Abstract	Patricia Roberts Harris was a lawyer, U.S. Ambassador to Luxembourg, dean at Howard Law School, secretary of Housing and Urban Development under President Carter, and mayoral candidate in the District of Columbia. She was also deeply involved in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Democratic National Committee. Her papers document her personal and professional accomplishments and include awards, correspondence, mayoral campaign files, files on her various service organizations, newsclippings, and photographs.

Biographical/Historical note

Patricia Roberts was born on May 31, 1924, in Mattoon, Illinois, the daughter of a Pullman car waiter. Raised by her mother after her father left, she excelled at school and won a scholarship to Howard University in 1941. While at Howard, Harris served as vice chairman of the university's student branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. As a part of the organization's civil rights efforts, she participated in a protest against a restaurant that only served whites. Harris graduated from Howard in 1945 with honors. In 1965, Harris broke new ground for African-American women when she was appointed U.S. ambassador to Luxembourg by President Lyndon B. Johnson. She held the position for two years and then returned to her teaching at Howard where she again proved to be a trailblazer. In 1969, she became the dean of the law school there, making her the first African-American woman to do so. In 1970, Harris became a corporate attorney at a large law firm. Along with her legal work, she served on the boards of such companies as IBM, Scott Paper Company and Chase Manhattan Bank—hoping to encourage corporations to help foster social change. Harris left her law practice in 1977 after being selected by President Jimmy Carter for his Cabinet as secretary of Housing and Urban Development—making HUD the first Cabinet department to be headed by an African-American woman and Harris the first African-American woman to hold a Cabinet post. Harris grew up to become the first African-American woman to hold a Cabinet position, serve as an ambassador and head a law school. Harris fought for fair housing and employment practices under the Carter Administration as the secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Harris served as a professor at George Washington University Law School until the time of her death. She died of breast cancer at age 60.

Scope and Contents note

The papers of Patricia Roberts Harris date from 1849-1994 with the bulk of the collection dating from 1964 to 1986 and documents Harris' legal and political career, service, and accomplishments. Among her files are awards, artifacts and memorabilia, personal and business correspondence, files from her time on the Democratic National Committee, Georgetown University materials, mayoral campaign files, NAACP files, newsclippings, photographs, and writings.
