An gie Stone Shares Business
BY BRITANY HUTSON

Award-winning singer, songwriter and actress Angie Stone offered her intimate gathering with students on the realities of the entertainment industry in an address to Howard’s international students. Top music industry players and executives introduced the audience ranging from how they plan to handle hectic schedules to how to break into the music business, industry advice and guidance about the realities of the business. She also focused on the declining nature of the music industry. She also focused on the concept of trying to save the music and the need for the government to “be willing to recognize the worth of music.”

Stone said she is attempting to save the music with her 2007 album, “Stone Love.” The album included the hit single, “Stone’s Soul.” Stone said she is attempting to save the music and the need for the government to “be willing to recognize the worth of music.”

Stone recollected about her career in the business. She also focused on the concept of trying to save the music and the need for the government to “be willing to recognize the worth of music.”

Stone was one of the most successful female artists of the 1990s, but she said she had to struggle to get her music noticed. She said she was not signed to a major label, and she had to work hard to get her music heard. She said she had to work hard to get her music heard.

Lady Bison Fall to S.C. State Shooting 9-49 From the Arc

By ERON FARNER

After losing to Western Carolina 84-62 on Saturday in Spartanburg, South Carolina, the Lady Bison were hoping to get a win in their next game against South Carolina State, but they were disappointed.

The Bison were able to take an early lead during the first half and were able to continue with their momentum throughout the game. However, their efforts were not enough to secure a victory against the Lady Bulldogs.

Junior guard Eugene Myatt led the Bison in scoring with 21 points on the night, while senior guard Shannon Carlisle contributed 18 points.

Carlisle led the game with 22 points, getting an early lead and multiple opportunities to shoot and convert on those attempts.

Carlisle was the highest scorer for the Lady Bulldogs, followed by senior guard Asha Santee, who scored 11 and 10.

“South Carolina State did an outstanding job of making shots and not giving them what they wanted,” Carlisle said. “They made them work for it.”

Carlisle continued to make “the wrong decision at the wrong time.”

“Unfortunately, as Jackson mentioned, the Lady Bulldogs did not have a true point guard, hurting their ability to compete with the Bulldogs,” senior guard Shannon Carlisle said after the game.

Carlisle said, "I don't know what the limit is, but they made them work for it.

Carlisle continued to make "the wrong decision at the wrong time."
Think about it. Most gifts are pretty unimaginative. A lamp turns on. It turns off. Pretty exciting stuff.

And there are some gifts that no one knows what they're supposed to do.

But give Savings Bonds, and you'll be giving the gift of future possibilities—from a down payment on a car to help with college tuition. With eight denominations to choose from, there's a size for every occasion. You can select the popular Series EE Bond or the inflation-protected I Bond. They're available through most banks, where you work, or automatically through the new Savings Bonds EasySaver® Plan at www.easysaver.gov.

Minority Swimmers Compete in Black History Invitational

BY BRITIAN Y FITZPATRICK

Philadelphia clubs Andrews made her way to the historic honoring platform Sunday and prepared herself.

With her feet donned, she started swiftly. As she swiftly,

Andrews was one of many young swimmers to participate in the 23rd Annual Black History Invitational Swim Meet this past weekend.

"I'm here because it's a great opportunity to get to swim in the pool," said Britian Y. Fitzpatrick, a member of the Philadelphia Pioneers Swim Team, based at the Men's Home Retirement Center in the Northwest section of the city.

Today, not only is the pool open to all, but also to the public, which is an excellent way for the community to bond with each other.

Andrews noted that this event was comprised of more than 100 swimmers, aged 5 to 18, from Swim teams throughout the city.

"Swimmers of all ages, from the Swimmer Boater to the Swimmer Boater of the year, are represented," Andrews said.

In fact, she added, it was the first time she had participated in the event, and she was proud to be there with such a diverse group of swimmers.

The competition included a variety of events, such as freestyle, backstroke, and relay races, which allowed swimmers of different ages and skill levels to compete.

Andrews, who is a member of the Swimmer Boater in her age group, said she was excited to be a part of this historic event.

"This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," she said.

Andrews also expressed her gratitude to the organizers and the sponsors for making this event possible.

"I want to thank everyone who made this possible," she said.

This event was sponsored by the Department of Parks and Recreation, USA Swimming, and the National Governing Board for the Sport of Swimming.

"It was a great honor to be a part of this event," Andrews said.

In conclusion, she expressed her hope that this event will inspire others to get involved in swimming and to continue to support this important sport.

"I hope everyone who attended today will continue to support swimming and all that it stands for," she said.

Fitzpatrick, who is a member of the Philadelphia Pioneers Swim Team, added, "This is a wonderful opportunity for all swimmers to come together and enjoy the sport of swimming."
