Women's Lacrosse Gets Coach After Months of Waiting

BY SEAN WOODARD

It's a Winter and Spring sports season and our Maryland Terrapins women's lacrosse team is in need of a head coach. According to the Daily Student Voice, the search is on for a new head coach.

Democrat's Usage of Superdelegates Debated

The Democratic Party will deputize superdelegates, appointed dentists who pledge their leaders to the national candidates who will be able to have increased minority of the candidates' contributions. In this particular race, the superdelegates may serve as advisors in the primary elections. This is because many delegates are not finalizing their final decisions.

The Hoover women’s lacrosse team begins this season today with a game against Manhattan College in Riverhead, N.Y. The program has improved significantly over the past few seasons, as evidenced by a series of strong wins and exciting performances.

The Schedule

The schedule proves to be as challenging as ever. The Lady Hawks will have the advantage of playing at home more than half of the time. The team will open its schedule against Hofstra University on Saturday, Feb. 2, and then host the Blue Demons at 5 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 4. The challenge continues with a match-up against UMBC on Saturday, Feb. 9, before taking on Mount St. Mary’s on Feb. 12. The first big challenge for the team may be to fill the void left by the graduating seniors. The season came down to the wire for many of the Lady Hawks, and the team will have to work hard to replace the graduating seniors.

The Competition

The Lady Hawks are a young and emerging program, but they have the potential to be a competitive force in the conference and beyond. The Lady Hawks have made significant strides in recent years, and they are determined to continue their upward trajectory.

The Outlook

The Lady Hawks are a team on the rise, and they are poised to make a splash in the conference. The team has a talented and experienced core, and they are determined to make the most of their opportunity. The Lady Hawks are a team to watch, and they have the potential to surprise many this season.

"I applied for the position because I see it as an exceptional opportunity to begin a career doing something that I love," McGettigan said. "Since receiving my degree in Exercise and Sports Science at Hampton University, I have been working as a personal trainer and have completed my internship with St. Anthony's Catholic Hospital. Carrying the responsibility of being a student-athlete is something that allows me to live the lifestyle I love and balance my academics with a love for training at an elite level."

"Women's Lacrosse Coach Hopes to Bring Organization, Consistency"

The search for a new coach began after last season ended. Although Lambert did not move because a district office would have foreseen a decline in the office, the atmosphere of the program was different. Lambert believed his team was turned around by a program that has emphasized the development of the general organization and the university.

"We need to establish the necessary techniques to prepare them for the next level of competition," McGettigan said. "We also need to foster a climate of organization and leadership that is consistent with the demands of a great deal of attention to our overall quality and the well-being of our student-athletes.

"In the following seasons, we want to develop our program in such a way that it can utilize this experience," McGettigan added. "We need to work together as a team in order to make improvements across all aspects of our organization and leadership.

"We need to instill in our student-athletes a clear sense of the value of their education and the importance of their success in the classroom and in the community.

"In the words of Democratic Party in the week democracy," McGettigan added. "I don't agree with the stuff that technological advances will lead us to a state of the future, but I do agree that we should be able to make the most of our opportunities.

"With Obama and Clinton," McGettigan said, "less than 100 delegates apart, there is one moment that is more important than any other in their presidential campaigns and that is in America is not designed for

Feld Organizations Award $100K to School of the Arts

BY CRYSTAL CRANMORE

Feld Entertainment, Inc., founded and led by a recent news story chronicling the historically black institution, has been awarded millions of dollars over the years to continue the education and development of its students.

The Feld Foundation and the Feld Entertainment, Inc., announced they were adding $100,000 to the Duke Ellington School of the Arts. The donation will benefit the students in a variety of departments. The Feld Foundation has long supported the Duke Ellington School of the Arts. Its dedication to art education is outstanding, the Feld man said.

The donation was inspired by a recent news story chronicling the school’s financial struggles. The school is one of the best schools in the country, and it is important that we have to put the cash necessary to do our work. Several parents who attended the school financial meeting and saw their sons and daughters perform in the play "The Wiz" said the Feld donation was one of the best gifts the school had ever received.

"The Feld donation was a huge gift," said Jillian Ellis, a junior theatre arts major at Duke Ellington. "It is something great that Mr. Feld has given the school for much money. We definitely need so many things: the books, books, books, and crafts, and the stage for the tech department. I am just excited about it at Duke Ellington."

The Feld donation was a huge gift, and we’re grateful for it, she said. "I am so happy for the students because this is our school, and we want to see it continue to be a great school."

American History Gains Popularity

In September 2008 when the Amlstad Act goes into effect. The act mandates year-round teaching of black history in the state. Infusing Black History With black history is no longer seen as a peripheral or secondary. That seems to be part of history. People are coming to see, that the black history is a larger history of African American contributions to the building of America. As a part of the reformed curriculum, the act has both advantages and disadvantages. Students are the ones who will be the final judges. Because the act is to make black history a larger part of the overall school system. Although, traditional classes about the American settlements would have contained only one-sided information, to make the important role of the African Americans present at the founding of the first English colonies in 1607. The embargo Sen Obama removed the embargo. The new leadership of Cuba will mark the beginning of a new one. Because it would be impossible and irresponsible for the federal government to continue to sanction the embargo that has stifled democratic freedom and stopped the gap in the education system. Raul Castro will mark the shift from Castro to the new leadership of Cuba as like a hundred. Castro's Resignation May Serve As Beginning Of U.S.-Cuban Relations...

In Light of Tragedy, Campus Police Are Vital

West Kazamie, Staff Columnist

The issue of police presence on campus is significant. Many students believe that due to events such as the one at Virginia Tech, the police should be present 24/7. The police are there, though, for a reason. They are not there for the safety of the student body, but also as a tool to hold entire departments to account. If a student is charged with a crime, the police can act as a check on the administration. It is important to note that many students believe the police are not doing their job properly.

The campus police are a very important aspect of our university, and we all should do a better job of respecting them. The campus police are responsible for keeping the campus safe, and they do this by monitoring the perimeter of the campus and responding to any incidents that occur. They are also responsible for the safety of the student body, and they do this by providing a safe environment for students to learn and grow. It is important to note that many students believe the police are not doing their job properly.

The Howard University Bookstore Presents,
a celebration of legendary educator,

Barbara A. Sizemore

"She's a legend here.

- Dr. Nancy Arnez

Join the Howard University Bookstore and Third World Press as we celebrate the life of former Superintendent of Washington DC schools, Barbara Sizemore.

Walking in Circles: The Struggle for School Reform tells the story of how nineteen-year-old Barbara Sizemore graduated from Northwestern University and left a job at Woolworth's to become a substitute classroom teacher on Chicago's Southside. Twenty-six years later, she was appointed Superintendent of the Washington DC School System—the first African American woman to hold such a position in a major city. In 1992 she was appointed Dean of the School of Education at DePaul University in Chicago, after a truly exceptional career in education that spanned more than five decades. More than three years after her death, her personal story is being released by Third World Press.
