Divinity Students Denied Application for HUSA Candidacy

By TRAVIS RIGGEE

The General Election Commission last night approved a candidacy for the Committee of the Student Assembly and the General Election Commission.

However, the Finance Committee is currently reviewing the application, and the commission is expected to make a decision soon.

Divinity students were denied the opportunity to run for HUSA candidacy, but they are hopeful that their application will be approved.

The change of rules for HUSA candidacy was not expected to affect the outcome of the election.

Artists Battle to the End

By MEIRICA WILLIAMS

Last night, amateur rap artists competed against each other in front of the Artistic Network at the HUSA Candidacy meeting.

The competition was held in the Student Union and was attended by a large crowd.

The artists were given the opportunity to perform their songs and receive feedback on their performance.

The winners were chosen based on their performance and the crowd's reaction.

The competition was a great success, and the artists were all very happy with the outcome.

The event was well received by the students, and the organizers are planning to hold similar events in the future.
The Howard Experience: One on One with Howard Alum

BY JADA SIMMONS

Delta Sig's Pigott, a recent Howard graduate, has a message for all students still in college and beyond, to not let anything stand in the way of progressing through their education.

"I don't like the word 'treadmill,'" Pigott said. "I don't want to say that the student's experience is a tedious one. It's not a linear path. It's not a straightforward road. It's a lot of work, but I wouldn't trade it for anything, and I wouldn't want to do anything else."

Hidden Gem Celebrates African Heritage

BY CHRISTIAN MONTGOMERY

The District's Green Line on the National Mall showcases the dynamic interactions between the Branch of American and African cultures, which are deeply intertwined.

However, most Howard University students have explored the mysterious quadrant known as Southeast Washington, D.C., which happens to be home to the quaint, yet captivating Smithsonian Anacostia Community Museum.

Created in 1976, the Anacostia Community Museum opened its doors to the public. This federal-funded neighborhood museum has worked to document the historical experiences and creative expressions of African Americans, according to the museum's website.

As an effort to do so, the museum offers exhibitions, workshops, lectures, and programs and films at the Southeast site at other museums in the region, as well as colleges and cultural centers across the country.

The Anacostia Community Museum is a unique and valuable resource, giving students a chance to learn about the history and culture of African Americans.

The museum's exhibits and collections, which cover topics such as African-American culture, art, and history with free admission.

Preparation

For Valentine's Day, the Anacostia Community Museum begins a new exhibit on African-American culture, art, and history with free admission.

The exhibit features a variety of objects and artifacts, including photographs, videos, and musical instruments.

Located adjacent to the exhibit area, there is a cozy restaurant that serves hot chocolate and other hot drinks to keep the body warm. It offers light meals and seating for a romantic dinner to accompany skating as well.

Located just two blocks from the White House, going skating might be the perfect entertainment idea to make this Valentine's Day unforgettable.

The event itself takes place on Friday before an 11 p.m. ticket for this event are $55 per person.

This popular option may be to plan a romantic getaway to any of Washington, D.C.'s many hotels and resorts. Take either the weekend before or the weekend after to get away from classes and inside distractions to relax inside the comfort of a private suite or on the sidewalk of the city.

Popular destinations include the Westfields Marriott in Washington, D.C. and the Courtyard Marriott in Alexandria.

Closer locations can be found.

The Anacostia Community Museum is also a part of the Smithsonian Institution, which offers a variety of complex and research opportunities.

One day in the past, people just communicated with each other. I've spoken to former Hilltop editors, professional journalists, current staff members and Emerson students and alumni about The Hilltop: What it is and how it's becoming a daily newspaper.

The Importance of Being a Black Daily by Drew Costley

Campus Editor

"It's like trying to write in one voice: 'Hey, you guys are okay,'" said former Hilltop editor, L. Eliot. "The Hilltop has been subject to change and the newspaper is becoming a daily.

On Monday, February 28, 2005, Emerson Kennedy majored in Journalism. The Hilltop became the first black daily newspaper in the nation.

If you look back at the day The Hilltop has grown, you've noticed its community involvement as well as its importance. A large number of people have written about the changes with the McNallys. I'm writing this article because of The Hilltop.

Peter Carr, a junior marketing major, led one team, while his father taught him a week and a half ago. He's already known for his changes with the McNallys. I'm writing this article because of The Hilltop.

Before coming to Howard University, a former high school athlete, Mike Bibby was adapted to the签赛季的比分为

Adapting to Howard's style of play and dealing with the changes in the National Basketball Association is not something easy to do, but Bibby has done it very well. He even had a game-winning shot against the Washington Wizards.

Bibby's performance was impressive and it showed that he is ready to take on bigger roles in the future. The Wizards will definitely benefit from his skills and leadership.

Howard has always been a team that has struggled to win games consistently, but Bibby's arrival has brought new hope and excitement to the fans. The team is now ready to take on tougher challenges and try to improve their performances in the upcoming games.
Last Monday, Howard's general election season began with controversy of a different kind. Tamia McClain, with the advisor of former General Assembly chair Erin Ferguson, posted an Election Legislative Action - - ------ -- -- ----- Emergency Details of every discrepancy suggesting that the rules be changed to give the ballot as opposed to the begin­ ning, before any of these problems arise. Ferguson had no point in reverse McClain's action was right. As Hayes pointed out, one candidate is going to have some sort of advantage over the rest of the pack that results from personal circumstance.

The elections commission has not only benefitted from the advice of former General Elections commissioner, for from personal circumstance.但 all these problems should have been identified and sorted out from the begin­ ning. Every year there is a controversy with elections.

In previous years, the actual deadline for candidate applica­ tions has not only benefitted the legislature’s coverage of the issues, but has helped clarify all of the discrepancies for all of the students.

Last Friday, I was a guest on a radio show when I attempted to make a joke about how Howard University's basketball program had had its best season in recent memory. Before the joke, the Howard athletic director had congratulated the team's players and coaches for their success.

As a result, the joke was taken off the air and the host apologized for my remarks.

Before coming to Howard University, student athlete Chris Brown had little exposure to online tools for keeping up with sports news.

And sports fans at Howard would agree that their hometown sports team was one of the most difficult situations to follow. When Howard students are on the road to a game or watching a match, they rely on the school's official website and Howard's official Twitter account for updates.

Howard's Twitter account is @HowardSports, and its RSS feed is @HowardSports
