10-6-1987

Letter From Dean J. Clay Smith, Jr. to the First Year Class: Civil Procedure

J. Clay Smith Jr.

Follow this and additional works at: http://dh.howard.edu/jcs_speeches

Part of the Legal Education Commons

Recommended Citation
http://dh.howard.edu/jcs_speeches/130

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the J. Clay Smith, Jr. Collection at Digital Howard @ Howard University. It has been accepted for inclusion in Selected Speeches by an authorized administrator of Digital Howard @ Howard University. For more information, please contact lopez.matthews@howard.edu.
Letter From Dean J. Clay Smith, Jr. to the First Year Class: Civil Procedure

Several years ago when I was a student in Dean Clarence Clyde Ferguson's Civil Procedure Class, I learned how very important this subject was as a basic first year course. Civil Procedure remains important for all lawyers. In the early days of the modern civil rights movement, the real heroes were lawyers steeped in the knowledge of procedure and federal jurisdiction. After all the first step in protecting or the prosecution of rights is to get in and to stay in court. So do not take Civil Procedure lightly. It is historically important at Howard University School of Law.

In this connection, I again urge you to refer to law review articles as a supplement to your learning. There have been several recent articles on various rules of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. I'm sure that your teachers will direct your attention to them. At your leisure, I would like to recommend a few classic law review articles on civil procedure or related to civil procedure for you to review. They are great, and might help you down the road:

1. Development In The Law Res Judicata, 65 Harv. L. Rev. 818 (1952)
2. Multiparty Litigation In The Courts, 71 Harv. L. Rev. 874 (1958)
3. State Court Jurisdiction, 73 Harv. L. Rev. 196 (1960)
4. Developments In Discovery, 74 Harv. L. Rev. 940 (1961)

8. State Enforcement of Federally Created Rights, 73 Harv. L. Rev. 460 (1960)

Items 1 and 2, above, could prove to be of immediate interest to you. Knowing that you have loads of work, I have provided these law review articles to help you through the storm.

Best wishes, and hang in there.

[Signature]

J. Clay Smith, Jr.
Dean