

THOS. B. D. DYETT, A. B., *Howard Law School
Academy '14*

Alumni Notes

Now that the time is fast approaching when the Academy will cease to function, it would be well for us to pause a while in our onward rush and cast a cursory glance on the past.

As an integral part of the University the Academy does not nor could not support any separate Alumni Association; for its graduates are eligible to membership in the General Alumni Association. But the Academy points with pride to its many graduates who today are filling responsible positions in all the leading professions, trades and pursuits of life. Among these may be mentioned Mr. Richard E. Carey, a graduate of Howard College, business manager of the University Record, and a student at the Law School; Mr. T. B. D. Dyett, who, it is claimed, put the "D" in debate, another graduate of Howard College and student of the Law School; Attorney William A. Pollard, founder of the William Pollard Algebra Prize, who has been authorized by Howard and Boston Universities to use the initials "A. B., LL. B., LL. M." after his name and Rev. D. Ormonde Walker, A. B., Harvard, S. T. B., Boston, pastor of Bethel A. M. E. Church, New Bedford, Mass.

Can an institution that has performed such wonderful service to the race, to the nation, to the world die? No, the Academy is a seed that has been sown. The tree has grown to maturity and will, henceforth, bear fruit in "A Greater Howard University."
