Scope Note

The papers of Merze Vernie Tate (1905-1996), educator, scholar, author and world traveler cover the time period 1906-1995. Dr. Tate served as a professor of diplomatic history at Howard University College of Arts and Sciences in the Department of History from 1942 -1975. The collection includes 12 series: personal papers, correspondence, financial records, writings by Dr. Tate, Howard University, organizational affiliations, subject files, writings by others, photographs, films and audiotapes, artifacts and oversized items. These various series contain materials documenting the life of Dr. Tate as a scholar and award-winning researcher as well as her expansive world-wide travels. There are approximately 35 linear feet of material. The papers were donated by Dr. Tate.

The bulk of the materials documents the professional life of Dr. Tate in the role of pioneering scholar and academician from her honors graduation from the Battle Creek High school in Michigan to being the first African American awarded a doctorate in government and international relations from Radcliffe College now Harvard University. Of particular note are writings by Dr. Tate, photographs, correspondence, Howard University teaching materials and faculty committee involvement, as well as, subject files. These select series provide a window into the creation and development of Dr. Tate as a world-renowned scholar.

Her prolific writings represent a broad interest in human development. Of note is a nearly complete manuscript of her work on a Hawaiian royal, Kamehameha IV. Other topics explored - imperialism, Australia and Australasia and African railways hold unique insight to historical and developing trends.

There are numerous photographs chronicling the life of Dr. Tate and the Tate family. There are a number of examples where she received earned and honorary degrees, as well as, candid shots from her two worldwide tours. There are images of with Dr. Tate with Eleanor Roosevelt, Lorraine Williams, Flemmie Kitterell and Ida Van Smith.

This collection contains a wealth of information pertaining to Howard University during her tenure. In the Howard University series Dr. Tate's personal struggle with gender equality is evident in correspondence as well as involvement in the Women's Faculty club. Her involvement at Howard contributed to the Browsing Room committee's choice of publications. Over the course of her teaching career, she was able to nurture aspiring young talent and contributed to their evolution. A number of her students co-authored articles with her, while other select student papers she kept and referred to as source material. Moreover, there are syllabi for a number of courses she taught as well as reserved reading listing and bibliographies for select classes.

Another series of interest is Organizational Affiliations. Her work on the advisory committee to the Radcliffe College Schlesinger Library's Black Women's Oral History is remarkable. Biographical information about potential interviewers and interviewees, as well as, regulations and guidelines about the oral history process is informative regarding this invaluable source. In this series her personality is evident in her serious involvement with the American Bridge Association as well as the regional Bridge Builders club. A trophy winning Bridge player Tate rounded out her life with recreation. Her active membership of 50 plus years in Alpha Kappa Alpha shows remarkable dedication.
