The Honorable Franklin Abraham Sonn,
South African Ambassador to the United States, on receiving an Honorary Degree from the University and becoming an Alumnus.
Howard University Republic of South Africa Project

The Howard University Republic of South Africa Program (HURSAP) was established as a result of a visit to South Africa in June 1996, by a delegation of Howard University faculty and administrators led by President H. Patrick Swygert. The delegation visited several universities, organizations, and individuals to explore possibilities for collaborative research and training projects. After returning to the United States, the delegation organized itself as the Howard University Republic of South Africa Project (HURSAP), which includes a wider range of faculty from the various disciplines of the University.

Objectives of HURSAP

The goal of the Howard University Republic of South Africa Program (HURSAP) is to foster an intellectual environment designed to sustain academic excellence and leadership at Howard University in teaching, research, service, and training on South African affairs. HURSAP's specific objectives are to:

- Promote interdisciplinary research between Howard University and South African institutions;
- Promote faculty/student exchanges, and training and service programs;
- Compile and disseminate resources on the Republic of South Africa;
- Establish linkages with America’s Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) and Historically Disadvantaged/Advantaged Institutions (HDIs) in South Africa;
- Contribute to the internationalization of Howard University programs;
- Establish partnerships with tertiary educational and other South African institutions;
- Facilitate and coordinate South African-related activities of Howard University’s faculty and students;
- Represent, coordinate and facilitate Howard University initiatives in South Africa.

Howard University Scholar-in-Residence Program (HURSAR)

The Howard University Scholar-in-Residence Program was established in August 1997 to:

- Establish collaborative relations between Howard University and various educational, governmental, and non-governmental South African institutions and individuals for educational and training programs;
- Facilitate linkages between South African institutions and other United States educational institutions, programs and individuals;
- Develop strategies for implementing specific Howard University/South African collaborative projects;
- Identify potential funding sources and develop proposals for Howard University and South African-related research and other educational activities.

The Executive Committee members of HURSAP are: Dr. James Johnson (Engineering), Chairperson; Dr. Ura Jean Oyemade Bailey (Education), Vice Chairperson; Dr. Aida A. Chohayeb (Denistry); Dr. Don Coleman (Office of the Provost); Dr. Robert Cummings (African Studies); Dr. Horace Dawson (International Affairs); Dr. Richard English (Social Work); Dr. Thomas Groce (Office of the Vice President for Human Resources); Dr. Joseph E. Harris (History); and Dr. Brenda J. Jasper (Allied Health).

SIGNIFICANT ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Scholar-in-Residence Program
(August 1997 to present)
- Initiated the Howard University Scholar-in-Residence program (HURSAR) with the appointment of Dr. Joseph Harris, Distinguished Professor of History, to the post in 1997.
Among a number of initiatives launched, Dr. Harris established relations with several universities: University of Cape Town, University of the Western Cape, University of Witwatersrand, Vista University, University of Pretoria, Rand Afrikaans University, and the University of the North. He discussed the foundation for a program in public history with the Ministry of Tourism, explored collaboration with the Ministry of Culture on a museum project and a human rights project that will feature Robben Island. In consultation with the Vice Chancellor, Dr. Harris developed a proposal for training archivists for the Fort Hare Archives.

Dr. Harris also proposed a Master of Arts and a Ph.D. program for faculty at the HDIs in collaboration with the Vice Chancellor of the University of the Western Cape.

Dr. Robert Cummings, Professor and Chair of the Department of African Studies, succeeded Dr. Harris as the second resident scholar, residing in Cape Town from February to May, 1998. Dr. Cummings participated in a number of events scheduled during President Clinton’s visit to South Africa, including the dedication of the Ronald Brown Commercial Center. His extensive contacts resulted in more than 20 project recommendations, including a distance learning project, a doctoral program for professors at HDIs, a teacher development program, and a faculty and administrators’ training program.

Educational Mission to South Africa (August 1997)

A group of 11 faculty members visited South Africa in August of 1997 to launch the HURSAP and HURSAR programs. The delegation included the following faculty:

- Ura Jean Oyemade Bailey, Center for Drug Abuse Research;
- Starmanda Bullock, Fine Arts;
- Aida A. Chohayeb, Clinical Dentistry;
- Melissa Clarke, Emergency Medicine;
- Don M. Coleman, Associate Provost;
- James E. Craigen, Social Work;
- Artis Hampshire-Cowan, Vice President for Human Resources;
- Joseph Harris, Department of History;

Hope M. Hill, Psychology;
Arvind K.N. Nandedkar, Biochemistry and Molecular Biology;
Ransford W. Palmer, Economics;
Marian Gray Secundy, Health Sciences;
John Trimble, Computer Sciences.

The delegation was successful in establishing collaborative relations with various educational, governmental and non-governmental agencies and individuals in South Africa on behalf of Howard University. They initiated a cooperative agreement between Howard University and the University of Fort Hare, developed proposals and explored strategies for funding and implementing a variety of collaborative activities.

There are a number of planned activities in South Africa for the summer, 1998:

- Robert Edgar, African Studies (to conduct research on Josephine Palmer, a South African political activist);
- Thomas Groce, Ph.D., Human Resource Management (to visit the University of Fort Hare, Eastern Cape Technikon, Vista, and University of the North, July 23 - October 2, 1998);
- Marian Gray Secundy, Ph.D., Community and Family Practice (to visit the University of Cape Town, April 1998);
- Richard Thornell, J.D., School of Law (to explore collaboration and exchanges with regard to law and public policy, especially in the fields of civil and human rights and environmental law and policy at the University of Fort Hare, July - August 1998);
- Dr. James K. Hill, Association of Howard University of Retirees (to conduct an educational tour to Johannesburg and Cape Town, June 24 - July 7, 1998);
- Dr. Lee Brown, Philosophy Department (10th World Congress of Comparative Education Conference, July 12-17, 1998);
- Dr. Joan Brown, School of Education (10th World Congress of Comparative Education Conference, July 12-17, 1998);
- Dr. Ura Jean Oyemade Bailey, School of Education/Center for Drug Abuse Research (South African Alliance for Prevention of Substance Abuse, August 6-14, 1998);
- Dr. Don Coleman, School of Engineering, Architecture, and Computer Sciences (Peninsula Technikon, Information Technology Workshop to be held in Cape Town, July 6-10, 1998).

HURSAP Town Meeting: Expanding U.S./African Partnerships
(May 6, 1998)
HURSAP produced the highly successful, televised “Town Meeting on Expanding U.S./Africa Partnerships” featuring Howard University faculty and several of the delegates who accompanied President Clinton on his recent trip to Africa. The program included a video which highlighted South African students who are enrolled at Howard and captured the experiences of Dr. Cummings during residency in South Africa. The program was taped and distributed to television stations in South Africa. It will be converted to CD-ROM format for use as an informational tool.

Among the distinguished guest speakers participating in the Town Meeting were:

- Dr. C. Payne Lucas, President, Africare;
- Dr. Cebile Khayne, Manager of Human Resources Development, University of the North, Republic of South Africa;
- His Excellency Ambassador Franklin Sonn, Embassy of the Republic of South Africa;
- Dr. Romona Edelin, President, National Urban Coalition.

Conference on Epidemiology and Prevention of ATOD Abuse and Violence in South Africa and the U.S. (January 1998, Funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse)

Convened by faculty members at both Howard University and the Medical University of South Africa (Ura Jean Oyemade Bailey, Ph.D., Center for Drug Abuse Research; Melissa E. Clarke, M.D., Department of Emergency Medicine; James E. Craigen, MSW, School of Social Work; Hope M. Hill, Ph.D., Department of Psychology; and Solly Rataemane, M.D. South African Alliance for Prevention of Substance Abuse and Medical University of South Africa), this three-day event featured experts in substance abuse research from the U.S. and South Africa. The conference objectives were:
To provide an overview of drug abuse and violence research issues among Africans in South Africa and among African Americans in the U.S.;

To identify strategies for assisting in building research capacity among African researchers at Historically Disadvantaged Institutions (HDIs) in South Africa;

To plan for future conferences to follow up on the proposed research plans.

The conference attracted more than 85 participants. The conference also sponsored the following South African participants:

Mr. Anil Bhagwanjee, Professor, Health Sciences Division, University of Durban Westville;

Dr. Allen Herman, Dean, Schools of Public Health in South Africa at the Medical University of Southern Africa;

Dr. Leslie London, Specialist/Associate Professor, Department of Community Health, University of Cape Town;

Dr. Romilla Maharaj, Acting Group Executive, South African Medical Research Council;

Dr. Palesa Makhale-Mhlangu, Research Specialist, Human Sciences Research Council;

Dr. Mary Margare Peden, Specialist Scientist, National Trauma Research Programme, Medical Research Council;

Ms. Virginia Petersen, Chief Director, Department of Social Services, Province of the Western Cape;

Dr. Solomon Tshimong Rataemane, Principal Specialist and Head Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, Medical University of Southern Africa;

Ms. Priscilla Reddy, National Health Promotion research and Development Office, Medical Research Council;

Dr. Sheila Tyeku, Research Specialist, Human Sciences Research Council;
Mr. Gerald Lewis Williamson, Programme and Marketing Manager, UNISA Institute for Behavioral Sciences, Centre for Peace Action.

Moving Beyond National Standards to Provide Educational Equity and Excellence in the African American and South African Communities (December 1997)

The Howard University School of Education sponsored this national forum which was intended to stimulate dialogue among educational stakeholders regarding educational equity and excellence among students. South African educators participated in the program as part of the Howard University Educational Mission to South Africa. The specific objectives of the forum were to:

- Discuss the historical context and current status of the national standards movement and its implications for historically disadvantaged South Africans and African Americans;
- Examine new approaches to testing and assessment in the context of culture and pedagogy;
- Examine effective approaches to literacy, mathematics, and science curriculum and instruction in relation to national standards, testing and assessment;
- Mobilize educational stakeholders to promote quality education in the African American and South African communities through the evaluation of information on the national standards, the conduct of relevant research, and the dissemination of research findings across a wide spectrum of audiences;
- Examine pre-service education and professional development for educators and practitioners in the current climate of educational reform;
- Develop and coordinate a national safety net of systems including practitioners, parents and community partners for promoting quality education for African American and Historically Disadvantaged South African students in general as well as those with special needs;
- Examine issues of governance, finance and policy making as related to national standards;
- Evaluate current models of school reform.

The conference sponsored the participation of the following South African faculty members:

- Mr. John Levi Englebrecht, Vice Chair, International Relations Committee, Department of Educational Psychology and Special Education, University of the Western Cape;
- Dr. Crain Soudien, Professor,
School of Education, University of Cape Town;
- Dr. C.C. Ota, Director, Education Policy Unit, University of Fort Hare;
- Dr. Priscilla M. Fihla, Dean, Faculty of Education, University of Fort Hare;
- Mr. Samuel B.A. Isaacs, President, South Africa National Qualifications Authority.

Computer Science Curriculum Workshop (January 9, 1998)

Howard University School of Engineering, Architecture and Computer Science, the Association of Departments of Computer Information Science and Engineering at Minority Institutions and HURSAP sponsored this technology workshop to discuss the theme of “Better Preparing and Retaining Disadvantaged Students in Computer Science by Focusing on Introductory Core Courses in Computer Sciences.” The following speakers from HBCUs in the U.S. and HDIs in South Africa were featured in the workshop:

- Isabel Venter, Computer Science Department, University of Western Cape;
- Philip Machanick, Department of Computer Science, University of Witwatersrand;
- John Trimble, Systems and Computer Sciences, School of Engineering, Architecture and Computer Science, Howard University;
- Andrea Lawrence, Chairperson, Computer Science Department, Spelman College;
- Dr. C.C. Ota, Director, Education Policy Unit, University of Fort Hare;
- Dr. Priscilla M. Fihla, Dean, Faculty of Education, University of Fort Hare;
- Mr. Samuel B.A. Isaacs, President, South Africa National Qualifications Authority.
