Students Find Donor Scholarship Process a Mystery

BY MARGUERITY WRIGHT

Howard's senior class is preparing for graduation without the usual family and financial support they once enjoyed.

"The whole process of applying for scholarships has been difficult," said senior biology major Robert Johnson. "I've been working hard all year, but I haven't received any scholarships yet."

"I think it's because of the current economic situation," said senior chemistry major Sarah Williams. "If there were no scholarships, I don't know how I would have been able to afford college."

Howard Men Recognized for Accomplishments

Jahs Smith, Timothy Lewis, Sean McMullen and Antonio Bush were honored last night as part of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., Alpha Chapter's "Men of Howard Week."

"These men have demonstrated exceptional leadership and commitment to their communities," said Phi Beta Sigma, Alpha Chapter's teacher advisor. "It's an honor to have them as role models for our students."

Seniors to Cruise on Potomac Before Walking Across Stage

BY CHRISTINA M. WRIGHT

Howard University's Senior Boat Ride will take place on April 30, followed by the Senior Walk and Graduation ceremony.

"We're excited to celebrate our seniors' achievements," said President Dr. Zimmer. "This is a special time for them and their families."

"It's also a time to reflect on the contributions they've made to our university," said Dr. Johnson. "We're proud of them and their accomplishments."

Some students are unaware of how to apply for the donor scholarships which are made available to students on April 16.

"It's important that students are aware of these opportunities," said Dr. Smith. "They can make a difference in the lives of Howard University students."
Eta Sigma Phi Reborn at Howard

Cousins for Classics Majors Returns to Campus After Hiatus

By Meghan Nick

Eta Sigma Phi is, in many ways, a club with many faces. When I first walked into a freshman chemistry lab, I was unprepared for the group of students crowded around me. The club advisor, Dr. Coward, was standing nearby, laughing and teasing the students. As I approached, he introduced me, and I could see the excitement in his eyes. He told me about the club's history and its impact on Howard University and the classics community at large. It was clear that he was passionate about Eta Sigma Phi and its mission.

Dr. Coward explained that Eta Sigma Phi was founded in 1921 to promote the study of Greek and Roman civilizations and their literature. He went on to describe the club's activities, including its chapter at Howard University, which was established in 1936. He also mentioned the club's annual Riley Lecture, which brings distinguished speakers to speak on topics related to the classics.

Dr. Coward emphasized how much Eta Sigma Phi has grown and how it continues to thrive, even during challenging times. He explained that the club's recent hiatus was due to financial difficulties, but with the support of the Classics Department and the university, Eta Sigma Phi is once again strong and ready to serve its members and the broader community.

Dr. Coward ended his introduction by inviting me to join Eta Sigma Phi and become a part of its rich history. He explained that the club is always looking for new members, and he encouraged me to consider joining. He told me that the club is a great way to immerse oneself in the study of the classics and to connect with like-minded individuals.

I was excited to learn more about Eta Sigma Phi and its impact on the classics community. I knew that the club would be a valuable addition to my university experience, and I was eager to become a part of its vibrant community.

Dressing for the Occasion with Fashion Feng Shui

BY SUSANNA IRBY

The problem with dinner and a movie is that it limits the variety of experiences on a date. This can be deterring, especially on a first date when couples are trying to get to know each other. There are, however, so many more creative date ideas out there.

To some, dinner and a movie is the perfect date, while others prefer to try new things.

Whatever the preference, there are always new things to try and a spool of possibilities on any date.

"I am really enjoying the free Internet access provided at Modern Times Coffeehouse," said Holly Horning, the Washington, D.C. representative for Fashion Feng Shui International. Horning created the Feng Shui Web site. "What colors you wear can affect mood and emotion.

Diversity Month Aims to Unite

Today Matters Because...

On April 19, 1975, Max Robinson became the first blackjournalist on a regularly network newsmarket.

By Alexandra Franklin

A bar attending George's College, Virginia Union University and Indiana University, Max Robinson began his career at a television station in Portsmouth, Va. where he worked as a newscaster. encyclopedia Britannica reports that although Robinson was hired instead of several white applicants, the station still faced problems with the move. As a result, they promoted the station's logo over his face and he was fired the day after he entered the studio. He then started a company in hopes to designate April as the official month. Public relations major Alyssia J. Bryant said the celebration would only be successful if we don't gain congressional support.

According to the company's founder, Celebrities, Inc., Perch Life Inc. is an academic journal devoted to the study of hip-hop. It is used in numerous university classrooms as well as after-school programs throughout Washington, D.C. and Prince George's County.

Words, Beats & Life Inc. is a dynamic organization bringing together hip-hop artists, scholars and content to transform the local, regional and national hip-hop community.

"We're Words, Beats, and Life for real!"

Celebration came about after realizing there is no one single month to celebrate African American Heritage, Latino Heritage, and American women's history.

Although the month is not yet a legal holiday, Perch Life Inc. is currently attempting to establish the nation's first Celebrate Diversity Month. As a result, Robinson was hired instead of several white applicants, the station still faced problems with the move. Crailist's List Sells Sex?

Craig's List is modeled after classified advertising sections in newspapers and other traditional print media. It allows users to post free classified advertisements and search them without cost. However, Craig's List has become a hotbed for online prostitution and other illegal activities.

The federal government has taken action to shut down Craig's List and other similar websites, but the problem persists. Craig's List operators argue that they are merely providing a classified ad service and that it is the responsibility of the users to ensure that their activities are legal.

Our View: Web sites should be vigilant in monitoring and combating illegal activities.

People have to hold true to the moral values and principles that they have been taught. They have to be aware of the dangers of using the Internet for illegal activities. This chain of events was initiated by users of the Web sites, and it led to Internet stalkers, prostitutes, and others.

The Internet is a powerful tool that can be used for good or evil. It can be used to help people, but it can also be used to harm them.

The Internet is a moral issue. People have to be aware of the dangers of using it for illegal activities.

Perspective: The Subjectivity of Tragedy

At the time of the author's writing, the author was a student at Howard University. The author's perspective is based on his personal experiences and observations.

On his way to school, the author was struck by the fact that the Internet is a powerful tool that can be used for good or evil. It can be used to help people, but it can also be used to harm them.

A Love Lost

BY CARYN GRANT

What led you to your love? Was it a "true love at first sight"? How long has your relationship lasted? How has your love evolved over time?

BY JARAK ROGGE

In the backyard of Longhorn Park Recreation Center, the bell sounds. Immediately, the freshmen begin to hit the punching bag with a left-right combination. As they throw all their power into the bag, their feet stay in constant movement on the bag. Terrence Brown,分享 from the pro on the bench as trainer, Doug Tyson monitors their progress. "Let's go three rounds," in his only comment.

Tyron, a District native, has been professionally boxing for more than two years. He is a junior lightweight contender.

"I picked up my first boxing gloves when I was 8 years old and have been involved in the sport ever since. I started out at Hillcrest Center, and when called Mill, I'm Tyron," Tyson said.

Like many youngsters, we were drawn to the sport. In the past, there were numerous programs for kids, including the Hillcrest Center. Head Tennis Coach Larry Strickland

BY ERA ROBINSON

For the past five years, Coach Larry Strickland, a native of Springfield, Ohio, contributed to the success of the Howard University men's and women's tennis teams, continuously motivating the athletes to always strive for their best.

He established the first women's tennis team at Howard and since his arrival in 1974, the men's and women's teams combined have won two conference championships.

Strickland said his most proud accomplishment as a coach was seeing the women's team earn an Academic All-American team award in 1980, and having players named as Academic All-Americans 29 times.

In order to receive a team award, the team must have an average GPA of 2.7 or better and have three or more individuals on the Academic All-American team. Strickland said his team has been successful in terms of academic achievement as well as athletic success.

Since his father was a semi-professional player, his passion for sports was developed at an early age. Strickland was a football and baseball player in both high school and in college. He graduated from Western College in Williamsport, Ohio, in 1969. As a high school basketball player, he was an all-state selection. He was not until after college that he began to focus on tennis in his junior year at Howard University.

He became a teaching professional at the Howard University Tennis and Education foundation, which is a non-profit organization. He enjoyed working with people that had a desire for playing.

Strickland said, "I started coaching because professional life, Shena Brown, Howard native Sugar Ray Leonard serves as an icon for some professional and amateur boxers in the D.C. area, including the Anderson brothers, legendary fighters in the sport of rear-end and contact track. The Anderson brothers turned their lives around when they found their way to Headstrong Gym. They trained every day at the Nonnie Youth Network Center in downtown Washington, D.C. He is currently training for the 2008 Olympics and has ambitions to become a professional boxer.

May 29 boxing, in violence and hitting, but it's an art. It requires discipline in every aspect of the game," said Tyson, who teaches a Boxing Class at the Park Center.

Howard already agrees with some in the community who see the sport as dangerous and believe it teaches youth to be violent. "This is not boxing so that a child can go out and hit someone," said Tyson. "This is not it if I see it. We're trying to show them another way to defend themselves.
