All photography courses offered for the fall semester have been halted—effective Sept. 17—by hairstyle professional Caro’s Daughter, which has well-known loyal fans of Will Smith and Jada Pinkett Smith, Mary J. Blige, Erykah Badu, D’Angelo and Jill Scott.

"I didn’t want to have products that smell like honeydew," said Zenobia Morrow, and explains that smell will remind them of home, as they also sold the key in the form.

"We are very particular about the fragrance," she said. "Everything starts with the fragrances, it must be intense.

These distinct blends and products range from Almond and Honey to Mandarin and Fig, with the names itself defining the essence of each thought when first sniffed. The scent “Bourbon & Fig” is bold and audacious while the scent “Jasmine & Vanilla” is soft and captivating. A day of experimenting in her kitchen five years ago, while growing in the peters’ times of Carol’s and Jeff Scott.

"I don’t know how to describe it," said Carol’s Daughter’s owner.

"It’s hard to make something that is just one smell," she said. For example, green tea scented items also have a line of honeydew, apple, and honey kiss.

Carol’s Daughter, which has continued to be popular among women, online retailers and the host of a flagship store in Harlem last October. Earlier this year, products became available through Sephora locations, as well as the popular beauty emporium’s website. That smell will remind them of home, as they also sold the key in the form.

Doors are open. Music ringing from hop Scotch to Lime Kiln to some rhythm blurred out. Freshmen are in the hallways laughing and talking. That’s the typical atmosphere in the Quad or Drew Hall, Howard’s freshmen dorms.

But, the usual sound of freshmen in Drew Hall — a hall usually filled with sophomores — is packed with mainly freshmen and resembles the hallway of Hill Hall a hall usually filled with upperclassmen. Lunch and a call, while the sounds of music blast out. Residents are in the hallways of Hill Hall as freshmen sit on the floor, talking about their day.

H - What is the biggest misconception about Islam?
A - The Muslim community in America made the mistake of not having enough character to spread an understanding of Islam and what it means. However, all the resources of information about Islam that Americans receive is through the media. And the media is unjust and unfair. They try to give the worst image possible. But there are Muslims and Jews who are different from any other years, given the latest events in the Middle East?

H - What is the biggest misconception of Israeli Jews?
A - I'm not sure that there is a misconception. I think we're dealing with propaganda of extremists that are distorting Islam. Further the world is accepting Israel's willingness to negotiate. But Israel has proved in 1978 that by choosing between occupation or peace, they choose peace. Figure back the land is hatched in May 1990. In May, Israel pulled out of Lebanon, but Israel has to prove to the Western world time after time that in Lebanon and not the West, the world is stupid or our eyes. And I think some peace of the world is beginning to recognize that.

B - What do Israeli-Jews and Muslims have in common?
A - We share a lot with the Jews. We both devote ourselves to divine scripture. They also have a holy book. We both believe in one God, one paradise, one hellfire, messengers, and prophets.

Bank of America Courts Students

BY BRITNY HUTSON

Bank of America is offering a variety of services catered to students' needs.

The majority of students on campus currently have accounts due to opening accounts with online transfers, account management, accessibility in the DC area and is a popular among academic banks. This is a large difference in the number of Bank of America accounts.

"I can go online and we how much I have and transfer money into my account," said Lauren Wersinger, a pre-pharmacy major.

"You only have to go to the building where the bank is and it's not as good as it seems. Stories of getting sick and upset stomachs have been told by some students who have eaten at the Food Corner," the newspaper reported.

"When I ate at the Food Corner, I thought the food was really good," said Heidi, a senior majoring in business. "However, when I ate at the other places, I didn't like the food as much."

The food options at the Food Corner were not as healthy as expected. The food was too salty and the portions were too small.

"The food at the Food Corner is not good," said another student. "I would rather eat at Subway or Five Guys."

On Sunday, the World Bank announced that a severe flood in western Syria has killed at least 300 people and displaced thousands in the last two days. The flood has swamped many villages and towns, and the United Nations has warned that the situation could worsen if aid is not provided quickly.

"The situation in Syria is dire," said UN humanitarian chief Stephen O'Brien. "We need immediate action to prevent the situation from getting worse."

Drum Majors Lead Band in Right Direction

BY ERICA ROBINSON
Contributing Writer

SEPTEMBER 20, 2006

The best part of being drum major is "being able to help people, like showing them how to do the "mean face" and how to march," said Lewis.

Lewis is consistently leading a band to others so they can look back on the field. Since he was drum major at high school, he felt that when he got to college he too needed to be drum major. Lewis also plays alto, tenor, and soprano saxophones.

"I like playing my instrument and performing," Lewis said. Not only does he go to practice from 6 to 9 p.m. every day, he also does a study hall with the band every Tuesday and Thursday from 9-10 p.m. During this time, he can practice with the other drum majors on their choreography and techniques.

According to Lewis, it takes dedication to be a great drum major. His ambition for this season is his words, "to work out a way that we can play more games.

"We needed someone to push people forward, and I like entertaining," explained Black as to why he wanted to be a drum major. For three years, he has pushed the band to work to their fullest potential. With his love for engaging an audience, he feels it is important to stay as energetic as possible.

"As drum major, we have to be the most hype of all the people in the group. How can you be a leader without energy?" Black said.

In order to motivate energy, the drum majors give the band words of encouragement before the game.

"We say, "Band, how do you feel?" The band responds, "Feel good." We do that twice then we might say, "What are you?" The band responds, "Too damn hype."" Black said.

Lewis says he loves the feeling of stepping up to a big challenge. As drum major for the past two years, he feels that being involved, committed, and committed are the qualities an outstanding leader must possess. He was chosen after successfully completing a three-part selection process during tryouts.

"With our previous directing experience in high school also contributed to his selection. As a senior, he will deeply miss the band," Hogue said.

"I’m going to miss the music. When I’m in the band room, I forget about everything," Hogue said.

Hogue plans on pursuing a career in marketing and combining his love of music and business.

The dance moves and their leadership skills keep the crowd on their feet. The drum majors are prepared for the competition that awaits them and will continue to encourage the band to put their best foot forward.

What are you? The band responds, Too damn hype, Black said.

Black hopes to see more people dancing in the stands. "We are here to entertain," he said.

"Notta Nigga" Clothing Causes Controversy

He believes that young people have accepted the term "nigga" and it's used in a positive sense, when its origin is negative.

"If we want people to stop looking at us as nigga, we must say that we aren't nigga and we must distance the word and context," Jones said.

In addition to the image blocks accept of themselves, the image they present to others is also important.

If you want to use the word, that's a contradiction. Granted, you may have the license to sell a friend anything you want, but if you refer to yourself as a nigga, you shouldn't complain if someone calls you a nigga," Jones said.

Their inspiration for the clothing line came from two books, Dick Gregory's "Nipper" and Randall Kennedy's book, "Nigger: The Strange Career of a Troublesome Word," which discusses the evolution and current state of the word.

The word has been capitalized simultaneously to its denigration. When Klassen were calling to Niggas, Niggers, we were calling ourselves as well. Niggas has evolved to be more stylized, aesthetic. Nigger is spelled weird," Jones pointed out.

The Burning Bush

Reggie Bush has added to his list of allegations by realizing that he has made some mistakes and doing the right thing to make amends. He has taken responsibility for his actions and has accepted the consequences of his behavior. However, the damage done to his reputation and his career cannot be undone.

While Bush has taken steps to repair his image, he has also faced criticism from those who believe he should have done more to prevent his actions. The fact that he has taken full responsibility for his mistakes is a positive step, but there is still much work to be done before his career can be fully restored.

Perspective: Rebuttal on Hip-Hop going South

I'm not saying you're a hater, just inaccurate. It's hard to read articles from people with this type of outlook. I'm not going to deny that there are people in the South who like music from other areas, but I don't understand why people would dismiss the true culture from the South.

Music is a part of culture; it's a reflection of our lives and our experiences. We have our own unique style and sound that sets us apart from other regions. It's important to recognize and appreciate this culture, rather than dismissing it.

Hip-Hop is a form of music that has evolved from the South, and it's not going away anytime soon. It will continue to grow and evolve, just like any other form of music.
