9-27-2007

The Hilltop 9-27-2007

Hilltop Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://dh.howard.edu/hilltop_0010

Recommended Citation
https://dh.howard.edu/hilltop_0010/442

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the The Hilltop Digital Archive at Digital Howard @ Howard University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Hilltop: 2000 - 2010 by an authorized administrator of Digital Howard @ Howard University. For more information, please contact lopez.matthews@howard.edu.
Howard Leaders to Speak at Annual Legislative Conference

By BORIJA JOHNS

The Congressional Black Caucus Foundation has invited Howard University to host the 2007 Annual Legislative Conference. The event will take place in Washington D.C. on Thursday, April 5, 2007.

Howard University's School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy will host the conference, which is an opportunity for members of Congress to discuss issues with community and religious leaders. The event will also feature a special session on the role of the Congressional Black Caucus.

Several prominent leaders are expected to attend, including Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., who is the dean of the House of Representatives. Other attendees will include Reps. Jesse Jackson Jr., D-Ill., and James Clyburn, D-S.C., who are the majority leader and majority whip, respectively.

“The purpose of the conference is to bring members of Congress and other leaders together to discuss issues that affect the African-American community,” said Howard University President Kevin G. Jenkins.

Jenkins said the conference is an opportunity for Howard University to showcase its leadership in higher education and to highlight its contributions to the country. The university has a long history of working with Congress and other government institutions to address issues affecting the African-American community.

The conference will include a keynote address by Rep. James Clyburn, a panel discussion on the role of the Congressional Black Caucus, and a presentation by Howard University Chancellor Laurence B. Brown.

More information about the conference can be found at www.howard.edu/caucus.

THE HILLTOP

The Daily Student Voice of Howard University

Established 1924
Political Economist Praises Communism to HU Students

By SHONDA FOSTER

When considering the future of the American worker, it is hard to avoid the reality that the nation is in dire straits. Despite the nation's prosperity, workers continue to struggle with the cost of living, unemployment, and a host of other issues. In response to this, political economist Robert Reich has praised the idea of a socialist society, as he believes it is the only way to truly address the needs of workers. Reich believes that a socialist society would provide workers with a fair share of the economic pie, and that the government should take a more active role in regulating the economy. He also mentioned the importance of education, saying that it is the key to unlocking the potential of the next generation. Overall, Reich believes that a socialist society is the only way to create a fair and just society for all Americans.

THE HILLTOP

Student Employment Program an Alternative to Work Study

BY CHRISTINE DELACTH

The Hilltop

For Ellis Williams, a graduate student at Howard University, finding a way to finance his education was a constant challenge. Williams decided to take matters into his own hands and start his own small business. By doing so, he was able to provide for himself and his family. While this may seem like a daunting task, Williams shows that it is possible to make a living and still pursue your education. This story serves as a reminder that it is never too late to start something new and that hard work and determination can lead to success.

Cafe Back in Business

After being closed for one day of work due to smokel, the Latta's Cafe has reopened. The cafe was closed briefly, after an inspection by the State of Colorado Department of Health, due to a smoke problem, as well as issues with backed up sewage and the trash compactor.

You Need To Know: Presidential Candidate Barack Obama

BY ROYCE STRAMFAR

The hilltop

Barack Obama, a current senator from Illinois, is expected to be a prominent candidate in the 2008 presidential election. He has been endorsed by several prominent political figures, including Hillary Clinton, John Edwards, and Bill Richardson. Obama has been described as a moderate candidate, with a record of working across the aisle to find common ground. He is expected to be a strong contender in the Democratic primaries, and is likely to face off against Hillary Clinton, John Edwards, and Bill Richardson in the general election.

Obama's background in law and policy has been widely noted, as he is a graduate of Harvard Law School and has held several policy positions in the Obama administration. He is known for his progressive views on issues such as healthcare, education, and the economy. He is also expected to be a strong candidate in the 2012 election, if he chooses to run.

Hilltop Staff Photographer
laws could affect minority voting

Continued from FRONT.

SURE THING to have the awareness plan because communication at Howard has experienced many breakdowns throughout the campus.

"The census will allow students to get this information in a timely manner. I just hope that those who want to delegate what information goes to do it in timely manner," Njoku said. "Politics shouldn't interfere with voting."

Alexis Hamilton, junior nursing major, said she looked at it on Bison Web but if it were her, she did not know how important it was. "I actually didn't know what it was to register."

"I just thought they wanted more information from me. Now that I am aware that it is, I do think it is essential for everyone to sign up. It's crucial for the protection of all Howard University students, staff and faculty visiting members as well asfor taking more than the safety of our own students being at Howard," she said.

Some members of AlertHU have been received outside of the loop since it started in April. On the other hand, they still watch it daily, but they plan on signing up soon because, according to him, he feels he has to.

Other students think that people will not register because it is a test and because the main testing done during the Missouri issue worked well enough to warn the entire campus. "We don't want to present problems," Drake said. "We want to present solutions.""We don't want to present problems," Drake said. "We want to present solutions."
Brightens rooms.

Brightens futures.

Give a Gift That Brightens More Than Just a Room.

Think about it. Most gifts are pretty unimaginative. A lamp turns on. It turns off. Pretty exciting stuff.

But give Savings Bonds, and you'll be giving the gift of future possibilities—from a down payment on a car to help with college tuition. With eight denominations to choose from, there's a size for every occasion. You can select the popular Series EE Bond or the inflation-protected I Bond. They're available through most banks, where you work, or automatically through the new Savings Bonds EasySaver Plan at www.easysaver.gov.

Call 1-800-US BOND for recorded rate information, or write to:

Creating a New Century of Savings

For complete information about U.S. Savings Bonds, visit our Web site at www.savingsbonds.gov.

A public service of this newspaper
Who's Who Among Students In American Colleges & Universities

APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE NOW!

CURRENTLY SEEKING: DYNAMIC JUNIORS, SENIORS, AND GRADUATE STUDENTS WHO HAVE DEMONSTRATED EXCEPTIONAL LEADERSHIP ABILITY, ACADEMIC SUCCESS, CAMPUS INVOLVEMENT, AND COMMUNITY ACTIVISM.

DEADLINE: OCTOBER 5, 2007

DELIVER APPLICATIONS TO THE OFFICE OF STUDENT ACTIVITIES IN SUITE 117 OF THE BLACKBURN CENTER.

APPLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE ONLINE VIA THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES WEBSITE

DO YOUR PART

Register for AlertHU online at: www.howard.edu/bisonweb

ONLY AUTHENTIC EMERGENCY NOTIFICATIONS AND SCHOOL CLOSINGS WILL BE SENT. NO JUNKMAIL OR SPAM WILL BE SENT!!

Be among the first to be notified in case of an emergency situation at Howard University. The University has contracted the services of an Emergency Notification Alert provider to send you a text message, a telephone call, or an email message to your alternate email accounts in case of an emergency. In order for this program to be effective, we need you to register. Registration is simple, and will only take about 30 seconds.

REGISTER TODAY!!

AlertHU

Howard University vs. Winston Salem State University
Football Game
Saturday, September 29, 2007
Greene Stadium

Football Ticket Distribution
When: Wednesday & Thursday, September 26th & 27th,
Where: Lower Level, Cramton Auditorium
Time: 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.
All students must be validated and present student identification card to receive ticket.
Get on the Bus

CONGRESSIONAL BLACK CAUCUS FOUNDATION, INC.
www.cbcfcinc.org/ALC/issues.html

37th Annual Legislative Conference
Washington Convention Center
September 27-29, 2007
HU SHUTTLE SERVICE FROM MAIN CAMPUS

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27

12:00PM - 12:00AM
Rep. Dennis D. Keschl
2014 Board of a Federal Agency or Energy Licensees

12:30PM - 12:30PM
Rep. Anila Haddad
National Health Care for All Coalition. Preventer Community Health Centers

1:30PM - 1:30PM
Rep. David E. Nutter
Alliance Against Repression in El Salvador on Challenges, Routes

3:30PM - 3:30PM
Rep. Hilda V. Solis
Three Proposals from A Fair
Future: A Fair Future: A Fair

4:30PM - 4:30PM
Rep. Rashida Tlaib
Health Information Technology and Health Care Reform

5:30PM - 5:30PM
Rep. Warren Niles
Monday Matters Networking

5:30PM - 5:30PM
Rep. David Stock
Fostering Our Children, Defending
the Function for Our Communities

5:30PM - 5:30PM
Rep. Maria Conway
Guardian Angel Network
Pregnancy and Reproductive Health

5:30PM - 5:30PM
Rep. John Lewis
PM

6:00PM - 6:00PM
Rep. Elena Rivas
PM

6:30PM - 6:30PM
Rep. Donna M. Christensen
Bringing Science, Policy, and Political Leadership to the National Health Care
Enrollment Partnership

7:00PM - 7:00PM
Long the Women's Health Care
Policy, the Political Health Care
Care for America Act of 2003

7:00PM - 7:00PM
Rep. Dina Craig
PM

7:30PM - 7:30PM
Rep. Adrienne A. Jones
PM

8:30PM - 8:30PM
Rep. Gloria E. DeSoto
PM

9:00PM - 9:00PM
Rep. Dr. Barbara H. Jackson
PM

9:30PM - 9:30PM
Rep. Donna G. Barrows
PM

10:30PM - 10:30PM
Rep. Hilda V. Solis
PM

11:30PM - 11:30PM
Rep. Ruth Landers
PM

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 28

10:00AM - 2:00PM
Rep. Tammy Bishop
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

10:30AM - 2:00PM
Rep. Cheryl Jurriens
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

11:30AM - 1:30PM
Rep. Shari Jackson
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

12:30PM - 2:30PM
Rep. Michelle C. Scott
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

1:00PM - 3:00PM
Rep. Eddie C. Johnson
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

1:30PM - 3:30PM
Rep. Pamela Sherrod-Nilsson
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

2:00PM - 4:00PM
Rep. Donna G. Barrows
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

3:00PM - 5:00PM
Rep. Hilda V. Solis
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

4:00PM - 6:00PM
Rep. Donna M. Christensen
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

9:00PM - 9:00PM
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

10:00PM - 10:00PM
Rep. Dina Craig
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

11:00PM - 11:00PM
Rep. Adrienne A. Jones
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

12:00AM - 12:00AM
Rep. Gloria E. DeSoto
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

12:30AM - 12:30AM
Rep. Dr. Barbara H. Jackson
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

1:00AM - 1:00AM
Rep. Ruth Landers
Valor: A Case of Equitable Policy

BONUS SCHEDULE

Departures from
Rankin Circle to Convention
Center 7:00am-11:00pm
ON THE HOUR

Returns from the Convention
Center 7:00am-11:00pm
ON THE HOUR

On the Bus

Wednesday, September 27, 2007

THE HILLTOP
Millions to Have Autism in Eight Years

BY ALEESA MANN

By 2025, four million Americans will have autism. The unexplained disorder has grown at an alarming pace. While experts can speak to the genetic causes, the environmental influences and potential causes of autism are still a mystery.

No clear stance on immigration

The U.S. Senate is considering the Border Security, Economic Opportunity, and Immigration Modernization Act (S. 744). The bill would provide a pathway to citizenship for many unauthorized immigrants, including up to 11 million undocumented workers. Some senators support immigration reform, while others oppose it.

In the meantime, the Trump administration has continued to deport families and people with criminal records. Critics argue that this policy is inhumane and counterproductive.

Over time, many states have implemented policies that limit immigration. Some states have established programs to help undocumented immigrants access healthcare and education. However, these efforts are often met with resistance from anti-immigrant groups.

A team of researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, conducted a study on the impact of immigration policies on public health. The study found that restrictive immigration policies have negative effects on public health, including an increase in mental health disorders and a decrease in life expectancy.

The researchers concluded that immigration policies should prioritize compassion and support for immigrant communities. They urged policymakers to consider the long-term benefits of a robust immigration system.

Reps. discuss black issues

Tavis Smiley’s presidential forum visits Morgan State University tonight. A panel will ask the candidates about the 100 countries of black America that Smiley outlined in his book. Only five of the nine will be in Baltimore.

FROM THE MOTHERLAND ... TO THE MECCA

BY DREW BROWN

Since the 1960s, African Americans have been leaving the United States for countries such as Nigeria, Ghana, and South Africa. These migrants are known as the “African Diaspora.”

According to the United Nations, there are currently 24 million African migrants living outside of Africa. This number is expected to grow to 52 million by 2050.

Millions to Have Autism in Eight Years

BY ALEESA MANN

By 2025, four million Americans will have autism. The unexplained disorder has grown at an alarming pace. While experts can speak to the genetic causes, the environmental influences and potential causes of autism are still a mystery.

No clear stance on immigration

The U.S. Senate is considering the Border Security, Economic Opportunity, and Immigration Modernization Act (S. 744). The bill would provide a pathway to citizenship for many unauthorized immigrants, including up to 11 million undocumented workers. Some senators support immigration reform, while others oppose it.

In the meantime, the Trump administration has continued to deport families and people with criminal records. Critics argue that this policy is inhumane and counterproductive.

Over time, many states have implemented policies that limit immigration. Some states have established programs to help undocumented immigrants access healthcare and education. However, these efforts are often met with resistance from anti-immigrant groups.

A team of researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, conducted a study on the impact of immigration policies on public health. The study found that restrictive immigration policies have negative effects on public health, including an increase in mental health disorders and a decrease in life expectancy.

The researchers concluded that immigration policies should prioritize compassion and support for immigrant communities. They urged policymakers to consider the long-term benefits of a robust immigration system.

Reps. discuss black issues

Tavis Smiley’s presidential forum visits Morgan State University tonight. A panel will ask the candidates about the 100 countries of black America that Smiley outlined in his book. Only five of the nine will be in Baltimore.

FROM THE MOTHERLAND ... TO THE MECCA

BY DREW BROWN

Since the 1960s, African Americans have been leaving the United States for countries such as Nigeria, Ghana, and South Africa. These migrants are known as the “African Diaspora.”

According to the United Nations, there are currently 24 million African migrants living outside of Africa. This number is expected to grow to 52 million by 2050.

Millions to Have Autism in Eight Years

BY ALEESA MANN

By 2025, four million Americans will have autism. The unexplained disorder has grown at an alarming pace. While experts can speak to the genetic causes, the environmental influences and potential causes of autism are still a mystery.

No clear stance on immigration

The U.S. Senate is considering the Border Security, Economic Opportunity, and Immigration Modernization Act (S. 744). The bill would provide a pathway to citizenship for many unauthorized immigrants, including up to 11 million undocumented workers. Some senators support immigration reform, while others oppose it.

In the meantime, the Trump administration has continued to deport families and people with criminal records. Critics argue that this policy is inhumane and counterproductive.

Over time, many states have implemented policies that limit immigration. Some states have established programs to help undocumented immigrants access healthcare and education. However, these efforts are often met with resistance from anti-immigrant groups.

A team of researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, conducted a study on the impact of immigration policies on public health. The study found that restrictive immigration policies have negative effects on public health, including an increase in mental health disorders and a decrease in life expectancy.

The researchers concluded that immigration policies should prioritize compassion and support for immigrant communities. They urged policymakers to consider the long-term benefits of a robust immigration system.

Reps. discuss black issues

Tavis Smiley’s presidential forum visits Morgan State University tonight. A panel will ask the candidates about the 100 countries of black America that Smiley outlined in his book. Only five of the nine will be in Baltimore.

FROM THE MOTHERLAND ... TO THE MECCA

BY DREW BROWN

Since the 1960s, African Americans have been leaving the United States for countries such as Nigeria, Ghana, and South Africa. These migrants are known as the “African Diaspora.”

According to the United Nations, there are currently 24 million African migrants living outside of Africa. This number is expected to grow to 52 million by 2050.

Millions to Have Autism in Eight Years

BY ALEESA MANN

By 2025, four million Americans will have autism. The unexplained disorder has grown at an alarming pace. While experts can speak to the genetic causes, the environmental influences and potential causes of autism are still a mystery.

No clear stance on immigration

The U.S. Senate is considering the Border Security, Economic Opportunity, and Immigration Modernization Act (S. 744). The bill would provide a pathway to citizenship for many unauthorized immigrants, including up to 11 million undocumented workers. Some senators support immigration reform, while others oppose it.

In the meantime, the Trump administration has continued to deport families and people with criminal records. Critics argue that this policy is inhumane and counterproductive.

Over time, many states have implemented policies that limit immigration. Some states have established programs to help undocumented immigrants access healthcare and education. However, these efforts are often met with resistance from anti-immigrant groups.

A team of researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, conducted a study on the impact of immigration policies on public health. The study found that restrictive immigration policies have negative effects on public health, including an increase in mental health disorders and a decrease in life expectancy.

The researchers concluded that immigration policies should prioritize compassion and support for immigrant communities. They urged policymakers to consider the long-term benefits of a robust immigration system.

Reps. discuss black issues

Tavis Smiley’s presidential forum visits Morgan State University tonight. A panel will ask the candidates about the 100 countries of black America that Smiley outlined in his book. Only five of the nine will be in Baltimore.

FROM THE MOTHERLAND ... TO THE MECCA

BY DREW BROWN

Since the 1960s, African Americans have been leaving the United States for countries such as Nigeria, Ghana, and South Africa. These migrants are known as the “African Diaspora.”

According to the United Nations, there are currently 24 million African migrants living outside of Africa. This number is expected to grow to 52 million by 2050.

Millions to Have Autism in Eight Years

BY ALEESA MANN

By 2025, four million Americans will have autism. The unexplained disorder has grown at an alarming pace. While experts can speak to the genetic causes, the environmental influences and potential causes of autism are still a mystery.

No clear stance on immigration

The U.S. Senate is considering the Border Security, Economic Opportunity, and Immigration Modernization Act (S. 744). The bill would provide a pathway to citizenship for many unauthorized immigrants, including up to 11 million undocumented workers. Some senators support immigration reform, while others oppose it.

In the meantime, the Trump administration has continued to deport families and people with criminal records. Critics argue that this policy is inhumane and counterproductive.

Over time, many states have implemented policies that limit immigration. Some states have established programs to help undocumented immigrants access healthcare and education. However, these efforts are often met with resistance from anti-immigrant groups.

A team of researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, conducted a study on the impact of immigration policies on public health. The study found that restrictive immigration policies have negative effects on public health, including an increase in mental health disorders and a decrease in life expectancy.

The researchers concluded that immigration policies should prioritize compassion and support for immigrant communities. They urged policymakers to consider the long-term benefits of a robust immigration system.

Reps. discuss black issues

Tavis Smiley’s presidential forum visits Morgan State University tonight. A panel will ask the candidates about the 100 countries of black America that Smiley outlined in his book. Only five of the nine will be in Baltimore.

FROM THE MOTHERLAND ... TO THE MECCA

BY DREW BROWN

Since the 1960s, African Americans have been leaving the United States for countries such as Nigeria, Ghana, and South Africa. These migrants are known as the “African Diaspora.”

According to the United Nations, there are currently 24 million African migrants living outside of Africa. This number is expected to grow to 52 million by 2050.
Black Designers Missing From Grand Finale

BY KENDRA DESROSIERS

BY KENDRA DESROSIERS

The Hilltop

Urban fashion has developed into a very lucrative industry employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.

Urban fashion is a very lucrative industry, employing black designers to break through the barriers; Riccardo Ricciari, who held the position of global president, told an Atlanta journalism publication in 2009 that traditional black fashion labels have a focus on black wire directives. Few black designers like Tracy Reese and Aerin LaVitch have reached the heights of fashion success and recognition. But they're breaking through. Ricciari has been working closely with black designers to help them get noticed by the media and others. Without their work, black fashion labels wouldn't have the recognition they need to succeed. In the past, black designers have struggled to find success due to their lack of recognition among mainstream consumers.
Candiates Pass On Opportunity

This evening Margaret Hadley, former school counselor in Washington, D.C., will play a key role in a presidential election.

Hadley, who now directs the Hispanic Policy Institute, will introduce the Democratic Presidential nominee, Hillary Clinton, to the audience of Hispanic voters.

Hadley said she was excited to be part of the historic moment.

"It's a privilege to be able to introduce someone who has been a leader in the Democratic Party," Hadley said.

Hadley is a former teacher and counselor who has worked with Hispanics in the Washington area for over 20 years.

She said she hopes Clinton's message will resonate with Hispanic voters.

"I think Hispanics are going to be very important to the election," Hadley said. "They are a growing population and they are going to be very much in play this year."
In the last United Soccer Conference (USC) match-up in Greene Stadium, the Howard Bison soccer team tied 0-0 to the Howard University Bookstore.

The Lady Bison dropped the match, leaving them with a tough record and even higher hopes to overcome. Their win against the Bison made them one point under the field made during their last season as the Longer than expected.

A number of pool players and coaches have decided to come on board at week 2. While the Bison's season opener against the Howard University Bookstore, Lady Bison and Lady Bison, two big matches are scheduled to be held.

The two match events are coming soon.