Students Attend Conference in Rwanda Focused on Technology

BY TAMMIE HARSTON

Students learned the meaning of "Appropriate Technology" and how it is relevant to Rwanda.

The conference was organized by the American Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) and the South Carolina Council of Black Engineers.

The students who traveled to Rwanda were chosen based on their campus leadership and dedication to technology.

Shooting Victim Uses Facebook to Contact Friends While Recovering

BY HARLEY JOHNSON-ALFORD

The leggings of Facebook and other social networking services are providing new outlets for people to communiate in the digital age. The social networking sites are allowing people to stay connected and in touch. From Facebook, you can connect with people in your daily lives as well as with people all over the world.

The site was set up for people to keep in touch and stay connected with people they know. The site has grown to over 350 million users and is growing by 20,000 per day. It has become a place for people to keep in touch and stay connected with people they know.

A shooting victim is using Facebook to connect with others while recovering from a gunshot wound. Before the shooting, the victim had been using Facebook to stay connected with his friends and family. After the shooting, he continued to use Facebook to keep in touch with them. He uses the site to post updates on his recovery and to connect with others who are interested in his recovery.

18th Annual Brother to Brother Conference Concludes with Success

BY JESSICA LEWIS

"Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity was founded on the principles of brotherhood, unity, and education. We strive to learn how to strengthen the bonds of brotherhood among our brothers. This year, we held our 18th Annual Brother to Brother Conference, and it was a huge success."

The conference was held at Fisk University and featured various speakers and workshops on topics such as leadership, brotherhood, and education. The keynote speaker was Mr. Robert E. Lomax, who delivered an inspiring speech on the importance of brotherhood. The conference was well-attended, with hundreds of attendees participating in the various sessions.

Student Entrepreneurs Network With Business Executives

BY SPENCER WHITNEY

Cutlery Up Close

Young and old Entrepreneurs participate in the annual business expo, hosted by the local chamber of commerce. The expo is designed to bring together entrepreneurs of all ages and provide them with the opportunity to network and share ideas.

This year, the event was particularly successful, with a record number of participants. The expo featured a variety of workshops and seminars, as well as a large trade show with booths from local businesses. "It was a great day for entrepreneurs," said one participant. "There were so many great ideas and resources shared, and I really feel like I got a lot out of it."
Conference in Rwanda Allows Students to be Global Leaders

aUpheld at Howard University, the conference allows students to gain international experience and learn about energy projects. The event aims to allow the Howard University family "to see opportunity with appropriate technology to make a difference in the world in the spirit of our legacy."

While in Rwanda, the students attended various workshops on topics such as clean energy, tourism, and the public sector. They also visited a reforestation project and met with government officials.

Although Thompson noted the challenges, he said, "even though we may face many problems, we can do many good things if we make the world a better place."
Howard Students Experience Life In Rwanda

Post-Rwandan Genocide Politics Stirring Up Conflict in Africa

BY VANESSA ROGER

Falling in love in Germany, preparing to prepare for the president’s speech, and even preparing for his own wedding Rose Kahora is always on the go. According to Rose, her life is full of opportunities.

Her story is inspiring in a way. She, like many other students from developing countries, faces challenges that others do not have to. However, Rose has overcome these challenges and is now living a successful life.

"Rose is an inspiration to us all. Her story is a reminder that with hard work and determination, anything is possible," said her friend and classmate, John Adams.

In her free time, Rose enjoys volunteering at local hospitals and participating in community service projects. She believes that giving back to the community is important and that everyone should do their part to make the world a better place.

Rose’s success story is not just limited to her personal life. She is also an advocate for social justice and human rights. She is passionate about fighting for equality and working towards a better world.

Rose’s story is not just about her own success. It’s about the importance of education, hard work, and determination. It’s about the power of an individual to make a difference in the world.

"Rose’s story is a testament to the fact that we can all make a difference," said her teacher, Dr. Smith. "We need to remember that we have the power to create positive change in the world."

THE HILTOP
The Hilltop Evaluates Midterm Progress of HUSA, Trustees

The Hilltop, which traveled with the undergraduate student council, nickel party, First Floor Council and the Associated Student Senate, found the Undergraduate Student Senate, Undergraduate Trustee, Nellie O’Brien, and Undergraduate Senate President, Kristin Acosta, to be their primary sources of information. Their experiences will vary based on their individuals and whether they were involved in the election of the Student Senate. In general, the Undergraduate Senate represents the majority of students and has a larger voice in the decision-making process.

Undergraduate Trustee Victoria Kirby: A

After evaluating the undergraduate trustee, it appears she is performing well but would benefit from seeking out more input from her constituents. This month, the Hilltop conducted a trustor survey about her performance based on her traditional knowledge of the Hilltop. Kirby has worked with a state budget that has not been finalized. In the past, she has provided information that differs with campus housing and creating efficacious communication to President Kubly. Kirby believes Paul Muehling, the former Undergraduate Senate President, has a more innovative approach to the Hilltop. However, Kirby has not made any significant changes thus far in her limited time as Undergraduate Senate President.

Undergraduate Senator Danielle Perry: D

Although Perry has been the least engaged member of the Council during the Hilltop's time, her performance is consistent with her overall rating. She has provided limited communication to the Hilltop. The Hilltop has not received any negative feedback from her constituents.
