Search for a New President
Tuesday Town Hall Meeting to Find HU President Replaced

By Doing Some Foster
Staff Writer

The winter semesterprov
ounced itself with an enjoyn sated schedule for Tuesday in the School of Business auditors, who have been essential to the WHU study.

The co-chairmen, General Cable, Powell, and Richard Por pas, gave the meeting, which many say was an opportunity for the Howard community to ask questions and be applied in the presidential search.

"The sense is now the WHU, and the Howard town meeting is to be invited only," said Milan Mar, Howard University Association (HUA) president, and the only representative on the Presidential Search Committee.

Howard explained that a larger sense was written for the meeting, but due to scheduling conflicts the WHU would be used.

Some students feel that for n town hall meeting should be held in a larger venue, so that more people would have the opportu ity to attend.

"As during the president search, all of us, and don't put in cluded those who were not involved in the search, have the most say," Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

Allyson White and other some students were concerned with the presidential search, many an nounced.

"This is a big deal, the meetin G is the beginning of the search process," said, "I really can't wait to see what comes out of it." Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

"This is in the middle of the search, and all of us have to be involved," said, "The most important part is to make it inclusive." Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

Students who are inter
sted in the presidential search, but cannot be accommodated in the actual meeting, may view the meeting via streams.

"We would like to have the meet ving in a larger venue, not only for the students, but also for the president," Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

She added, "The search process is important for the students, and it is important for the president to be involved." Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

The process of finding a new president for the university is complex, and the applications for the position are still under vo ning.

"We are still looking for a new president," Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

The search for a new president will continue with a town hall meeting Tues day at 5 p.m. in the field.

Obama Wins, Student Volunteer Work Pays Off

By Vanessa Roeser
North Carolina Editor

It seems as if all of the hard work has paid off as Barack Obama, D-D, won the Democratic primary in South Carolina with a landslide, winning 52 percent of the vote and delegates from the state.

Obama moved into South Carolina for the primary in January, saying he was the only person who could win.

The Obama campaign is a grassroots movement all across the country, where young people are putting their passion in the state's effort. "This election is more than giving to the American people a reason to believe," Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

"I really loved talking to people down south, and it feels that I go to Howard," she said. "I think it was really effective be cause the area that we were in, is a really good area because of the useful language." Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

"We are still looking for a new president," Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

Obama went to South Carolina with a strong message, but also with a goal to build on their own campaigns.

"We got a personal and real feel for the people there," Maria Smith, a senior political science major.

Burr Pool Set to Reopen
After being closed for environmental issues and leakages in December, the Burr Gymnasium pool underwent repairs to its heating system and flooring.

The pool is scheduled to open in early February, according to the Department of Athletics.

Deborah Cohen, chair of the Department of Health, Behavior, Psychology and Leisure Studies, said the pool will be available for recreational and therapeutic services.

"The pool is being serviced to address leakage and environmental health issues. To resolve these issues, the pool was warmed up and underwent lighting repairs for an extended period of time to ensure its safety," Cohen said.

The pool will be accessible to the public on Feb. 11.

Barbara K. Winakur, chair of the Department of Health, Behavior, Psychology and Leisure Studies, said the pool will be available for recreational and therapeutic services.

W-Forms Important for College Students Filing as Independent

By Jeanette Hordoe

W-Forms are complex forms that are required for college students to file as independent. The forms are used by the IRS to determine eligibility for certain educational tax credits and deductions.

Students who file as independent must meet certain eligibility requirements. These include being a full-time student at a qualified educational institution, completing more than half of the total course credits required for a degree, and not being claimed as a dependent on another person's tax return.

Students who meet these requirements and file as independent are eligible for certain educational tax credits and deductions. These include the American Opportunity Tax Credit and the Lifetime Learning Credit.

The forms are available on the IRS website and must be completed by the deadline of April 15th each year.

Students Make 2008 Goals
Experts say 2008 resolutions will generally involve starting businesses and getting out of debt. Howard students are focusing on grades and good health.

BY DR. JON KHAL
Consulting Editor

Some people don’t make New Year’s resolutions because they feel they’re not worth making. Others feel they’re too difficult to carry out.

For some people, however, it’s a good idea to make a list of resolutions and try to make them happen. The New Year is a great time to start something new, and a great time to start working on old goals that you’ve been trying to achieve for a while.

Most people who make New Year’s resolutions make a list of goals they want to achieve in the coming year. Some of these goals may be personal, such as losing weight or quitting smoking. Others may be professional, such as getting a new job or starting your own business.

One study found that people who make New Year’s resolutions are more likely to achieve their goals than those who don’t. So, if you’re thinking about making a New Year’s resolution, it’s worth considering.

Whether you’re setting goals for yourself or helping someone else set goals, it’s important to remember that consistency is key. It’s also important to make sure that your goals are realistic and achievable.

Finally, remember that making New Year’s resolutions is a great way to start the new year off on the right foot. So, get started today and make 2008 the year you achieve all your goals.
Morgan State Hands Lady Bison Third Consecutive Loss

BY ED HILL
Special to The Morning

Washington, D.C.—Morgan State University jumped out to a 21-lead and won never threatened the Lady Bison of Howard University, 67-48, in a Mid-American Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game at Burr Gymnasium.

The loss was the first straight for Howard (5-0 overall, 5-0 in the MEAC), while Morgan State improved to 16-9 overall and 3-1 in the MEAC.

The Lady Bison established their dominance early, taking 62% of the first six minutes and then used a 20-3 run midway through the first half to take the game wide-open.

Parisa Rezaee (13 points) and Janine Bowers (12 points), all coming in to fill the floor, combined for 27 points to lead the Lady Bison in a comeback effort in the final 2:18.

Bowers added 18 of the offensive game.

The Hilltop Has Learned to Do More With Less

Dear Howard Community,

One of the biggest questions we ask ourselves is how we can be the best we can be with the resources we have. It’s a question thatThe Hilltop has been asking for years.

We’re always looking for ways to do more with less, and we believe we’ve found a solution that not only helps us stay afloat but also benefits our community.

In this edition of The Hilltop, we’re highlighting stories that demonstrate how we’re doing more with less. From our coverage of local events to our in-depth analysis of important issues, our team is working hard to bring you the news you need.

Thank you for your support, and we look forward to continuing to serve you.

Sincerely,
