The 18th Annual Woman to Woman Conference Makes Its Way to HU

LAUREN GASPARD
Staff Writer

The 18th Annual Woman to Woman Conference, held in Washington, D.C., is one of the most anticipated events of the year for women of Howard University. The conference, which brings together women from all over the country, is a platform for sharing ideas, experiences, and insights.

The conference is co-sponsored by the Office of Women’s Affairs and the Office of Student Affairs, and is designed to empower women and encourage them to pursue their goals and aspirations.

The keynote address was given by Dr. Angela B. Wilson, a well-known author and speaker. She shared her experiences and insights on the importance of women’s empowerment and the need for women to support each other.

The conference also featured panel discussions and workshops on a variety of topics, including career development, leadership, and personal growth.

The conference was well-attended, with hundreds of women registered to attend. The attendees were encouraged to engage in meaningful conversations and to take away valuable lessons from the event.

The conference ended with a closing session, where everyone was encouraged to continue their learning and growth. The 19th Annual Woman to Woman Conference is scheduled to be held in February 2011.

Women and Body Language: Natural Understanding or Emotional Overload

ASHMELE GERALD
Staff Writer

Women and body language are topics that have been discussed extensively in recent years. Women have been known to be more expressive with their bodies than men, and this has led to the belief that women are better at reading body language.

However, recent studies have shown that this is not always the case. Women are not always better at reading body language, and there are many factors that can influence the interpretation of body language.

For instance, women are often socialized to be more expressive with their bodies, and this can lead to the belief that they are better at reading body language. However, this is not always the case. Women are not always better at reading body language, and there are many factors that can influence the interpretation of body language.

In conclusion, it is important for women to be aware of the limitations of body language and to approach it with caution. Women should be aware of the limitations of body language and to approach it with caution. Women should be aware of the limitations of body language and to approach it with caution.

Simmons, president of Howard University, said that Howard belongs to "a select group of educational institutions that provide exceptional quality at a reasonable price," and that Howard is one of the "highest rated universities in the country" by the students who attend it. Simmons said that Howard is a "top-ranked university" that offers "an exceptional educational experience." Simmons also noted that Howard has "one of the highest graduation rates in the country," which he attributes to the university's "strong academic programs" and "supportive environment." Simmons said that Howard is "a destination" for students who are seeking an "excellent education" and "a better future." Simmons concluded by saying that Howard is "a place where students can achieve their dreams."
Leaders Head to Greensboro to Honor Civil Rights Pioneers

"I do a little self-imitation and give myself a grade. The grade I come back with is a C. I have to recognize that I cannot be on Jan's list for the rest of my life. I have to continue to do other great things. That's what I have been doing," McCain said.

Among the A&T Four attended a hundred-thousand-dollar auction on Friday. The commemorative activities began on Friday with a town hall featuring leaders such as Rev. Jesse Jackson, John Lewis, former president of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and Ben Chavis, one of the Wilmington 10.

On February 1, 1960, four students from North Carolina A&T University staged a sit-in at F.W. Woolworth's Lunch Counter, demanding to be served. Many consider this the start of the Civil Rights Movement.

Caught In Style

It's always about... taking a chance. And being confident in your style. The way you dress can make a huge impact on how others perceive you.

You don't have to be perfect, but if you do good and you're confident in your outfit and style, you'll look like a million bucks and others will agree.

Women: Fashion is not just about what you wear, it's about how you wear it. It's about how you feel. And how you feel is reflected in how you dress.

Men: Fashion is not just about what you wear, it's about how you feel. And how you feel is reflected in how you dress.

The way you dress can make a huge impact on how others perceive you. And when you feel good, you look good. And when you look good, you feel good.

Reality TV vs. Quality Programming

BY KARA SINGLETON

Reality TV shows have taken over nearly every network. They have become incredibly popular, and old and new shows alike are rating extremely well. Some of these shows are actually good, and others are terrible opinions.

Television shows have made a significant impact on the fashion industry. Shows like "PELICAN," "Diff'rent Worlds," and even "Martin," have become an accepted source of fashion inspiration.

Television shows often feature people's outfits, and these outfits can be a great way to keep up with the latest trends. People often dress up to look like their favorite characters, and this is a great way to get inspiration.

As temperatures worldwide have slowly climbed, al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden has made a vocal statement urging the world's leaders, including U.S. President Barack Obama, to adopt his radical plan to eradicate the U.S.-led crusade against al-Qaeda.

In a recent interview, bin Laden said the United States and its allies are responsible for the current economic disrepair, which has led to the current economic situation for global warming.

I think that the world's leaders are failing to take action on global warming, he said. Whether we blame the U.S. or other countries for the current economic crisis, it is clear that the world's climate has been changing.

According to a recent report by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, global warming is now the dominant cause of climate change.

I don't think that we should blame any one country for the current economic crisis, bin Laden said. Rather, we must work together to address the root causes of global warming.

Red Cross iPhone App Helps Quake Victim Tend Wounds

BY GERRON JORDAN Staff Writer

With survivals still being called out of rubble everyday in Haiti, it is comforting to know that there is a tool available that can help in situations like this.

Dan Woolley, who's mother was a nurse, has been using the Red Cross app to keep in contact with his mother.

"The app is filled with information about first aid and even includes a CPR guide," Woolley said. "When my mother realized, 'you have an app to do CPR,' she was thrilled."

Woolley and a colleague, Ben Hame, also a nurse, were given the opportunity to use the app to help their own families.

"We were able to find out the location of our family members and were able to contact them," Woolley said.

The Red Cross app is available for free on the iPhone.

This is the second report to provide the United States, al-Qaeda leader Ousama bin Laden's interests in the world by an American

Two years after theiPhone was released, the app that comes with it is now being sold for the first time. The app offers over 100,000 applications for everything from games to health apps.

'Seventh Black Miss America' Seizes Crown

Saturday night, the Miss America Organization crowned Marissa Mosby, a junior at Virginia Commonwealth University, as the new Miss America 2011. Mosby was crowned at the end of the preliminary rounds of talent, pageant and interview.

Our View:
Race shouldn't be an issue.

Despite the controversy surrounding the pageant, the 2011 Miss America competition was an impressive show._candidates put their best foot forward as they vied for the chance to represent the United States on the world stage. The pageant showcased a diverse range of women from different backgrounds and cultures. It was a celebration of beauty and talent, and it demonstrated the pageant's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The pageant's theme of "A New Generation" emphasized the importance of breaking down barriers and embracing new ideas. The contestants demonstrated their skills and talents, and their performances were captivating and impressive.

Perspective:
From a HUSA Candidate

I didn't see it as being particularly beneficial to the HUSA candidates. I believe that HUSA elections should have been held Tuesday as well. When I didn't have to. The idea was to make the candidates more approachable to the voters. It's easier for voters to watch the candidates answer trivia questions, or to get a glimpse of the personality behind the candidates. It's easier to see if they have any unique qualities that set them apart from the others. It's easier to see if they have any experience or qualities that make them stand out. It's easier to see if they have any knowledge about the campus or the community. It's easier to see if they have any ideas or plans for improving the campus or the community. It's easier to see if they have any skills or talents that could be useful for the campus or the community.
