DNA Testing Service Helps Detect Future Risks

BY DARIE SMITH

Today’s people are wondering if that was precisely what they should be detecting in order to avoid these DNA’s. In the test, one would avoid a walk from the dead and wound’s back. Once it is completed, they will be given a secret password that will allow them access to an individualized Web site where they can ask questions regarding their DNA profile that will take into account any potential risks associated with the DNA’s. The service is available for $100 per year, which includes three DNA testing sessions per year.

Activity: It could be very helpful in the advancement of the future. The only way to solve this is to detect these DNA’s. The more likely they are to be able to detect these DNA’s, the more likely they are to be able to detect these DNA’s.

According to Linda, the DNA’s are useful because they can help to detect the DNA’s that may be present in a person’s DNA. The DNA’s can be used to detect the DNA’s that may be present in a person’s DNA. The DNA’s can be used to detect the DNA’s that may be present in a person’s DNA. The DNA’s can be used to detect the DNA’s that may be present in a person’s DNA.

Additionally, the service will provide clients with a detailed report outlining the DNA’s that are present in their DNA. The report will also include recommendations for preventing the DNA’s from developing.

Despite its benefits, G. Smith-Adams, also a director of the DNA’s, has been metabolically viable. The DNA’s are able to metabolically dispose of much of their waste, which means they can avoid becoming fat.

"We are excited to bring this new technology to the public," said Smith-Adams. "This service will provide individuals with the tools they need to take control of their health and avoid the development of unwanted DNA’s. We encourage everyone to take advantage of this service to improve their health and well-being."
Finals Bring Stress, Potential Ruin to Holiday

BY SHANDRILA LEWIS

Students are due a couple of weeks left in the semester, when Stanford University housing officials are getting through the middle of the sleeping schedule and the holidays. "I feel really stressed on, right now," said Benjamin Snyder, a sophomore in finance major. "I feel pressure because I also have school work that I need to do."

Stanford Students Demand Co-ed Rooms

BY LISA KREGER

Students of the opposite sex share rooms on the 26 floors of the building, but Stanford University housing officials are considering the idea of giving students the option to live with people of their choice.

"It is not about sex," said Rachel Bland, Stanford’s housing and residential life coordinator. "We are looking at students who have been interested in living with people of their choice on campus, and we are considering the idea of having them in the dormitories.

The proposed "gender-blind" housing policy is a response to a growing number of students that are questioning the current sexual orientation of the housing system. "I do not believe in separate housing based on gender," said one student, who preferred to remain anonymous.

Sophomore Erica Tran, who is a member of the student government, said: "I do not think that students should be forced to live with people who are not of the same gender." Others agree, saying that the current system discriminates against students who do not identify as cisgender.

Senior Laura Hays, who is a resident advisor at Stanford’s Prospect Heights housing, said: "I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships." However, some students disagree, saying that it is not the responsibility of the university to force students to live with people of different genders.

"We should be able to choose who we want to live with, not the university," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

"But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said another student.

"It is not that radical," said one student.

But other students, including seniors Mary and Emily, who are also resident advisors at Prospect Heights, believe that it is important for students to live with people of different genders.

"I think that living with people of different genders is a great way to learn about diversity and build stronger relationships," said Mary.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said Emily.

"Some students feel more comfortable with people of the same gender," said another student.

"But I think that it is important for students to live with people of different genders," said one student.

"I also think that it is important for students to live with people of different gend
December 5 - December 19

December 5 - 7, Wed. - Fri., 9:30 - 5:00
December 10 - 14, Mon. - Fri., 9:30 - 5:00
December 17 - 18, Mon. - Tues., 9:30 - 5:00
December 19, Wed., 9:30 - NOON

LAW SCHOOL BUYBACK:
Dec. 11 & 14, Tues. & Fri., 10:00 - 2:00

Photo I.D. Required

We buy all books having resale value. In addition, books on retail list may receive up to 50% of purchase price. To view our "50% at Buyback" list, please visit www.bookstore.hamden.edu/bookbuy/BookList.htm. If you don't see your book on the retail list, please ask your professor; we may not have received an adoption.

The Office Of The President
Cordially
Invites You To Attend

President H. Patrick Swygert’s Annual Student Holiday Reception

Thursday, December 6, 2007
3:00 PM – 5:00 PM

Gallery Lounge
Armour J. Blackburn University Center

Refreshments Door Prizes

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

THE HILLTOP
CHRISTMAS AT THE HUB 2007

Celebrate your Christmas with the HUB. There will be food, freebies, entertainment, and raffles! Help us kick off our year-end sale!

December 6, 2007, 9:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.

A Guest Appearance made by
HU Alum and Jazz Pianist,
Marcus Johnson
December 6, 2007, 2:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Join us as he shares a few selections from his recent release, "The Phoenix" and from his 2005 "Smooth Jazz Christmas" album.

CHRISTMAS AT THE HUB 2007
Take an extra 15% off the sales price, when you shop at the HUB on December 6, 2007. Please present this coupon at the customer service desk.

This offer expires on 12/07/07.
Congress Attempts to Protect Student Credit

BY LINDSEY ISAACS

It is all too often to reduce the credit card issue to an endless debate. The political arena is not the place to settle this issue. The Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs held a hearing on the issue of student credit card debt. The hearing was held to discuss the need for reform in the credit card industry and to address the concerns of student debt.

The hearing was held on October 17th, 2002, and featured testimony from representatives from various organizations, including the Federal Reserve Board, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, and the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators. The hearing was moderated by Senator Susan Collins (R-ME), who is the chair of the Senate Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs Committee.

Collins opened the hearing by saying, "We are facing a crisis in our student debt crisis. In the past decade, the amount of students in debt has almost tripled. This is not only a financial burden on students, but it also affects their ability to pay for education and their future prospects." She then turned the floor over to the first witness, John B. Taylor, a professor of economics at Princeton University.

Taylor began his testimony by saying, "Student debt is a major issue in our country. It is not only a burden on students, but it also affects the economy as a whole. The amount of student debt has almost tripled in the past decade, and it is only going to get worse." He then went on to discuss the potential consequences of the student debt crisis, including the potential for a recession and the impact on the economy.

After Taylor's testimony, the floor was opened to questions from the committee members. Senator Collins asked, "What can be done to address this issue?" Taylor responded, "There are several potential solutions. First, we need to increase the amount of need-based financial aid available to students. This will help reduce the amount of student debt that students take on. Second, we need to increase the amount of educational assistance available to students. This will help reduce the amount of student debt that students take on. Third, we need to increase the amount of workforce development assistance available to students. This will help reduce the amount of student debt that students take on."

The hearing concluded with a round of applause from the committee members, and the witnessess were thanked for their testimony. The hearing was a significant step towards addressing the student debt crisis, and it is hoped that the committee will take the necessary steps to address this issue.

Quick Steps to Determine Your Monthly Minimum Payment

1. American Express

- Repayment period based on the balance, $5, or the finance charge plus $5.

2. Bank of America

- 1% of balance or $5, whichever is greater.

3. Capitol One

- Pay the greater of 3% of balance, or $20.

4. Chase

- Minimum amount is $20, or 10% of new balance, or the balance, whichever is greater.

5. Citibank

- Pay the greater of 3% of balance, or the finance charge plus $5.

6. HSBC Bank USA

- 1% of balance, or $5, whichever is greater.

7. Discover

- Pay 2% of balance, or the balance.

8. Washington Mutual

- Minimum amount is $10, or 10% of new balance, or the balance, whichever is greater.

Apple Inc. Faces Legal Woes Over its Exclusive iPhone

BY TATIANA GURDYO

Washington (AP) — Apple Inc. and the mobile carrier AT&T may face legal battles over the phone's terms of service, which one analyst says could ultimately mean the end of their relationship.

Apple released a statement today saying it is "notat all comfortable" with the current arrangement.

The company confirmed earlier this week that it will begin selling the iPhone exclusively through AT&T.

Under the terms of the deal, Apple will pay $1 Billion to AT&T for the right to sell the iPhone. AT&T will also pay Apple a royalty fee for each phone sold.

The deal was announced last month.

"We are not comfortable with the current arrangement," Apple said in a statement. "We have been working closely with AT&T to ensure that the iPhone will be available to customers in a timely manner. We are committed to making the iPhone available to as many customers as possible, and we are confident that we can do so."
YOU STILL HAVE A CHANCE TO MAKE HOMECOMING ’08 HOT!

APPLICATION DEADLINE EXTENDED FOR HOMECOMING STEERING COMMITTEE TREASURER

The Homecoming Steering Committee Treasurer is the student who has primary responsibility for the fiscal operations of the entire homecoming program. This task is done in conjunction with the Homecoming Steering Committee.

The Steering Committee Treasurer must meet the following general eligibility criteria:
1. Must be currently enrolled as a full-time student and have at least a 2.5 cumulative grade point average at the time of application.
2. Must be a full-time student at the time of selection and in good standing for the duration of the term as treasurer.
3. Must have been enrolled at Howard University for at least one academic year, at the time of application.
4. Must have demonstrated leadership, administrative and organizational skills at Howard University.
5. May not hold any other major position during his/her term of office without special permission from the Homecoming Policy Board.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: DECEMBER 7, 2007

Applications are due on or before 2:00 p.m. in the Office of Student Activities, Blackburn Center, Suite 117.

December 5th

Liv Warfield

Blues Alley

1073 Wisconsin Avenue, NW Washington DC
Showtimes: 8pm and 10pm  $20 cover
Tickets at 202-588-4444 or www.BluesAlley.com
100pm with appearance at Luray VA氐洲: 5301 S. 12th
www.livwarfield.com  www.bluesalley.com
Energy Drinks' Effectiveness Questioned by All Nighters

By HARLEY WAGON
Consumer Reports

It is 11:39 p.m., when you jump from the com- munity college hangout of choice, and you know something is up. For the second time in six months, this is the 30-year-old man who never again, you have nodded off on the couch and woken up to a beeping alarm clock, and now it's due in your right ear at dawn. You're, too, in need of some type of jolt. One of the secrets to falling asleep and staying asleep for the night is often referred to as "the old-fashioned relaxation."" What is this thing that we're lacking? Of course, you've been told that "all nighters" is not the way to go.

Research shows that effective sleep is must for natural energy by helping your body to recoup and recharge. Therefore, serious dorms take to make them up, which serve as a supplementary energy drink.

Energy drinks are sodas that provide booster and a boost of interest and focus. Popular brands include Red Bull, Amy. Reitman and Nelfo. "

The ingredients in energy drinks can vary, and some contain caffeine, sugars, carbohydrates, citric acid, and amino acids. In fact, an average cup of coffee contains 7 mg of caffeine, while a Red Bull energy drink contains 80 mg of caffeine. This makes Red Bull the highest energy drink on the market. "

Red Bull has been linked to more than 300 "energy-related" medical issues, including high blood pressure, increased heart rate, and an increased risk of stroke. "

Many campus students stated that they felt "energized" by drinking energy drinks, and they also felt that they were "less tired." However, some students felt that "Red Bull made me feel anxious" or "unfocused." "

Red Bull's effect on students is unclear, but some studies have suggested that it may have a positive impact on cognitive function. "

"Research participation requires lifelong dedication."

By BOB EDMOND
Consumer Reports

Many college students have financial concerns. From tuition to housing to books (there isn't much money to spend on personal needs), it can be challenging. "

Research participation can help students meet these challenges. Some students have been known to take part in research in exchange for partial tuition or free books. "

Many students also use research participation to obtain extra spending money. "

"Research participation can also provide valuable experience and skills that can be applied to future careers. "

Georgia Ave. Business Owner Races Out to Howard's Fashion Designers

By BARBARA RICHARD
Consumer Reports

"I still haven't decided on the flowers for the ceremony," said the 40-year-old owner of a small business that sells flowers. "I'm not sure if I should go with a classic design or something more modern." "

The owner, who runs a small floral shop, said she was looking for a way to make her business stand out. "

"I've always been interested in flowers," she said. "I love the different ways they can be arranged to create a unique look. "

The owner also mentioned that she has been experimenting with different techniques. "

"I'm trying to find a way to make my business stand out," she said. "I want it to be unique and different." "

Georgia Ave. Business Owner Races Out to Howard's Fashion Designers

By BARBARA RICHARD
Consumer Reports

"I still haven't decided on the flowers for the ceremony," said the 40-year-old owner of a small business that sells flowers. "I'm not sure if I should go with a classic design or something more modern." "

The owner, who runs a small floral shop, said she was looking for a way to make her business stand out. "

"I've always been interested in flowers," she said. "I love the different ways they can be arranged to create a unique look. "

The owner also mentioned that she has been experimenting with different techniques. "

"I'm trying to find a way to make my business stand out," she said. "I want it to be unique and different." "

Georgia Ave. Business Owner Races Out to Howard's Fashion Designers

By BARBARA RICHARD
Consumer Reports

"I still haven't decided on the flowers for the ceremony," said the 40-year-old owner of a small business that sells flowers. "I'm not sure if I should go with a classic design or something more modern." "

The owner, who runs a small floral shop, said she was looking for a way to make her business stand out. "

"I've always been interested in flowers," she said. "I love the different ways they can be arranged to create a unique look. "

The owner also mentioned that she has been experimenting with different techniques. "

"I'm trying to find a way to make my business stand out," she said. "I want it to be unique and different." "

Georgia Ave. Business Owner Races Out to Howard's Fashion Designers

By BARBARA RICHARD
Consumer Reports

"I still haven't decided on the flowers for the ceremony," said the 40-year-old owner of a small business that sells flowers. "I'm not sure if I should go with a classic design or something more modern." "

The owner, who runs a small floral shop, said she was looking for a way to make her business stand out. "

"I've always been interested in flowers," she said. "I love the different ways they can be arranged to create a unique look. "

The owner also mentioned that she has been experimenting with different techniques. "

"I'm trying to find a way to make my business stand out," she said. "I want it to be unique and different." "

Georgia Ave. Business Owner Races Out to Howard's Fashion Designers

By BARBARA RICHARD
Consumer Reports

"I still haven't decided on the flowers for the ceremony," said the 40-year-old owner of a small business that sells flowers. "I'm not sure if I should go with a classic design or something more modern." "

The owner, who runs a small floral shop, said she was looking for a way to make her business stand out. "

"I've always been interested in flowers," she said. "I love the different ways they can be arranged to create a unique look. "

The owner also mentioned that she has been experimenting with different techniques. "

"I'm trying to find a way to make my business stand out," she said. "I want it to be unique and different."
Pro Athletes Appear to be Targets for Violence in Recent Months

BY STEPHEN KNOX

This has been a trying year in athletics. Because of the high-profile athletes involved, the news has been heavily scrutinized, and the headlines have been dominated by the scandals and controversies.

A tragic problem has come to light in recent months—violence towards athletes.

On Tuesday, November 3, Seniors Tom Scaglione and Nick Hobson were gunned down at the Student Union on the day after Thanksgiving. The news shocked the University community.

The细节 remains unclear, but reports indicate that the two were involved in an altercation. One witness reported hearing arguments and loud noises before the shooting.

This is not the first time this year that violence has disrupted the University community. In fact, violence is a common theme in the headlines.

Despite the efforts of the University administration to address the issue, some experts believe that the problem is only going to get worse. "The sport culture often encourages aggression," one expert said. "Violence is a part of the sport culture, and it's hard to change."
The Big ‘O’ is Obama for Oprah

Worldly Washington detain of the cancellous Olivia Schmitz has jammed on board and publicly published US source of single and presidential privileged Barack Obama.

Will the ‘O factor’ work? White Ulster has jammed and his board, the Executive has invited his peers to the house and discussed the frontroom gap between himself and his, Harlem–Ohio.

The executive knows all about the resignation episode of ‘The Oprah Winfrey Show’ that debuts prior to Christmas every year, and the episode of the featured host is slated to air through the run in unforgettable highs.

During the ‘Oprah’s Favorite Things’ episode every year, guests are given a thumbs up with no less than eighty items, as Oprah goes on to say that the “O” is for Oprah. She’s going to say it every day.

And no, it’s not too early to say anything about the 2010 finale or the upcoming one, because it’s too early to say anything about the atmosphere. And the atmosphere is too early to say anything about the atmosphere.

The outlook between the news is just to say that whatever we’re going to say this year during this show, it’s not going to be the same.

The Big ‘O’ is Obama for Oprah.

Our View: Oprah has the potential to influence votes in the election.

President Obama is not immune from the political pressure of black women. The president himself has noted that he has made it a priority to reach out to black women, and has even called black women “the forgotten women” of the congressional elections.

The president has been a vocal supporter of women’s rights and has worked to increase funding for programs that support women’s health and education. He has also been a strong advocate for reproductive rights.

In the 2020 election, black women were one of the most influential voting blocs. They have historically been a key demographic for Democratic candidates, and their votes are essential for winning elections.

The president has made several trips to historically black colleges and universities, which are important venues for mobilizing black women voters.

In the 2020 election, black women were one of the most influential voting blocs. They have historically been a key demographic for Democratic candidates, and their votes are essential for winning elections. The president has made several trips to historically black colleges and universities, which are important venues for mobilizing black women voters.

Our View: Although we are opposed to the death penalty, we do believe that it is necessary to have a system in place to prevent the use of illegal substances.

The death penalty has been a controversial issue for many years, and there are many arguments both for and against its use. Some believe that it is an effective deterrent to crime, while others argue that it is cruel and unusual punishment.

In the United States, the death penalty is used in 31 states and the federal government. The majority of executions have been carried out in six states—Texas, Florida, Missouri, and Pennsylvania. These states account for over half of all executions in the United States.

In 1972, the Supreme Court ruled that the death penalty was unconstitutional. Since then, 1,786 people have been executed in the United States. The majority of these executions have been carried out by lethal injection.

The president has stated that he is opposed to the death penalty, and has called for a moratorium on its use.

Our View: We oppose the death penalty, but we believe that it is necessary to have a system in place to prevent the use of illegal substances.
From the guys who brought you THE 40-YEAR-OLD VIRGIN and KNOCKED UP

“AN UPROARIOUS AND TOUCHING PICTURE.”

Exclusive to Blu-ray Disc!
SUPERBAD “SUPERMETER” BONUS FEATURE keeps tally of the lewd and crude lingo in the film

ON 2-DISC DVD AND BLU-RAY™ HIGH-DEF DEC. 4th Includes More Movie and Over 2 Hours of Outrageous Special Features!