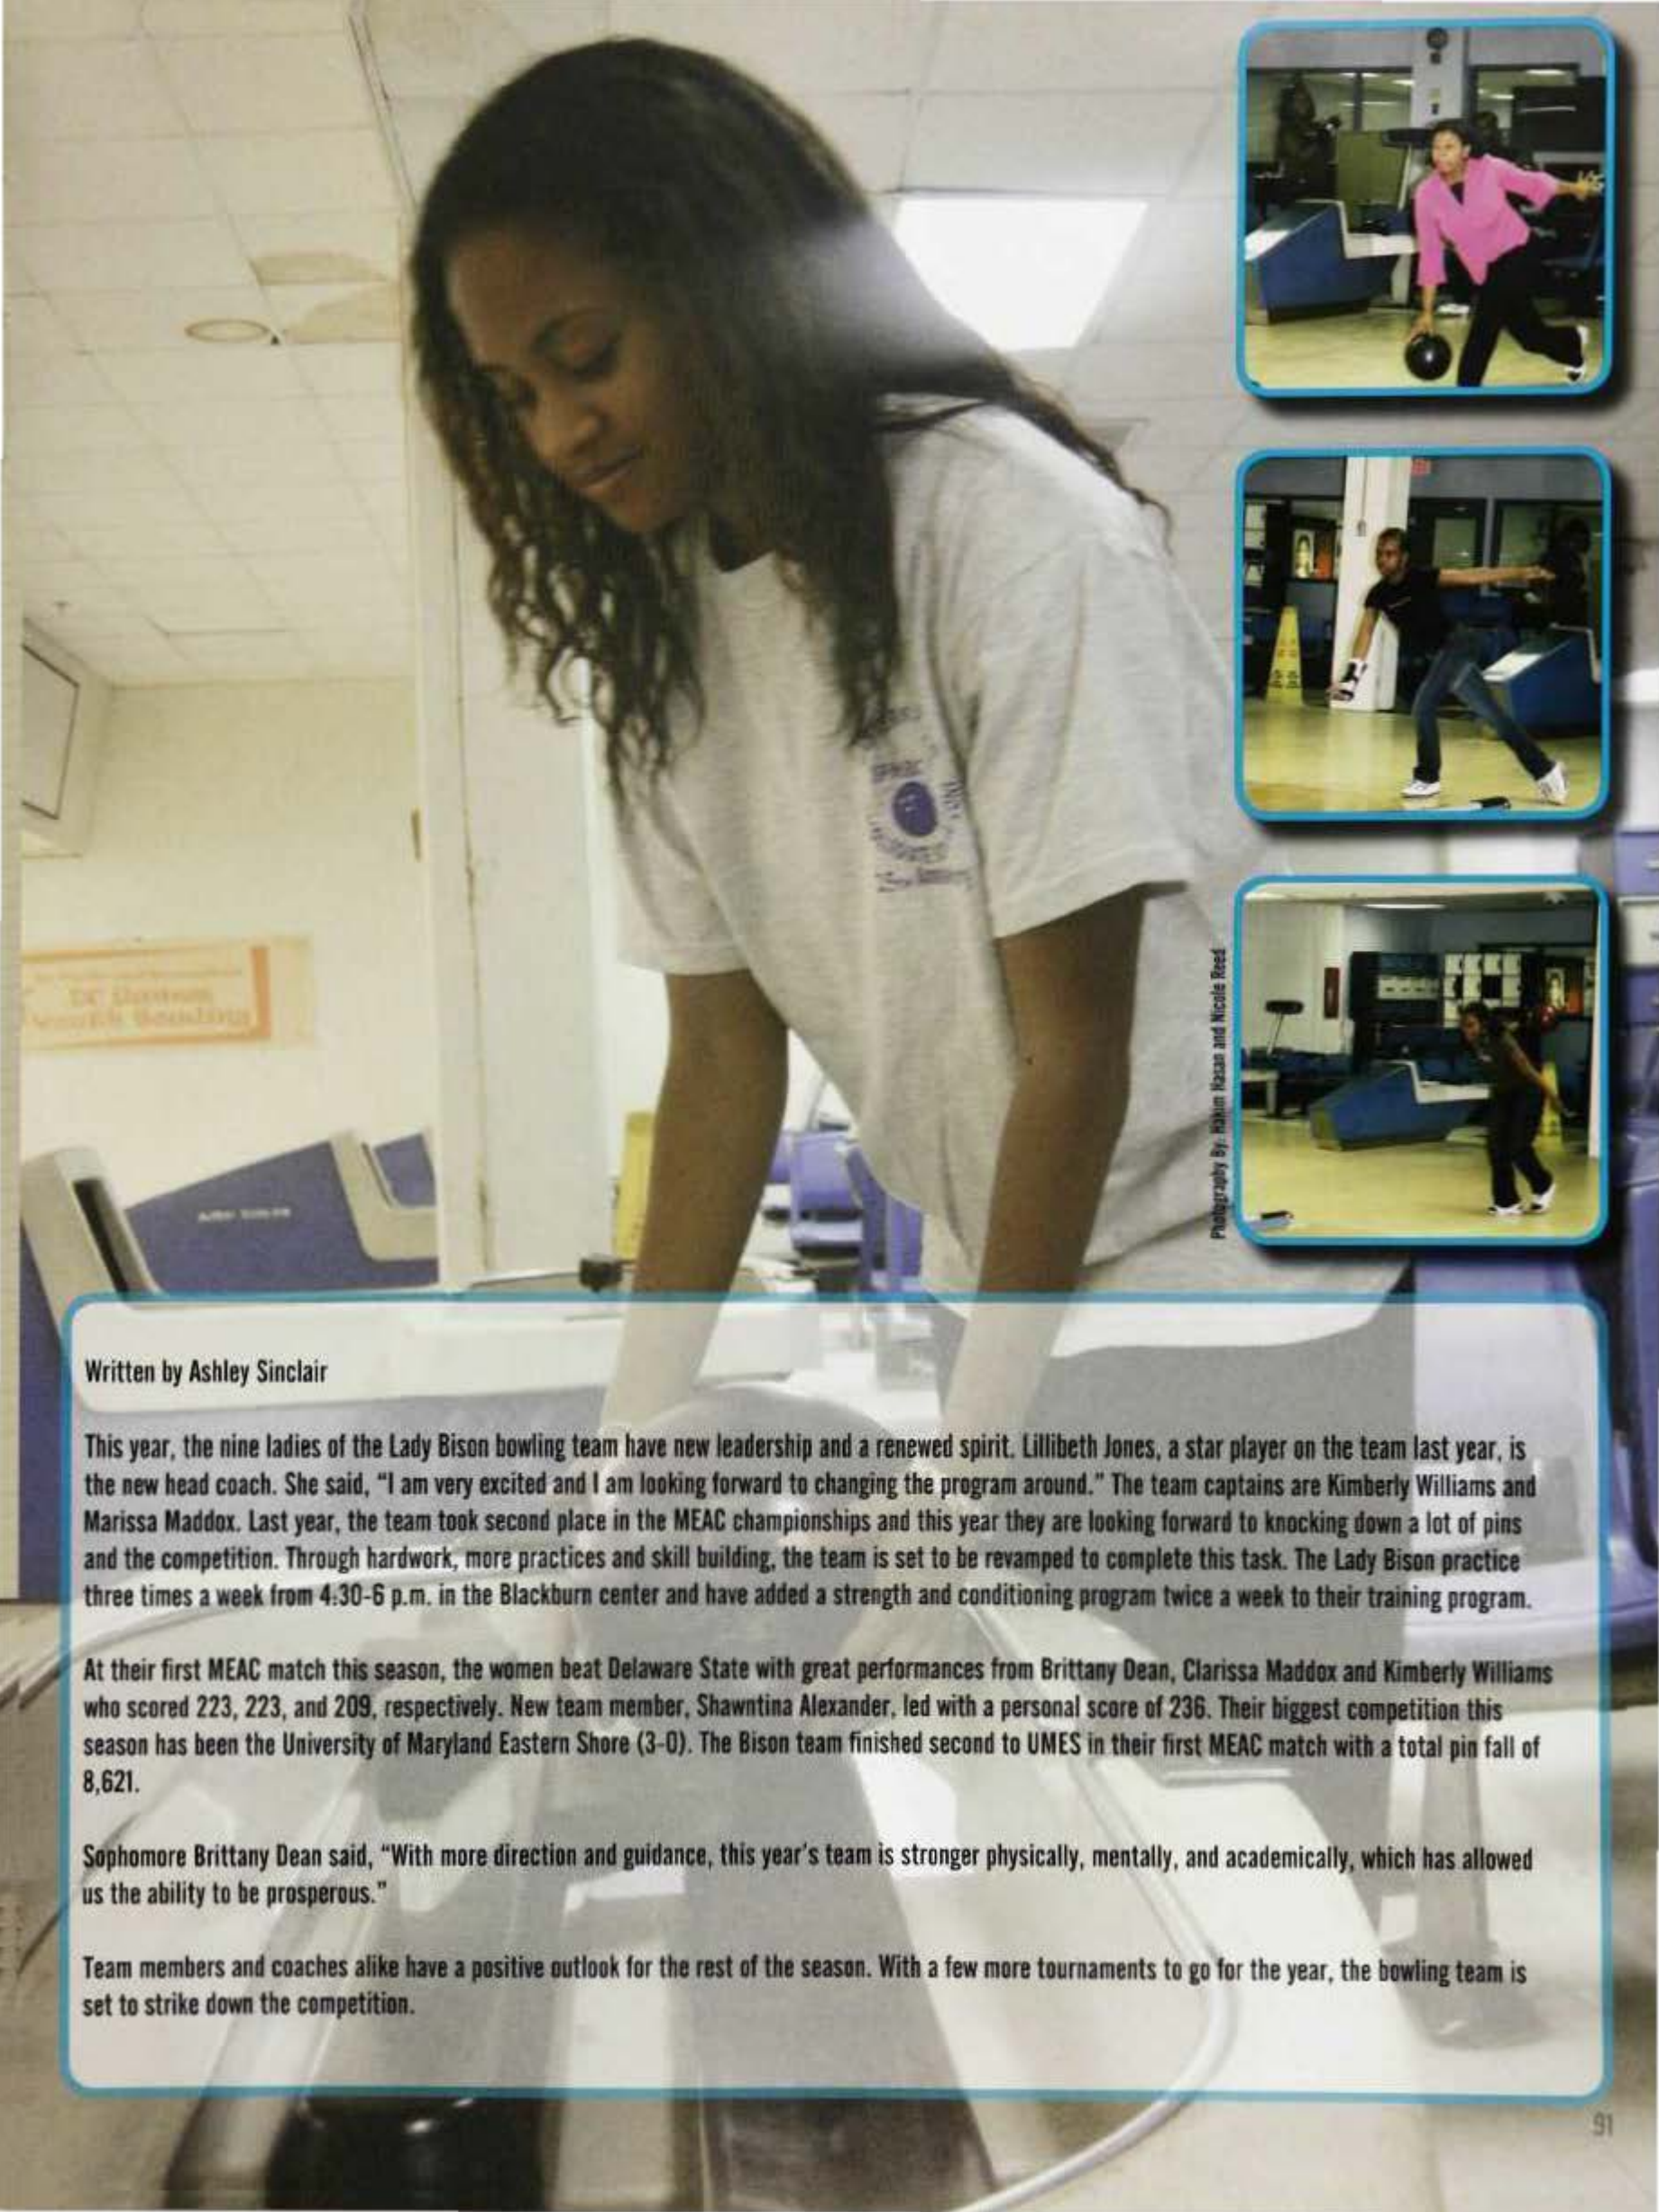

Although the cheer squad does a lot of "shaking it" and "dropping it like it's hot," there is a lot more to what they do than that. Hard work and much practice can be seen in the cheers and stunts performed at every football and basketball game.

Sophomore Brittany Dean said, "With more direction and guidance, this year's team is stronger physically, mentally and academically, which has allowed us the ability to be prosperous."

This year, the nine ladies of the Lady Bison bowling team have new leadership and a renewed spirit. Lilibeth Jones, a star player on the team last year, is the new head coach. She said, "I am very excited and I am looking forward to changing the program around." The team captains are Kimberly Williams and Marissa Maddox. Last year, the team took second place in the MEAC championships and this year they are looking forward to knocking down a lot of pins and the competition. Through hardwork, more practices and skill building, the team is set to be revamped to complete this task. The Lady Bison practice three times a week from 4:30-6 p.m. in the Blackburn center and have added a strength and conditioning program twice a week to their training program.

At their first MEAC match this season, the women beat Delaware State with great performances from Brittany Dean, Clarissa Maddox and Kimberly Williams who scored 223, 223, and 209, respectively. New team member, Shawntina Alexander, led with a personal score of 236. Their biggest competition this season has been the University of Maryland Eastern Shore (3-0). The Bison team finished second to UMES in their first MEAC match with a total pin fall of 8,621.

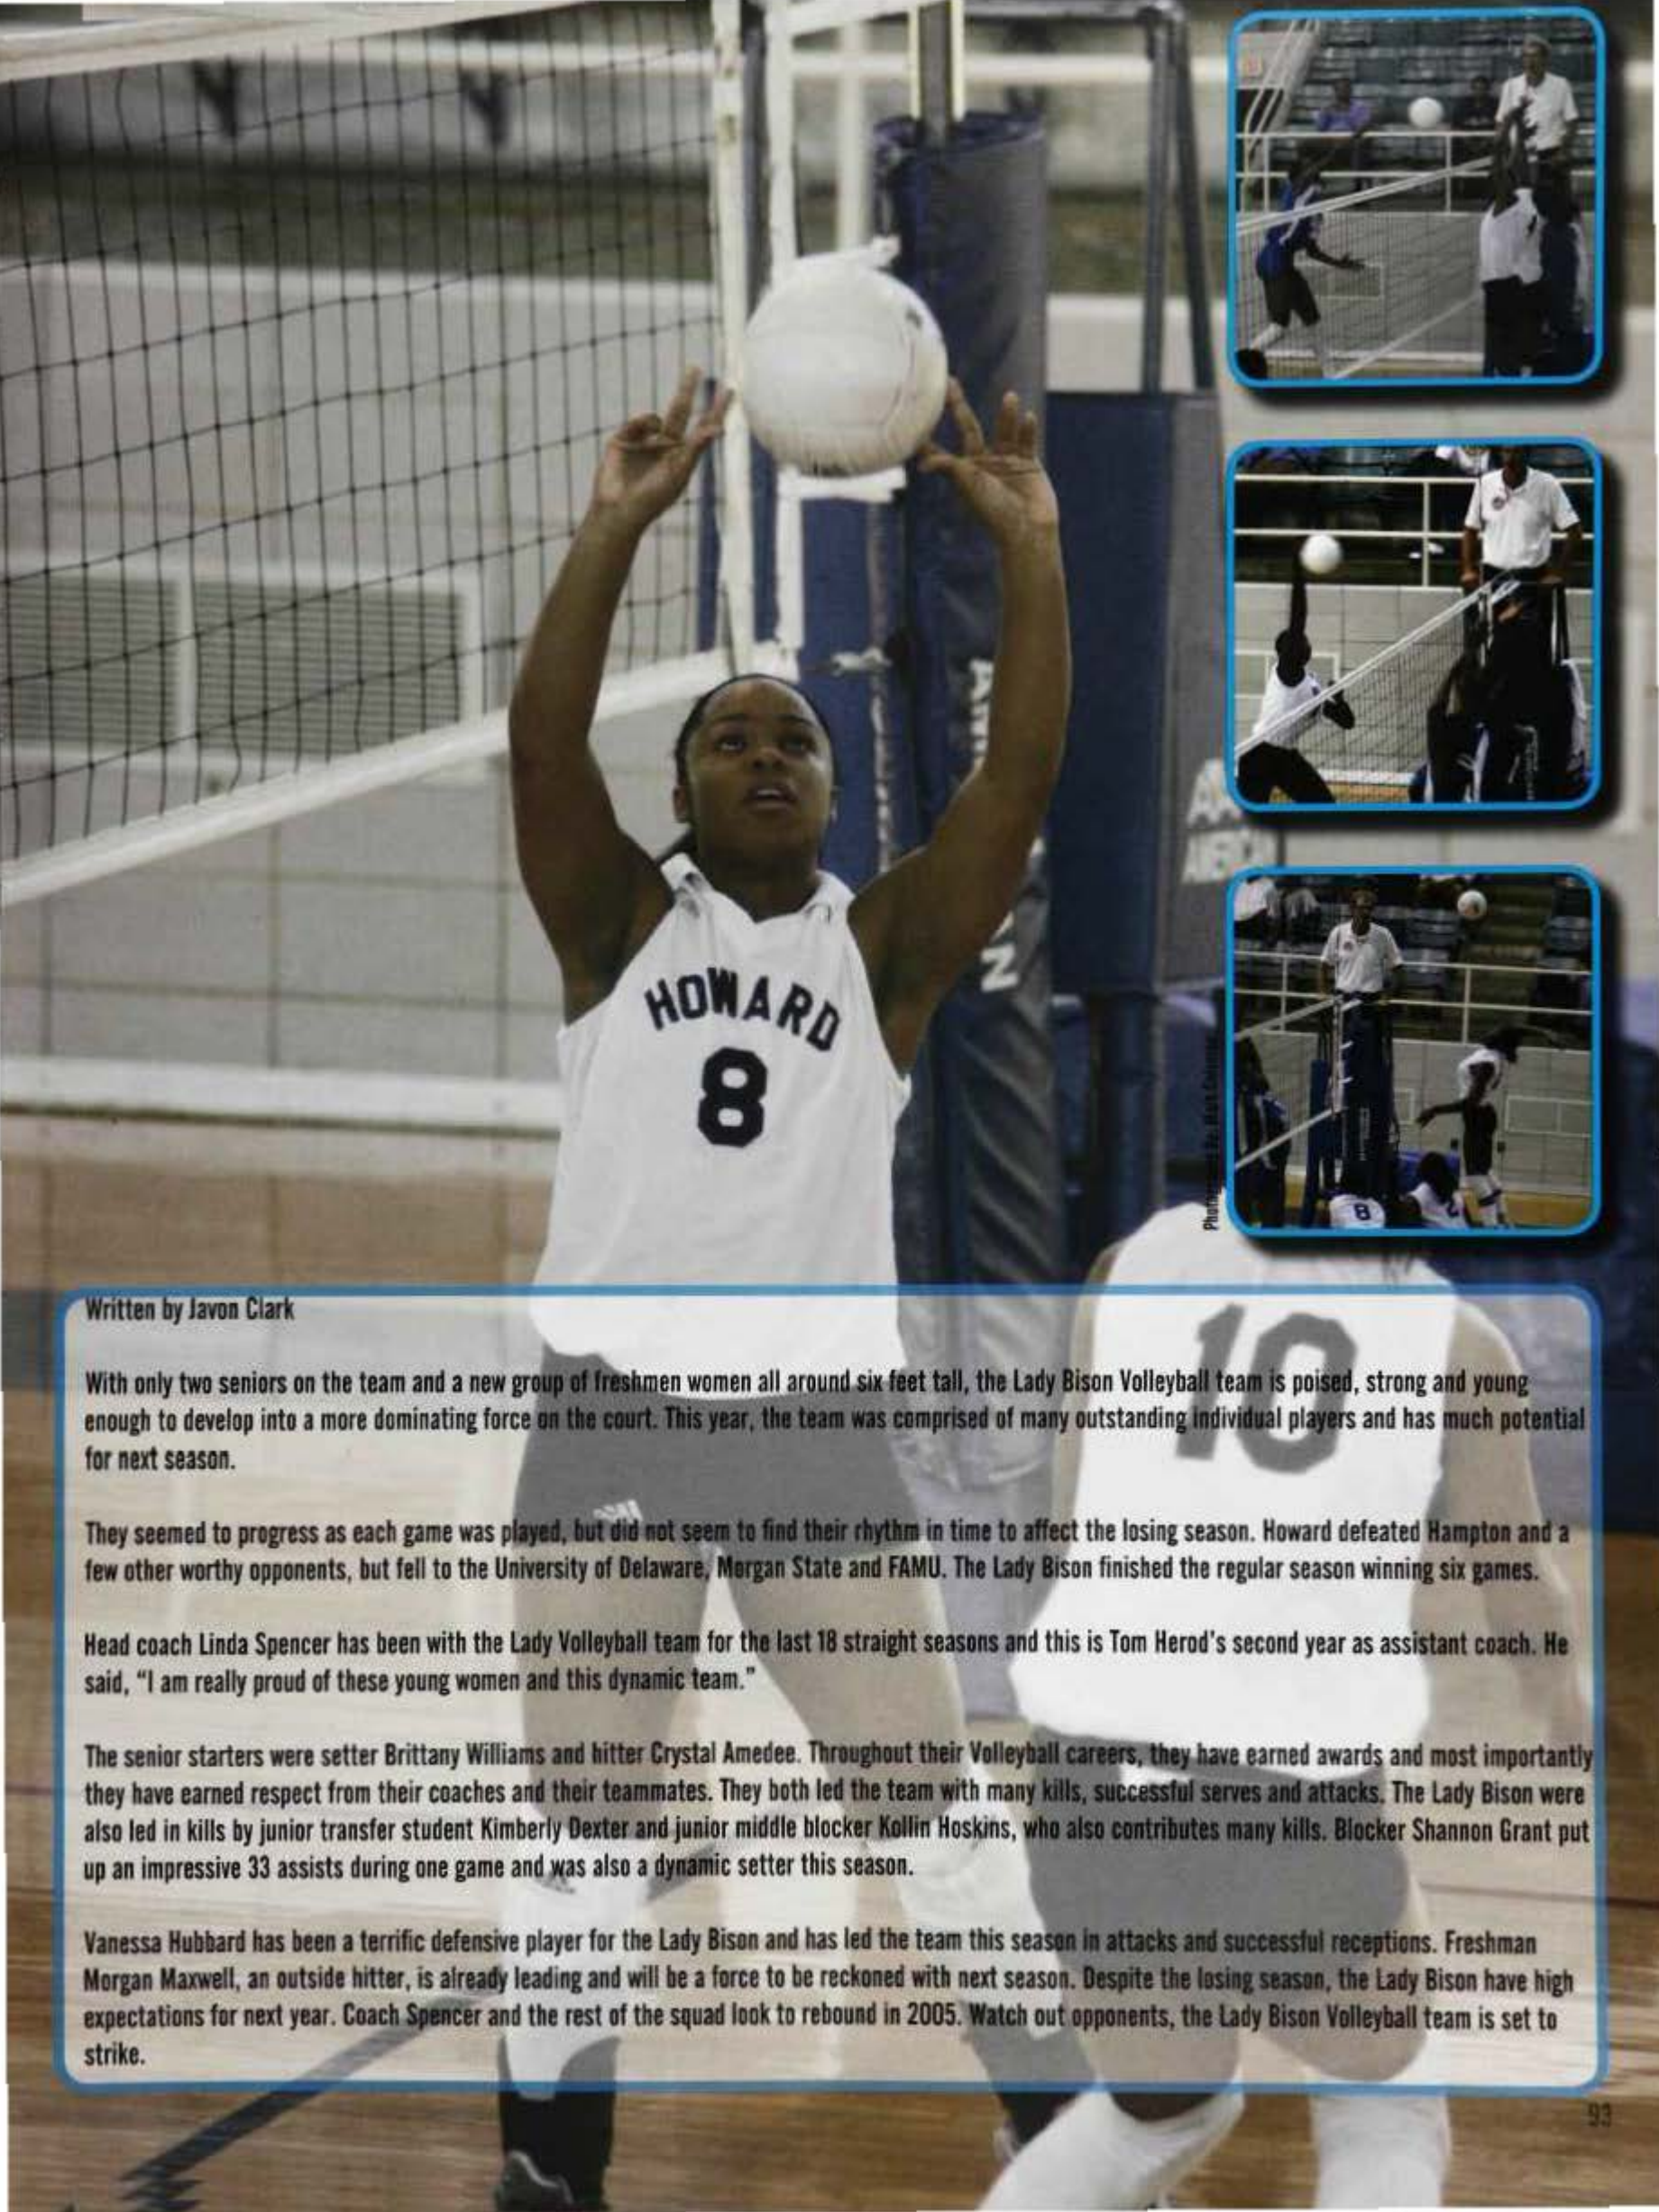

Sophomore Brittany Dean said, "With more direction and guidance, this year's team is stronger physically, mentally, and academically, which has allowed us the ability to be prosperous."

Team members and coaches alike have a positive outlook for the rest of the season. With a few more tournaments to go for the year, the bowling team is set to strike down the competition.

“Freshman Morgan Maxwell, an outside hitter, is already leading and will be a force to be reckoned with next season.”

With only two seniors on the team and a new group of freshmen women all around six feet tall, the Lady Bison Volleyball team is poised, strong and young enough to develop into a more dominating force on the court. This year, the team was comprised of many outstanding individual players and has much potential for next season.

They seemed to progress as each game was played, but did not seem to find their rhythm in time to affect the losing season. Howard defeated Hampton and a few other worthy opponents, but fell to the University of Delaware, Morgan State and FAMU. The Lady Bison finished the regular season winning six games.

Head coach Linda Spencer has been with the Lady Volleyball team for the last 18 straight seasons and this is Tom Herod's second year as assistant coach. He said, "I am really proud of these young women and this dynamic team."

The senior starters were setter Brittany Williams and hitter Crystal Amedee. Throughout their Volleyball careers, they have earned awards and most importantly they have earned respect from their coaches and their teammates. They both led the team with many kills, successful serves and attacks. The Lady Bison were also led in kills by junior transfer student Kimberly Dexter and junior middle blocker Kollin Hoskins, who also contributes many kills. Blocker Shannon Grant put up an impressive 33 assists during one game and was also a dynamic setter this season.

Vanessa Hubbard has been a terrific defensive player for the Lady Bison and has led the team this season in attacks and successful receptions. Freshman Morgan Maxwell, an outside hitter, is already leading and will be a force to be reckoned with next season. Despite the losing season, the Lady Bison have high expectations for next year. Coach Spencer and the rest of the squad look to rebound in 2005. Watch out opponents, the Lady Bison Volleyball team is set to strike.

Women's basketball has consistently been one of Howard's most successful athletic programs. This year the Lady Bison continued their dominance and triumphed in the face of adversity. After losing two of their top players before the start of the season, coach Cathy Parson and the Lady Bison had to rely on senior leadership to return to the top of the MEAC standings.

After promising freshman seasons, guards Christina Aden and Shannon Carlisle both suffered season-ending injuries before the year began. Despite their absences, the Lady Bison were able to win an impressive five games in a row at the start of the season. This gave them the confidence they needed to survive during a long, tough year.

The Lady Bison were led by point guard and captain Daisha Hicks. The 5'8" senior from California had a stellar year as she led the team in scoring, assists and steals. Hicks scored a career-high 29 points in a game against Duquesne. She was among the MEAC leaders in several categories including points and assists.

Also leading the Lady Bison charge were senior center Andrea Jones and junior guard Brittany James. Jones had a breakout year as she led the team in rebounds and blocked shots. James, one of the team's best outside shooters, made nine three-pointers in a Bison win against South Carolina State, setting a new school record.

The Lady Bison basketball team showed us all why they are regularly among the top teams in the MEAC conference. The talent on the team will continue to develop as the team grows. We can expect the Lady Bison to be better than ever next year.

After a disappointing 2003-2004 season with only six wins, the Men's basketball team returned this year with a point to prove. Their goal was to once again become one of the top teams in the MEAC. In his fifth year at Howard, head coach Frankie Allen had one of his most talented and athletic teams to date. With a mix of experienced returning players and promising newcomers, this year's team exceeded all expectations.

Team captain Louis Ford, a junior guard, led the Bison this year. Ford led the MEAC in assists in 2004, and was named to the pre-season All-MEAC second team. Ford highlighted his already stellar career by achieving his first triple double in a game against Maryland-Eastern Shore. In this game he scored 11 points, handed out 14 assists and had 10 steals as he led the Bison to an 88-68 win.

Sharing the load with Ford were two high scoring guards Cliffone Ault and Will Gant. Ault, in his first season as a Bison, played like a seasoned veteran. Ault had a team high of 34 points in a game against a tough Iowa State squad. Ault also received MEAC rookie of the week honors twice in the early part of the season, and has been among the conference's leaders in scoring all year. Gant, a sophomore reached new heights this year. Gant was one of the team's most consistent players. Gant's season was highlighted by a last second game-winning shot to close out a hard-fought game against rival Morgan State. The 79-77 victory thrilled the capacity crowd at Burr Gymnasium.

The supporting cast also chipped in to the Bison's success this year. Forwards Jason Trotter, Darryl Hudson and Stanley Greene dominated the paint. The three of them were among the team leaders in rebounding and blocked shots. Guard Darek "Skip" Mitchell frustrated opposing defenders with his clutch shooting from long distance.

This year's team was one of the best in recent years and with a tight nucleus of young players, the future looks bright for the Bison.

Although the women's soccer team may be overlooked by the Howard community, they represent Howard well. Finishing out the 2004-2005 season with an overall 6-8-0 record, an improvement from last season, this proves that the group of goal oriented young ladies have been working hard to improve their performance.

The Lady Bison are lead by head coach Michelle Street who has been with the team for nine years. The assistant coach is Erinn Garner, a recent graduate of Howard University and a former Lady Bison. The coaches have constantly stressed the concepts of willpower, strength and determination to their team. These ladies have learned to never give up and to fight every battle until the end.

Some tough matches for the Lady Bison this season included Georgetown, NC State and Delaware State, where they pulled off a miraculous win.

Top returnees for the Lady Bison were senior Raneika Bean and junior Lindsay Walton. Bean helped lead the team to a 13-0 victory in the Delaware State debacle and also goes down in the record books as the school's all time leading scorer, with 131 total points in her career.

Now it's time for the Lady Bison to prepare for next season. Bean along with Kamilah Bywaters, Sakira Cook and Dayna West are seniors this year. The remaining teammates have a rough road ahead of them, but have assured us that they will do whatever it takes to be a stronger team next season. Look out for the Lady Bison in the 2005-2006 season.

Despite the small crowds and minimal support at soccer games, the men's soccer team, nicknamed the Booters, has always strived to be the best and to represent Howard well. This past season was one of much struggle and determination. Head Coach Keith Tucker has been with the men's soccer team for twenty-one seasons and played soccer when he attended Howard. This large team is also a good mix of players in various classifications. The multitude of sophomores and juniors on the 26-player team will hopefully step up in leadership in the next season.

Assistant coach Curtis Landry and returning players, Dave Mitchell, Ronald Goodlett, Brian Woodward and Jelani Scott worked extremely hard this season to prepare for their most difficult matches against teams including American University, George Washington University and James Madison University. They started off the season with a win over Virginia Military Institute in a non-conference match up. Key players, Haribo Kamara-Taylor and Jonnie Bess, helped the Bison to a 2-1 victory.

This season, two players stood out from the rest. Haribo Kamara-Taylor was named to the 2004 Atlantic Soccer Conference first team and the conference coaches and sports information directors voted Jonnie Bess to the second team.

Next season, the coaches have said that the team will have to step it up a notch with the absence of some stellar senior players. Key players Chris Serrano, Brian Woodward, Nasir Wade and Bode Akingbohunge are all graduating seniors who were leaders on the field.

Finishing out the season in November with a 4-8-3 record, the team outperformed themselves in comparison to their 2003-2004 season. Coach Tucker is looking forward to an even more successful season next year.

"The hard work is beginning to show in competition as the team is getting stronger and routinely placing higher and higher in competitions."

Howard's Swimming and Diving team has faced some rough waters and tough competition from teams like UMBC, George Mason and American University this season. Head coach Roy Fagin expects the Sharks to do well, but he has also said that the smaller size of Howard's swim team sometimes keeps them from winning swim meets. He explained that a certain amount of points are allocated to each swimmer, making it hard to place in competition unless you have a big team.

Despite this challenge and some others the team has faced this season they continue to practice twice every day. The hard work is beginning to show in competition as the team is getting stronger and routinely placing higher and higher in competitions.

Sophomore Nadya Nicholas has been a leader on the team and has specialized in the women's 200-yard freestyle and the 100-yard butterfly. Khaliyah Robinson, a freshman, has been a standout on the team and Coach Fagin expects her to continue to be a leader throughout her college career.

Junior Milton Dickerson is a leader on the men's team and is also on the men's relay team. Another fast swimmer this year is junior Todd Johnson who finished first in the men's 50-yard freestyle and the men's 100-yard butterfly.

Standouts this season on the women's team included junior Morgan Petty, who often swims the butterfly and the 200-yard freestyle. Freshman Kerhyl Gantt runs the third leg on the 400-yard medley relay team and has placed first in the 100-yard breaststroke at several swim meets.

This season may not have created any big waves for the swimming and diving team, but both the men's and women's teams have some terrific swimmers with faster swim times that will come back with a splash next season.

LACROSSE

Written by Shanel Knox

Don't let the skirts fool you. Howard's lacrosse team is not all sugar and spice. The women may wear neat, pleated skirts on the field, but they are fierce, strong and prepared to annihilate their competition.

The game of lacrosse is very physically and mentally demanding. In order to perfect their tactics and teamwork, the team attends both evening practices and morning conditioning sessions. The lacrosse team is the most recent addition to the athletic program, making Howard the first HBCU Division I school in the National Collegiate Athletic Association to have a team. Sophomores Iram Abdullah, Dominique Browner and Meagan Fitzgerald have been consistent leaders throughout the season and are expected to continue to lead next season. Other notable players include Ifetayo Blissett and Shanon Morris, both from Freeport, NY.

Lacrosse has evolved into one of the world's fastest and most exciting sports. To play this sport, players must be quick and agile. Melinda Vaughn returned for her second season as head coach, along with assistant coaches Chari Chester and Charles Wright. This year the Lady Lacrosse team will spend 9 of their 14 games on the road challenging teams including Drexel, Virginia Tech., Mt. St. Mary's, Ohio University and American University.

NEWBORN STATE TENNIS

Tennis at HBCUs is not quite popular compared to phenomena such as basketball and the world famous football. But of course, here at Howard, Bison always make the exception to promote all sports and to be recognized. The men's tennis team has been under the guidance of Coach Larry Strickland for twenty years and they are definitely prospering.

The nine-player team has had the opportunity to make it to the All-Conference. Junior Kenneth Brown serves as the captain of the team and when he is on the court, he exemplifies his stellar performance that makes everyone proud. All eyes are always on Senior Brandon Smith who is the Co-Captain of the team. Smith finishes off each match almost always with victory.

The team gives fans plenty of world-class serves and precise rallies that leave them wondering how they are even able to breathe. These reactions just show that the five-day practice schedules are truly effective. Their victories have also given them the opportunity to participate in the Men's Regional Championship. These young men work extra hard to satisfy themselves, their coach, and most importantly, their supporters.

Off the court, the team is deeply influenced by their coach to engage in extracurricular activities apart from tennis and to also be a strong team by helping each other study. The team has also produced an Academic All-American, Junior Patrick Rogers.

Coach Strickland anticipates that this upcoming season will be better than the last. He has high hopes that the team should do very well as they mature. All the starters from last year are back on the team as well as a good lineup of freshmen who are prepared to dominate the sport.

“ Although most of the players are new, Coach Strickland describes them as mature and very talented.”

The Lady Bison women's tennis team is comprised of players that are skilled on and off the court. Coach Strickland anticipates that they will have a season unlike any other, mainly because there are six freshmen out of the nine-player team. Although most of the team is new players, the coach describes them as very mature and talented.

Junior Kristen Harris has led the team to many wins throughout her years on her team. She is the Co-Captain of the team, a role that is very important because the players look up to her as much as they look up to their coach. Captain Cecelia Towns holds the task in full capacity and has guided fellow players to succeed.

The women's tennis team distinguishes itself by having two Academic All-Americans, Sophomore Nicole Henderson and Towns. These two are a great influence to the new members of the team by showing them that academics is just as important as sports, and they can excel to the highest levels, once they believe in themselves.

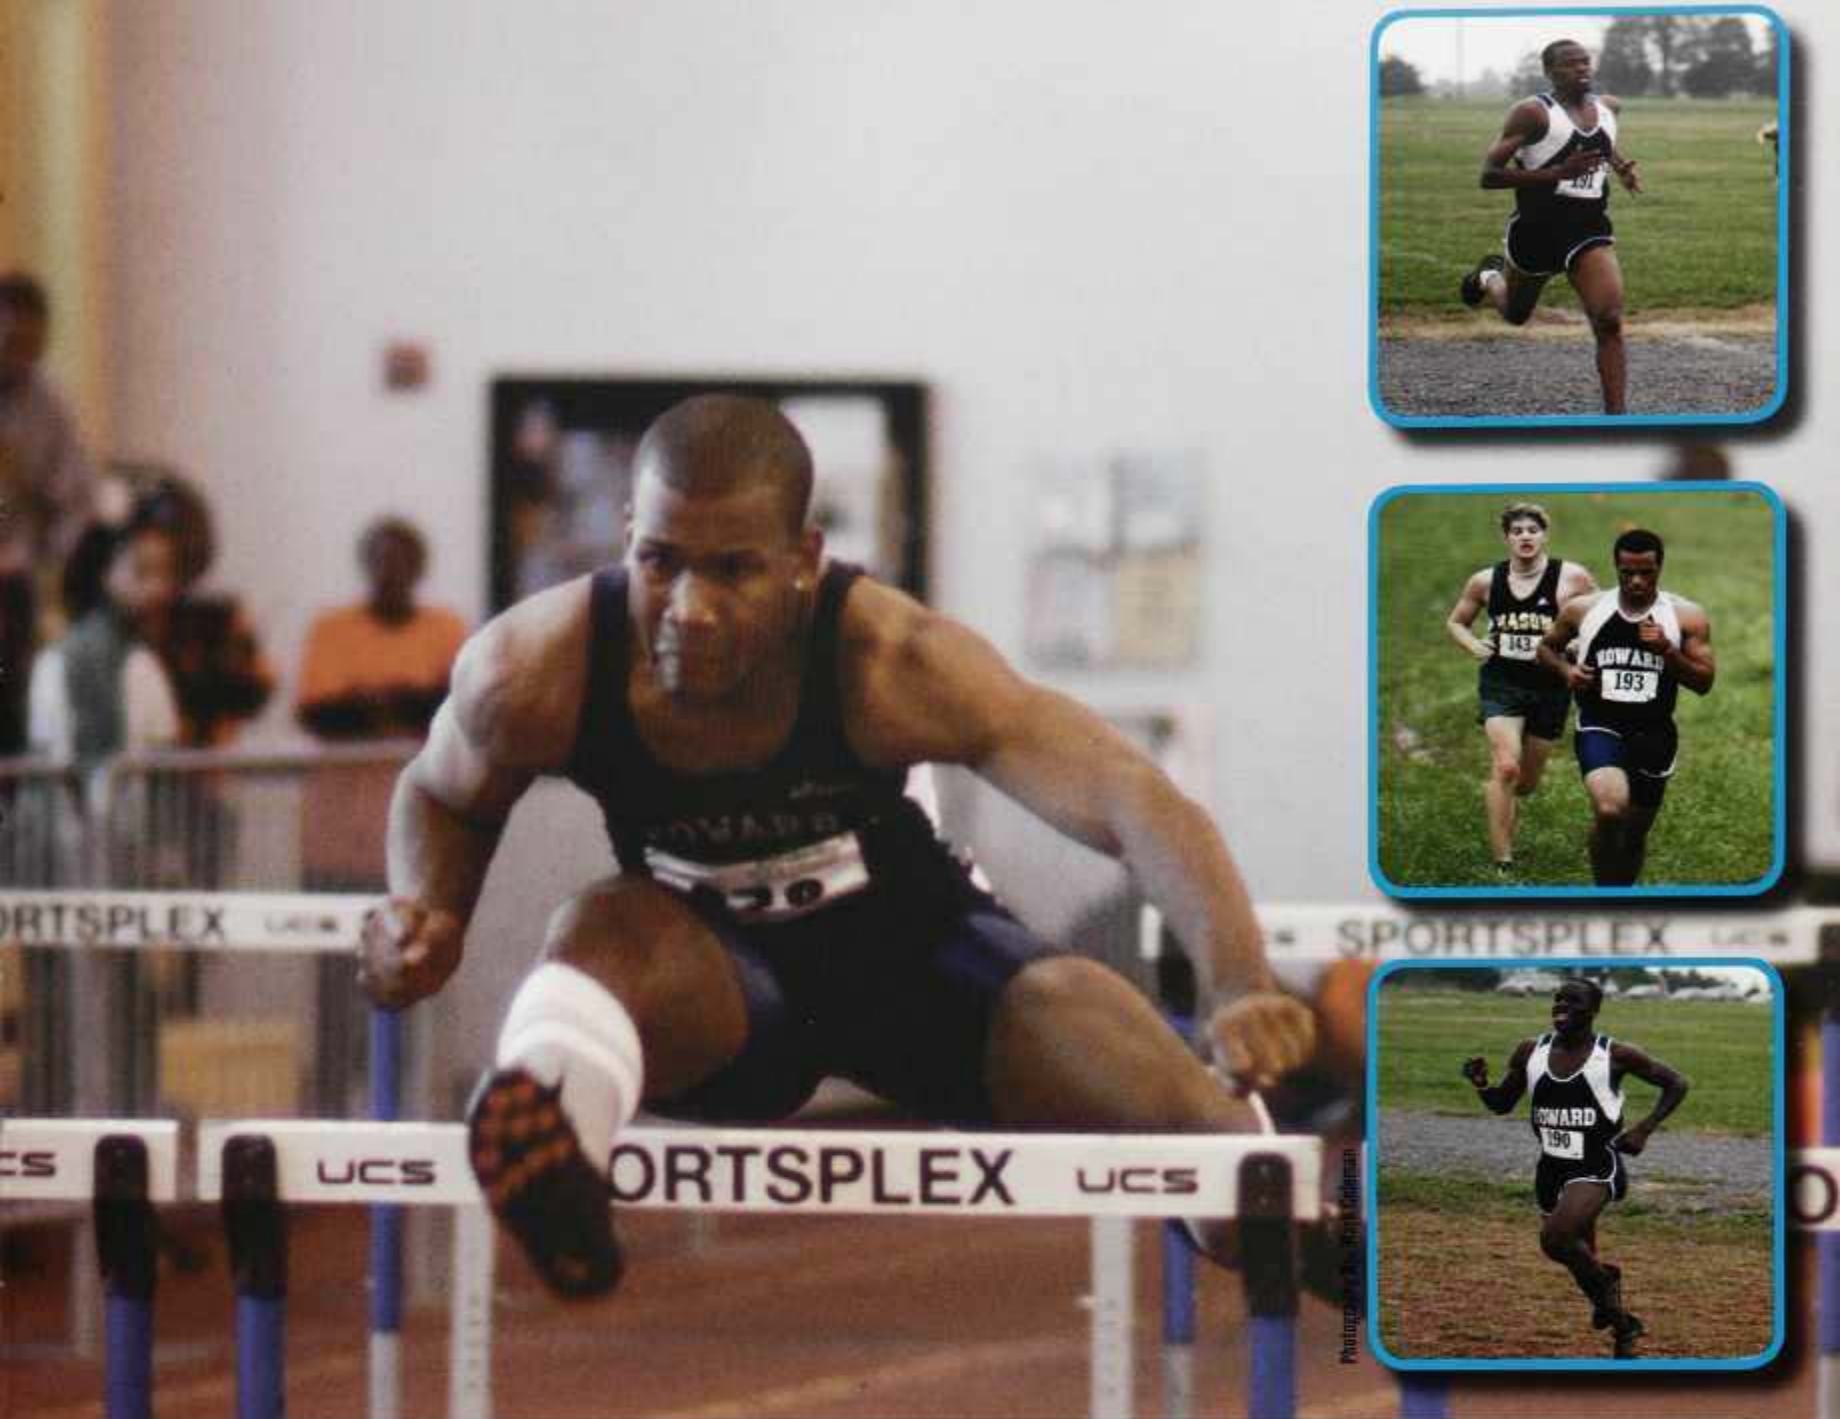

The team is very skilled and articulate. They work together all the time, and tend to correct errors that each other may have made. Many anticipate that in the future the team will grow much larger and will represent Howard as they have been doing over the years. Look out because here comes the Lady Bison Tennis Team!!

TRAC

Written by Jesyca Westbrook

This year, the men's track team has been successful in their invitational meets. They have faced UMES, University of Maryland, Penn State and Virginia Tech among many others this season. The men's team has been invited to the MEAC Championships, NCAA Championships and the Black Colleges Track Classic where they will compete against Bowie State, Hampton and some other HBCUs. The speedy guys hope to run circles around the competition.

Headed by Coach Micheal Merritt and assistant coaches Kenyetta Grisby and Alaina Dearman, the track team is balanced with four seniors, four juniors, four freshmen and one sophomore. He believes that strict discipline and dedication wins track meets. He is known for strenuous practice sessions sometimes two times a day and also for demanding academic excellence in his players.

Senior Mike Sampson is one dedicated senior on the track team who has been getting stronger and running faster consistently over the past four seasons. He testifies that the long practice hours have attributed to his improvement.

This season at the Towson University Invitational the men finished in a respectable fifth place. At the James Madison Invitational the men finished in sixth place and they finished in third place at the Maryland Pre-Acc. Invitational. Last season, David Oliver became the first student from Howard to qualify for the Olympic trials in 16 years. Oliver along with Lance Gross brought a lot of recognition and respect to the men's track and field team last season.

A new crop of seniors including Gerald Bright, Raymond Gayle, Juma Osman, Edgar Sams and Leon Snyder have added their expertise and leadership to the outdoor and indoor track and field team. Several freshmen including Tre' Von Elam, Christopher George, Christopher Taylor and Andre Williams have been off to a great start on the team and we look forward to seeing them take off on the track this season and in seasons to come.

Moving faster than a train or a speeding bullet, the women's track and field team has been outpacing the competition this season. Every time they lace up their track shoes, the ladies burn up the track and their efforts are beginning to pay off.

During the past year, the women's track and field team has been rewarded for their solid performance in the MEAC, earning them a 3rd place title. They dominated the "4 by 1" relay in the NCAA Regional Championships. LaClaire Carter showcased her skills in the 100-meter competition, long jump and relay races. Another stellar runner, Erica Day, not only led the Howard team, but also ran the 400-meter race in the NCAA regional competition.

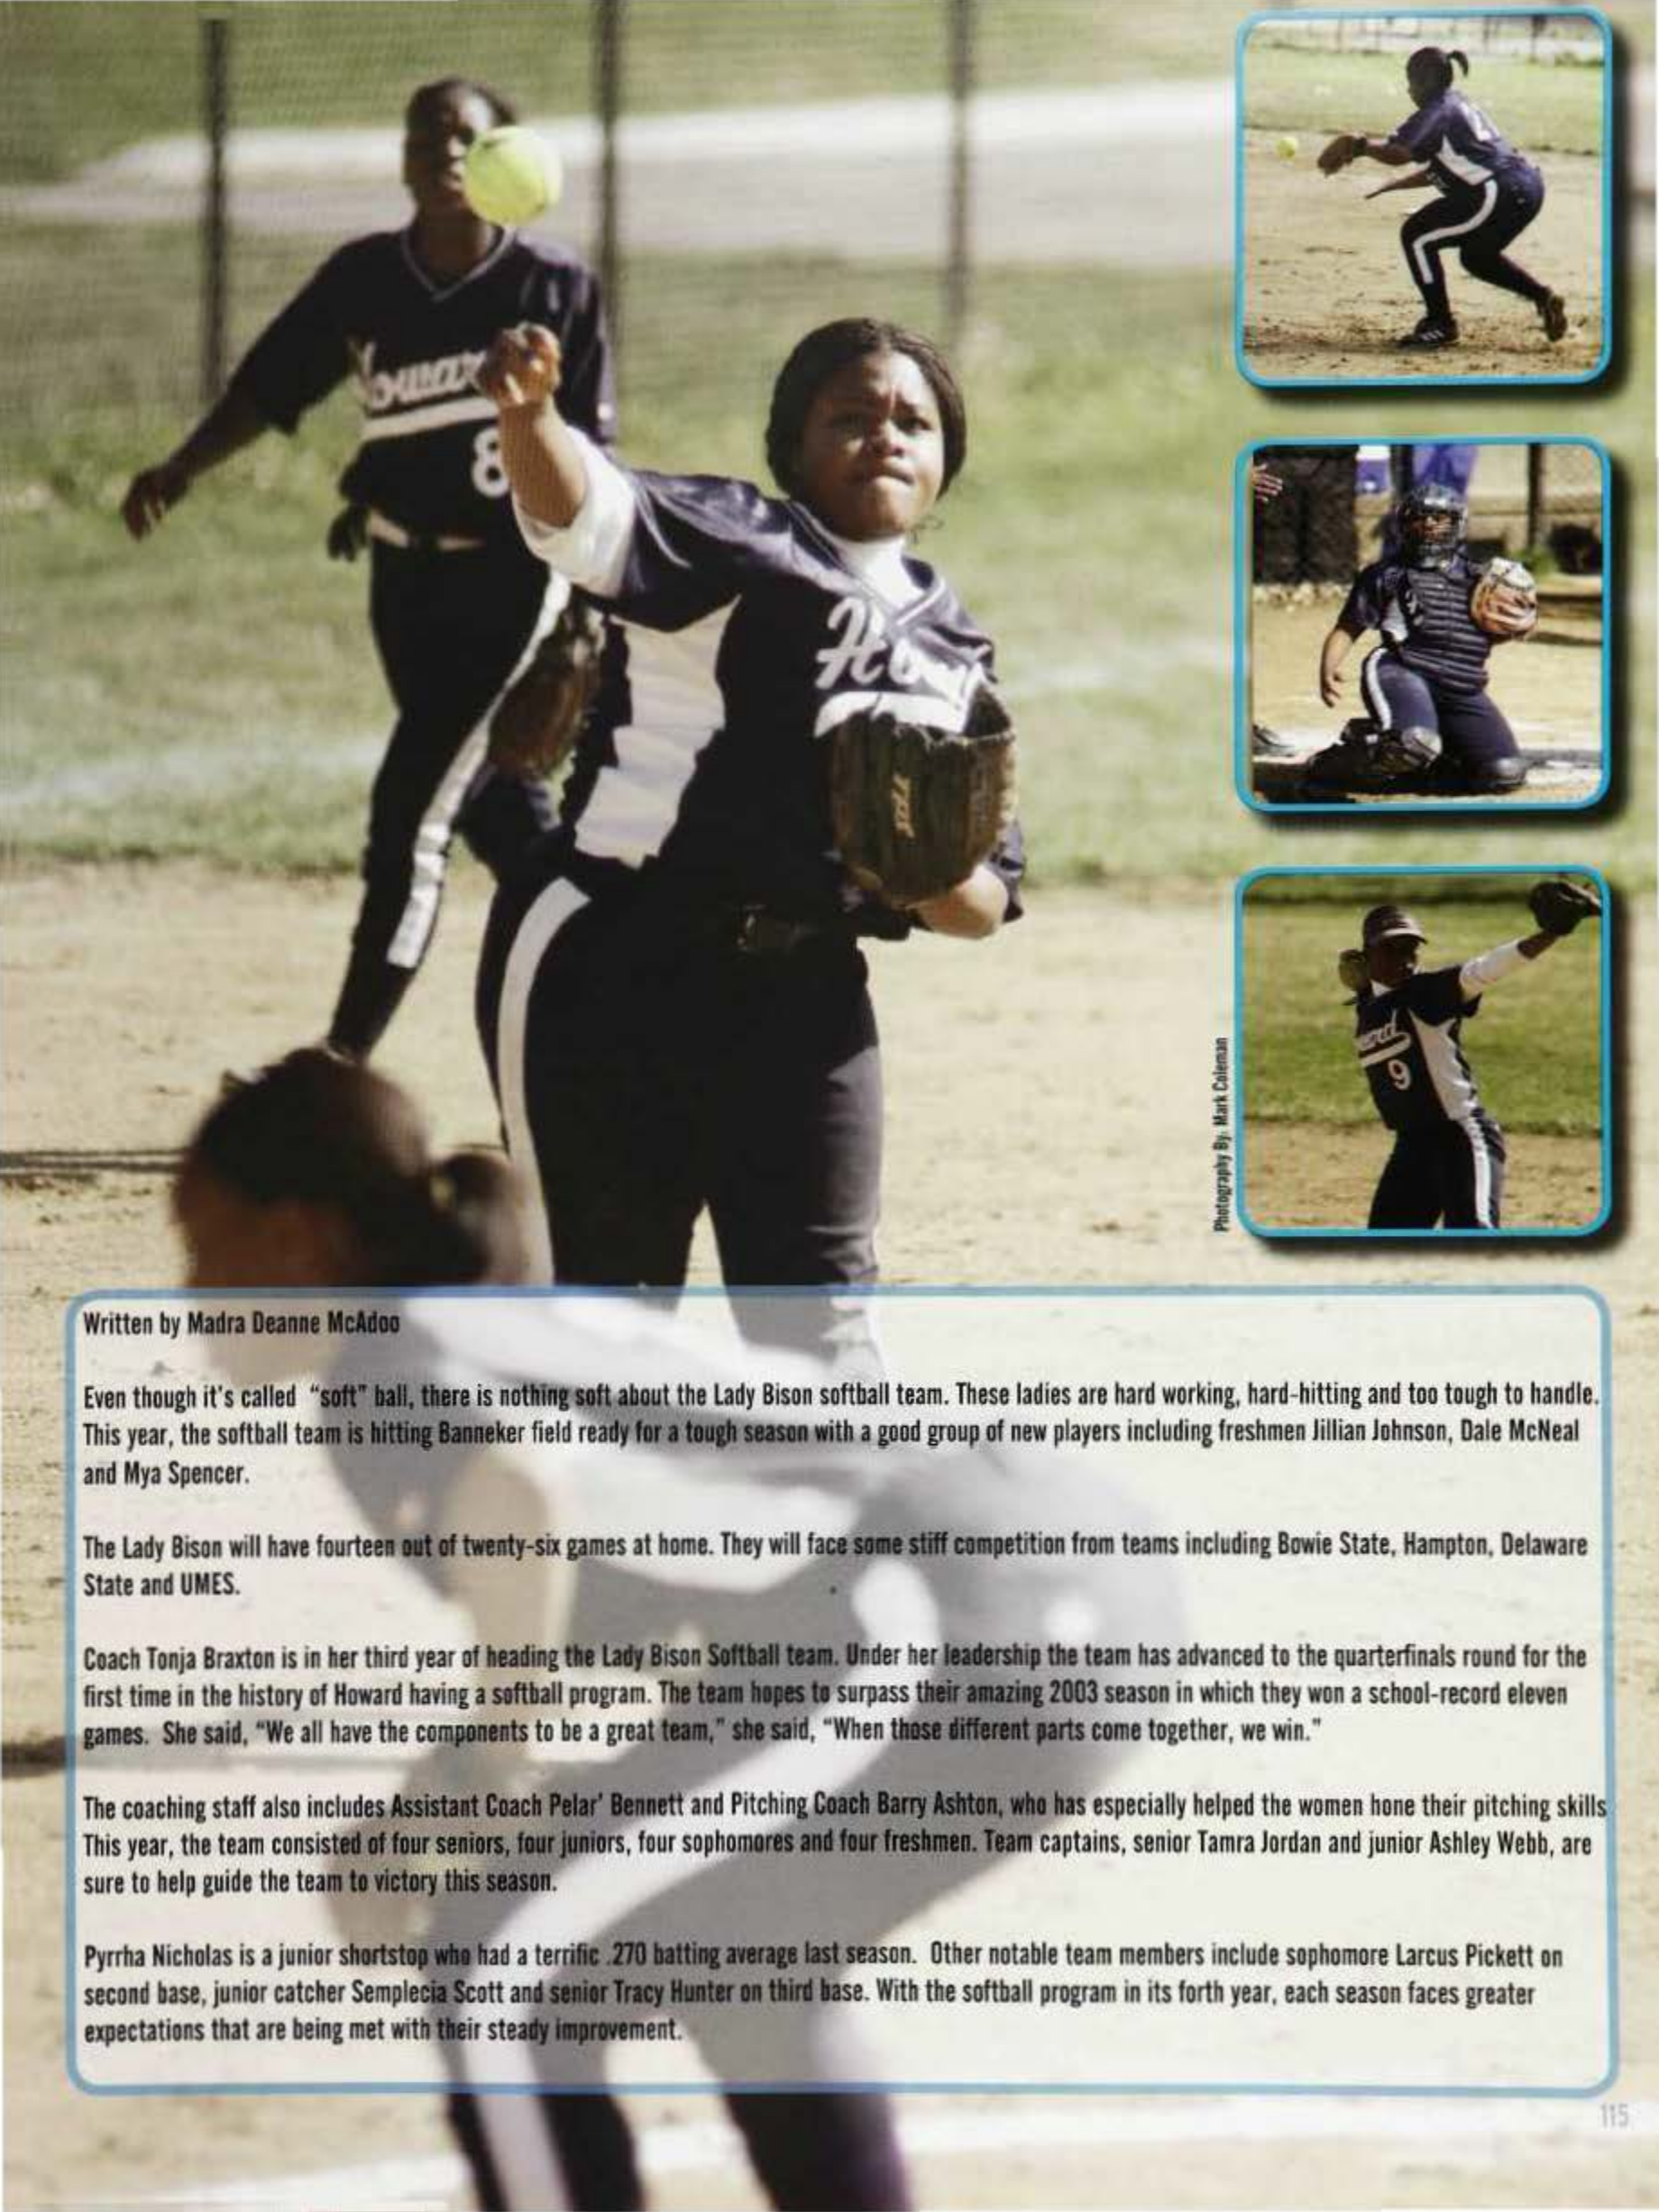

Coach Michael Merritt expects good time trials from these women. He also predicts that they will continue to improve as the season progresses and they will come back even stronger next season. The team has been strengthened by freshmen runners Sierra Georgia, Sierra Cary-Brown and Lauren McNary. The Bison face competition against University of Maryland, University of Virginia, George Mason and Clemson University.

Coach Merritt encourages the team not only athletically, but also academically. He believes that "athletics help people to be disciplined and excel." With strict schedules and practice times, the players are able to concentrate on their schoolwork and running track too. The women's track and field team is one of the most recognized HBCU teams across the nation. When these phenomenal women go out to compete, they represent Howard to the fullest.

“Under Coach Braxton’s leadership the team has advanced to the quarter finals round for the first time in the history of Howard’s softball program.”

SOFTBALL

Even though it's called "soft" ball, there is nothing soft about the Lady Bison softball team. These ladies are hard working, hard-hitting and too tough to handle. This year, the softball team is hitting Banneker field ready for a tough season with a good group of new players including freshmen Jillian Johnson, Dale McNeal and Mya Spencer.

The Lady Bison will have fourteen out of twenty-six games at home. They will face some stiff competition from teams including Bowie State, Hampton, Delaware State and UMES.

Coach Tonja Braxton is in her third year of heading the Lady Bison Softball team. Under her leadership the team has advanced to the quarterfinals round for the first time in the history of Howard having a softball program. The team hopes to surpass their amazing 2003 season in which they won a school-record eleven games. She said, "We all have the components to be a great team," she said, "When those different parts come together, we win."

The coaching staff also includes Assistant Coach Pelar' Bennett and Pitching Coach Barry Ashton, who has especially helped the women hone their pitching skills. This year, the team consisted of four seniors, four juniors, four sophomores and four freshmen. Team captains, senior Tamra Jordan and junior Ashley Webb, are sure to help guide the team to victory this season.

Pyrha Nicholas is a junior shortstop who had a terrific .270 batting average last season. Other notable team members include sophomore Larcus Pickett on second base, junior catcher Semplecia Scott and senior Tracy Hunter on third base. With the softball program in its fourth year, each season faces greater expectations that are being met with their steady improvement.

With the launch of a new website (), this past year has seen the "rebirth" of the African Students' Association. With a current membership of over 750 people, almost everyone including President Swygart can be seen wearing an ASA sweatshirt or T-shirt with the catchy phrase "Africa at the Mecca." The Fall semester saw a series of political, educational, and recreational events ranging from the highly acclaimed FIFA tournaments, The Heroes of African Film Series, Developing Countries and Civilization, and a seminar to mark World AIDS Day. In the Spring, the highly anticipated "Africa Week" was highlighted by the 'Fusion' fashion show. A great year indeed for the ASA.

College Democrats of America

The College Democrats of America (CDA) is the official student outreach arm of the Democratic Party. It aims to elect Democrats, train and engage new generations of progressive activists, and shape the Democratic Party with voices from America's youth. CDA was founded in 1932 to boost the presidential campaign of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. From the 1940's to the 1960's, it was the largest student political organization in the nation. When CDA opposed the Vietnam War in 1967, however, President Johnson cut off funding. The organization floundered nationally until it was revitalized in the early 1980s, and it entered a new era of growth in 1988 with the help and support of then-Senator Al Gore. With the Clinton/Gore campaign as its catalyst, CDA grew to nearly 500 chapters and more than 50,000 members by the 1992 election. To support the Democratic legislative agenda, it has organized initiatives that have resulted in tens of thousands of lobbying phone calls and letters. Additionally, CDA is a key entity in electing Democrats, training students to work on and manage campaigns, and promoting campus activism. It sponsors voter registration drives and heightens student political awareness all across the country.

Howard University Mock Trial Team

The Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Mock Trial Team strives to rule, reign, and reside in the upper echelons of excellence. This year we celebrate our eleventh anniversary. We compete with top universities from all over the country, including Harvard, Yale, and UCLA in order to simulate a legal environment and advocate our position. The 40 member team is divided into four squads. Each squad prepares an argument for the defense and the plaintiff. During the fall, we compete at invitational tournaments. The spring season brings regional and national tournaments. In 2003 we placed first in our region, finally bringing the title, Beast of the East, to Howard University.

Howard University Transfer Student Association

Founded in December of 2003, the Howard University Transfer Student Association (HUTSA) is a new organization on Howard's campus created by four women. HUTSA was created to help transfer students get acclimated into the Howard University community. HUTSA the first organization of its kind wanted to bridge the gap for transfers between their old communities to their new. In addition to aiding the needs of current transfer student, we want to reach out to those in community colleges and help them join the Howard University family. Through their programs HUTSA will continue to help forgotten minority become apart of the Howard University Legacy.

Pi Sigma Alpha

Pi Sigma Alpha was founded in 1920 at the University of Texas for the purpose of bringing together students and faculty interested in the study of government and politics. Professor C. Perry Patterson was an early leader of the first chapter and served as national president of from 1920 until 1932. The success of the honor society at the University of Texas prompted other institutions to apply for chapters, with the Universities of Oklahoma and Kansas establishing chapters by 1922. In March of that year the society held its first national convention at the University of Oklahoma. Growth in the honor society was gradual throughout the 'twenties and 'thirties and accelerated after the Second World War; today there are over 460 chapters throughout the country. There is at least one college or university with a chapter in every state and the District of Columbia and, as of 1995, the U. S. territory of Guam. Pi Sigma Alpha's purpose is to, "to stimulate scholarship and intelligent interest in political science." The society functions at the national level, sponsoring programs and events of value to the profession and teaching of political science, and at the chapter level. Each chapter is encouraged to provide a framework for enriching the exposure of its members and the wider university community to the study of government and issues of public concern.

The John H. Johnson School of Communications: "The Oasis of Intellectual Independence" is making changes that students can see in the School of C. Under the platform of Visibility, the 2004-2005 Student Council is mainly focusing on the preparation of the incoming freshmen, transitioning them from a high school experience to a healthy and fulfilling college experience. In addition school officers will become more visible through the available resources that the school provides, along with reaching out to the surrounding community. The council will assist in the creation of career opportunities for students by combining the resources of the alumni, the career development office and lecture series geared towards preparation for careers in communications. Under this years Student Council we will be making a template for success instead of following one.

School of Divinity S.G.A.

Our goal is to assist in the building of healthy relationships between students, faculty, the administration, and the global community; while enhancing spiritual growth through leadership, service and a genuine love for Christ. Ephesians 2:20-22 Built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone. In him the whole building is joined together and rises to become a holy temple in the Lord. And in him you too are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives by his Spirit.

OMEGA PSI PHI FRATERNITY

On Friday evening, November 17, 1911, three Howard University undergraduate students, with the assistance of their faculty advisor, gave birth to Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. This event occurred in the office of Biology Professor Ernest E. Just, the faculty advisor, in the Science Hall (now known as Thirkield Hall). The three liberal arts students were Edgar A. Love, Oscar J. Cooper and Frank Coleman. From the initials of the Greek Phrase meaning "friendship is essential to the soul," the name Omega Psi Phi was derived. The phrase was selected as the motto. Manhood, scholarship, and perseverance and uplift were adopted as cardinal principles.

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc.

On January 13, 1913, 22 illustrious and visionary women took action to establish an organization of black college women dedicated to social action. These 22 dynamic individuals founded Delta Sigma Theta Sorority Incorporated, the world's largest organization comprised of women of color. Delta has always sought to de-emphasize the social aspect of sorority life while concentrating on scholarship and service.

The ladies of Alpha Chapter have remained active in the Howard community, hosting service projects that included the 22nd annual Walk-A-Thon, which benefitted charities such as For the Love of Children (FLOC), Suited for Change and God's Little Angels. Other initiatives include the Sadie Yancy Scholarship Essay Contest for freshman women and the 13th annual Woman to Woman Conference, entitled "Sisters Let's Talk: Actualizing Our Potential, Building Pathways to Possibility." Alpha Chapter also took a stance in political activism, registering 733 voters for the 2004 presidential election and hosting monthly political forums on campus called PolitiCall.

The love and commitment to Delta is evident through achievement and personal interaction. However, the greatest pleasure comes from helping others. Delta will continue to make strides well into the 21st century and beyond.

PHI BETA SIGMA FRATERNITY INC.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. was founded at Howard University in Washington, D.C., January 9, 1914, by three most honorable men, MHF A. Langston Taylor, MHF Leonard F. Morse, and MHF Charles I. Brown. These great men wanted to organize a Greek letter fraternity that would truly exemplify the ideals of Brotherhood, Scholarship, and Service. From its inception, the Founders also conceived Phi Beta Sigma as a mechanism to deliver services to the general community and this deep conviction is mirrored in the Fraternity's motto, "Culture For Service and Service For Humanity". Today, almost ninety-one years later, Phi Beta Sigma has blossomed into an international organization of leaders with chapters in the United States, the islands, West Africa, Europe, Japan, and Korea.

Commencement 2004

Written By: Jesyca Westbrook

"We will remember this day for the rest of our lives."

Photography By: Shauntel Brown and Angelique Reed

It started out as a brisk cold morning on May 8th as seniors, mothers, fathers and other loved ones filled every seat available on the yard, trying to make sure they had a good seat.

During the ceremony, Communications student Shermela Williams, now a Georgetown law student, gave the student perspective. Each year, one student from an alternating school or college is selected speak. She told the crowd, "We will remember this day for the rest of our lives."

The commencement orator was Ann Fudge, chairman and CEO of Young and Rubican, a global public relations and marketing firm who was named by Fortune magazine as one of the 50 most powerful women in American business. She encouraged the graduates to never accept the word "no" and to grab life by the horns in the true Bison spirit.

President Swygert presented US Senator Bill Frist, Hampton University President William Harvey and acclaimed playwright August Wilson with honorary degrees. John H. Johnson was named "Person of the Year" because of his large donation to the School of Communications.

Brian Woodward, a political science major who is now attending Law school at Georgetown said, "I felt like a superstar. Everyone was clapping and I couldn't wait to switch my tassel."

By the time it was all over, there was hardly a dry eye in the place and the sun had come out to greet the newest alumni of Howard University. For them there is nothing better than hearing the words: "You are officially graduates."

CLASS OF 2005

SIMPLY UNFORGETTABLE

THE MOMENTS WE'LL NEVER FORGET!

What...

Yeah...

Okay!

-Howard students feared gas stations due to sniper attacks.

-The "Crunk" pinning ceremony.

- "Fight Club" in Drew.

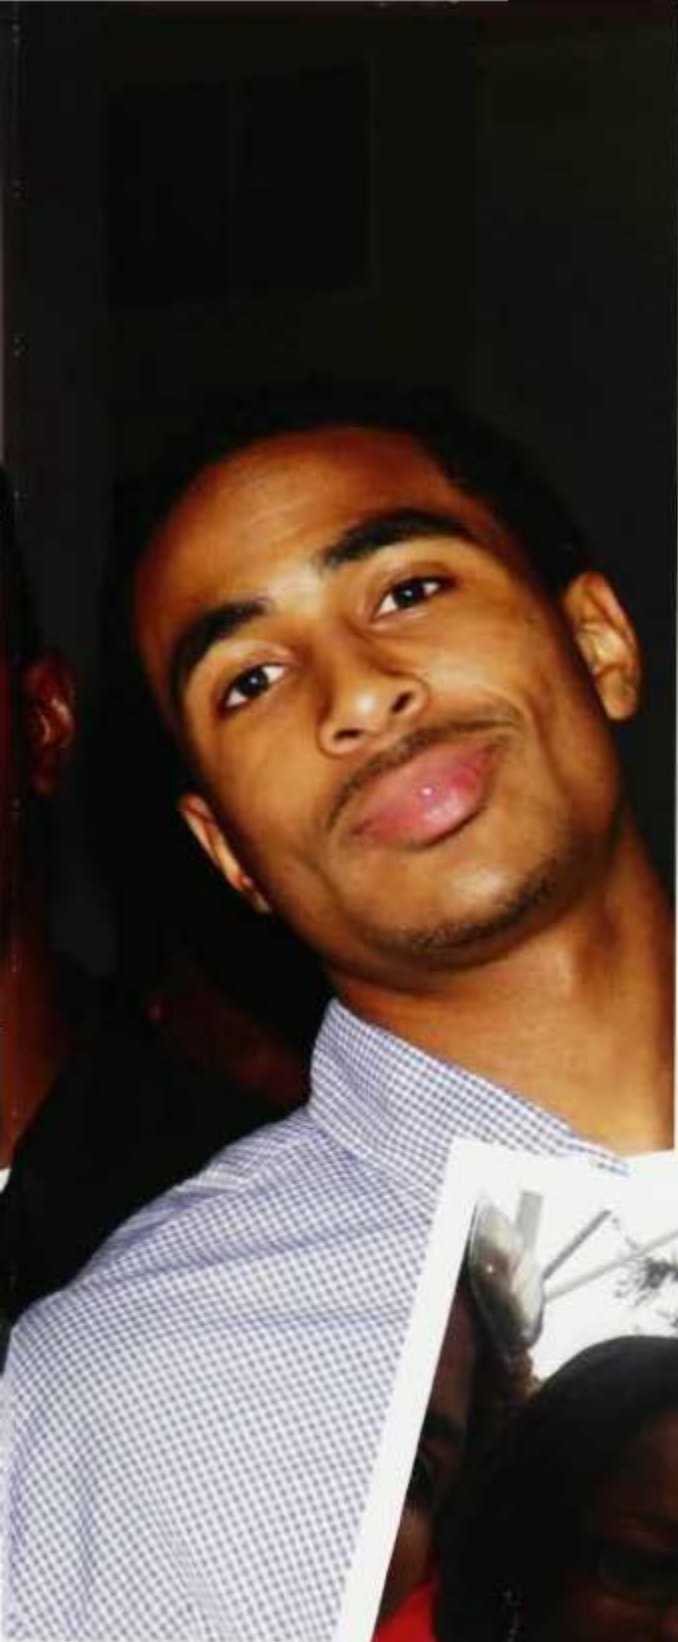

-The Latex party.

-Late night snacks at Texaco.

-Opening of the magic Johnson Starbucks.

-Sliding under the gates at the café and first Friday's.

-When no one got housing after freshman year.

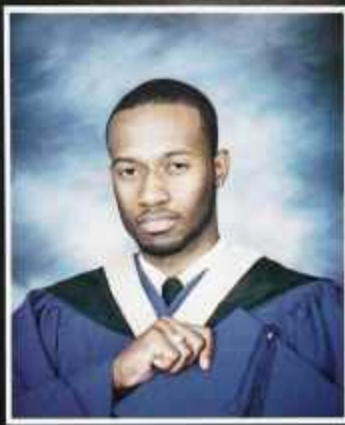

- Pajama parties at 2K9.
- Howard vs. Hampton Football games at Greene Stadium and road trips to Hampton.
- Going to Kings Dominion with the Campus Pals during Pal week.
- Homecoming Yardfest in 2001 with DMX, Foxy Brown and Fabulous.
- The Real HU basketball game in 2001. We won with a jumper and seconds on the clock.
- The infamous Water Fight Part I in front of the Quad and Part II on the Yard.
- Being at school when the Twin Towers and the Pentagon were hit on 9-11.
- Campus Pal week, especially the Dating Game and Ice Cream social.
- When it snowed so hard in 2002 that the piles came up to our knees.
- Booing the comic off the stage during the 2001 Homecoming Comedy Show.
- R&B star Aaliyah's plane accident and untimely death.
- Left Eye of TLC's car crash and untimely death.
- Breaking down the doors at Cramton to see a free movie preview of "How High."
- R-Kelly and talk of his alleged tape. Was it him or just a look-alike?
- Seventeen magazine doing a fashion feature on campus.
- The burning hot Howard vs. Hampton football game, many people got sunburned.
- The snowball fight on the football field and on the Yard.
- The opening of the Health Sciences Library.
- When cut up Howard paraphernalia came and went out of style.
- The infamous 4:20 party on the yard freshman year.
- The egg fight outside the quad.
- Loosing visitation... every other day.
- Food Fights in the café... and students being arrested.
- The grand opening of the commuter lab.

Seniors reminisce on their most memorable moments at the Real H.U.

Ready for the World

As Graduation approaches, seniors plan for the future!

Here are some of our most popular responses to the question: What are you going to do after graduation?

“Work with Teach for America or Law School.”
- Tiffany C., English major

As seniors prepare to graduate from college and move on to the next step in their lives, the most commonly asked question is: What's Next? Some students head straight out into the workforce while others choose to prolong the inevitable life of work, bills and loan repayments a little longer.

"Travel to Spain, Japan, England, Africa or another continent."
- Hakim H., English major.

"Work for the Boston Globe as a reporter."
- Rhasheema S., Print Journalism

"Work with an Accounting firm."
- Zenitra A., Accounting major

"Post baccalaureate program in Pre-Medicine or Research"
- Joi B., Biology major

"Move back home and look for a job."
- Sam J., Psychology major

"Get my Law Degree"
- Madra M., Legal Communications

"Start with an internship and then go to Grad school in the Spring."
- Keith L., Print Journalism major

"Move to New York and become a Broadway actor."

- Marinda A., Musical Theatre major

“ I wish I knew that Howard would force me to hate it, make me love it, then make me love myself, my peers my community and my University more than I ever knew were possible. ”

-Shara T., Marketing major.

SENIORS

Hindsight is 20/20

Senior discuss the things they wish they knew freshman year!

“The importance of talking to upperclassmen about good and bad teachers before you register for a class.” - Shelci D., Accounting major

“To not drink anything in a cup that someone hands you at a party.” - Erica W., Spanish major “Stay out of Drew Hall! Its no good for you.” - Regina D.

“Everyone you meet isn't going to stay. Being able to stay in school is a blessing.” - DG

“Not to talk to any boys at Howard.” - Paris P., Film production major.

“Not to wait late to pay for RSVP.” - Michael R., Systems and Computer Science major

“The importance of good impressions.” - Jasmine T., Psychology major

“If you think you can't wake up for that 8:00 a.m. class, you probably won't.” - Ashley S., Political Science major

“It is not always the best idea to live with your best friend especially if she is messy.” - Diana W., English major

“Not to party the night before a final.” - Jason B., Biology major

“How to budget my money, how to talk to girls, never burn a bridge and I wish I had known then how to keep secrets.” - Adam G., Marketing major

“You can get a lot a lot of free software from the I-Lab and you can go to the Dental school and the hospital for free.” - S.S., International Business Major

"Be yourself and don't change cause people will respect you more."

- Ryan S., Film major

"How to choose whom to be friends with and to be a better judge of character."

- Xayna S., Political Science major

"It is important to get involved earlier."

- Christal B., Political Science major

"There is more than one way to go about getting the job you want."

- Nicole I., Biology major

"How little the opinions of others really matter."

- Kevin J., Finance major

"To look for internships early."

- Kim C., Film Production major

"The great times I had freshman year would be the best of my whole college experience." -Martin S., Photography major

"Don't tell other people the details of your relationship if you both go to the same school. It will get around."

- Carla D., Journalism major

"Make copies of everything!"

"Engineering is a really hard major." - Javon C., History major

"Howard is similar to the game of life; you need politics to get through it. You need connections to make it. It's not always what you know, but sometimes it's whom you know. Enjoy your experiences as a freshman, those are the best times."

- Robert M., Exercise Physiology and Philosophy major

"Don't save every girl you see." - Jay K., Radio Production major

"You can't get anything done over the phone."

- Sean L., Computer Science major

"My major." - Rachel C., Mathematics major

"That I could have studied abroad more."

- Hakim H., English major

"Not to bring my car to DC and get a whole bunch of tickets."

- Cassandra C., Political Science major

"I wish I knew that these four years would fly by and that I should cherish every moment and experience with my peers and friends."

- Ian G., Marketing major

I wish I would have known then...

Blessings are not always easily recognizable. The proof is the way you have developed from a beautiful, dependent child into a strong, independent beautiful black woman.

Never waste time thinking about what might have been. Use "what is" in your ever evolving pathway through life. Never underestimate your possibilities! May this graduation serve as the spring board to the best years of your life.

Congratulations on reaching one more very important milestone. "Always hold your head high but keep your nose out of the air." -This is with abundant Love to Shara D. Taylor from Sarah Diane Taylor (better known as MOM)

CONGRATULATIONS

-Proverbs 3:56

Dear Justin-

We, your parents, family, and friends, celebrate you and all of your accomplishments! We all love you and will continue to pray with you and for you. You have given us many great memories and proud moments. Keep your mind on Christ and He will protect you and direct you. "Preserve me, O God for in thee do I put my trust."

-Psalms 161

We are very proud of the many things that you have accomplished so far in your life and we believe that you will succeed and go further because of your determination, spirit, and faith. We knew, as we watched you grow from a joyful baby into the wonderful person that you are today, that you would become successful in whatever you choose to do. Follow your dreams and continue to work hard and may all of life's challenges and obstacles only be stepping stones in the path to your many triumphs. "Strive for being the BEST, because you are Head and Shoulders above the REST!"

Congratulations!

Love,

Mom, Dad, Linea, Grandmom, & Granddad

Chyrisse.
 We've watched you grow up from a little girl to a young woman. It seems like only yesterday that we had received a phone call from you at "Howard," crying, saying "Mommy, Daddy, I don't feel good here. I'm lonely, and nothing is going right." Chyrisse, we are so proud of you for not giving up and succeeding. So we're wishing you continued success towards your life's ambitions.

Love,

Cassandra "CC" Cumbess

Congratulations to my dear and darling daughter Cassandra! I am one very proud father. Over the past four years, I have watched you really mature as a young woman. I admire how you have come to handle life's situations, your focus and drive and your ability to stick it out when it got tough. These things I know you accomplish through your unwavering faith. You make me proud!
All My Love All the Time, Your Dad Mark

Cassie,
Mere words cannot express my gratitude to God for how he has covered you, protected you and sustained you during your educational journey at Howard. The day you left, we all began a new journey. I knew that even though I could no longer hug you before you went to sleep, I could still hug you in my heart. You are a phenomenal woman. I am so proud to be your mother and your friend.

CC... Meeting you was like a blessing in disguise. After my roommate transferred from Howard I thought I would never find someone to laugh with, share my secrets with and most importantly, "Get it Crackin' With!" Although we may go our separate ways, I will never forget the times we shared (the burnt missions in Cali, the "fights" in the club, and the Delta Days). Not only are you my friend, but you are my "sistah." Don't you get tired of people saying, "Are ya'll twins?"

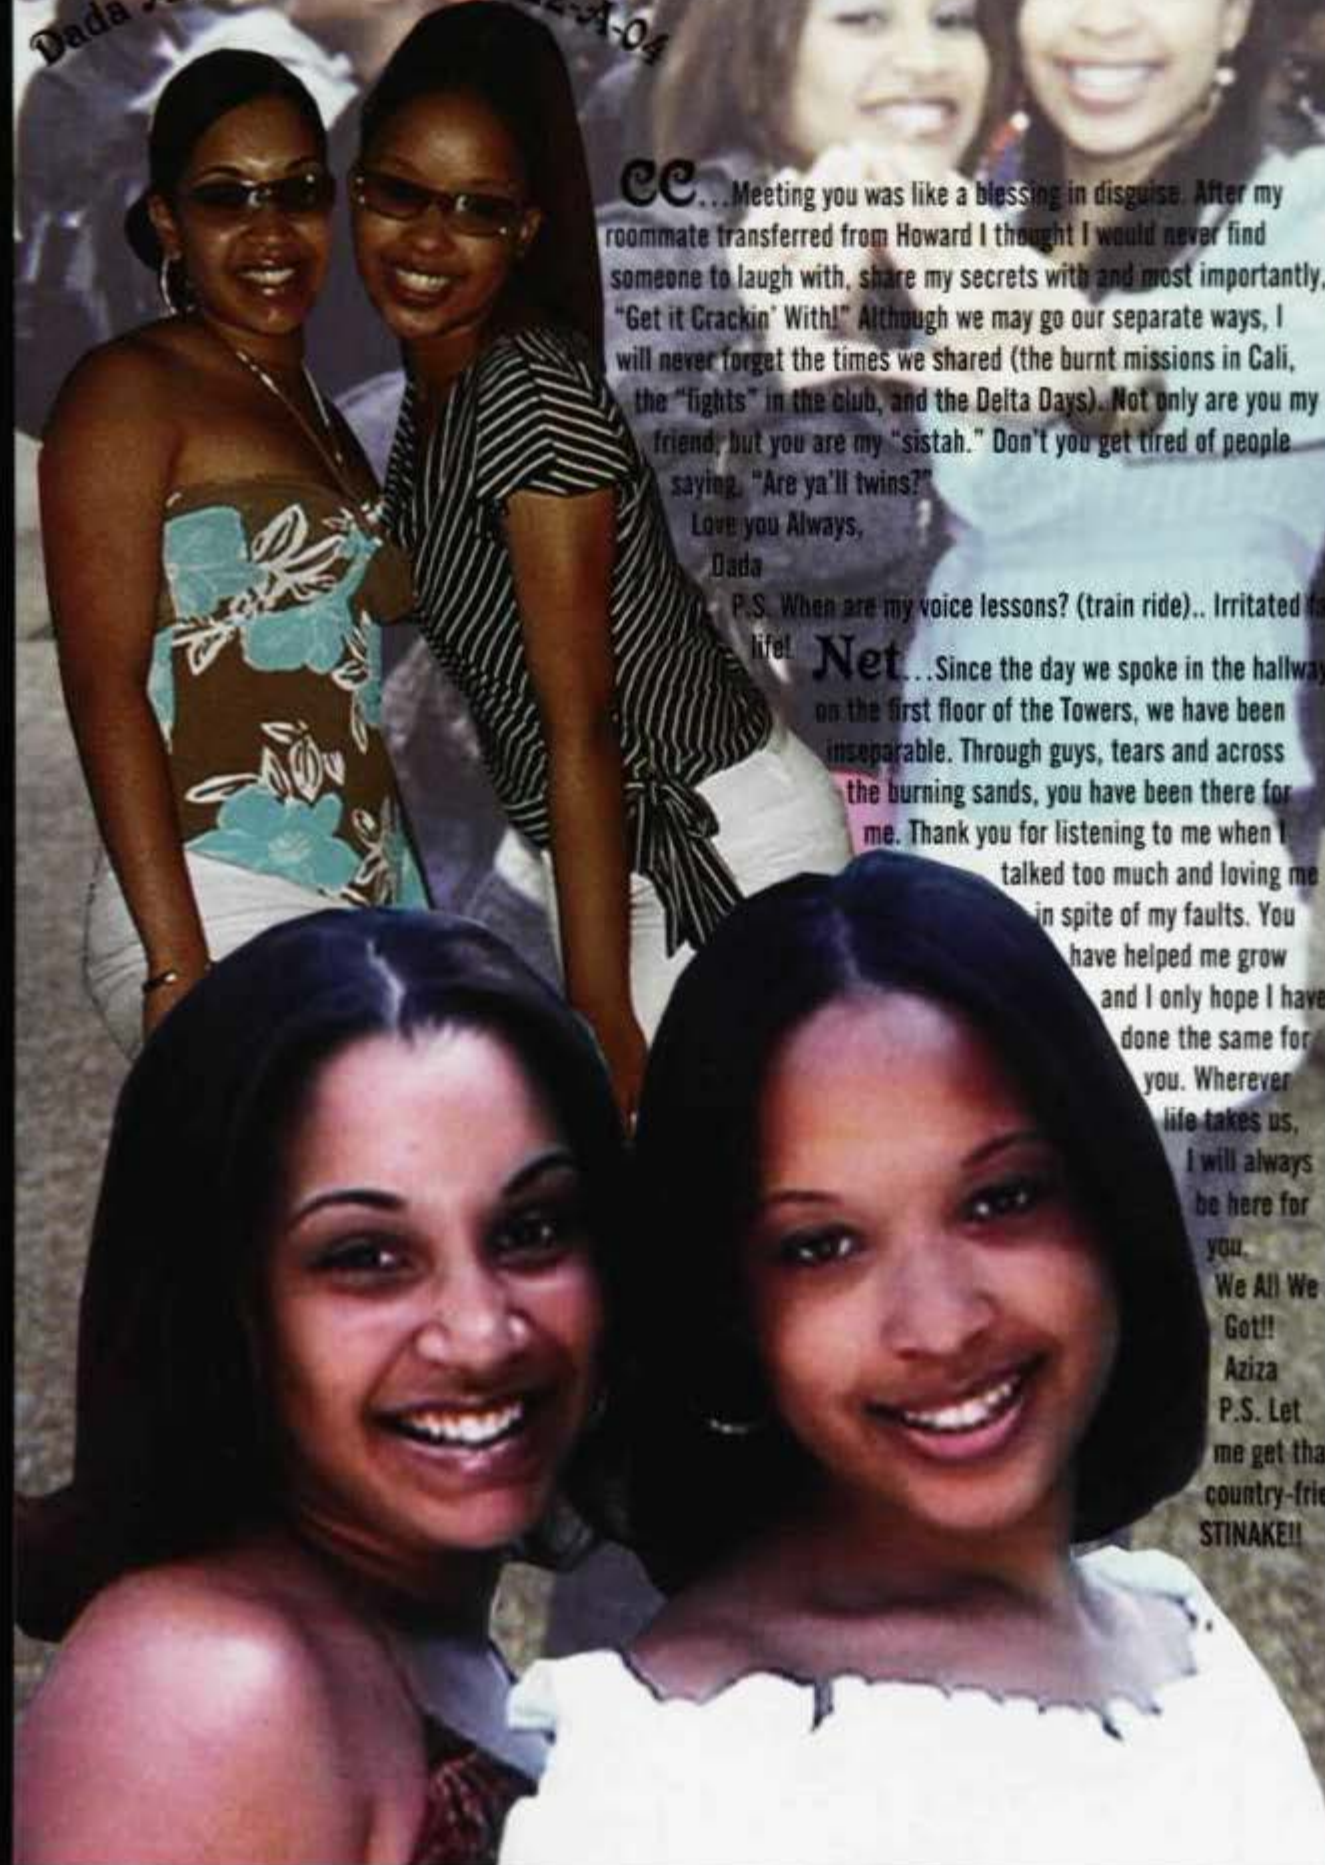

Love you Always,

Dada

P.S. When are my voice lessons? (train ride).. Irritated for life!

Net... Since the day we spoke in the hallway on the first floor of the Towers, we have been inseparable. Through guys, tears and across the burning sands, you have been there for me. Thank you for listening to me when I talked too much and loving me in spite of my faults. You have helped me grow and I only hope I have done the same for you. Wherever life takes us, I will always be here for you.

PARIS PICKETT

Wow! What can we say about our daughter, Paris, except Extraordinary! You have gone above and beyond what we would have ever expected of you. We always knew since you were a baby that you were special, but never did we know that you would become the extraordinary person that you are today. We remember when you spoke your first real word. You heard your mom and dad arguing and didn't like it. It apparently moved you to the point where you formed your little mouth to softly say..."stop". Dad and I were amazed. "Did she just say stop?" Extraordinary!

You've always had the determination to do your best and demand the best from everyone around you. We remember when you were three. You were in a dance recital and knew the routine better than all the other three year olds. You were giving your best; going above and beyond expectations. The other dancers weren't quite up to par with the Paris aptitude and took it self to them. You removed yourself from the line and stepped up front to show the other three year olds how it should be done. Extraordinary!

Niya, we could not ask any more of you than what you've already been doing, excelling at everything you set out to do. You wanted to go to Howard University. Wow, how can we pull this one off? Why not Georgia State? Or Georgia Southern? Or Georgia anywhere? But no, Howard. Well, it's not an "economical" school. In fact, it's set us back a pretty penny. But we knew you would get there and go above and beyond what we could have ever expected, because that's who you are. You don't give less and you don't settle for less. You went off to Howard and just blew us away, right from the start: cheerleading, HUSA, becoming a Delta, a domestic exchange at USC, the year book staff, and more. And now you're moving on to the next set of big plans you've made for yourself. You amaze us. You amaze everyone, even people who don't even know you; people that we brag to about you. All we can say is Extraordinary!

Remember, keep God first in every-thing that you do and you will continue to flourish in life.

We love you Niya, and we wish you all the best.

Love,
Mom & Dad

"THE GRADUATE"

Ode to Chanelle Diane Dumas

Your entrance into this earthly world,
Was a treasure to behold;
God's precious gem to all,
Worth more than diamonds or gold.

We watched you grow fascinatingly,
As you grasped and learned every detail;
Your mission unclear at that time,
But we knew you would prevail.

The plateaus in your life were many,
Your accomplishments we began to tally;
The skills you possessed in your younger years,
Have continued and will until the finale.

Listing your achievements would know no end,
As you continue to strive and grow;
You speak, communicate, and lead so skillfully,
Our Hearts burst with pride, you must know.

At Howard University you found your niche,
Where you continued to blossom and mature
Making the Dean's List,
Campus Pals, involved in campus life,
Your future you aimed to ensure.

Your horizons have broadened and stretched,
Around the globe to foreign lands;
France, England, Italy, Holland and Spain,
And He always kept you in His hands.

All of your accomplishments and endeavors,
Have been varied, exciting, and unfurled;
You are our "Star," our gleaming pearl, The Graduate,
We are thankful for your life in this world.

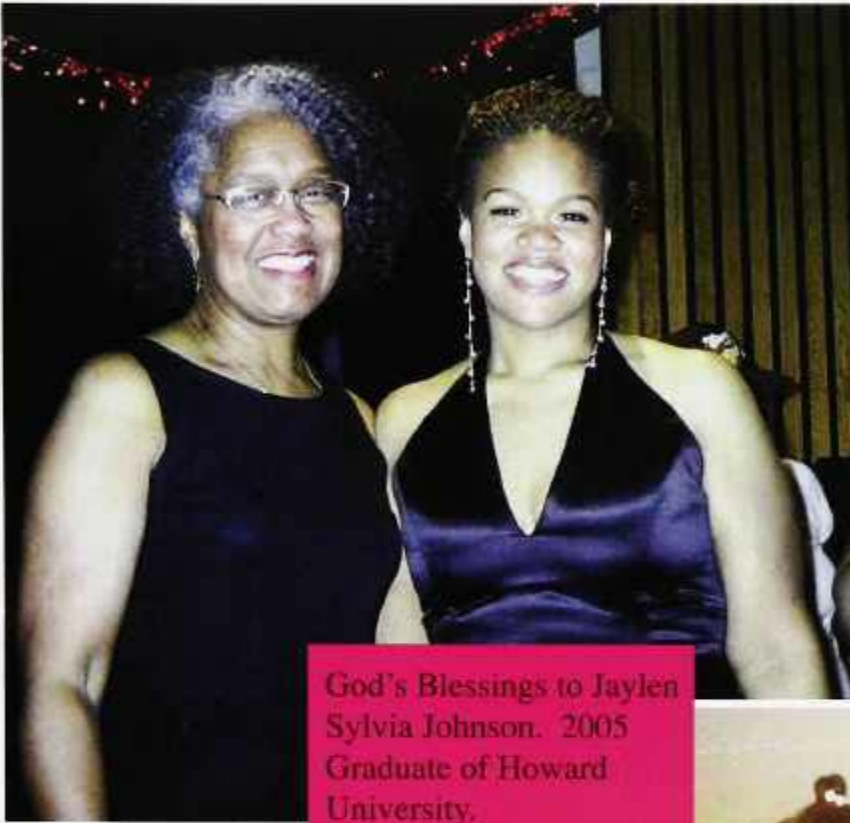

So enjoy this time, celebrate with wisdom,
Wear your crowning excellence well;
Remember those who love and care for you,
As you move and strive o'er each mountain and dell.

To Our Shining Star...Chanelle Diane Dumas

Ashley Ross

As I move on from Howard, words cannot express how much I truly love and appreciate my family who has supported me through all my wild endeavors.

Throughout my life I have been truly blessed to have two wonderful parents who would sacrifice all they had if it would save me from experiencing any pain or heartache. I want to thank my dad in particular for teaching me just how precious life can be.

Through our heart-to-heart conversations I learned how important it is to listen and observe others around me. I also learned that no one is invincible and life is too short to let pain or stress consume my mind and heart. I must also thank my mother for being a constant pillar of strength and encouragement in my life. No matter the situation and no matter if I was right or wrong, she has always been ready and willing to roll up her sleeves and have my back. My mother taught me what loyalty and respect are really all about.

MY FAMILY: I am nothing without each and every one of you. I MUST be highly favored to be related to such beautiful and dynamic people. Everything I do in life is done with you in mind with the hopes of someday making you proud...I will die trying. Hey T.T's baby!

JACKTOWN'S FINEST: Since freshman year of high school, ya'll have been the REALest b*t*h*s I know. I truly learned from the best! I didn't realize how blessed I was to have ya'll until I got to Howard and witnessed shade on another level. Thank you for teaching me the true meaning of friendship. I love me some

I would have lost my mind, I'm trying to tell ya'll! Thank God they messed up my

But then again, God don't make mistakes! I'm gonna miss ya'll and can't wait to meet up again Cali, right? Nudie, it's really over! At least I came out of this with a new little/big sister though. You helped me learn how to be self LESS and for that I am eternally grateful. HEY GIRRR! AUDACIOUS 48: You'll never know what you mean to me. When I think of you the first thing that comes to my mind is "LOVE! Trying to make 1 and 48 the same!" We have so many memories (miyanda's helmet hair!) and so many more to make. MY BACK AND OTHER BACK, I luv ya'll so much and can't wait to see you involve into the devastating women that I know you're destined to be! I never imagined that I would be willing to do ANYTHING for two miscellaneous breads. Thank you for being you and helping me to be a better me!

NASD Careers

NASD is the world's leading private-sector provider of financial regulatory services. Created more than 60 years ago, it has long been the primary self-regulator of the U.S. securities industry. Today, NASD's mission of bringing integrity to the markets and confidence to investors is more important than ever.

NASD registers member firms, writes rules to govern their behavior, examines them for compliance and disciplines those that fail to comply. We provide education to industry professionals and investors, and support member firms in their self-compliance activities. With a staff of 2,395, we touch virtually every aspect of the securities industry. Roughly 5,500 brokerage firms, nearly 90,000 branch offices and more than 650,000 registered securities representatives comes under our jurisdiction. We also monitor all trading on The Nasdaq Stock Market and other selected markets worldwide.

In addition to a competitive salary, comprehensive health & welfare benefits, and an incentive bonus, NASD offers immediate participation and vesting in a 401(k) with company match; a company-funded pension plan; tuition reimbursement; and many other benefits. If you would like to contribute to our important mission and work collegially in a professional organization that values intelligence, integrity and initiative, consider a career with NASD. THE STAFF

BISCUIT, "OH MY GOD" I don't know if it would have been possible to complete this book without you! I thank you for being the one person I could count on to almost sleep in the office with me in order to make sure deadlines were finished. Thanks...you can always count on me next year...I know you will hold things down! TWIN, I tried to out do your good-bye and you were "RIGHT" once again. I can't write this! I'll have to wait for graduation for your good-bye, I'm only going to cry once, maybe! CHA, Roomie! Line sister! Co-worker! Friend...I couldn't have asked for a better layout editor! It seemed as if everything I thought...you knew exactly what I wanted...and made it hotter than I could have imagined. The world is not ready for you...get 'em girl! "Tip Drill", What can I say? We both had our doubts...but things ended up working out in the end! Thanks! I wish you and rose the best! Jesyca, We survived to years in suite G-06! One good book after another, I'm glad I could share them with you. Net, From DC, to LA, to Flint, to Durham, to Pittsburg, to Gainesville, to... JUNKANOO! Now were on our way to Cancun! We've been through so much, I will truly miss you! CC, Honorary! Niece! Cali Girl! Who would have known freshman year when you stayed on 3rd floor Frazier and I stayed on 4th floor Frazier that we would eventually be sorors, co-workers, and friends. You have so much potential...I know you will excel in whatever you choose to do upon graduation! Ambular, Weakest link...just kidding! You are definitely special! I wish you the best! Sec, I'm going to miss ya next year! I am so proud of you and the woman you have become! Dana, Thank you for all of your guidance and support! Tanisha, Thank you for the opportunity, I definately didn't know what I was getting into!

FRIENDS

Carla, I love ya, girlie! You'll get out soon! Rach, "I'm definitely not pressed"! 2, Hey PIMP...you know you like the BIG brother I never had...I'm going to miss you! DJ-Davis, You are definitely the "coolest" dude I know! Have fun in Dallas...but not too much. Justin, You used to be my boy...before you got boo'd up! Just Kidding, I'm going to miss ya! Kayna, It's been hard times, but we made it! The haters didn't succeed, our friendship only grows stronger! Daniel and A We may have fallen off but ya'll are still my "Cali Boys"! Good luck to ya'll! Freshman Crew, Even though we all grew apart, freshman year was truly the best year of my college experience and I thank you both for that. Whether its Wall Street or backpacking through some exotic place, I know you will both be successful in whatever you choose to do!

SORORS

Audacious 48...our reign is finally coming to an end. I wish the best to all of you and I thank you for your love and support. "SAC" keep livin the life, I will always be there for both of ya'll. NEO's...HOLD IT DOWN!!!!

FAMILY

Thank you for your guidance, support, and most of all LOVE! I wouldn't be where I am today if it weren't for ya'll!

HOWARD

Four years passed by quickly, and it is my time to say farewell. I thank you for molding me into the woman I am today, for I know if I can survive the Mecca I can do anything! I am grateful that I received the opportunity to leave you with a piece of me.

Executive producer

Better Known as "Managing Editor"

Well...what can I say? For those who know me, you know I'm on the verge of crying right now. I can't believe these four years have just come and gone. The people that I have met have helped me to be a better person and they will always be in my heart. Class of 2005, I am so proud of you. Just know that all of you, even the ones I don't know, have motivated me to exceed expectations. I really admire ya'll.

MY FAMILY- You are my strength, my life support, my happiness, my heart. I thought it was funny when my friends said that I had the perfect family, but then I realized that they weren't lying. MOM & DAD- I hope that one day I'll have a family of my own and that my children will love me as much as I love you. Ya'll are the best. ASHLEY- My little sister. I can't believe how much we've grown. I love you soooooo much. When we were little I hated that you were always trying to be like me, but the older I get the more I want you to follow in my foot steps. I'm always here for you, no matter what. AUSTIN- You evil little thang! LOL! Just playin. I love you little "poo poo!" You'll always be my little baby brother. When you're in the NBA, your number better be 4.

BISON YRBK- Oh My GOD!!!! I love all nine of ya'll like play cousins. The late nights, the stress, "il Mickey," wouldn't have been the same without you. You guys have to be the most creative and innovative staff to ever step foot in Suite G-06. (But I'm still "gonna dock your pay!") LOL!

JESYCA- Good luck with everything. AMBER- Girl, I don't even know what to say to you sometimes. LOL! HAKIM "TD" HASAN- I had to put it. Please don't hate me. LOL! SONYA- All I can say is WOW! Who knew? There are so many layers to you. Hopefully I'll get to the core one day.

"SPEC"- I LOVE HER! I'm gonna miss you and your beautiful voice. Promise me you won't let that talent go to waste. If you ever need me, please call your "smart" spec. LOL! NET- All I got to say is "subway!" No but really, I'm glad we got a chance to really kick it this year. We make a good team! "I know you hear me!" ANGIE- My twin! I would write this long heart felt message, but I'm really gonna cry if I do. Too late! Alright I can't do this right now. You know you are the twin I was supposed to have. The book is soooo tight! I'm so proud of you. Alright I really can't do this right now.

SHAUNTEEZY- You thought I forgot about you, didn't you? LOL! You have really been the backbone of this staff. I have really grown to respect you as an employee and love you like a little sister. Keep striving for the best and you'll accomplish everything you set out to do. There is no doubt in my mind that you'll hold it down next year. Stay tight! and drink plenty of "WA-TA!"

MY FRESHMAN CREW- Jendayi, Khaliah, Donneshia, and Nay Nay. Ya'll are my sisters for real. "I was thinking, what if I never would have met each of you?"- Sex and the City. I'm gonna cry again. I love ya'll so much. God couldn't have sent better people into my life than you. And I'm not gonna say that I'll miss you cause we're always gonna stay in touch and be a part of each other's lives.

SAC- You know who you are. I love ya'll. And remember, we'll always have DVDs. Nay Nay- When I thought about writing your goodbye message earlier, I busted out crying. I'm about to right now. (Pause) Words cannot express what impact you have had on my life. You are my best friend. I thought about what my Howard experience would have been had you not come to Howard, and I was so sad. I'm so lucky to have you as a friend. But the thought of not being around you after school... You've been there since High school and now what? And even though we'll always be best friends and stay in touch, I'm gonna just miss the luxury of stopping by to see you whenever. I can't do this message either. I'm making a card for you and Angie cause ya'll makin' me cry. (I'm such a baby)

There are so many great friendships that I've made here at Howard. There's no way I could mention them all. But you all are so special to me. I'm gonna miss everything about Howard. Bison... You know!

Where did all the time go? What a senior year I have had trying to hold down three jobs and school, but I made it.- WHEW! . It seems like just yesterday I was moving into the Quad. I know I have found a few friends for life in Shelci, Madra, Tiffany, Erica, Nell, Ashley, Shara, Nicole, JC, Brian, Regilyn, Dana, B, the RAs and everyone else. You have all shaped my college life experience. Shelci we have been though so much! You are the sister I never had, but definitely needed. I love you, your family and of course your apartment. Mom, Dad, Toikus, Tory, Trina and my sisters, being the baby certainly has its perks. I thank God for blessing me with such a wonderful family. Your support kept me grounded, unstressed and sane. My Max Lewis, your unconditional mental and emotional support really got me through the last two years. I can't seem to go to sleep or wake up without hearing your voice. Where would I be without my loved-ones? I thought nothing could top "Best Kept Secrets" but somehow it happened. Angie ~ Your hard work and dedication really showed through. Thank you for bringing me back this year. Paris ~ I appreciate you not firing me or docking my pay. I tried. Net and CC ~ Good Luck next year. Sonya ~ I am really glad I got to know you better this year. Cha ~ Having a layout editor really made all the difference. Everything looks hot. Amber~ You are so unique... don't change a thing. Hakim ~ Whichever continent you are on next year, I wish you success in your new life. Shauntel ~ I would say don't work too hard, but I have seen that you know no other way to do it. Being with yall made the long nights seem shorter. So long HU. No matter what the future holds, we will have the tears, laughs, good times and the memories.

It's so hard to say goodbye!!! Those words have never rung more true. The Yearbook has been one of the biggest projects I have ever worked on, and it is so fulfilling to see it come to fruition. Thank you Auntie for the opportunity to contribute my artistry – I love you! Spec, what can I say? You were the best boss anyone could ever ask for. Chandra, Jesyca, Sonya, Amber, and Keemie... thanks for making the office such an entertaining work environment. Shauntel, my adopted entrant, I KNOW you will miss me serenading the office next year, but you know you can call me whenever you need me. I can't wait to see the '06 book! Love ya! To those who have shaped my Howard experience... Dr. John Davis, Professor Lyle Henderson, Dr. Patte Sow... you are all the epitome of what a teacher should be. To all those who I have worked with at The Hilltop, I wish you much success. To HGC, you all are so anointed and talented! Continue to minister through music, I love each and every one of you. Campus Pals! My family... words cannot express. 22, ya'll are my babies and have made me so proud. Hold it down! Kim, Nikki, Jennifer, Sherry, Chee-Chee, Michelle C, Keysha... we have so many memories. Thank you all for the different friendships we have forged. I pray that we are forever connected, despite where life takes us. Thiiiiiiirrrd Flooooo... Fraaaaaazieeee! Roommates! I love ya'll and I will miss our big 'ol house. Tara, you are so special to me. Your day is coming.

To the dynamic, entertaining, hilarious 48, we are the TIGHTEST please believe. OO-OOP! Thank you for sisterhood, friendship, and the beauty of like-minded women. Trips! I'm so glad fate brought us together. To Audacious 48, I love you all – you paved the way. To the A-team... What Chu MEAN? We have done it big this year, I love ya'll so much! Do I hear five years in a row? Hmm... only time will tell. Ashley, Trina, Chareka, and Danielle... TBIH. We are more than line sisters – we are soul sisters. Net, you already know. Thank you Howard for all that you have given me. I have become a wiser and better person through my time at the Mecca. Even the haters have helped make me stronger. Thank you Mommy, Daddy, Rhoni, and Chrissy – you all are my backbone. Without you, I am nothing. Thank you for giving me the blessing of a loving and supportive family. I only hope I continue to make each of you proud. Auntie Debra, you have been my constant support. I love you. To my entire extended family and church family, I would not be here without you. Kaiya, you inspire me to be better, you are a tangible promise of the future. Kaleb, welcome to the world! You are loved more than you will ever be able to imagine. Tijera I love you! Sheena, my best fiend - we took different paths, but we both made it! She-C for life! Lord, thank you for your unchanging hand. I submit my life to your will and your way now and forever more. Love, CC

Time at Howard is ticking its last tock. The journey has been long; the memories plenty; the experiences invaluable. I am not sad about leaving the Mecca. It is time. Don't get me wrong-I love Howard. It's just time to go. It's time to begin the next chapter, time to began another process. I am leaving the Mecca, but the Mecca will always be with me. My friends have become like family. Distance does not wither away this bond.

The list of those who have helped me throughout my time at Howard is long. The least I can do is take the time to acknowledge them. Here we go (deep breath):

I would like to thank Dr. Carr for being one of the most inspirational professors on campus- he makes everyone want to be an African American studies major.

Thanks to the staff of Ralph J. Bunche Center, Kitty Ellison, and former Howard professor Dr. Jones.

Thanks to the wonderful yearbook staff. It has been a pleasure working with you all.

Thanks to all the cats in G.O.D.S.C.

Thanks to all my bruhs-its been a long journey since the water fights and fish fries in Drew Hall(3rd floor). Everyone is doing big things. I love it. Antijuan in NY, Big Herald at Stanford, the juggler at Harvard, Tre making his recovery in the production world, Derrick on his way to becoming a diplomat, KJ on his way to winning an Oscar, Jozen doing his VIBE thang, Cliff getting ready to reap the riches of the commercial real estate game, Dr. Saab—enough said, and C-Coop on his way to becoming Dr. Cooper. To everyone, thanks for the memories.

Thanks to the FAMLaaaaaayyy- Kee and Amanda

Thanks to my immediate family (Mom, Dad, Nancy, Tamir, and Brother)

Thanks to my sweet Rose.

Peace Howard.

Oh My Gaw!! We're finished!!!! This year has been amazing, just as our finished product. Thank you to everyone who has been in my life for years, to those that have just arrived and to those that will come because you all have a special place in my heart.

Hakim- I'm ecstatic that you took the assistant thing so.....literally, but thank you for giving me this great opportunity, "Tipdrill", and good luck with all your future endeavors.

Sonya.....my little Sonya.....I love every face you make, and you always make me laugh. I'll see you next year(smile)!!

CC.....sunshine.....I hope you always have someone to "cater to you". I'll miss you singing in the office.

Paris....that laugh and your weirdos kept me laughing. Thanx for everything!

Ange..with you my randomness never goes unnoticed and neither do my cropping skills (HAHA). Your vision is a complete product now, and it's great!!! Thank you for letting me come along for the ride!! HAVe fun in the country!!!

Net.....yes, I must admit I am "always in your mouth" because I never know what your gonna say next! Thanx for making the office an entertaining place to be. Take whatever city your in by storm!!

Shauntezzze.....How do you always know what I'm thinking?? Thanx for seeing eye to eye with me. You're gonna make a great E-I-C.....All I have to say is NEXT YEAR!!!

Jessica- It was nice seeing you when I saw you (HAHA)!! Good luck next year.

Chandra...thanx for my black & white film bracelet(smile).....your creative skills are great I wish you all the best in the future.

To all my friends, especially the "he-she" since freshman year, Eve, Jenna, Dre etc...I love you guys!!!

And last, but definately the most important my family. Thanx Mom, Dad, and Aisha because without you'll, I wouldn't be where I am today.

Ciao!!
love Ambular

What more can I say!! All good things must come to an end. Although this journey has been a bit rocky, I must say I've enjoyed every bit. From The Fabulous four (Net, Crystal, Kayla and Kia) in the annex to my road dog in the Towers (CC), I have gained valuable relationships that I will never forget.

Ian, thank you for helping me become a better woman and for showing me the ropes at Howard. You will always have a special place in my heart. Thank you for being so understanding and supportive even at times when you didn't want to. You are a great person and a wonderful man. Audacious 48, We have been through so much together, but I love you all. Shout out to the three muskateers (Net, LeAnn and Letta). Both of you have been there for me like no other. I will miss all the road trips, the long conversations about "you know who" and the million times that we had to calm BUSTA down.

Taron and Collin I love you both. 422 Elm St. will never be the same once I'm gone! 3rd floor always held it down. Tara thanks for keeping it real. Arv keep your head up and stay strong. Mom and Dad thank you for believing in me when other people in the family didn't. Tone and Ed I love both. Chervickia, no I didn't forget about you. I love you girl...you know I will always have your back "that's what true FRIENDS" are suppose to do. You are a very intelligent young woman and I admire that about you. Rob, thank you for listening to me, believing in me and being an inspiration in my life. Chris thanks for being a true friend and I can't wait to see #37 on your back (lol)..I love you.

Yearbook!! This yearbook is the hottest yearbook ever Angie. Your creativity is off the chain. Shauntel you are a very hard worker and it shows in everything you do. Keep your head up and stay strong. I know your book will be just as good. Keemy, Amber, Jess, and Sonya thank you I enjoyed working with all of you. Cha (front) you are the tightest layout editor ever. And lastly Paris..we've grown so much closer in the last year and I love very much and I can't wait to sleep on air mattress with you in NY.

And Finally to Howard University!!! Thank you to all the professors who have helped me along the way. Professor Rada and Dr. Carr you have truley been an inspiration in my life..I wish all professors were like you both. Thanks Vincent and Honors Program for helping me get through college financially. -Peace

Assistant Director

Better Known as "Assistant to the E-I-C"

Wow, what a year this has been. Those long nights in the office have finally payed off. I must start off thanking the Lord, for without Him nothing would be possible. Mom, I love you, I couldn't have made it this far without you. Campus Pals, you mean so much to me. Thanks for being my family away from home and making my Howard experience unforgettable thus far. I love yall. 24 words can't express... yall already know. CCCCCPPPPPPP!!! ANGEL & KEYSH, I don't know what I am going 2 do without yall next year... minus one biscuit and a bun. To the Staff: We did it guys, and managed to have a lot of fun while doing it. ANGIE- "Oh my God" this book is so tight. Congratulations on turning your vision into a masterpiece. Thanks for putting me on, and Beware your number is really going to be on speed dial next year. PARIS- "Waaaaattaaa" I'm really going to miss you in this office. We had fun this summer. I know you'll be successful in the future, your drive and work ethic are remarkable... without you there wouldn't have been summer housing, paychecks, or even pages in the YB. CC- I LUVVV YOU!!! Thanks for taking me under your wing. Things just aren't going to be the same without you next year, but don't worry you know I'll always be calling you and I'll always be your first and only adopted entrant. AMBER- "What a joke" I'm so glad yearbook gave us the opportunity to get so cool. NET- "Office Hours" You have such a dynamic personality, and have made this office such a more vibrant place, you will be missed. CHANDRA- "I Eta Pi" Your humor has definitely kept me going some days. I'm really going to miss all the laughs. SONYA, you are such a sweet person, I really enjoyed getting to know you better. JESYCA- Good Luck in Law School. "TIP DRILL" I know you'll be successful in whatever you do. Well, space is limited, so shout outs to all my other friends and family. Farewell all... until next year!

Production Assistant

Better Known as "Office Assistant"

To the yearbook staff, it's been fun! We've had a wonderful year together. Angie- I love you Sec! You've definitely had my back since I was a freshman. Thank you for all of your guidance. Where would I be without you? Paris- From the first time you reached out to me (all the way from USC) I knew I could count on you for anything! Thank you for allowing me to learn from you. Cha Cha- I love you twin! You are such a beautiful person inside and out. I will miss having you around. CC (line!) and Net- I can't believe you both are leaving. I love and will miss you both. Shaunte!- You are such a sweetheart, you will do great with the yearbook next year. Amber- You are so goofy! I've had fun getting to know you better this year. You will make a great Photo Editor next year. Jesyca and Hakim- good luck with everything, I'm sure you both will be extremely successful in whatever you do. To those DevaStaTing Divas of Delta Sigma Theta, Sorority, Inc., I love you all! Audacious 48- To whom I owe many thanks, you all have been my inspiration since day one. Each of you have a very special place in my heart. To my line, Fastidious 48, words cannot express how much you all mean to me. I love you ALL very dearly, thank you for helping me grow. Special shout out to the BACK of the line! To my crew: Mecca, Jack Mack, Mia and Lyzz- since freshman year we've been through it all and will continue to be tight. I love yall so much! Dad and Granny- Thank you both for everything, even the little things. You all seem to always know what I need and give the best words of encouragement. I love you both! To the rest of my family, thanks for everything! I hope I continue to make you proud.

Casting Director

Better Known as "Advisor"

What is there to say besides "you guys make an old-man advisor proud." To the whole staff: you and your work are a part of history now, these books will sit on the shelves of thousands, and will be read by tens of thousands. Now that is a lot of pressure, but you were more than able to rise (and stay up late) for the occasion. Thank you for letting me experience making the book with you. I always feel like other yearbook advisors should be jealous of the type of staff we have at Howard. The class of 2005 is that last group of students who knew me when I was an undergraduate student... and that is all that I am going to say about that. But, thank you for all of your hard work, the product of your toiling can never be taken from you. This book will show forever that these were the times to be at Howard University.

The Colophon

Taylor Publishing of Dallas, Texas published the eighty-second edition of the Bison Yearbook with the help and guidance of our Taylor representatives: Julia Jordan and Tami McConnell. Portraits and organizational photos were exclusively contracted by T.D. Brown, a Lifetouch representative. Paul Wimmeler of Educational Services, Inc. solicited all non-campus advertisements. Paris Pickett of the Bison Yearbook solicited all on-campus advertisements.

The Bison Yearbook was designed using InDesign 0.2, Adobe Photoshop CS and Microsoft Office. The cover is matte with special UV coating on highlighted areas. The endsheets are 100lb C1S white index stock with four color printed front and back. Custom foldout is hand tipped. Angelique Reed and Chandra Anderson developed the concept. Stephen Williams of the Better for Brian Foundation designed the cover.

All typefaces in the book are from Adobe ATM library. Alternate Gothic #2 BT was used for the majority of the copy, including captions and credits. Sultako, Zapfino, Bedrock, Victoria D, and Viking are some of the fonts used throughout the book.

All opinions in the Bison Yearbook are not necessarily those of the administration, trustees, faculty, staff, students or alumni of Howard University.

The Bison Yearbook is located in Room G-06 of Armour J. Blackburn Center on the Campus of Howard University. All other comments or inquiries should be directed to the Bison Yearbook at 202-806-7870 or by fax at 202-234-5181, or by e-mail at Bisonyrbk2005@yahoo.com.

The 2004-2005 Bison yearbook Staff:

Angelique Reed, Editor-in-Chief
Paris Pickett, Managing Editor
Chandra Anderson, Layout and Design Editor
Jesyca Westbrook, Copy-Editor
Cassandra Cumbess, Assistant Copy-Editor
Hakim Hasan, Photography Editor
Amber Venerable, Assistant Photography Editor
Shauntel Brown, Assistant to the E-I-C
Antoinetta Hairston, Office Manager
Sonya C. Scott, Office Assistant
Matthew Goins, Advisor

The Bison Yearbook staff has dedicated many hours to the production of this book. Please note that no yearbook is perfect. If there are any mistakes, we do apologize. Thank you.

Last spring, the District of Columbia was inundated with creepy crawly, flying insects. The famed cicadas made their fierce debut after seventeen years of hibernation. The billions of black, shrimp-sized bugs with transparent wings and beady red eyes plagued the city, latching onto everything from car windshields, to clothing, to hair.

Cicadas arrive every seventeen years and cover just about anything vertical. They invade the eastern seaboard, west through Indiana and south to Tennessee. By the end of June, they simply dropped dead, sprinkling the nation's capital with remnants of their eerie visit. Was it all a dream? We'll find out in 2021.

This year, we said goodbye to a legacy. The late great Ray Charles died on June 10, 2004 at the age of seventy-three from liver disease. The blockbuster film, Ray, starring Jamie Foxx, told the story of his rise from poverty to stardom and garnered tremendous acclaim from critics and audiences alike. It grossed a whopping 64 million after only four weeks in the box office.

Foxx's stellar performance resulted in a Best Actor Oscar nomination for Foxx, making he and Don Cheadle two black men up for the prestigious award this year. Ray Charles will always be remembered for his strength through adversity and his incomparable musical genius.

After the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, the U.S. pursued a large-scale war on Iraq. The initial mission to eliminate the country's possession of weapons of mass destruction took a dramatic agenda change when the Bush administration announced that no weapons were found.

In his National Security Strategy President Bush stated that, "We will actively work to bring the hope of democracy, development, free markets and free trade to every corner of the world." The war on Iraq became an effort to spread democracy and make Iraq free. More than one year after the capture of Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein, the war effort continued. In early February, Iraq underwent its first-ever democratic elections.

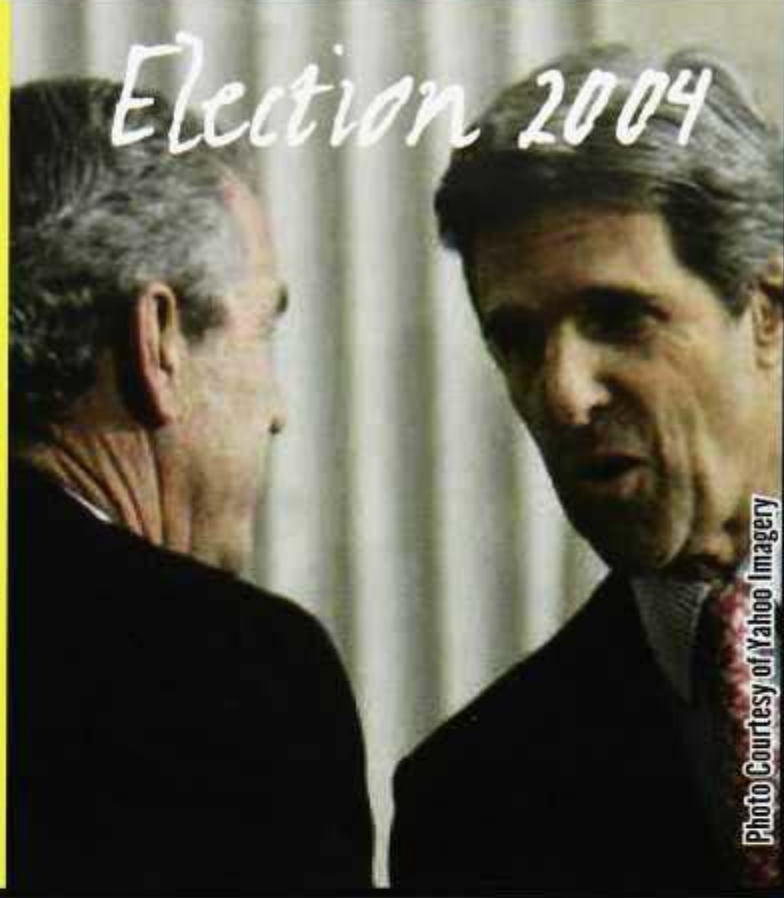

The war has thus far led to the death of countless Iraqi civilians and more than 1500 U.S. soldiers.

 2004 marked yet another year of presidential elections. After the controversial elections of 2000 and the revealing content of Michael Moore's politically charged documentary "Fahrenheit 9/11," citizens across the country raced to the polls in unprecedented amounts to assure they spoke up.

The race was close. Heated debates and candidates who were seemingly polar opposites made for an intriguing battle for the oval office. However, on November 4th, after a concession by Senator John Kerry, Democratic candidate, the call was made. President George W. Bush was elected to a second term as President of the United States.

Nevertheless, the win proved to be controversial as anti-Bush protestors let their voices be heard on Inauguration Day. The nation's capital beefed up security like never before as Bush took the oath of office once again in January.

On November 19, 2004, anyone who thought they were watching an ordinary basketball game on TV was in for a big surprise. The Indiana Pacers and Detroit Pistons game ended 42 seconds early when one of the worst sports brawls in history broke out between both players and fans. The chaos began when Detroit's Ben Wallace was fouled hard by Indiana's Ron Artest. Wallace pushed Artest in the face and after the spar was broken up, Artest layed out on the scorer's table, seemingly to relax. Out of nowhere, a fan threw a cup and beverage that struck Artest in the face. Artest immediately jumped into the stands, fighting and climbing over seats as Detroit fans threw punches. Bottles, cups, and even chairs were thrown. Pacers Stephen Jackson, Jermaine O'Neal and others jumped in, and when it was all said and done five Detroit fans and five Indiana Pacers were charged with assault. Artest was suspended for the remainder of the season. The incident fueled heated debates over whether or not NBA players are role models and whether or not the punishments were severe enough.

Brown vs Board of Education

50th Anniversary

Written By: Cassandra Cumbess

On May 17, 2004 the nation celebrated the anniversary of a landmark victory in the struggle for civil rights. The Brown versus Board of Education decision overturned the 1896 "separate but equal" doctrine that had been in place since the Plessy versus Ferguson decision of 1896.

On May 17, 1954 the court declared that "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal." The decision effectively denied the legal basis for segregation in Kansas and 20 other states with segregated classrooms and would forever change race relations in the United States.

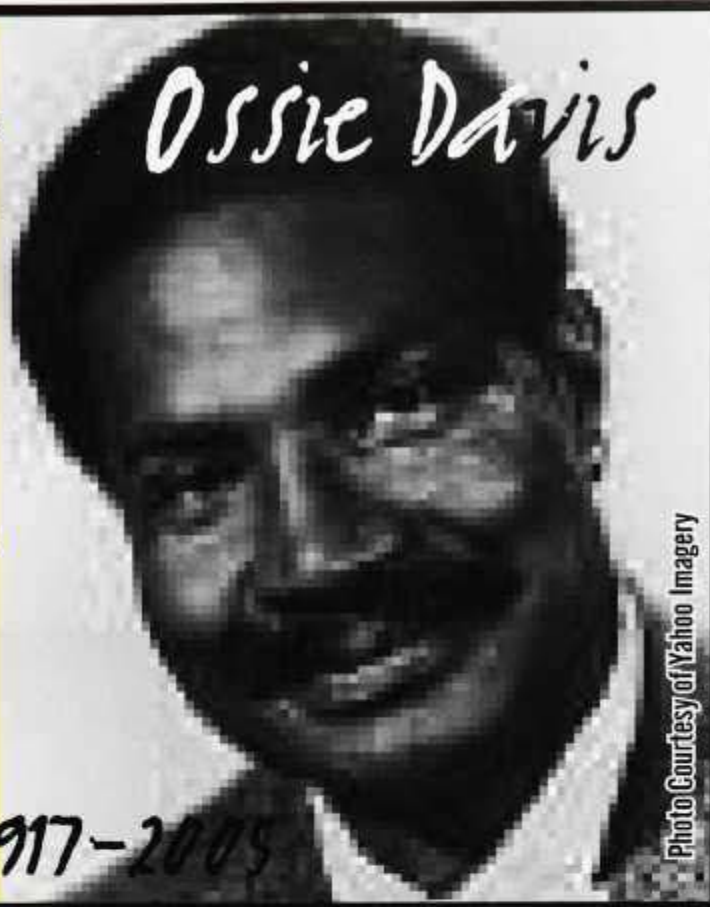

We are thankful for the martyrs who struggled to ensure that we could have the choice to learn in the same institutions as our white counterparts. As the nation continuously makes stride toward greater equality for all people, we remember a now 50-year old Supreme Court decision that integrated a nation.

On February 4, 2004, the world said goodbye to a legend and Howard University said goodbye to cherished alum, Mr. Ossie Davis. Ossie Davis was undoubtedly one of the great entertainers in history. He starred in several Broadway plays, including "A Raisin in the Sun," "No Time for Sergeants" and movies such as "No Way Out" and "The Joe Louis Story."

Aside from his prolific artistry, Davis was a civil rights activist, lending his greatness to the UNCF with the famed slogan, "A mind is a terrible thing to waste."

Davis supported his alma mater until his death and is honored by the entire Howard community for his legacy and his contributions.

Tsunami

Written By: Cassandra Cumbess

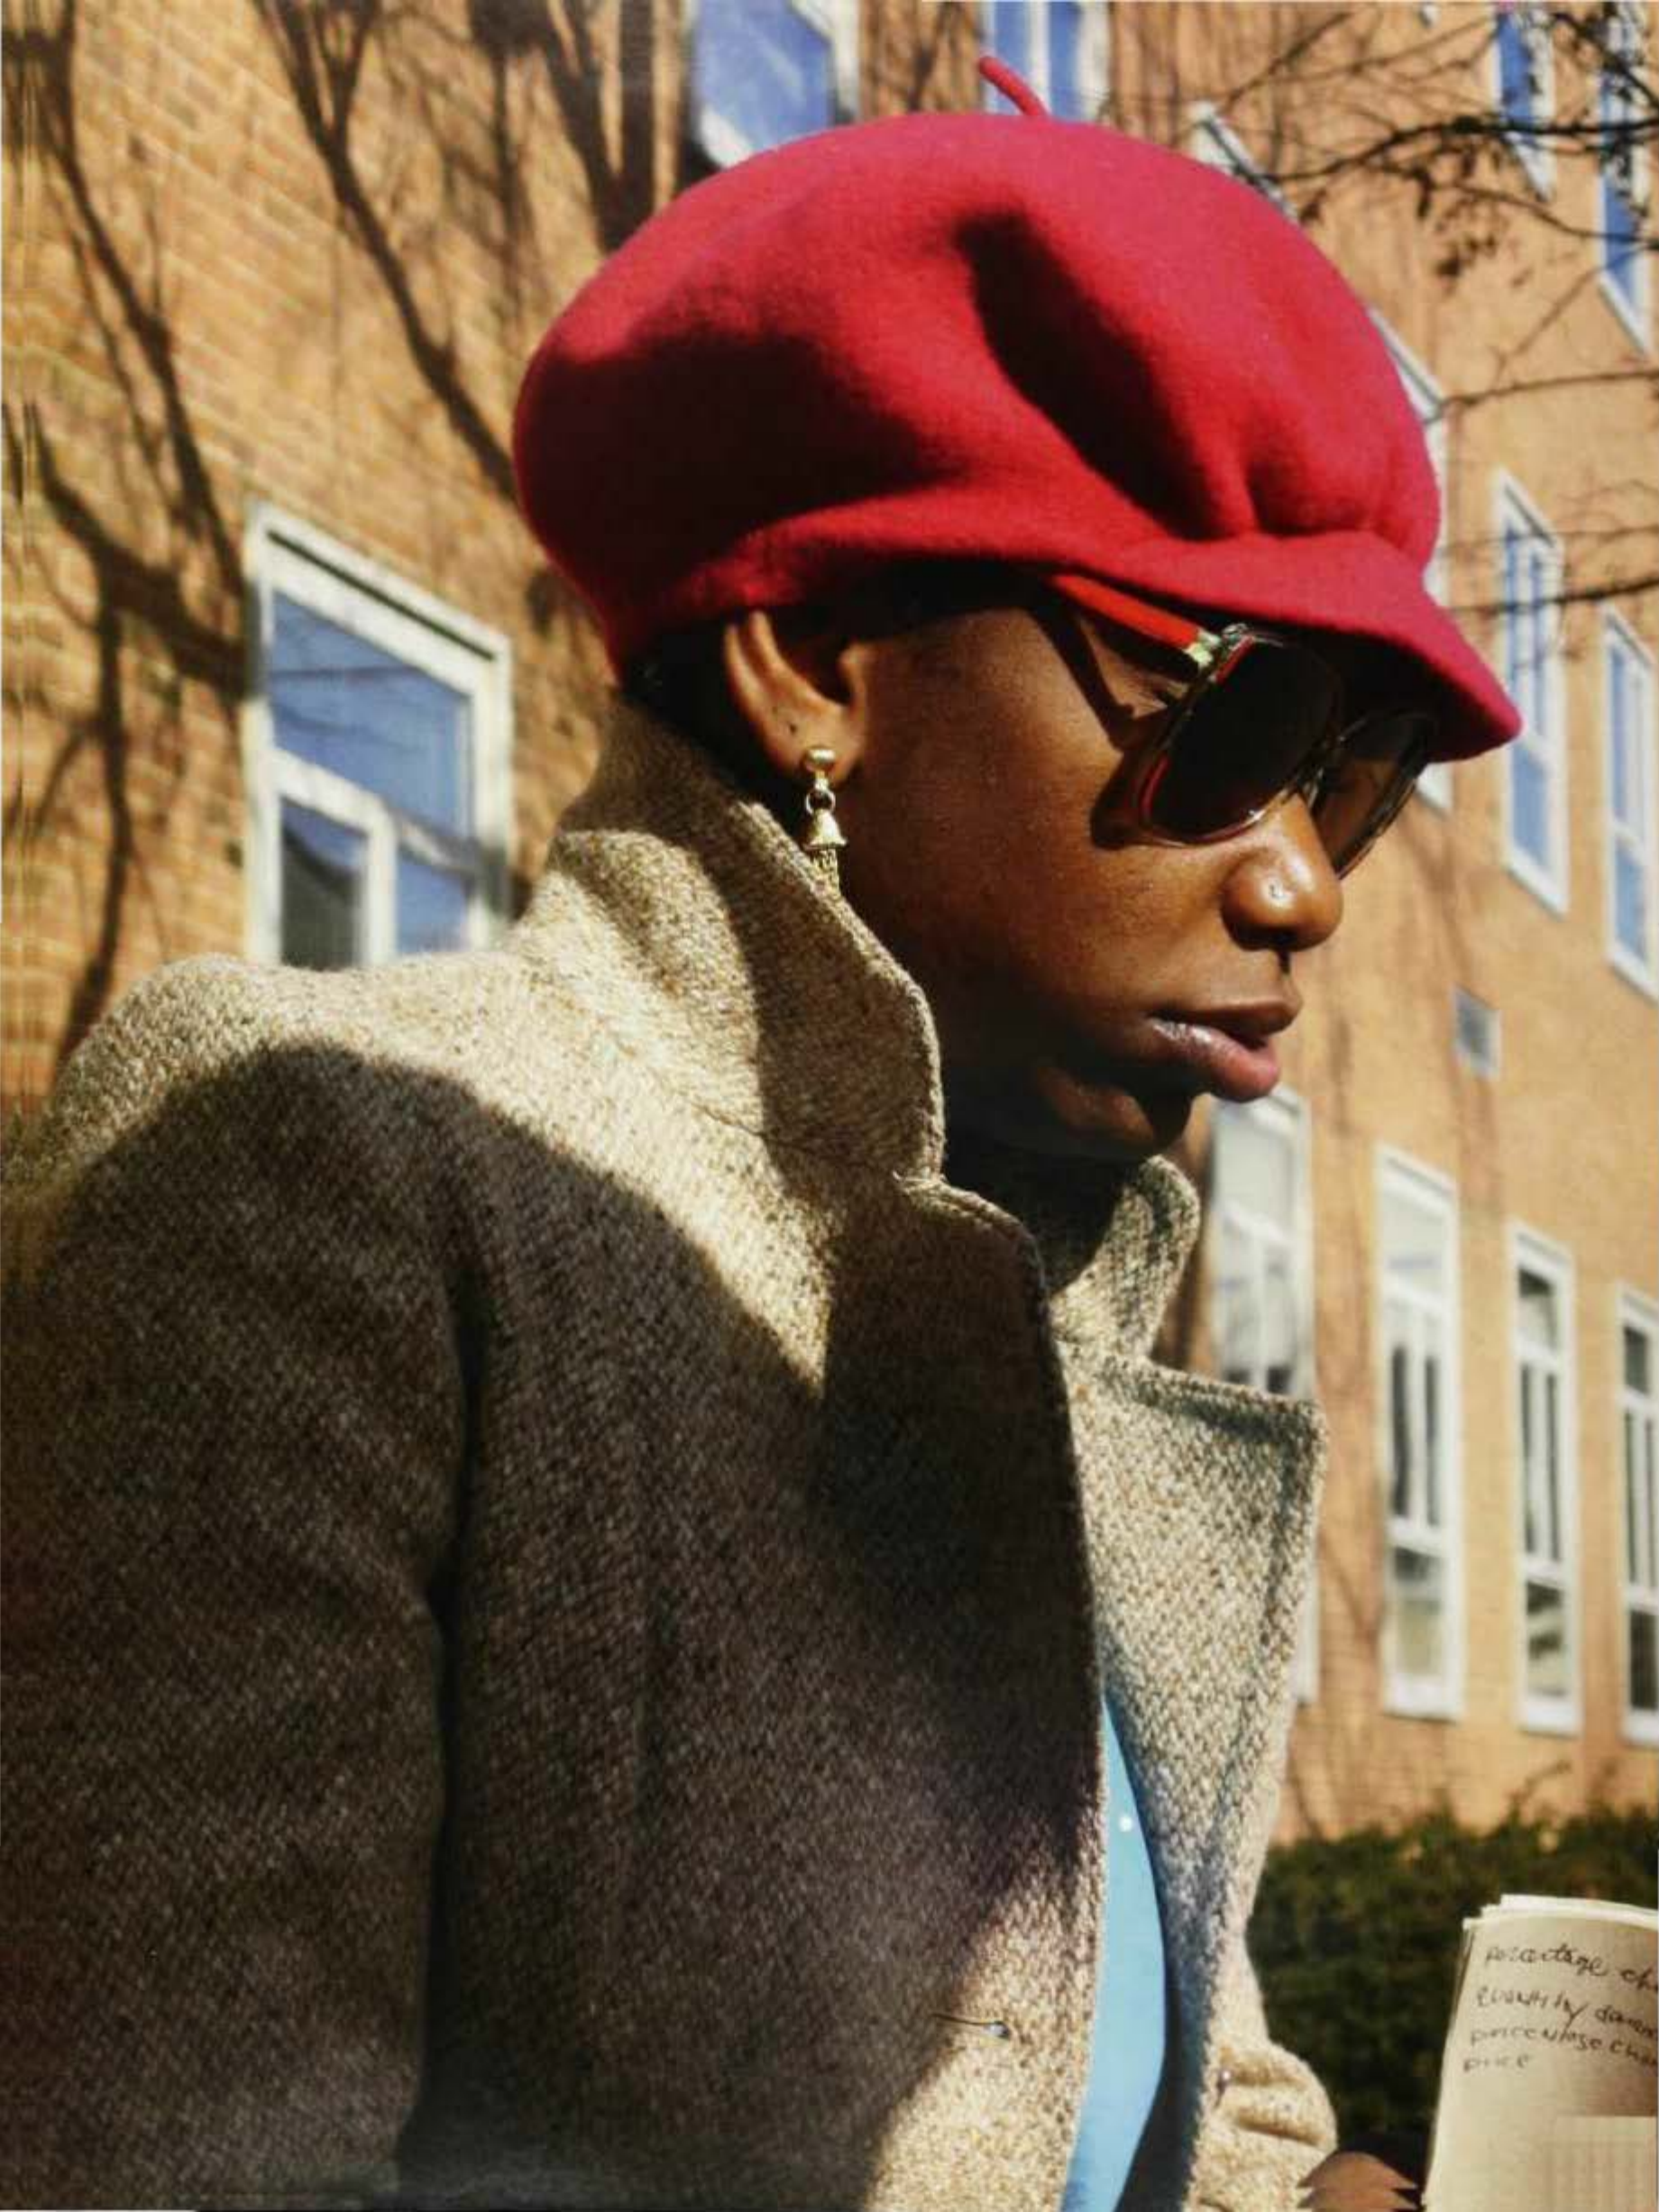

On December 26, 2004, the fourth largest earthquake in the world since 1900 occurred off the west coast of northern Sumatra. The quake triggered massive tsunamis that demolished the coasts of South and Southeast Asia. The monstrous tsunamis affected various other countries as well, including Somalia, Bangladesh, India, Malaysia, Singapore, Tanzania, Sri Lanka and Thailand. The shocking death toll was approximately 300,000, with corpses still being discovered each day.

The tragedy brought about a surge of humanity as relief efforts from across the globe came to the aid of victims of the devastating tsunami.

@ Howard

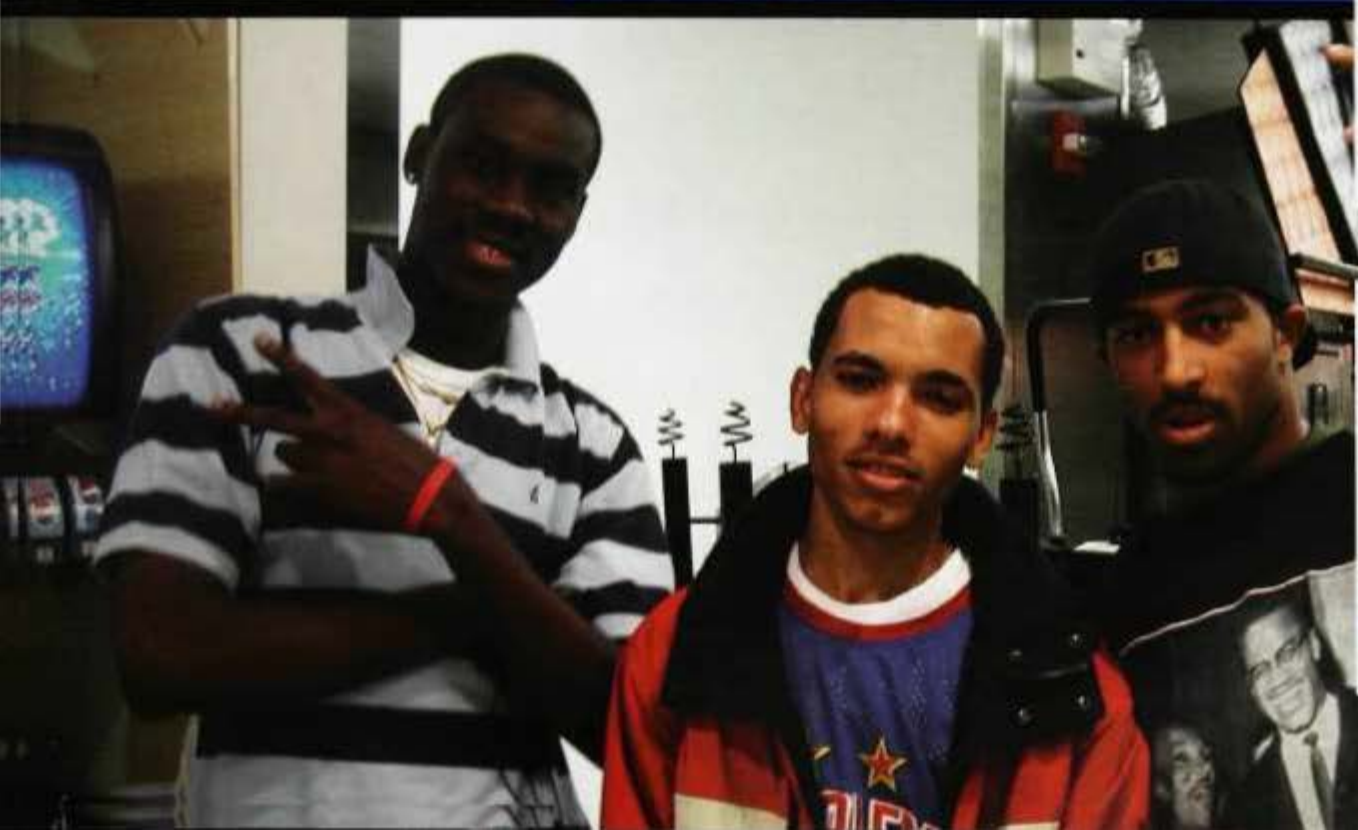

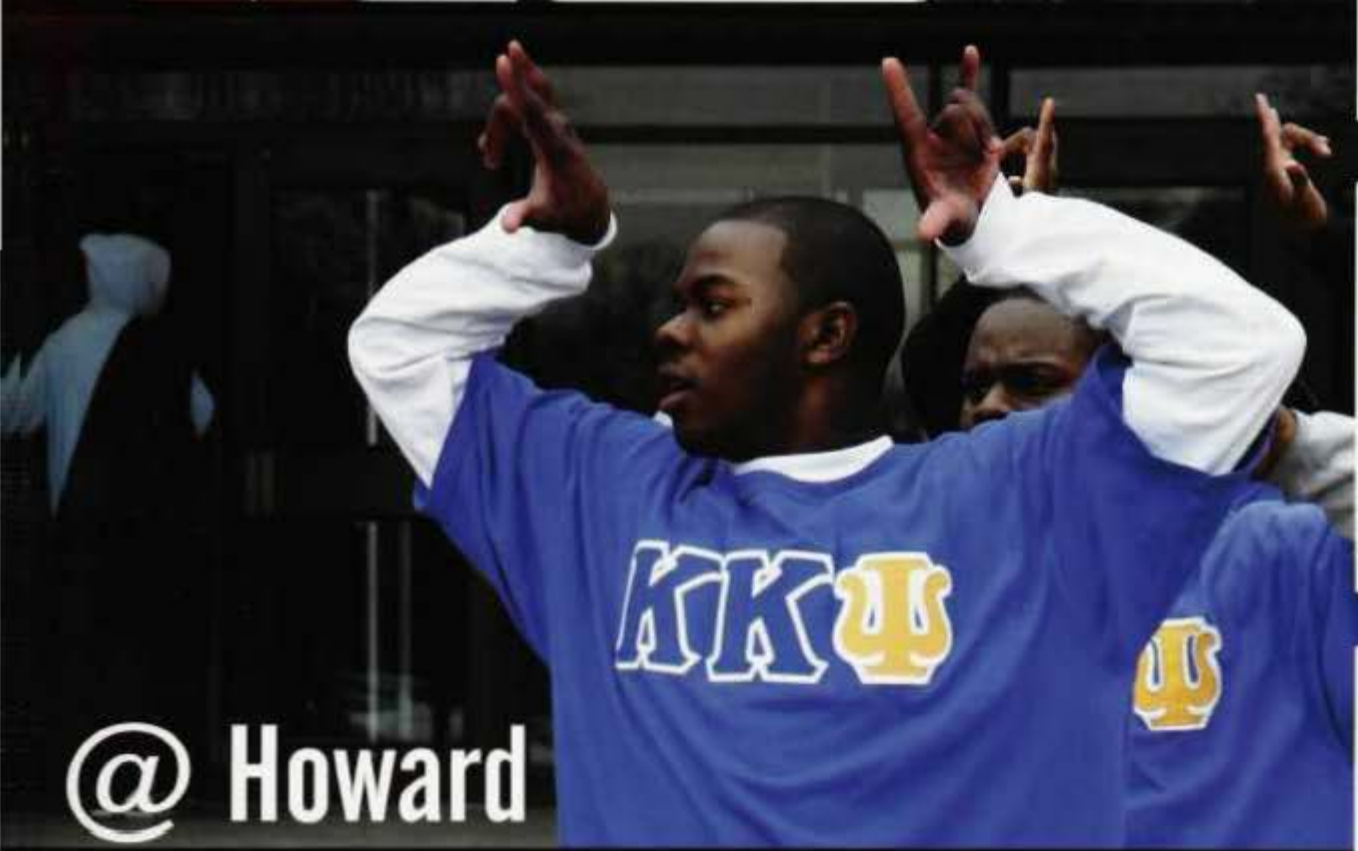

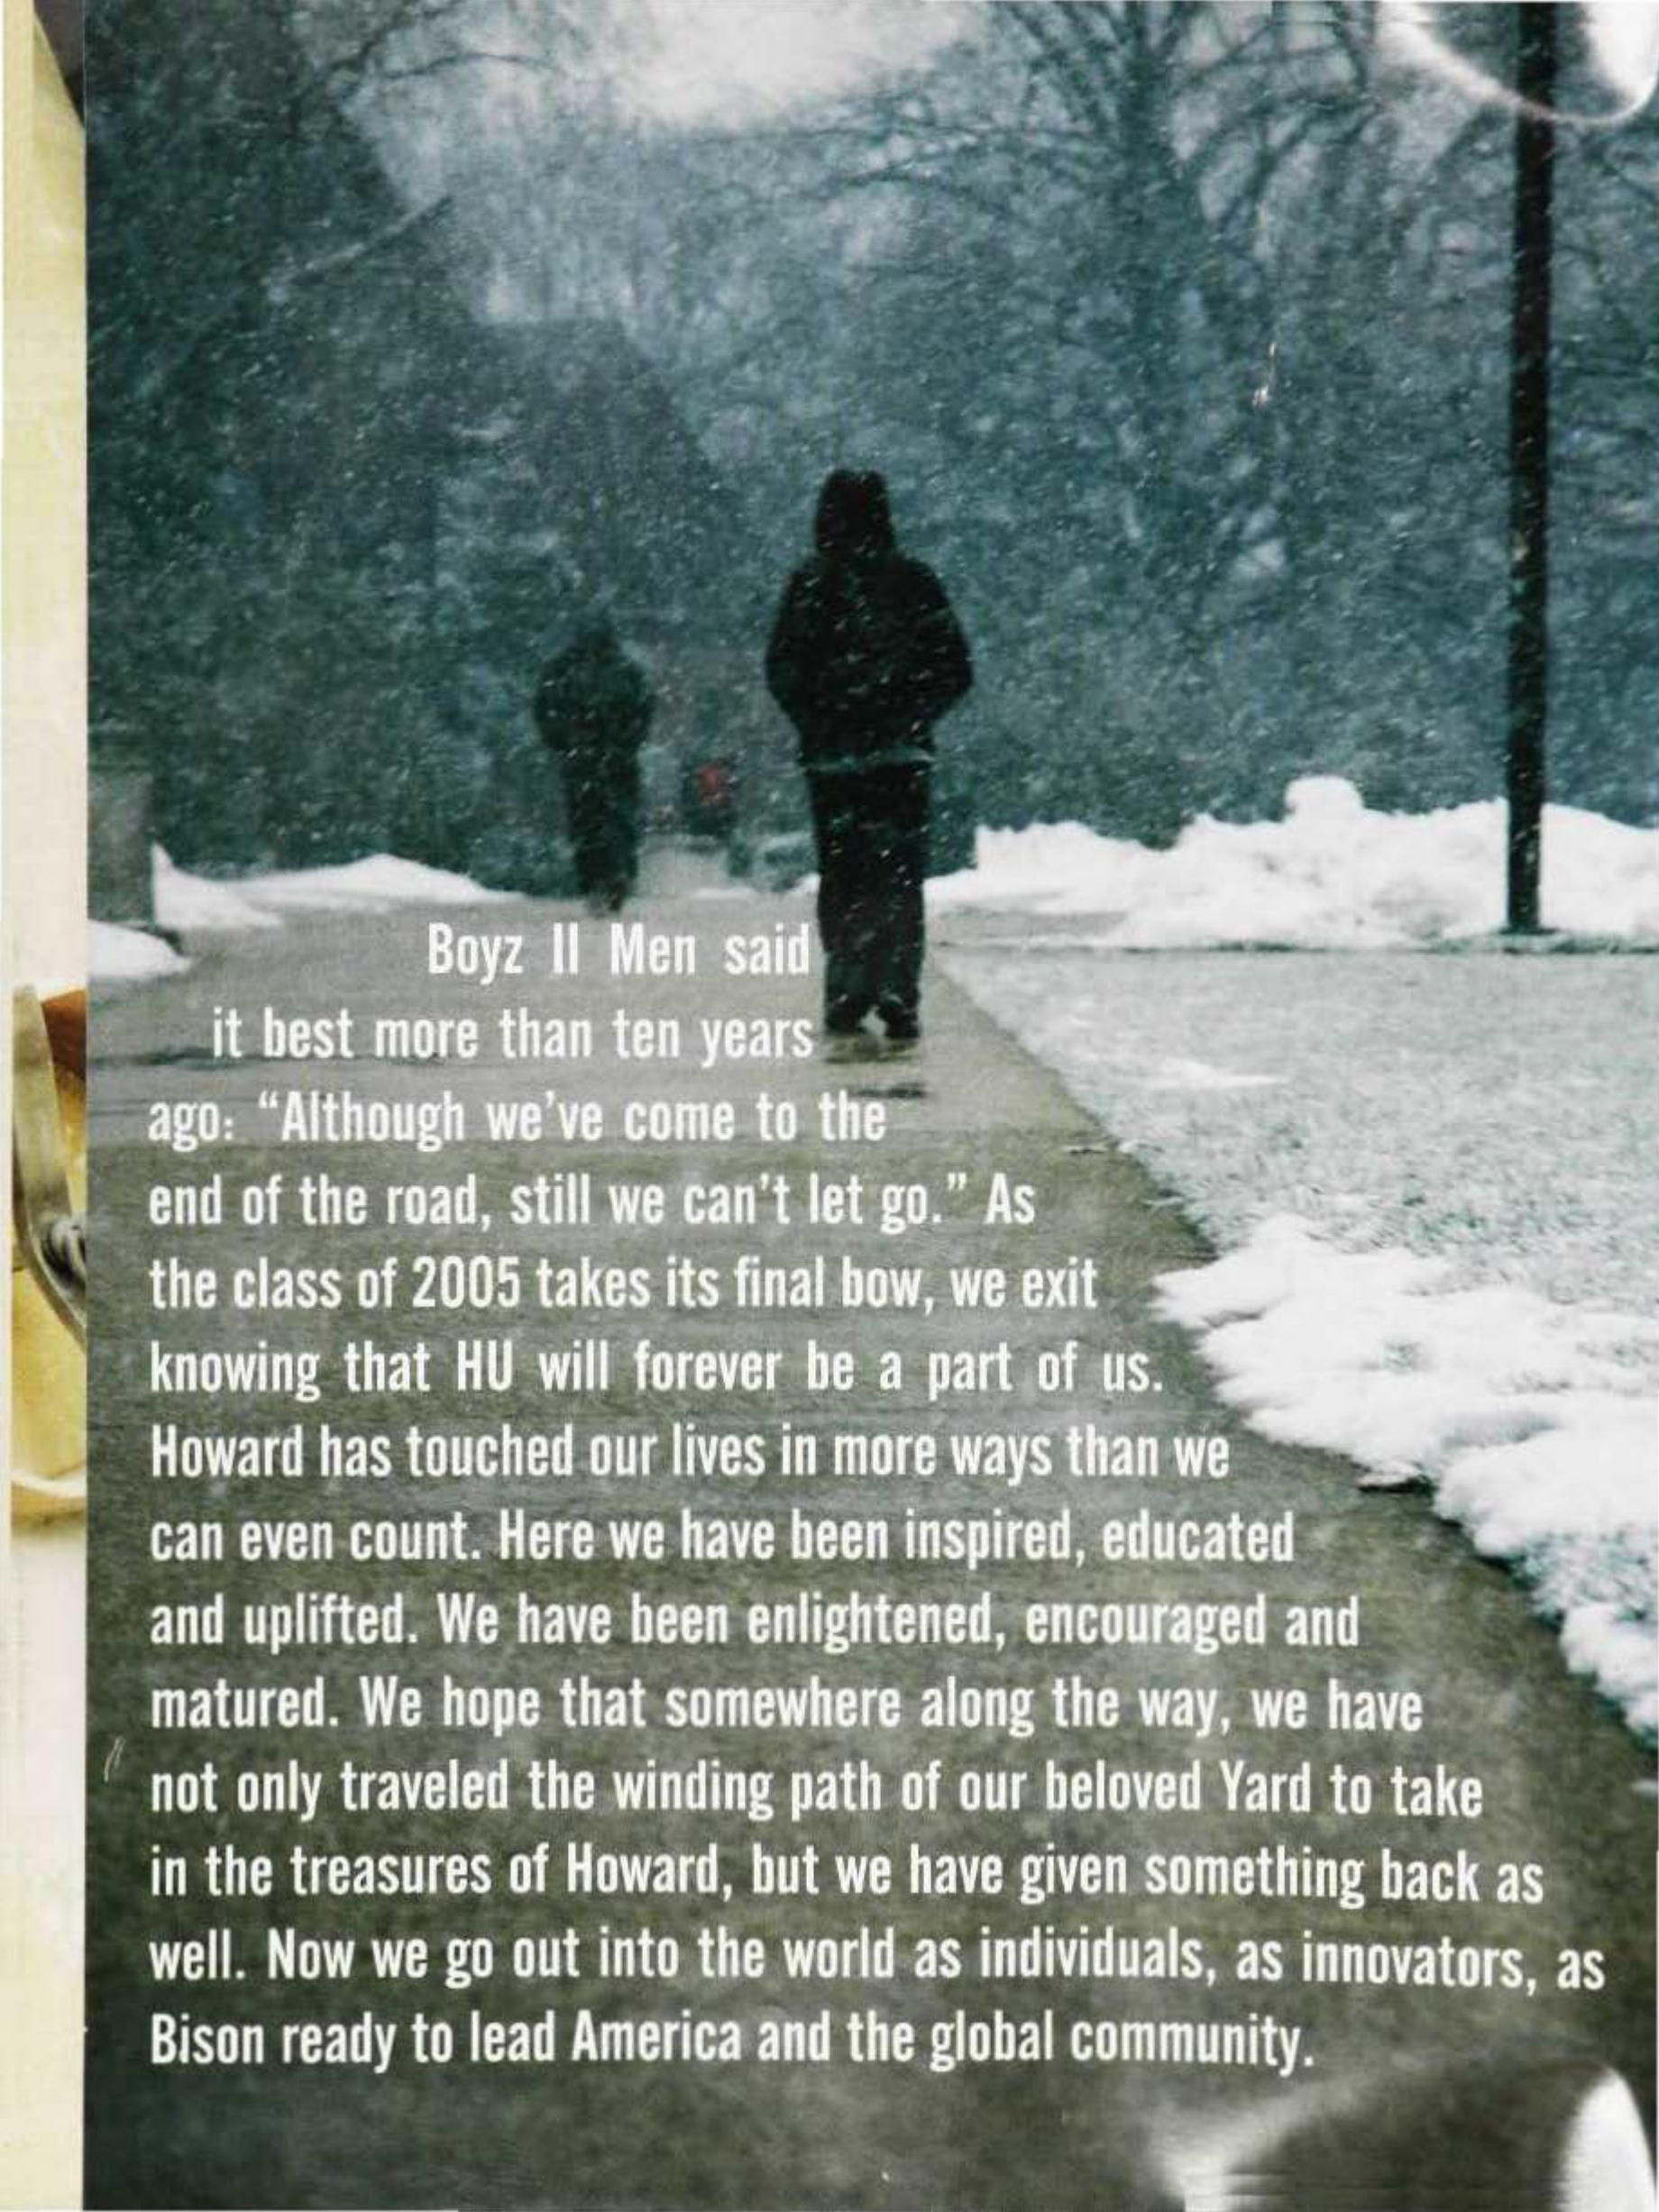

A photograph of a person walking away on a snow-covered path in a winter setting. The person is wearing a dark hooded jacket and pants. The path is lined with snow on the right side, and there are trees and a street lamp in the background. The overall scene is dimly lit, suggesting a cloudy or overcast day.

Boyz II Men said it best more than ten years ago: "Although we've come to the end of the road, still we can't let go." As the class of 2005 takes its final bow, we exit knowing that HU will forever be a part of us. Howard has touched our lives in more ways than we can even count. Here we have been inspired, educated and uplifted. We have been enlightened, encouraged and matured. We hope that somewhere along the way, we have not only traveled the winding path of our beloved Yard to take in the treasures of Howard, but we have given something back as well. Now we go out into the world as individuals, as innovators, as Bison ready to lead America and the global community.
