Howard's 2006 Graduates: Newest Distinguished Alumni

BY MELISSA T. TYLER
Roll Call Editor

"With some students do not have definite plans for their lives when they graduate, in need of guidance and inspiration, Howard's Class of 2006 graduates have been a shining example of what it means to be a Howard student. Their achievements and commitment to service are truly inspiring."

Howard University's Class of 2006 graduates are pursuing various paths after graduation, including studying the HIV/AIDS epidemic in Africa and producing motion pictures.

"Our class is diverse," said Nahid Mousa, a senior English major who plans to attend the University of Southern California. "We have students from all over the world, and we are packing in a lot of knowledge."

Shana Rezley, a senior biology major from New York City, is an exceptional student who developed cancer before undergoing several surgical operations within her first three years as a student. Being a first-year student, she was not yet aware of her situation or in need of a service medical condition. Being diagnosed with cancer at an early age, she found the help of understanding professors and an encouraging mother. "Despite her health and financial situation, she remained on top of her academics and graduated on time with a GPA of 3.64," said Truro Bean, secretary in the College of Arts and Sciences. Not just in class, but outside of class, she was a good student.

Bean's story was accomplished by her ability to manage her life through her difficulties. Using her work, was a major accomplishment for her because now she know the value of a dollar and that work truly pays off," said Bean.

As of yet, Bean has had a great impact on her students. She now teaches mathematics and gives back to the community. "I volunteer my help to students in D.C. because I love helping and working with children," Bean said.

Bean's story is far from over. Not only has she been an effective teacher, but she has also been an effective mentor to her students.

Howard graduates often have to overcome numerous challenges and difficulties before they reach their graduation day.

Get to Know “America’s Most Radical Revolutionary Communist...”

BOB AVAKIAN

"Bob Avakian, a revolutionary and political leader, has written and spoken on the need for people to understand the realities of the world and to engage in political action to change it. His writings and speeches are essential for anyone who wants to understand the important issues of our time and to take action to address them. Bob Avakian is a radical revolutionary who has dedicated his life to the struggle for a better world. His ideas and his actions are an inspiration to us all." – Howard Zinn

"Bob Avakian is a long distance runner in the freedom struggle against imperialism, racism and capitalism. His voice and witness are indispensable in our efforts to enhance the wretched of the earth. And his powerful story of commitment is timely." – Cornel West

"A truly inspiring story of Bob Avakian’s life, a touching portrait of someone who is often seen only as a hard-line revolutionary." – Howard Zinn

"Bob Avakian brings clarity and sometimes unsentimental insight into what it means to grow up white and male in an imperialist society that is now emerging as a leader of the world’s most powerful and military-inspirational forces." – Carol Browner

Common Comes to Maryland for Art Festival

BY JAMIE LLOYD

The University of Maryland (UMD) held its 11th annual Art Attack festival on its College Park campus with a Community Outreach component at the Fire Hose. Over the weekend, 85 vendors sold their wares, ranging from jewelry to clothing, furniture to fine art, all for less than $20 a piece. The event was open to the public and free of charge.

Spring Season Blossoms Business in the District

BY CHARLIE O'LEARY

As the snow is nearly gone, school year rapidly approach, and the Hollows bloom in their glory, it is time to take a look at the past year's business trends.

"I have four wonderful years at Howard University, but it's so sweet that I graduated," said Kevin D. White, who is now the president of the Maryland Business Association. "I am very proud of the work that I have done, and I am very excited for the future."
Pump Prices Alarm New Graduates

BY SHARLENE PERSINGER

"In the current economy, the cost of gasoline is a major factor in the decision-making process for new graduates," said the Chief Financial Officer. "Pump prices are once again playing nice, with the latest giving new graduates some breathing room. These decreases in gasoline prices are making some graduates consider their future incomes and availability of public transportation." A recent study has shown that gasoline prices have continued to fall, with some predictions suggesting a continued decline in the near future. This has led to increased optimism among new graduates, who are now considering the impact of lower gasoline prices on their future earnings and job prospects.

The rise in gasoline prices will eventually have a major effect on the overall economy, analysts say. The increasing cost of gasoline (and even oil) will affect the price of a new car.

Student Loans: A Life Sentence

BY SHARLENE PERSINGER

"Getting a college education is a major investment in a person's future, but it can also be a financial burden," said the Director of Financial Aid. "Student loans are a common way for students to finance their education, but they can also lead to a lifetime of debt. This is why it is important for students to carefully consider their options and make informed decisions about their financial future." A recent study has shown that student loan debt continues to increase, with some predictions suggesting that the debt will continue to grow in the future. This has led to increased attention on the impact of student loan debt on the overall economy and the financial well-being of students.

Keys to Success: Tips for 2006 Graduates

BY JULIA ALLEN

"The job market for new graduates is expected to be competitive, but with the right strategies, it is possible to land a great job," said the Career Services Director. "Here are some tips for 2006 graduates:

1. Customize your resume. Make sure your resume is tailored to the specific job you are applying for. Avoid generic language and focus on your strengths and achievements.

2. Network. Reach out to your professional network and ask them to refer you to potential employers. Attend networking events and join professional organizations to expand your network.

3. Prepare for interviews. Practice your interviewing skills and be prepared to answer common interview questions. Be confident and professional in your approach.

4. Follow up. After an interview, make sure to follow up with the employer. This shows your interest in the position and can help you stand out in a competitive market.

By following these tips, new graduates can increase their chances of landing a great job in the coming year. Remember, the job market is competitive, but with the right strategies, it is possible to land a great job and start your career on the right foot.

Unpaid Interns: They Work Hard for NO Money

BY DANIELLE KNATZ

The life of an intern can be hard. Many find themselves constantly missing work due to late nights and meetings, often leaving them without the same amount of work experience as their counterparts. The lack of pay for their efforts is one of the greatest frustrations they face.

“Most interns are not interested in working for free,” said one intern. “We all want to be paid for our work, especially when we are working so hard.”

Internships are a valuable part of education, but they should not come at the expense of the student’s well-being. The system is flawed and needs to be reformed.

“My internship is supposed to be a learning experience, but all I’m doing is running errands,” said another intern.

Interns are often required to work long hours without any compensation, and this can lead to burnout and even mental health issues.

“We work for free, but we are not傻子,” said one intern. “We don’t want to work for nothing.”

The lack of pay is a major issue for many interns, and it is time for change. Internships should be a true learning experience, and students should be compensated for their hard work.

“Interns contribute a lot to the company, and they should be compensated for their efforts,” said one intern.

Internships should be a valuable part of education, and students should be compensated for their hard work.

“Internships are a great way to gain real-world experience,” said another intern. “But we should be paid for our work.”

Bison Football Announce Challenging 2006 Schedule

BY ELLIOTT JONES

The Howard University football team announced their 2006 schedule with a schedule featuring six games against Big Ten and Mid-American Conference opponents and a bye in the second week of the season.

Howard opens the season on Sept. 2 against Morgan State on the road. The Bison will then face four Division I-A opponents before the bye.

The schedule includes one game against a non-conference opponent, the American Athletic Conference. Howard will face Tennessee on Sept. 9 in a game against another Division I-A opponent.

Howard's schedule features six games against Big Ten and Mid-American Conference opponents, including rival Bethune-Cookman on Oct. 7.

Howard will also face three teams from the Northern Athletic Conference, a league that is a member of the NCAA. The schedule includes games against Grambling State, Alabama A&M and Tuskegee.

Howard's non-conference opponents include Tennessee, Howard and Howard University.

The Bison football team look to have a tough season as they face many of their rivals on the road. They will face Hampton University in their season opener on Saturday at 3 p.m.

Graduating Seniors: A Look at Entrepreneurs

BY BRITIANY HUTSON

Many graduating seniors bring with them the drive to take charge of their careers while often desiring to personally develop and create their own businesses.

Deborah Stokburg Kelley Williams, Augusta Ford and Tomi Taylor-Taylor, directors of students who have taken courses in entrepreneurship and business administration at Augusta University, believe the students' interests and knowledge are creating the businesses of their future.

Marketing manager Katie Wilhite of Augusta Ford, a soon-to-be graduate, believes that students interested in entrepreneurship are following the trend of starting their own businesses after graduation. She said, "Most students are interested in entrepreneurship, but few actually pursue their dreams of starting something on their own. I believe that many of our students are gaining valuable knowledge and experience that will help them in their future endeavors."

The question of immigration is, on the minds of people all over the world. People are concerned, especially with security issues and the economy.

According to the facts, the United States has been a melting pot for immigrants from all over the world. Many people have come to the United States to escape war, poverty, or to seek a better life. Today, the United States is home to millions of immigrants, and is the most diverse country in the world.

Some people are concerned about the effects of immigration on the economy, but most people believe that immigrants contribute to the United States' economy by working and paying taxes.

In conclusion, the question of immigration is a complex issue that requires careful consideration. It is important to remember that immigrants have made a significant contribution to the United States, and that they continue to do so today.

Napster Announces New Treats For Listeners

BY BRITIANY HUTSON

Napster's revamped music website now allows limited-time access to more than a million songs.

Users are allowed to listen to any of the artists on the website for free and browse their favorite songs.

If users are interested in downloading an album or a complete download, they can do so for a limited time.

In addition, the service now includes a feature where users can share songs with friends and family.

Napster has also added a new feature that allows users to create their own playlists.

The new feature is called "My Mix," and allows users to create and share their own playlists.

"Why would I use Napster when I can get all of my music for free?"

Ashley Ford, 19

Napster's new features include a variety of music options, including new and exclusive tracks, as well as a library of classic songs.

Users can purchase individual songs, albums, or entire playlists for download.

In addition, Napster now offers a "Pay-as-you-go" subscription plan, allowing users to choose how much they want to spend on music.

The new Napster model aims to offer a more personalized and affordable music experience for users.

Breathe, Now Take Over the World

Graduates are much more than the opportunity for the nation to recruit new motivated souls to do its dirty work in a Howard setting. In fact, it is crushingly hard for those who actually complete their degree program at Howard (D.C. 1926). Today, the Class of 2006 consists of graduates of the Class and is finally ready to leave the [incomplete sentence]

We're thepering students who have reached this important turning point in our life. Now we can make the Howard point. It isn't the Purnell Point, the Berry Wall, Montgomery Research Center or even the Yarn, that these thousands from across the world to attend this University. It is the real legacy of this institution, and it is now for the Class of 2006 to make its mark, to be a Howard point, but to make it their own.

You, the graduates, don't need to have your whole life mapped out, but the time has arrived for you to start... and only you can decide what it is you want to do. But after four years of being mesmerized by the idea that you'll have your whole lives ahead of you, it becomes easier to think of yourself as someone in need of an answer. You need not spend the string student who are so very sure what they're doing. You have secured your education and your employment back in the fall, and even now you're thinking about that question. "What are you going to do now?" But after four years of being mesmerized by the idea that you'll have your whole lives ahead of you. You need not spend the string student who are so very sure what they're doing. You have secured your education and your employment back in the fall, and even now you're thinking about that question. "What are you going to do now?" But after four years of being mesmerized by the idea that you'll have your whole lives ahead of you. You need not spend the string student who are so very sure what they're doing. You have secured your education and your employment back in the fall, and even now you're thinking about that question.
